The Grafton midwinter sale of surplus stock has reached its climax, and ends this week. The big cut of one-third off the price of all men's and boys' overcoats, was eagerly taken advantage of by large numbers of men, young men and mothers of boys. This rare opportunity has now dwindled down to a final two days, which ends this great winter sale, and closes the winter season at the big double store. In addition to the overcoat special all other winter lines in the store are affected by the general sale reductions, and buying any clothing needs for men or boys at Grafton's sale, is practicing real economy. What they wish to emphasize at this time is the fact that the sale ends on Saturday.

In Police Court

"He hit me."

"No, Your Worship, he punched me."

Thus briefly might be summed up the conflicting testimony of two men this morning in Police Court. One man charged the other with assault and the other returned the compliment by laying a similar charge.

To add to the court's difficulties one of the contestants is a deaf and dumb mute, who entered the court room armed with a sheaf of papers, and maintained that the Magistrate should read these sheets on which were written his side of the cause. The whole matter was adjourned until next Friday.

It appears that the scene of the fight was a butcher shop in the north end of the city. An argument arose with the proprietor over some detail of trade and then the fight ensued.

Solloway Mills Co. Sues Police

WRIT IS ISSUED FOR RETURN OF COMPANY BOOKS

Solloway Mills Company Claims Damages For Trespassing of Police.

TO BE HEARD MONDAY.

TORONTO, Ont., March 8 (C.P.). — In a writ issued at Osgoode Hall to-day, Solloway Mills and Company are suing General V. A. S. Williams, Commissioner of Provincial Police; E. C. Gurnett, and E. D. L. Hammond, Provincial officers, claiming an injunction to restrain them from acting under a search warrant which had been issued by an Alberta magistrate and endorsed by the Ontario commissioner.

New Step in Legal Battle.

To-day's action is the outcome of yesterday's move in the legal battle when Mr. Justice Orde dismissed the company's application for a mandamus compelling the officers to deliver the books to General Victor Williams as an Ontario Magistrate instead of having them sent out to Alberta for use in the prosecution of the charges made against the company by the Alberta Government.

The company to-day also asked for a declaration that the warrant is on its face beyond the jurisdiction of Magistrate Davidson of Alberta to issue and beyond the right of General Williams to endorse. A declaration is sought that defendants, in acting under this warrant, were openly acting on an illegal search warrant. An order is also sought that the two Provincial officers shall return the papers to the company and damages for trespasses are asked.

The matter will come before Mr. Justice Garrow, on Monday.

U. S. EMIGRANTS PREFER CANADA

MOSTLY FARMERS.

WASHINGTON, D C., March 8.—(By Ken Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — Seventy-two per cent. of the United States' citizens who emigrated to other lands during 1920 went to Canada, statistics of the Department of Immigration reveal.

W. W. Husband, second assistant Secretary of Labor, said that for the great majority of citizens who annually leave the United States, Canada appears to be the "promised land." Fertile agricultural lands are the greatest lure. Statistics show that of the 23,445 citizens of the United States who emigrated 16,886, mostly native born Americans, named Canada as their adopted country.

As a result of advertising through agricultural and other publications having a wide circulation among the rural classes 26,137 inquiries were received by Canadian agencies in this country and 2,000 at Ottawa, Mr. Husband said. The Canadian system of recruiting immigrants was praised by the secretary.

By far the greater proportion of the immigrants to Canada were farmers.

Eight Hours a Day For Motor Drivers

VICTORIA, B.C., March 8.—(C.P.)—The first effort to limit the speed of automobiles in British Columbia will be made by the Legislature if it adopts an important amendment to the Motor Act introduced by Hon. R. H. Pooley, Attorney General.

Under this amendment automobiles rented for hire without drivers would have to be equipped with an approved device which would prevent them travelling at more than 35 miles an hour.

A limit of eight hours a day at the wheel for any paid driver of a motor vehicle is proposed in an amendment standing in the name of Thomas Uphill, Labor, Fernie.

TRADE PACT WITH NEW ZEALAND IS BEING DISCUSSED

Hon. C. A. Dunning Announces Wish in House of Commons.

SENN IS OPPOSED.

Liberal Whip, Gasgrain, Introduces Amendment to Overcome Difficulty.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 8. (C.P.)—The Canadian government is desirous of negotiating a trade treaty with New Zealand. The sister Dominion is ready to sit down with Canada and work out such a pact, Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance made this announcement in the House of Commons yesterday.

Some years ago Canada made a trade treaty with Australia in which the two Dominions extended to each other certain advantages in respect to lower tariffs. New Zealand asked that the same advantages Australia received should be extended to her.

Canada agreed and by order-in-council made the Australian treaty applicable to New Zealand.

One of the provisions of that treaty was that butter from those two Dominions should enter Canada under a one-cent-a-pound duty instead of the general tariff of four cents a pound.

The Conservatives claim that the inflow of New Zealand butter as a result has been ruinous to dairy farming in the Dominion.

Senn Shows Opposition.

Recently a motion was moved in the House by M. C. Senn (Cons., Haldimand), providing that the New Zealand pact be rescinded forthwith, and immediate steps taken to negotiate a treaty with that Dominion on "fair and equitable terms."

On resumption of the debate last night, Mr. Dunning contended that Mr. Senn's amendment would create an unfortunate impression in New Zealand.

"We would like," he declared, "to approach the Imperial Economic Conference with our Sister Dominions without having hit one of them over the head." He argued that if the order-in-council were rescinded it would take six months notice to terminate the treaty.

To obviate any possibility of creating a wrong impression, a sub-amendment was introduced by P. E. Casgrain, chief Liberal whip, providing that the order-in-council relating to the Canadian-New Zealand trade arrangement be superseded as soon as possible by a treaty with that dominion, and that immediate steps be taken to negotiate such a treaty.

PECK TO ALLOW HIS NAME TO GO TO CONVENTION

E. A. Peck Will Again Seek Endorsation of His Party For Coming Election.

EXECUTIVE TO RE-ORGANIZE.

Convention to Name Candidate is Being Planned For Some Time in May.

In preparation for the Federal campaign that is expected to materialize this year the West Peterborough Conservative Association is to be thoroughly reorganized.

This was acceded at an informal meeting of some sixty party enthusiasts representing city wards and township organizations held in the Paragon last night, with Dr. J. R. Fraser of Lakefield, the vice-president of the association, in the chair. The meeting decided that the remaining officers and the ward and county chairmen, along with five other members named by last night's meeting, should form a committee to arrange for a re-organization meeting to be held in the near future at which a complete slate of officers will be elected and the organization rebuilt from top to bottom.

This will be followed by a delegated nomination convention to be held in May at which a candidate will be chosen for the next Federal election.

E. A. Peck, the present member and successful candidate in the last two Dominion campaigns, made it clear to last night's meeting that he would be a candidate for re-nomination. He did so, he said, to dispose of rumors that he intended to retire. "If I am chosen at that convention," declared Mr. Peck, "I will exert every effort to keep West Peterborough in the Conervative columns. If on the other hand your choice falls on somebody else, I will work just as hard to elect the candidate named by the convention."

Mr. Peck remarked that he brought no definite news from Ottawa as to the date of the election. That was a matter for the Prime Minister to decide, and he doubted whether even Mr. King himself knew just now when the appeal to the country would be made.

J. F. Strickland, M.P.P., W. H. Bradburn, ex-M.P.P., Mayor R. Denne, and other speakers stressed the need of thorough organization and after various angles of the situation were discussed, it was decided to proceed as outlined above. Changes in the personnel of the executive is necessitated by the fact that V. J. McElderry, K.C., president for some years, has accepted an office under the Crown, and must therefore remain aloof from politics, and other office-holders are no longer available.

Woman Claims Husband Set Out With Shotgun To Slay His Neighbor

FARMER IS RUSHED TO HOSPITAL BUT DIES FOLLOWING OPERATION— BULLET PIERCED ABDOMEN

SIMCOE, Ont., March 8. (C.P.) — Wilson Wride, 23-year-old farmer, residing three miles north of Jarvis, is dead as the result of gunshot wounds, inflicted during a souffle with his wife on the highway near their home, late last night.

According to the story told by the wife, Wride had set out from home with the shotgun expressing his determination to kill a neighbor. She followed him and a struggle ensued on the highway, during which the gun exploded and the contents pierced the man's abdomen.

Dr. Jones of Jarvis was summoned, and the victim was rushed to the Norfolk General Hospital, where he died early this morning following an operation. Coroner Dr. McIntosh empanelled a jury which viewed the remains this morning.

The inquest will be held next Thursday night at eight o'clock at the Simcoe police station. Besides his wife Wride leaves a daughter, two years old and a son, one year old. He had been working on his father's farm for some time past.

PREMIER WOULD ADD YEAR MORE TO PARLIAMENT

Introduces Bill—Suggests Extension Apply to Present Legislature Also.

GIVEN FIRST READING.

Amendment to Theatre Act Raise Age to 16 of Children Attending Alone.

TORONTO, Ont., March 8. (Canadian Press).—Premier G. H. Ferguson introduced a Bill in the Legislature yesterday which would extend the life of a Provincial Parliment from four to five years. It would apply to the duration of the present legislature.

In bringing in the bill the Premier stated that it would clear up an "anomolous situation" in Ontario wherein the Province with the exception of Prince Edward Island was the only one in Canada with a four-year term for its legislature. The Dominion Parliament had a maximum of five years and the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario was appointed for a like term he pointed out.

Gov't Sponsors Plan

"The Government" he continued "after discussing the plan thoroughly, has thought it wise to introduce a bill to extend the Legislative term to five years."

The bill, which received first reading simply stated "Every assembly shall continue for five years from the fifty-fifth day after the date of the writs for the election, and no longer, subject to being sooner dissolved by the Lieutenant-Governor".

Hon. Dr. J. D. Monteith, provincial treasurer, introduced an amendment to the Theatres and Cinematographs Act which would raise from 15 to 16 the age at which a child could attend a theatre without being attended by an adult.

STRANGE ILLNESS ATTACKS 300

Jamaica Ginger Being Blamed By United States' Authorities.

NO CASES FATAL.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 8. (C.P.) — The Federal authorities to-day joined city officials in their efforts to combat a mysterious malady, accompanied by paralytic symptoms, which has stricken approximately 300 persons, none fatally so far, in Oklahoma City, after Walter H. Miles, city health director, said he attributed the strange illness to poison liquor or Jamaica ginger.

T. Benjamin, of the United States Food and Drug Service, announced a Federal ban has been placed on shipments of Jamaica ginger from Kansas City and St. Louis warehouses to Oklahoma City, and Roy St. Lewis, United States' District Attorney, said a federal drive against its sale started last November, would be redoubled.

All physicians who encountered the malady said they never before had heard of anything resembling it. Partial or complete paralysis of the legs seemed to be the predominant symptom, Dr. Miles said, although some of the victims also experienced difficulty with their hands and speech.

POISON VICTIM'S FATHER IS FREED

LONG QUESTIONING.

TORONTO, Ont., March 8. (CP) Ernest Clark, father of Violet Clark, 15, who died suddenly at her home here on the night of Feb. 1, after drinking cyanide of potassium thinking it was salts, was allowed to go last night by police after they questioned him for several hours.

A Coroner's jury investigating the girl's death here last Wednesday night returned a verdict "that the finger of responsibility for the girl's death pointed to the father."

Clark arrived at the city hall with a box containing tools used by him at his work as machinist in a local candy factory. At the inquest the foreman at the plant testified he had given Clark cyanide of potassium to temper certain tools with. This Clark denied.

A crystal substance found in the tool box was analyzed yesterday afternoon by Professor J. Rogers, provincial analyst who said it was not cyanide but a sugar substance.

SOO WOLF WAR TAKES NEW LIFE

AIRPLANE PARTY OUT.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March 8. (C.P.) — It has been a tough session for the wolves in this section of the country in the last few weeks and quite a number of trappers and hunters have claimed bounties on wolf pelts. Yesterday Bob Beck, of Searchmont, the champion wolf killer of Algoma, who is, he says, unable to count the total number he has disposed of during his career, arrived in the city with nine more pelts on which he claims the bounty, these being of animals which were killed between February 9 and March 1.

Then, too, the party of Sault Ste. Marie hunters, who went to St. Joseph Island, by airplane to engage in a hunt for wolves which have been roaming the eastern end of the island, returned with news that while none of the members of the party had been able to secure a wolf, one had been shot by Tom Jondreau of Hilton Beach, who accompanied them and who has other wolves to his credit in the past.

DIES AT LADIES' MEETING.

OWING TO FRENCH CABINET CRISIS NAVAL PARLEY WORKS OVERTIME; SUNDAY GATHERINGS TO BE HELD

Briand, Keynote of Negotiations, Talks With Henderson.

BRITAIN AND U. S. AGREE.

LONDON, March 8 (C.P.).—Pressed for time because of the French Cabinet crisis delay, the Naval Conference continued its labors to-day, the delegates foregoing the Saturday holiday in order to make as much progress as possible.

There is considerable anxiety in several of the delegations over the diminishing amount of time left in this month. Counting out week-ends, there are only 14½ working days. With this in view, Premier Macdonald has intimated to all the delegations his hope that possibly they will forego some of their Saturdays in order to rush the Conference to the earliest possible conclusion.

U.S. And Japan Meet.

Senator David A. Reed of the United States delegation, conferred this morning with Ambassador Matsudaira of Japan, while United States Secretary of State Stimson and Ambassador Morrow conferred with Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson at the Foreign Office. Foreign Minister Briand of France had luncheon with Mr. Henderson.

Even Sunday will be utilized for the first time, Foreign Minister Briand and Premier Macdonald having planned a meeting at Chequers.

M. Briand was the key figure today in the negotiations.

Great Britain and the United States have reached virtual understanding on a limitation arrangement permitting "parity" between them, and while Japan still is holding out for a higher cruiser ratio than the United States has been willing to grant, few doubt that a compromise arrangement is also within reach with the Tokyo delegates.

But M. Briand who has just returned with a French representation after an absence of three weeks, presents a problem of another color. His Government's demand for a naval tonnage considered excessive by Great Britain and the alternative of political pacts or arrangements guaranteeing French security as the price of limitation at a lower figure.

Premier MacDonald, chairman, will confer with M. Briand on the general status of the conference prior to a radio address to Canada and the United States at 5.30 p.m. (12.30 p.m. E.S.T.)

Some quarters believed the conversation between the two men might go a long way toward eradication of the impasse brought on by the tonnage demands of Andre Tardieu, French Premier, which M. Briand is now repeating. In any event it was considered probable that the meeting would permit once for all a clear understanding between the two on at least two points.

The first of these was that if France insists upon a total naval tonnage of 724,000 within five years British fleets will have to be increased accordingly. The second was the exact nature of the political pacts or arrangements which the British delegation has inferred—but never actually suggested—would be alternative to the projected naval increases.

K.K.K. MEMBERS APPEAR MONDAY

Names of Three Hamilton Men Given Out—Fourth Resides in Toronto.

COME UP IN OAKVILLE.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 8 (Canadian Press). — Three of the four persons who have been charged in connection with the Oakville incident on the night of February 28, when approximately 100 Hamilton members of the Ku Klux Klan of Canada separated a white girl and a man claiming Indian birth, have been served with summonses to appear in Oakville's Police Court on Monday afternoon.

They are William A. Phillips, 127½ King Street East, Harold Orme, 2 West Avenue North, and Ernest Taylor, 154 Gibson Avenue. The fourth man is understood to be a Toronto resident, and has not been served with a summons as yet.

The trio are charged as having been found on the night in question with "face blackened or otherwise disguised by night, contrary to Section 464 Sub-Section G, of the Criminal Code of Canada."

who announced last night at an executive meeting of West Peterborough Conservative Association that he would again seek the endorsation of his party as the Conservative candidate at the coming Federal election.

FRANCE LOYALLY BEGINS HER TASK OF FLOOD RELIEF

Gov't Decrees Sunday Be Held as Day of National Mourning.

CONTRIBUTIONS POUR IN.

Tardieu and Doumergue on Tour—Have Plan to Prevent Recurrence.

PARIS, March 8. (C.P.)—Frenchmen with one accord are going to the aid of their flood-stricken countrymen in the south of the Republic. Money is pouring in from all quarters, at home and abroad, to a National Relief Fund organized by the Bank of France and a federation of newspoper publishers.

Tomorrow, Sunday, will be observed as a day of "National Mourning" for the victims of the floods. A Government decree, such as that fixing the day, is issued only rarely, and in the case of a great national disaster.

Parliament voted 100,000,000 francs for the relief funds. Pope Pius contributed 50 000 francs, business houses have given another 100,000 francs; President Doumergue made a personal contribution of 20,000 francs, while ministers and undersecretaries made a total contribution of 50,000 francs. The Protestant Federation of France gave 100,000 francs.

Premier Gives Assurances

President Doumergue and Premier Tardieu to-day are in the stricken regions speaking words of consolation to the victims and assuring them that the nation will not leave them in want. For Premier Tardieu it is more than a sentimental pilgrimage, since he wishes to lose no time in forming first-hand an idea of the extent of the disaster.

He is known to have in mind a project to prevent recurrence of such natural scourges with the latter end in view at high official of the ministry of agriculture is al-

Garbage Revenue To Buy Tractors

MOSCOW, March 8. (A.P.)—Laboring women throughout Soviet Russia participated to-day in observance of "International Women's Day." They held parades and attended lectures and special meetings.

One odd feature of the celebration was an appeal to women by the Moscow municipal authorities to devote the day to collection of garbage which would be exported abroad, the revenue therefrom to be devoted to United States tractors.

To-day's newspapers are replete with accounts of the women's emancipation movement in Russia. All of them declare that women under the Bolsheviki are freer and have more privileges than their sisters in any other country. Thirty percent of all workers in government industries it was announced, are women.

OTTAWA SCANDAL WIDENS OUT WITH ANOTHER ARREST

H. C. Latham, of Civic Housing Commission Faces Theft of $16,964.94.

CONFESSED TO MAYOR.

Shortage Figures Undecided Till Audit Completed—May Reach $50,000.

OTTAWA, March 8.—(C.P.)— The latest episode in the conversion scandal revolving around Ottawa's city hall came yesterday with the formal arrest of Howard C. Latham, secretary of the Civic Housing Commission on charge of stealing $16,964.-.49. This sum property of the corporation of Ottawa, was converted between January 1, 1929 and February 28, 1930 it is alleged. He will appear in Police Court tomorrow for preliminary hearing.

Latham's arrest follows on the heels of his admission to Mayor Frank Plant yesterday that he was short in his accounts and the subsequent suspension from duty of the city auditor, W. A. Tolley. The mayor told city council the shortages in the housing commission were revealed to him following the start of an independent audit of the commission books by a private firm of auditors.

Mayor Plant said Latham admitted defalcations over a five or six year period and estimated total shortages will run as high as $15,000. This figure cannot be definitely fixed until completion of the independent audit but it is feared in city hall circles the shortage may exceed $50,-000.

No Audit For Some Time

Suspension of the city auditor was made when it became known the housing commission records had not been audited for some time. Mr. Tolley claimed he had not sufficient assistance in his department and had not been requested to conduct such a survey.

Latham, aged 38, had been employed on the housing commission for eleven years. His annual salary since 1925 had been $2,000. He is married and has seven children to support. He told the mayor he had squandered the converted funds.

The general audit of civic books which was responsible for the present revelations was undertaken recently when shortages in the civic cashier's department became known. Bradford Broad former city cashier is now serving a two year penitentiary term for these defalcations.

Defiant Woman is Given Thirty Days

OSHAWA, March 8.—Appearing in court as the result of proceedings instituted by Inspector Baird of the Humane Society, who alleged cruelty to a goose, Mrs. Mary Tytenych, a local foreign woman, was fined $5 or 30 days imprisonment.

Passing sentence, Magistrate Willis warned Mrs. Tytenych to refrain from ill-treating animals or birds. Not to be intimidated, however, the little old woman, in her own voluable tongue, made it known to the court that she intended doing what she liked.

"Then you will go to goal," exclaimed His Worship.

"I don't care," Mrs. Tytenych replied in English.

The Inspector alleged that defendant had injured the bird's wing, broken its leg, and left it in the gutter to die.

Accused admitted the offence, through Interpreter William Igel, but offered as excuse that the goose had been bothering her chickens.

PARLEY AGREES ON BATTLESHIP FIVE-YEAR REST

WAIT ON FRANCE AND ITALY.

Will Speed Up Scrapping of Ships Agreed on Under Washington Treaty.

(By George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent Canadian Press)

LONDON, March 8.—The forces of faith and hope put to rout the hosts of gloom to-day, and naval-reduction skeptics were dealt a crushing blow.

A battleship holiday until 1936 is in sight. Conversations between the naval delegations of Great Britain, the United States and Japan have resulted, it was announced last night, in an understanding that there will be no more construction of capital ships, until 1936. This means an extension of five years in the Washington battleship holiday.

It was also agreed that the scrapping of ships, provided for under the Washington Treaty, should be accelerated.

According to the official announcement made in British circles to-night, the understanding has not yet reached the stage of formal agreement, but it is understood the agreement merely awaits the concurrence of Italy and France. The announcement was intended to show "the tendency of the three powers already concerned."

KEENE BRANCH OF UNITED FARMERS IS RE-ORGANIZED

Fred A. Eason is Elected President of Club at Meeting Held Yesterday.

EGG GRADING AND SHIPPING.

Advantages of Egg Station Are Outlined By Several Speakers.

The Keene branch of the United Farmers of Ontario was reorganized Friday afternoon and immediately assumed the details of organizing an egg-grading and shipping station.

The officers of the Club, which is really an amalgamation of the group of Clubs that formerly existed in Otonabee township are as follows: President, Fred A. Eason; Secretary, William Nelson; directors, Walter Hope, Edward Dixon, James Fitzgerald and Percy Donaldson.

The executive has undertaken a canvass of the community to determine whether a sufficient supply of eggs is available to warrant the establishment of the proposed egg-grading station. At yesterday's meeting the sentiment seemed to be unanimously in favor of the project, which will be further discussed at a meeting on Friday March 14, at 7.30 p.m., in the town hall at Keene.

The revival of the U.F.O. in Otonabee demonstrated the enduring strength of the district's sentiment. More than sixty farmers were present, and a number of ladies were in the audience. Bruce McNevin, of Omemee, ex-president of U.F.O., reviewed the association's work, and cited its accomplishments, as one reason why it should receive the loyal support of all farmers. Otther speakers were Joseph Longchallon, manager of the egg and poultry department of the U.F.O. Co-operative Company, Toronto, J. Westmoreland, of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and J. B. Nelson, of Peterborough, county representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Edward Dixon was chairman of the meeting.

Advantage of Station.

Why are we operating egg grading and shipping stations at country points, Mr. Longchallon asked in opening his address.

"This idea was adopted two years ago by the Co-operative company as a result of the radical changes that have occurred in the Canadian egg industry. The development of mixed farming in western Canada has effected a great change. The farmers in the west have to-day a production of eggs that exceeds their own requirements, and they are shipping their surplus to the eastern markets every month of the year. In fact they have become such a factor that they really govern the prices.

Production in the east has increased 100 per cent. since 1921 with the result that our production in 1928 was 300,000,000 dozens. In 1923 our buying and selling methods changed, and a law was passed enforcing the grading of eggs on a basis of size and quality. Since that law went into effect the per capita consumption of eggs in Canada has increased from twenty-five dozens in 1923 to thirty dozens in 1928.

Have won Confidence.

We have won the confidence of the consumer because he is getting an egg that is exactly what is offered. That has been a big gain for the industry. It is of prime importance that good quality eggs should reach the market in good condition otherwise the producers' efforts will all be in vain.

The egg grading stations at country points are operated under our control. We rent a place for the work, hire a grader and pay all expenses. We also work in conjunction with a local committee. Your eggs will be graded immediately upon their receipt and they are paid for at the prevailing market price, the same as if you shipped them to Toronto, less the transportation charge. Another benefit to you is that you avoid loss from cracked eggs. We ship by truck wherever possible."

Buy Dressed Poultry.

Mr. Langchallon explained other features of the grading and shipping, and also related how the station would handle dressed poultry. The station would also act as a shipper or clearing house for live poultry. The dressed poultry would be handled on the same basis as eggs. It would be paid for at the market price.

For the economical and practical operation of the grading station an average supply of fifty cases a week was required. While production was at its peak in the Spring this might reach 75 to 100 cases a week. If the company was assured of an average of fifty cases a week for a year there was no reason why the station should not be undertaken.

May Pool Spring Eggs.

'Mail Order' Fiance Would Deport Girl

LONDON, Ont., March 8.—Because her "mail order" husband did not suit her after he had paid her passage to this country from Poland, a young Polish girl has refused to marry him, and is now faced with the possibility of being deported. The man, himself a Pole, lives in Middlesex County, and his application for deportation of his potential bride was heard yesterday afternoon by J. D. Reynolds, immigration inspector. The case is being referred to Federal officials for final decision. The girl is 20 and attractive and the bachelor is 60.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 8 (Canadian Press). — June Day, who makes whoopee at a 48th Street night club, visited the Independent Artists' Annual Show in the Grand Central Palace yesterday and created a small riot after taking one look at a portrait of herself. Yelling loudly, she seized a knife from the hand of a spectator who was sharpening a pencil while soaking up art, and made a lunge at the picture. She made a long slash across the face of the portrait and was preparing for another swing when attendants and spectators grabbed her.

"I'll show that bum," yelled the red-headed Miss Day. "I never looked that dopey even after a hang-over."

The painter, Alfred H. Maurer, appeared on the scene, surveyed his ruined work with consternation, and retired discreetly to the dressing-room, where he remained until Miss Day was led vociferously from the gallery. "That guy couldn't paint a barn," she shrieked as a parting shot.

Mr. Maurer, a man of 61, emerged from his retreat. He explained that he had painted the picture in his Broadway studio, but had not allowed Miss Day to see it in the studio, as he wanted to surprise her at the show.

"Evidently I did," he commented. "What did a night club singer expect?" he demanded. "A Madonna?"

SPECIAL REPORT IS NEARLY READY

NO SHORTAGES ON BOARD.

TORONTO, March 8. — The Hon. Charles McCrea told the House yesterday afternoon that the report of the special committee appointed by the Ontario Government in 1928 to investigate the fish and game resources of the Province and the problems involved will probably be brought before the Legislature within the next two weeks. He further stated that the inquiry had cost the Province $2,262, and that the report was now in the course of preparation.

Hon. John S. Martin, answering a query, told the House that the loans outstanding under the Agricultural Development Act on October 31 of each of the last three fiscal years, were: 1927, $15,531,360; 1928, $19,465,-405; 1929, $23,835,887. The amount outstanding on short-term farm loans on October 31st last was $133,999.

There have been no actual losses he explained, "because the reserve fund for that purpose has taken care of the shortages as follows: Long-term $12,804; short-term, $903. The balance carried forward by the board as of October 31 last was $377,107.

The board, he added, has taken no foreclosures in the last three years, but sale proceedings have been taken as follows: 1927, 25; 1928, 41; 1929, 69. During the last fiscal year 52 farms bearing mortgages under the Act have been sold. The members of the Agricultural Department Board are W. B. Roadhouse (acting chairman, and T. R. Jennings.

Hon. William Finlayson stated that the Wewaygo Timber Company, Limited, of Wisconsin, is incorporated in Ontario, but has no timber license for pulpwood in Ontario. The company exported pulpwood through the Customs at Sault Ste. Marie, but this was from their private lands, 356,000 acres, formerly owned by the Algoma Railway, and from settlers' lands. The Government received $15,862 from the company in taxation.

PROTEST FENCING OF LAKE CHANNEL

OFFICIALS HEAR DEBATE.

BOBCAYGEON, March 8.—To deal with the question of whether or not the Emily Lake Fur Farms, Ltd., in the township of Emily has the right to enclose the navigable channel of an inlet into Emily Lake by a fence on its property, a meeting of representatives of the Department of Game and Fisheries, the Fur Farms and of the township was held in the Bobcaygeon Town Hall yesterday afternoon. The meeting was called at the request of the Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of the Department, as the result of claims that the rights of the public are being ignored by the fur farms.

About a year ago the Emily Lake Fur Farms, Limited, was organided. Walton Wade is president of the company, Robert Hicks vice-president and Edwin Ruthven manager.

The farm consists of some 940 acres. The company fenced off the channel of the inlet, but dug another channel in lieu of the original, and has an investment of about $35,000. The Bobcaygeon Fish and Game Association believed this was in contravention of the rights of the public to travel over navigable waters, and contended that no precedent should be permitted in fencing of spawning grounds for maskinonge.

The Department of Fish and Game was represented by H. H. McKay, biological director of fish culture, and A. McLeod, supervisor of fish hatcheries for Ontario. The company was represented by its solicitor, L. M. Frost of Lindsay, who outlined the rights of private citizens as to navigable waters, and suggested as a compromise that gates be placed at the channel, which would be open during the closed season for fishing. Reeve A. R. Bottum, J. R. McIntosh and C. H. Pardy represented the Bobcaygeon Fish and Game Association.

Other speakers were: Jeff Ashmore, Reeve of Emily; Rev. Father Galvin, Downeyville; J. C. O'Leary, King's Wharf; Charles Lamb, Thomas Griffin and Stephenson of Omemee, in support of the fur farm. Mr. Mackay, biologist, said it was too early to ascertain anything of the effect on the maskinonge, but declared the Department would watch conditions. Mr. McLeod would give no decision here, but will report to the Minister in writing.

DIVORCE BILL IS DISCUSSED

OTTAWA Ont., March 8. (C.P.) — The discussion on divorce which took up much of the time of last session was renewed in the House of Commons last night when J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre) moved the second reading of his bill to make possible the establishment of a divorce court for the Province of Ontario. The bill would have the court adjudicate on divorce applications instead of sending them to Parliament.

The second reading was moved when the House resumed in the evenevening and the debate was still in progress when the hour for private bills was concluded. The discussion will be continued at a subsequent meeting.

UNITED EMPIRE PARTY IS SPLIT; RETURN FUNDS

Lord Beaverbrook Creates Surprise By His Withdrawal.

OBJECTIVE ACCOMPLISHED.

Rothermere States Free Trade Has Been Officially Adopted By Tories.

LONDON, March 8 (C.P.)—British political circles interested in the new "United Empire Party" recently founded by Lord Beaverbrook, newspaper publisher, received a surprise last night when they learned that Lord Beaverbrook had withdrawn from the party and ordered the return to donors of all contributions.

Lord Beaverbrook withdrew as a result of the statement of former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, Conservative party leader, on March 4, intimating that the question of Empire free-trade would be submitted by the party to the people at the next general election. The supporters of the United Empire Party were drawn from the Conservative ranks.

Lord Rothermere, another great British newspaper publisher, who joined Lord Beaverbrook in promoting the United Empire Party, issued a statement saying that the party had already achieved one of its objectives.

"The aim of Empire free-trade has now been officially adopted by the Conservative party."

NEW REGULATION FOR IMMIGRANTS

Must Have Money to Keep Families For Awhile After Arrival.

BRITISH BOYS WANTED.

TORONTO, Mar. 8 (C.P.).—Immigrants to Canada from now on will be required by the Dominion government not only to pay their own passage money but to have enough left over to keep them and their families for a reasonable period in Canada. Assisted immigration is to end Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior and mines at Ottawa told newspaper men in an interview in explaining the new immigration policy announced a few days ago.

"We can put no obstacles in the way of British immigrants who wish to come to Canada except that they will not be sanctioned by the department unless they have secured permits from the province concerned. This he said applies to assisted immigration, whether the assistance comes from the British government the railroad companies or anywhere else. The only exception will be in the case of non-adult immigration, where encouragement will still be given to British boys coming to settle on farms in Canada.

There has been too great an influx of lower class labor, he said which has crowded the cities during slack periods and are largely responsible for the unemployment problems here.

STIRLING

STIRLING, March 8.—Radios until a few years ago, a thing undreamed, are now part and parcel of the equipment of almost every farm home—are in fact as common as the gramophone which they usurped, and treated in just such a matter of fact way.

"Talkies" the latest invention in the entertainment field are also steadily finding a place in rural communities and at the recent meeting of Stirling village council the question took up quite a large part of the discussion. Favourable comment was made in favour of the installation of "talkies" in Stirling Theatre and a committee composed of Reeve Montgomery, Councillors W. C. West and L. Meiklejohn were appointed to investigate and secure full details and report their findings to the council.

MYSTERIOUS CALLS

TORONTO, Ont., March 8 (C.P.)—Two more mysterious telephone calls were received last night by Rev. H. Lawrence McNeil, pastor of a Baptist church here for colored people, who recently championed the Negro cause at a mass meeting of local colored folk in connection with the Ku Klux Klan's recent action in separating Ira Johnston from his white sweetheart at Oakville.

A bundle of old letters! They were passed on to me by my friend, John Plane. In handing them to me, he said: "I think you will find something to interest you in these. When I get a good thing, I hate to be selfish and keep it for my own use only. And I have been thinking that you might be able to use them on the Church Page for the benefit of the many who look forward with interest and pleasure to that section of our local newspaper. I believe that there are some things in these letters which might be helpful to many who would never see them unless you bring them to their attention. You will notice that they were written by a mother to her son. Many years have passed since the pen that wrote them was laid aside, but it might be well if you concealed the actual names of those to whom these letters originally belonged. However, I shall leave that to your own judgment."

The Son Speaks.

"While I was at school and college, I received many letters from my mother, written in round hand, and such letters as any mother would write to a son. In 18— I went to England to live, and from that date became the recipient of weekly letters. In course of time, her handwriting so strikingly altered as to reveal a new personality. A few sentences will explain the marvellous change, which came to her life, after she was well past forty.

"I was for years her only son. I was born when she was in her early twenties. She made me her companion, when I was only eight years old. I worshipped her. We used to sing together. She prayed out loud, before me. She took me to all the church services, of which my father was the pastor. In those years she was a shy, reserved woman, terribly in earnest about her religion, but without peace. She tried to believe in God, as her Church believed in Him, in those days.

"I knew she held communion with invisible things. I could not guess what she saw, but I knew it was a vision beyond my ken. Now I know.

"Her self from God she could not free,
She builded better than she knew.

Paying Top Price.

"It cost something to belong to the church she belonged to in those days, and she paid a top price. She was told it was her duty to speak in class meeting and to lead the singing, and I held her hand in class meeting, and I can hear the Leader say: 'Sister Margaret, tell us what the Lord has done for your soul.' She would spring up and, her face flushed with the effort, just softly reply, 'The Lord is very gracious unto His servant.' Never more than this in those far-off days. How blind I was. But not so dull as to mistake a knowledge of a force, which used to make my hand tingle as I held her hand in mine. She was passing through a furnace of affliction. She took up the cross of a minister's wife, and tasted that peculiar vintage, which only those know, who experienced the narrowness and bigotry of the religious life of that time. All the while she was beating out the music of her woman's heart; and at long last, she quietly emerged from years of meditation and disillusion, of misunderstanding and prejudice, and entered into an experience, which was to be as a fountain of living waters for the women of her age. She outpoured to me in her letters to England the drama of her widening life and influence. The women who had patronized her, in former years, now followed her lead. She had arrived!

Exchanging Confidences.

"Year by year, she wrote to me, as she wrote to no one else, for we had our confidences, and she knew that I knew, and so she wrote as the spirit gave her utterance.

"But though I was too engrossed with a new life fully to appreciate them then, I kept them all, and now I know, that what was passing before me as it had done all my life, was the making of a soul, for the revelation of God to her own generation.

"There are multitudes of women who will agree to this, that they never heard her speak, in public or in private, without feeling a thrill of a strange vital force pass from her into their own hearts. For when she used voice or pen, it was a woman who knew who wrote or spoke!

"Now if I was the only judge, I should hesitate to publish in any way extracts from these letters, just because I am her son. But one of the greatest critics of English letters and biography gave me his opinion of them. I can see him now as he said with the force of absolute conviction, 'You have a treasure here the world must share.'

"Well, I am dealing with an unknown quantity when I send them forth to the world! It may be a very small world they will reach! But—if within the compass of that small world—should they serve to inspire to refresh some drooping or thirsty soul, I shall not have sent them out in vain.

A Treasure-Trove.

"For some years I have kept my treasure-trove close. But now I must share them with others. It will be better that only extracts should be given, and that matters personal to me and to my family should not be published.

"It is my earnest hope that they will touch all who read them with the pressure which sets the lights aflame in the room, and reveals the hidden things.

"It might well be asked: Who writes letters now? Such letters? Do you know anyone who sits down and writes long, intimate, stirring letters to people whom they have never met, but who have begged for a letter as they would for a cup of cold water when athirst? This was her labor of love for many years. Now the hand, often so tired, writes no more. The tender loving voice is not heard. Yet she still speaks; I would fain believe that; speaks from lips who heard her message, and translated it into their own speech and action.

"Here as I write these words, revisiting the city which she knew from slums to palaces, as I feel the electric atmosphere of this nerve-destroying civilization, see the faces which vibrate to the swift, erratic pulse of the times, I say to myself, let me at least bring back the memory of one who, seeing it as we see it now, saw also, more clearly and with abiding joy, the things which make for peace.

What He Saw.

"I see the high buildings, the swift moving of the population, here and there; I see the wealth, and pride, and organization, and material strength, but these things, great as they are, were not the source of this nation's greatness. (I am speaking now of the New England part of this continent). Those springs rose in Walden Pond and the House of Seven Gables, in Emerson's home, in the shades of peace where Whittier and Longfellow and their little brotherhood lived, wrought, suffered and triumphed; in the little parsonages up and down the land, where the Puritan tradition held sway.

"I wish to share with my brothers this privilege, of bringing to a wider circle some of these rare and vital thoughts from her letters.

"These personalities whose hands wrought at our tasks, whose hearts agonized and triumphed in the very problems we try to solve, come to us, in their writings, with a rare comradeship. They are like deep silent wells, unthought of in the busy fields, where men gather the harvest; awaiting the hour, when they come in to slake their thirst, and let down the bucket, for those cooling waters which never fail to inspire and console. They bid us be brave and press forward, treading where they trod, upheld by the same sustaining grace.

A Word of Warning.

"To no self-satisfied and self-centred person will one word in these letters appeal. But if anyone in the struggle, in the dead set of the tide of a lower life asks, "How did they win through," here are some words from one who had sounded the depths, and found anchorage in the Father's will, the Son's love, the Spirit's quickening power.

What We Are Made For.

"For so many years I 'stuck to it' that the trouble was with the inside machinery, if we were not happy. I have said to your father more times than I can count, 'No, if we are not happy under these circumstances, we would not be happy under other circumstances. It is the self, the selfish self that makes the trouble." Self is the irksome weight.

"'Tis we, not they, who are at fault
When others seem so wrong.

"All this I am surer of to-day than ever: our one need is God. We need the truth that lies behind the words: Thou in me, and I in Thee; a fullness of love. We are made for love; it is the only thing worth living for; and outside of the perfect love of God, we shall starve.

The Last Step.

"I am so impressed at this time with the 'weight' of ourselves; rather than of what we have done. I know I must be a success before God, and that is no little thing. It is no little thing to be true; true to what you know is true. Beecher once said that all the steps upward did not count, if the last step was not taken. Someone said, 'I don't see that, Mr. Beecher.' 'Well,' said he, 'if you jump and just miss it, what becomes of the jump?' Wasn't that like Beecher? Now I am thinking of God's scales: they are unerring: what you are; and if we are wanting in ourselves, it is an eternal want. If we have Christ, we do not want; and He only can meet that deep want."

Yours as letter-carrier,
Allan Fairbairn.

Immortality will come to such as are fit for it; and he who would be a great sou lin the future must be a great soul now.

The Ministry of Ills

THERE are many trials in life which do not seem to come from unwisdom or folly. They are silver arrows shot from the bow of God, and fixed inextricably in the quivering heart. They are to be borne. They were not meant, like snow or water, to melt as soon as they strike. But the moment an ill can be patiently borne, it is disarmed of its poison, though not of its pain.

THE LORD'S SUPPER

THE passover was the memorial of the deliverance out of Egypt of Israel. The Lord's Supper is the memorial not only of our deliverance but of the love of Him who has delivered us.

REFLECTIONS

THE growth of Christian life is to be measured by the growth of love; and love itself is to be measured in its progressive states by its restfulness, its undisturbed trust, its victory over every form of fear. The state of perfect loving is incompatible with distrust. When the heart is first awakened to affection, it is disturbed and agitated. It fluctuates with every shade of hope and fear alternately. It rushes from one extreme of confidence to the opposite of doubt. But this is only while it is filling. The heart beginning to love is like a bay into which the star-drawn tides are rushing. The waters come with violence. They stir up the sand and sediment. They dash and murmur on the edges of the shore. They whirl and chafe about the rocks, and the whole bay is agitated with strife and counter-strife of swirling waters, until they have nearly reached their height. Then, when great depth is gained, when the shores are full, when no more room is found for the floods, the bay begins to tranquillize itself, to clear its surface; and effacing every wrinkle, and blowing out every bubble, and hushing every ripple along the shore, it looks up with an open and tranquil face into the sky, and reflects clearly the sun and moon that have drawn it thither. And so does the soul, while filling, whirl with disquiet, and fret its edges with wrinkles and eddies; but when it is filled with love, it rests and looks calmly up, and reflects the image of its God.

OUR USE OF TRUTH

WHEREVER I find truth, I will appropriate it, for it is an estray from God's word, and belongs to me and to all. Eminent masters, parties, and sects claim truths as theirs, because they have most fully expounded them; but men never make truths; they only recognize the value of this currency of God. They find truths as men sometimes find bills, in the street, and only recognize the value of that which other parties have drawn.

Unusual Ministers

IT is unusual to think of the sick as being ministered unto. But just now think of the sick as ministering unto others. There is a service which the sick can perform. It varies, of course, according to the degree of illness. Yet it is surprising how ill some can be and still serve. A wonderful service is performed when we are patient under pain. Some of the worst sufferers are the most patient. Some people are temperamentally more patient than others; while some win patience at great cost. Perfect patience comes through personal fellowship with the suffering Saviour. "Behold, we count them happy which endure."

Taste And See

FELLOWSHIP with Christ never worries; is never a drain upon one's strength, but tends always to vitalize the soul. And every soul blessing reacts beneficially upon the body. It is religious discussion without Christ, the form of godliness without the power thereof, that is so hurtful, not only to the sick, but also to tht well. "The Lord preserveth the simple: I was brought low, and he helped me. Return unto thy rest, O my soul; for the Lord hath dealt bountifully with thee."

Your Nurse

WHAT you say to the doctor about your nurse will do much to make or mar her future. Emphasize all the good you find in her and she will be anxious to do better. Guard against the exaggeration of minor faults, a temptation to which we easily become a prey in sickness.

Deepening the Life

NOTHING perhaps quite deepens the life like an illness in which we have time to think and meditate. The ministry of many a preacher has been profoundly changed for the better through his being laid aside for a time by sickness. Many a business man has seen life from a new angle when forced by illness to let others run the concern in which he felt himself indispensible.

In Time of Sickness

THERE is nothing like an inner peace to hasten recovery in time of sickness. Oftentimes its effect borders on the miraculous. So that we should seek this peace by refusing to worry over unknown guilt, or by getting right with God in Christ when we are aware of wrongdoing. If God does not grant the healing that we seek, He gives some greater compensation, making up triumph over our pain or disability with a serenity that sets the world wondering.

"Say It With Flowers"

A gift of flowers can sometimes accomplish what the giver's own presence could not do. Words, mannerisms and tones are easily misunderstood. And in sickness everything is liable to aggravate as at no other time. But flowers from a well-wisher, how they soften the heart and make for good understanding! They are so eloquent in their fragrant silence. Flowers have been known to transform foe to friend. Often do they overcome unworthy suspicions and engender friendships little before expected.

ANOTHER ANGLE TO THE QUESTION.

Premier Ferguson declares in an interview that the principle that the control of immigration should be given over to the provincial administrations appeals to him.

Ontario's Premier is of the opinion that each Province should have the right to say how many immigrants it requires, and the suggestion from Ottawa that the responsibility is to be passed over to the Provinces, therefore, meets with his approval.

There is one angle of the question that should not be lost sight of, however.

It must not be forgotten that the boundaries between Provinces are merely lines on a map—not high walls.

Because Manitoba, for example, thinks it should have a certain number of new citizens and succeeds in securing a quota of immigrants of the desired type, there is no assurance that they'll remain in Manitoba.

They may be out on the coast or in Ontario three weeks after they've landed in this country.

The trouble is, of course, that while the Provinces may control so far as the incoming of immigrants is concerned, they have absolutely no check upon the movements of those immigrants after they have arrived.

It is a phase of the situation that should be taken into consideration before any drastic changes are made in our immigration machinery.

THE MADRIGAL SINGERS.

Peterborough music-lovers will doubtless embrace the opportunity that is provided by the concert of the Madrigal Singers on Tuesday night to hear this splendid organization whose fame is more than local and whose delightful music has received the warm praise of many well-known critics.

The Madrigal Singers, under the able direction of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, have given their home city a vast amount of desirable publicity by reason of their appearances at the Canadian National Exhibition, in concerts at the Royal York Hotel and elsewhere, and by a series of radio engagements in which the magic of the wireless brought them hundreds of new admirers throughout Canada and the United States.

The program they have prepared for their local concert next week has been carefully chosen, and is varied enough to demonstrate not only the artistry of the organization but its versatality as well, and it should provide a rare treat for Peterborough citizens.

The Madrigal Singers have earned the patronage of the local public by the merit of the entertainment they offer, as well as by the advertising they have given this city as a city in which musical culture has been developed to a marked degree.

MOTOR KILLINGS.

The sentence of a year inflicted by Mr. Justice Logie upon a Campbellford young man, convicted of causing serious bodily injuries, the charge arising out of a fatal motor accident, carries a warning that motorists should not fail to heed.

"Motor manslaughter" has become all too common in this country, and the long list of motor car killings calls for drastic treatment for those convicted of reckless or careless driving.

There is natural sympathy for this Campbellford youth, but it must not be forgotten that there are others more entitled to sympathy—the wife and family of the man whose life was snuffed out.

Many Peterborough drivers, if they are honest with themselves, will have little difficulty in realizing that the only difference between them and the driver who goes to jail for a year is that they have been more lucky.

They know that they, too, have taken too many chances on the highways, and that if they have up to the present escaped a manslaughter charge it is only because providence has been good to them.

The fate of this young Campbellford motorist should convince many a reckless driver that caution in the long run is the best policy.

THE EFFECT OF PUBLIC OPINION.

A number of Hamilton men alleged to have been concerned in the activity of the Ku Klux Klan at Oakville last week has been summonsed to answer charges of being masked in public without lawful excuse.

Now that the matter is to come before the courts the matter is sub-judice, and it would be improper as well as unwise for a newspaper to discuss the details of the case.

There is one feature, however, that members of the Ku Klux Klan organization should not fail to notice and to consider.

That is the fact that legal action has been forced by the pressure of public opinion.

The newspapers of Ontario have almost unanimously condemned the principle involved in the formation of the Klan, and if the leaders of the organization have a grain of common sense in their make-up they will realize that they are butting their heads against a solid wall of public opposition.

If they expected to be hailed as public benefactors, if they have been under the illusion that the majority of the people of this country would welcome them with open arms, they must by this time be convinced that they were wrong in their size-up of Canadian sentiment.

The lesson is plain enough for everybody to read.

THE KU KLUX KLAN.

The people of Ontario have read with considerable interest the episode at Oakville under the auspices of the Ku Klux Klan which, in disregard of properly constituted authority, took the law into its own hands in order to right what it considered a great wrong. Public opinion will probably be in sympathy with the object that was desired to be achieved, but not with the methods employed to accomplish it. There is no place in the Province of Ontario for an organization that attempts to take the law into its own hands on the ground that a great evil exists. The wrong which the Ku Klux Klan endeavored to set right was one that is thoroughly obnoxious to the ideals of good Canadian citizenship. The pity of it is that such a condition of affairs can exist in the Province of Ontario, but at the same time it is difficult to see how it can be remedied.

There are certain moral standards that can be regulated by law and thre are others that cannot be, because they belong to the sphere of personal liberty. The authorities will be well advised to see that no recurrences of interference with the administration of law by the Ku Klux Klan or any other organization, are permitted. The Ku Klux Klan is an association that is alien to the ideals of British justice, and originated in communities where established law and order failed to protect the sanctity of home and family life. No such state of affairs exists in this Province, and the officers of the law will do well to demonstrate with energy, promptness and dispatch that there is no place for such unauthorized episodes as that which occurred at Oakville, under the auspices of the Ku Klux Klan, even though ostensibly justified by actual conditions.—Brantford Expositor.

ABOUT ONTARIO APPLES.

A good many people, who believe that Ontario apples of a high-class are as good as any in the world, have been justly concerned about the fact that British Columbia apples have practically displaced those of Ontario in the markets of this Province. A recent explanation offered by Mr. P. W. Hodgetts, head of the fruit branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, makes the reason of this quite plain. The complaint is made that, while Ontario products, such as the Spies, Baldwins, Greenings and Kings, when taken from the trees in the orchard are just as good looking, and of as good a flavor as can be found anywhere, somehow they do not find their way to the city markets, at least in steady shipments.

The reason for this, Mr. Hodgetts declares, is because the cities of Ontario are what are called consignment markets, to which the apples are shipped for what they will bring. As a result, the statement is made that many retailers are loaded with windfalls, culls and ungraded varieties that have been grown, picked and packed without proper care. Consequently, the dealers buy British Columbia fruit for their high-class trade because it comes attractively packed in boxes, with a definite number of apples of an even size in each box, so that before the box is purchased they know exactly how much they will have to charge for the fruit to make a profit. To the average person, who is proud of old Ontario, it seems exceedingly regrettable that such a condition of affairs should be allowed to continue. So much has been accomplished by the grading and packing of other products that it is surprising that the apple growers of Ontario have not made the progress in scientific apple culture that might be made.

The Department of Agriculture will do a big work for the Province if it can remedy these deficiencies. By superior organization and efficiency the British Columbia apple growers in the last two decades have driven the Ontario product out of the Canadian prairie markets, and largely out of the choice fruit markets of the Province of Ontario. If Federal action is required to eliminate this low grade fruit, and to promote proper packing, it ought to be forthcoming. It is noteworthy that, in view of the conditions that have been disclosed, the Ontario growers have asked for such changes in the law as will improve conditions. It seems late in the day to wake up to this fact, but Mr. Hodgetts thinks that if proper action is taken, it will not be long before the Ontario apple will regain its former high place at home and abroad, particularly when it is supported by a campaign of publicity.—Brantford Expositor.

THEY DO FAIRLY WELL.

Quite often the lament is heard that the public men of to-day are not the equal of those of yesteryear and that if the statesmen of the Confederation period, for instance, were in charge of public affairs at this juncture, they would make a much better fist of government.

Yet if the Fathers of Confederation were required to take charge of the national business at this period of the twentieth century, they would probably be completely lost and would find that the very magnitude of the problems which confronted them would stagger them.

The men who directed Canada's government at the time of Confederation had merely to deal with a small part of the Dominion whose foundations they created. West of the Great Lakes was practically terra incognita. The railways of the country were confined to a small mileage in Ontario and Quebec. Canada's trade and commerce were pitifully small in comparison with present-day statistics. Industry was struggling in a few scattered centres. Settled territory was comparatively small in area, the population scanty and the problems of government relatively simple.

What would the statesmen of even half a century ago do if they were faced with settlement of the questions that are to arise during the present session of Parliament? How would they deal with such vexed questions as the export of liquor, return of natural resources to the Western Provinces, the provision of a northern outlet for grain via Hudson's Bay, the jurisdiction over water-powers in interprovincial streams, the establishment of an improved system of radio broadcasting? Wha would they make of such things as the participation of Canada in the League of Nations, in the conference for the limitation of naval armament, in the Imperial Economic Conference?

The truth is, of course, that the statesmen of to-day are handling a job so large that it dwarfs the responsibilities assumed by their predecessors of the mid-Victorian era and even of a much later period. They are called upon to deal with questions which concern a Dominion that extends from ocean to ocean instead of a collection of colonies in one corner of it. Their range takes them, as well, even into the Arctic Circle and the responsibilities which Canada assumed at the close of the war makes it necessary for them to be equally as conversant with world affairs as with those confined to their own country.

Considering all this—the extended area of Canada, her increased population, the fact that she trades with the remainder of the world, her international obligations and the tremendous increase in her industry—it must be agreed that, in comparison with their predecessors, the men who have been chosen to give leadership to the Canadian people at this important stage of the country's history do fairly well. Certainly there is no reason to believe that they suffer in contrast with the leaders of the Confederation period, however great the services that the latter rendered.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

THE GREENE MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE

"All right. Now tell us everything that happened."

"Nothing happened, sir—nothing unusual, that is—until poor Mr. Rex was shot. Miss Ada went out a few minutes after Dr. Von Blon arrived; and a little past 11 o'clock you telephoned to Mr. Rex. Then shortly afterward you telephoned a second time to Mr. Rex; and I returned to the pantry. I had only been there a few minutes when I heard the shot—"

"What time would you say that was?"

"About twenty minutes after 11, sir."

"Then what?"

"I dried my hands on my apron and stepped into the dining room to listen. I was not quite sure that the shot had been fired inside the house, but I thought I'd better investigate. So I went upstairs and, as Mr. Rex's door Was open, I looked in his room first. There I saw the poor young man lying on the floor. I called Dr. Von Blon—"

Sproot hesitated, and appeared to think.

"He was upstairs, sir; and he came at once—"

"Oh—upstairs!" Roaming about vaguely, I presume—a little here, a little there, what?" Vance's eyes bored into the butler, "Come, come, Sproot. Where was the doctor?"

"I think, sir, he was in Miss Sibella's room."

"Cogito, cogito. * * * Well, drum your encephalon a bit and try to reach a conclusion. From what sector of space did the corporeal body of Dr. Von Blon emerge after you had called him?"

"The fact is, sir, he came out of Miss Sibella's door."

"Well, well. Fancy that! And, such being the case, one might conclude—without too great a curtuffling of one's brains—that, preceding his issuing from that particular door, he was actually in Miss Sibella's room?"

"I suppose so, sir."

"Dash it all, Sproot! You know deuced well he was there."

"Well—yes, sir."

"And now suppose you continue with your odyssey."

"It was more like the Iliad, if I may say so. Mere tragic like, if you understood what I mean; although Mr. Rex was not exactly a Hector. However that may be, sir, Dr. Von Blon came immediately—"

"He had not heard the shot, then?"

"Apparently not, for he seemed very much startled when he saw Mr. Rex. And Miss Sibella, who followed him into Mr. Rex's room, was startled, too."

"Did they make any comment?"

"As to that I couldn't say. I came downstairs at once and telephoned to Mr. Markham."

As he spoke Ada appeared at the archway, her eyes wide.

"Some one's been in my room," she announced, in a frightened voice. "The French doors to the balcony were partly open when I went upstairs just now, and there were dirty snow tracks across the floor. * * * Oh, what does it mean? Do you think—?"

Markham had jerked himself forward.

"Yes—of course," she answered. "I rarely open them in winter."

"And were they locked?"

"I'm not sure, but I think so. They must have been locked—though how could any one have got in unless I'd forgotten to turn the key?"

Heath had risen and stood listening to the girl's story with grim bewilderment.

"Probably the bird with those goloshes again," he mumbled. "I'll get Jerym himself up here this time."

Markham nodded and turned back to Ada.

"Thank you for telling us, Miss Greene Suppose you go to some other room and wait for us. We want your room left just as you found it until we've had time to examine it."

"I'll go to the kitchen and stay with cook. I—I don't want to be alone." And with a catch of her breath she left us.

"Where's Dr. Von Blon now?" Markham asked Sproot.

"With Mrs. Greene, sir."

"Tell him we're here and would like to see him at once."

The butler bowed and went out.

Vance was pacing up and down, his eyes almost closed.

"It grows madder every minute," he said. "It was insane enough without those foot tracks and that open door. There's something devilish going on here, Markham."

Von Blon entered. His usual suavity had disappeared. He bowed jerkily without speaking, and smoothed his moustache nervously with an unsteady hand.

"Sproot tells me, Doctor," said Markham, "that you did not hear the shot fired in Rex's room."

"No!" The fact seemed both to puzzle and disturb him. "I can't make it out either, for Rex's door into the hall was open."

"You were in Miss Sibella's room, were you not?" Vance had halted and stood studying the doctor.

Von Blon lifted his eyebrows.

"I was Sibella had been complaining about—"

"A sore throat or something of the kind, no doubt," finished Vance. "But that's immaterial. The fact is that neither youn or Miss Sibella heard the shot. Is that correct?"

The doctor inclined his head. "I knew nothing of it till Sproot knocked on the door and beckoned me across the hall?"

"And Miss Sibella accompanied you into Rex's room?"

"She came in just behind me, I believe. But I told her not to touch anything, and sent her immediatly back to her room. When I came out into the hall again I heard Sproot phoning the District Attorney's office, and thought I'd better wait till the police arrived. After talking over the situation with Sibella, I informed Mrs. Greene of the tragedy, and remained with her until Sproot told me of your arrival."

"You saw no one else upstairs, or heard no suspicious noise?"

"No one—nothing. The house, in fact, was unusually quiet."

"Do you recall if Miss Ada's door was open?"

The doctor pondered a moment. "I don't recall—which means it was probably closed. Otherwise I would have noticed it."

Von Blon gave a start.

"She seemed somewhat more comfortable when I first saw her, but the news of Rex's death disturbed her considerably. When I left her now she was complaining about the shooting pains in her spine."

Markham had got up and now moved restlessly toward the archway.

"The Medical Examiner will be here any minute," he said; "and I want to look over Rex's room before he arrives. You might come with us doctor.—And you, Sproot, had better remain at the front door."

"An Honest Heart."

SCRIPTURE

Memory Verse: "O Lord, Thou has searched me and known me" (Psalm 139:1).

Read: Psalm 139:1-6, 23, 24.

MEDITATION

Our theme these Lenten weeks is "Coming to Terms with Life." To accomplish this, one must adjust one's self to life. This will frequently call for readjustment. To do this intelligently one must know one's self. One mus, face one's self honestly. The evil that is in one must be clearly confronted and acknowledged and called by the same name that one would apply to it in others. Unless we know our flaws and weaknesses, we shall not know where life needs mending. We require hours with God that we may see ourselves as His unflattering eye beholds us.

PRAYER

Almighty God, Spirit of purity, of sincerity and of all truth, grant unto us the holy gift of a fearless and honest mind, that we may behold ourselves as we are, truly confessing our sins and failures, through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen

A Thought

AMBITION.

Ambition is the product of youth. Only as we retain our youhtful outlook are we able to hold onto our ambition and our enthusiasm. The ambitious, enthusiastic man is young, no matter how many years he has lived.

"PISCES."

If March 8th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6 a.m. to 9 a.m., from noon to 1 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. The danger periods are from 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m.

A special note of warning in regard to health for this date—do not neglect minor ailments! Trouble is anticipated from a member of the opposite sex. No financial worries in sight, but something of a spiritual or moral nature will cause you anxiety.

The child born on this March 8th will be physically brave, but mentally a coward. It will be very sensitive and will suffer a great deal through imaginary slights. It will have a very jealous nature, and probably an envious one.

You are not naturally a born worker; you only work because of necessity. Even in your recreation, you choose those things which do not require undue exertion. Mentally, you are far more active than you are physically, although much of your mental energy is used up in day dreaming. You are a fairly good student, and you will probably possess far more wisdom than wealth. If you are comfortable, and there be peace and harmony, you are happy. You have no decided ambition to urge you on, and it is doubtless if any force will ever pull you out of your self-selected rut.

You are not in the least addicted to worry, and you can generally find a humorous and sunny side to everything. You are not critical of your fellow-beings so long as they do not interfere with your existence. There is very little curiosity in your nature, probably not enough to create a normal interest in things. There is a great deal of sweetness and tenderness in your make-up and you respond quickly to any note of appeal. There is not a stingy hair on your head, and you would share your last penny with a friend in need. You probably lead rather an aimless existence, but you are usually contented and happy. You attract and are attracted by those of the opposite sex. Your love of home is far too great for you to ever become a roamer.

"PISCES."

If March 9th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., and from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The astrological influences favor the home and home-life on this date. Emotional and mental stability are indicated. Love affairs will be successful and engagements happy. Good for occult and spiritual interests.

Children born on this March 9th will have honest and frank natures, and will learn very quickly. They will be very amiable, very sociable and very witty. They will be only moderately ambitious.

You do not belong to the large class of individuals who always play safety first. The unknown and the risky are always an inviting challenge to you. You have an infinite amount of courage, a large bump of curiosity, and an innate desire to see life and to have adventure. You would rather kick away safety than to settle into any rut of certainty. You risk life in order to gain it. You will be disheartened and disillusioned many times, but will keep right on fighting for what you believe life has in store for you—and you will win. You are bound to get a kick out of life, because you stand up to it. With sleeves rolled up and laughing with a high spirit of adventure you ride out on the high seas of life. You never go around your difficulties. You meet your dangers boldly and fight through to success or failure.

You are frank and outspoken, and you dislike to bother with social amenities. Your interests are practical and material, and you have little time for sentiment. You will lead an ultra active life, both physically and mentally. You are a typical out-of-doors type of person, and you will not enjoy either health or contentment if Fate decrees that you lead a sedentary life. You are very fond of animals, particularly horses and dogs, and you should have them for companions. Children trust and love you, and you will never grow too old to join them in a spirit of palship.

Toronto List Drops Under Profit-taking

TORONTO, Ont., March 8. (C.P.) The inevitable week-end profit taking crept into the market for International Nickel before the close on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day but not before the stock had pushed through previous resistance levels to set up a new high of 42 for 1930 and some time prior to the beginning of this year. Selling which developed was not such that it could not be absorbed at slightly lower levels and consequently after drifting downward about ½ point, the stock firmed at 41½ the last minute or so. Sales for the short two hours session approximated 14,000 shares.

The oil group was firm, best prices realized towards the end of the session. International Petroleum moved up to 20, where it held, Imperial Oil sold above 24 and B. A. Oil looked better at 36¼.

Lows in Corn, Rye Feature at Chicago

CHICAGO, Ill., March 8 (C.P.).—General selling based a good deal on persistent set-backs in Liverpool quotations carried Chicago wheat values downward early to-day. New low price records for the season in corn and rye, together with reports of auspicious crop conditions in domestic winter wheat territory, were also a bearish factor. Opening 3-8, to 1¼ off, Chicago wheat rallied a little but afterward sagged again. Corn and oats were also weak, with corn starting ½ to 1½ down, and subsequently keeping near the initial range. Provisions held firm.

BODY OF WOMAN FOUND.

ANTIOCH, Ill., March 8 (Canadian Press). — Burned beyond recognition, the body of a young woman with legs and arms apparently chopped off, was found early to-day in the ruins of a summer cottage on the lonely shores of Deep Lake, five miles south of Antioch. Gasoline had been used to set the cottage on fire.

NEW MURDER THEORY.

TORONTO, Ont., March 8 (Canadian Press). — Possibility of an out-of-town gunman having been employed to slay Sam Goldberg, 37, a local business man, is a theory police are working on, it was learned last night. Goldberg was found by firemen answering a fire alarm, leaning off the desk in his office here last Wednesday night with a bullet wound in the head. His face and hands were badly burned by the small fire blazing nearby.

NEW YORK SAGS IN LATE TRADING

Occasional Short-Selling and Heavy Profit-taking Accounts For Setback.

COCA COLA INCREASE.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil, Associated Press Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 8.—The recovery in stock prices during the past week, which lifted the general index of 90 issues to the highest levels the November break, showed signs of slowing up in to-day's brief session of the market under the weight of heavy profit-taking and occasional short selling. Scores of issues were marked up 1 to 6 points in to-day's early trading, and J. I. Case ran up more than 14 points, but the gains were cut down by realizing and a rather long list of issues sold 1 to 3 points below yesterday's final quotations.

Directors of the Coca Cola International Corporation increased the annual dividend from $8 to $12. The Timken Roller Bearing Company showed slightly larger earnings for 1929 than the year before, but the Barnet Leather and Homestake Mining Companies made unfavorable comparisons with the previous year.

Peoples Gas ran up 6 points to 178¾, Eastman Kodak 5¼ to 224¼, International Cement 4 to 66⅝, International Business Machines 3 to 188, Pacific Gas and Electric 3 to 69, Pierce Oil Preferred 3 to 34, and Vanadium Steel 2 to 78, all new tops for the year, but not all of the gains were maintained.

Bethlehem Steel crossed 105 to a new high, while Gulf States and Michigan Steels advanced more than 2 points each.

STRONGER TONE ON MINE MARKET

Higher Priced Stocks Slightly Reactionary Although Changes Unimportant.

HUDSON BAY INACTIVE.

TORFONTO, Ont., March 8.— (C. P.)—Though without a real future, the mining list displayed considerable strength during the abbreviated session to-day. The higher-priced stocks which moved up during the late session yesterday were a trifle reactionary but changes were unimportant. Trading was rather sluggish throughout.

International Nickel fluctuated between $41 and $42 for the whole period, weakening somewhat towards the end to close off a few cents at $41.50 at noon. Hudson Bay was inactiv and slightly easier.

The Lindsleys again displayed the firmness which characterized the group yesterday, Ventures moving up 13 while Falconbridge and Sudbury Basin gained 10 each. These stocks and Sherritt Gordon have shown considerable buoyancy during the past week, improved feleing being exemplified in the substantial alvances registered.

Pacific Coast stocks seem to be under fire these days, the low prices existing for silver and zinc making operation of many deposits unprofitable in British Columbia. Some improvement was evident to-day, however, Premier moving up 5 to $1.30, following a dividend announcement. Base Metals gained 10 and Big Missouri a point.

NO MEAT DEMAND ON LOCAL MARKET

Apples in Plentiful Supply Sell at 50 Cents For Large Basket.

The Lenten season was making its influence felt amongst the meat dealers on the local market this morning, there being practically no demand for meat. There was little or no beef on sale ,but pork was being offered at 20 to 22 cents per pound, and lamb 23 cents.

Apples were plentiful and were selling at 20 cents small baskets and 50 cents large baskets.

Potatoes and all other vegetables were on sale in abundance; the former selling at $2.10 per bag, with carrots and onions 45 cents per peck respectively.

Eggs brought from 30 to 35 cents per dozen with chickens 33 to 35 cents a pound, and fresh dairy butter 38c.

At the top of the stairs in the covered market there was noticed a vegetable stall displaying a choice quantity of cabbage, celery ,oranges, etc. Honey was in great evidence as usual, and there were one or two loads of cordwood standing in the market square.

BUILDS RIVETLESS SHIP.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 8. — A young man's dream of a rivetless ship of steel to-day was partially realized. The "Carolina," the first rivetless self-propelled stemaship in the maritime history of the United States waited favorable weather for speed trials. Richard F. Smith, a little past 30 years old, is the builder. He has dreamed for years of an all-welded ship.

Financial News and Briefs

A Special Service to the Examiner

TORONTO, March 8. (Special to the Examiner.—Movements on the Canadian exchanges continue at the slow motion pace that was adopted weeks ago and the wheels are scarcely turning over, coming to a complete standstill at times even though one or two of the old popular leaders break forth in trying to lift the market out of the doldrums. International Nickel and Brazilian Traction this week showed signs of coming to life without having any material effect on the balance other than to boost the general average a few points above the close of the preceding period. The market seems to delight in advancing slightly and then turn around and go back over the ground gained. It is being found very difficult to establish a new level and it would almost appear that stocks are pegged at current prices Advances are followed by recessions and reactions meet with recovery that places the level back to where it started from.

The action of the market is a good illustration of the attitude of public in not being able to make up their mind about the future. Considerable nervousness is apparent on the part of those who are still participating and not at all sure of their ground. At all times the activity and strength of the Canadian exchanges is indicative of whether securities are looked upon with favor or disfavor but in the present instance the only conclusion to be reached is that the public cannot make up its mind what way the wind intends blowing and rather than be caught in further liquidation are standing pat and not taking a position on either side.

Bearish influences are to be found in the wheat situation, lower prices for commodities, the after effects of the crash of October and November 1929, slackening in industrial operations and the apathy the public itself is displaying towards the market. Always susceptible to influence of any character speculators to-day are in a quandry and as a result are doing nothing until the outlook brightens.

Every cloud has a silver lining and developments of past weeks have helped to create a better sentiment. The provincial government have come to the help of the wheat pool with financial backing, removing the danger of extensive liquidation and putting the pool in a position of being able to stand back and wait for price improvement before selling. A world wide reduction in money rates has taken place and money in the Dominion is loaning at a lower rate of interest and is in much better supply than for years past. Funds are being attracted to Canada by the higher rate and brokers are now finding money offered below the official rater of 6 per cent, which went into effect on March 1. Construction and building activities are continuing at a healthy pace. The railroads have announced large expenditure for 1930, development of the natural resources of the Dominion is being carried on with no let up and mineral production is steadily increasing. In time, the spending of such large sums of money will be reflected in the purchasing power of the public and the industrial pulse of the nation is bound to quicken.

Numerous financial statements have appeared covering the twelve months of 1928 in which substantially increased profit over 1928 is indicated along with an excellent liquid liquidation. Executives in their accompanying remarks hold out no fear for the future and many have gone so far as to place their securities on a higher rate of dividend or make initial disbursements. The balance sheets show the majority to be in the best liquid position in history with heavy investment in revenue paying securities and adequate working capital to tide the company over any minor depression in business. Increased dividend payments did not keep up with improvement in profit and huge surpluses have been built up to fortify against lean years.

ALBERTA PACIFIC AS PURELY STORAGE CONCERN, NOT AFFECTED ADVERSELY BY GRAIN POOL'S ATTITUDE.

While the decline in Alberta Pacific Grain securities has been in reflection of the existing disturbed conditions in the grain markets, there are factors in the situation which tend to present a different light on the position of the company. Alberta Grain, being a private corporation, operates elevators on different lines from those of the wheat pool. The company is purely an elevator and holding undertaking and derives its revenue from the storage of grain. This is in contrast to the pool, which undertakes the marketing of grain for the farmers and is consequently directly affected by the fluctuations on the grain exchanges.

The chief reason for the lessfavorable operating conditions for Alberta Pacific Grain this year has been the short crop harvested in 1929. With only approximately 300,000,000 bushels of wheat compared with over 500,000,000 in 1928 it was natural that there was less grain to store in the company's elevators. As against this, however, there has been some offset, due to the larger storage charges as a result of the attitude of the farmers in holding out for better prices.

The developments of the past year have finished justification for the policy of directors in not placing the stock on a dividend basis, even with the strong earnings showing made in the last annual report, when $8.23 per share was reported. The nature of the company's business entails the maintence of a strong financial position to tide it over the contingency of a poor crop year, such as has occurred during the past season. In this way it will be in an advantageous position to take advantage of the situation, should the 1930 crop be a large one, or to be further fortified against the recurrence of a disappointing harvest.

ABITIBI-HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMMISSION MAY CONTRACT TO MAKE ABITIBI CO. HUGE POWER UTILITY.

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is drawing its power supply from the Ottawa River in large volume to serve Toronto and environment, and will bring power over 300 miles from the Beauharnois development. Yet the problem of meeting the needs of Ontario, which are growing by leaps and bounds is constantly before the Commission.

The Commission is turning more and more to Northern Ontario as a further source of supply and has already secured control of developments in the vicinity of Sudbury. It is understood that it will go still farther north in linking up its vast distributing system with available water powers.

Abitibi Power and Paper Company has developed 200,000 horsepower on the Abitibi River and holds water-powers capable of generating an additional 500,000 horse-power. There is every likelihood that an agreement will be entered into between this company and the Commission, whereby Abitibi Power and Paper Co. will develop its huge power resources in the near future, the basis of which will be a contract to deliver a heavy volume of power to the Commission over a period of years.

It is believed that the dream that has been entertained by the Abitibi Power and Paper management and shareholders, that the company would emerge into a power utility of major ranking, as well as a leading paper producer, will begin to be realized fully in the not-distant future.

YOUNGER DISTRIBUTORS OF OIL PRODUCTS IN EASTERN CANADA MAKE RAPID PROGRESS.

The highly favorable record of Supertest Petroleum Corporation in 1929, when profits equalled over $4.25 per share on the ordinary stock, as against $1.52 per share in the previous 14 months period on the present capitalization, calls attention to the younger companies distributing oil products in Canada. It has been clearly demonstrated that the operations of the big refining and distributing companies in Canada have not interfered with the rapid and even sensational progress of the newer entrants in the field, notably in eastern Canada. Companies whose ramifications extend into western Canada felt the effects of adverse general conditions in the final quarter of 1929, but companies operating exclusively in eastern Canada appear to have enjoyed unimpaired or almost unimpaired progress.

The companies operating exclusively in eastern Canada, in which a public interest exists are Crown-Dominion Oil Co. and Thayers Ltd. Both of these companies have affiliations which at once assures supplies of crude oil and well-known refined products and rapid expansion in the distribution field has been taking place. Besides its own gasoline and oils, Crown-Dominion distributes Tydol gasoline and Veedol oils of Tide Water Oil Co., of the United States, and recently completed or has under construction a number of superstations in Toronto and elsewhere. Thayers Ltd., has entered into an agreement with Sinclair Oil interests to distribute that company's products in Canada.

MASSEY-HARRIS WILL INCREASE TRACTOR OUTPUT BY 50%.

CHICAGO.—Massey-Harris has started a new schedule which calls for production of 50% more tractors than before. Company under this scehdule is turning out more tractors than it was a year ago at this time.

Regarding interest production schedule, the company issued the following statement.

"Conditions existing on the farms of the country lend encouragement to those engaged in the production of machinery. The improvement shown is not local, but widespread.

"This demand for increased production reflects a more favorable attitude upon the part of the farmer than has been evident for several months."

CITIES SERVICE EXPANSION.

NEW YORK.—Cities Service expansion is generally accompanied by market action in the stock on the up side. As a result of recent purchases in Michigan by the Cities Service Oil Co., a subsidiary the parent organizations now has 90 new retail outlets in that State, 50 of which are company owned and operated. Expansion of Cities Service oil marketing activities in Michigan, undertaken to care for the output of the organization's new refinery in East Chicago, began last fall with the acquisition of the Mutual Oil Co. of America and Grimes-Madigam Co. of Grand Rapids. These two concerns were merged, and on January 1 the name was changed to Cities Service Oil Co.

SHARP DECLINE SHOWN.

MONTREAL.—The Asbestos Corporation, Limited, has just issued its financial statement covering the year ended December 31 1929. The profits for the year are shown at $318,333, after bond interest taxes and other charges. Operating profits for the year are shown at $710,192, as compared with $812,926 in 1928. Addition of income from investments at $69,622, left a total income of $779,814. Deduction of bond interest at $461,481 and depreciation at $300,000, left net profit of $18,333. Previous surplus was brought forward at $294,159, making surplus profits of $312,493. A sum of $2,765,000 was transformed from capital and surplus account, making a total of $3,068,503. From this was written off the sum of $2,920,366 for scraping, drilling and development work and obsolete plants and buildings.

The brokerage firm of Mowat and MacGillibray, Ottawa: made assignment yesterday upon the petition of a creditor. The firm of E. R. C. Clarkson & Sons was appointed as interim receiver.

STANDFILEDS' PROFITS.

TRURO, N.S.—Stanfields' Limited, annual report shows the assets of the company at December 31, 1929, to be $3,014,230, of which $1,814,000 was in investments and cash on call loan or in the bank. The valuation placed on buildings, machinery, etc. is a little under $300,000, and stock and accounts and bills receivable are about $860,000.

Profits for the year, after making allowance for bad debts, depreciation, etc., were approximately $157,000, or $15.70 a share. After providing for dividends, bout $82,000, was carried forward to profit and loss account, which now amounts about three-quarters of a million. Stanfields is paying $6 per share dividend on the new 10,000 no par value shares, the dividend having raised from $4 in the last year.

President Frank Stanfields sounded a note of warning regarding 1930. Business conditions are exceedingly bad in western Canada and the future most uncertain.

Abana's special report will be available at the beginning of next week. A slight but unavoidable delay was encountered in translating the statement into French, with the result that this part of the work is being gone over.

CONSTABLE OWES NO DUTY.

Unfortunate if Case Were Interpreted in Way to Injure Dominion Justice.

TORONTO, Ont., March 8.—Mr. Justice Orde at Osgoode Hall to-day refused a motion on behalf of Solloway, Mills Company, Limited, for an order quashing a search warrant issued under the provision of the Criminal Code. The motion also asked for an order requiring Major-Gen. Victor Williams, commissioner of Provincial Police, and Provincial Constable Gurnett to deal with certain books and documents in a certain way—that is by taking either to General Williams himself as a Police Magistrate or to some other Justice of the Peace in the same territorial division.

Mr. Justice Orde pointed out how Mr. Justice McEvoy earlier held there was no power given a Magistrate in Ontario to issue a search warrant in support of criminal proceedings in another province. Whether ruling was correct or not, Mr. Justice Orde says, as a single judge he is bound by it if it had any bearing on the present motion. But it has not, he says, for the search warrant now in question is based upon prosecution pending in Ontario.

Warrant Followed Probe.

The search warrant was issued following the investigation by the Ontario Government into the business activities of a number of brokerage houses.

"The conduct of the constable of whom the applicants complain," says Mr. Justice Orde, "consists of either of two things which are clearly distinct from each other or it may, perhaps, comprise both. If he has sent the articles away or has otherwise dealt with them in a manner not authorized he may have exceeded his duty or authority. In so far as he has failed to deliver the articles to a Justice of the Peace he may have fallen short of his duty.

Mr. Justice Orde holds that the remedy of applicants if Provincial Officer Gurnett has done something in exceess of his duty, is an action for damages and an injunction.

His Lordship holds it is the duty of the constable to deliver the documents to a Justice of the Peace as soon as reasonably and conveniently he was able. "And that he can do more to justify retaining them in his possession indefinitely, than he could justify taking and imprisoning indefinitely in his own house a man whom he had arrested when his ordinary duties would be to take him to a police station or other authorized place of custody."

It is held by His Lordship, however, that the peace officer owes his duty to the prosecuting authorities alone. If he fails short or refused to carry out his duties then the Crown Officer would seem to be the only person who could seek a mandatory order from the court.

"If the owners of the articles are damnified or the circumstances imperil the safety or integrity of the property they have then civil action for damages and for an injunction including a mandatory injunction."

On the ground that the constable owes them no duty Mr. Justice Orde finds the applicants are not entitled to the order they sought.

It would be unfortunate in the opinion of Justice Orde if in the case of this kind the Criminal Code must be interpreted in such a way as to hamper the administration of justice through the whole Dominion when the Attorney General of the Province seeks to adjust that of another in the prosecution of an alleged crime.

BUYING ORDERS ON BROAD LIST

Some Disappointment Apparent as Result of Failure to Cut Rediscount Rate.

FOOD ISSUES STRONG.

By Stanley W. Prenosil (Associated Press Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Mar. 8.—The stock market, after an early period of hesitancy, moved upward again to-day in response to easing credit conditions, and signs of improvement in some of the leading industries. Buying orders were distributed over a fairly broad list but the amusement, public utility, steel, chemical and food issues gave the best demonstrations of group strength. Five or more stocks again moved into new high ground on gains that ran from 1 to nearly 10 points.

While some disappointment was apparent as a result of the failure of the New York Federal Reserve bank directors to cut the rediscount rate.

The opinion was expressed in banking quarters that Federal Reserve officials would follow an easy credit policy through the purchase of bills and government securities. A lower rediscount rate is expected to follow in due course. The Reichsbank reduced its discount rate to-day from 6 to 5½ per cent. Directors of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank made no change in the 4 percent rate.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent to-day, but again dropped to 3½. The time money and bankers' Acceptance markets were quiet, with the undertone easy.

NORANDA HIGHLIGHTS

Based on to'days- prices for copper, Noranda has ore reserves valued at $134,808,000. The 3,426,000 tons of direct smelter ore, with 150 pounds of copper to the ton at 18 cents per pound works out at $30.29 per ton, or a total of $102,780,000, while the 3,000,000 tons of concentrating ore, 40 pounds of copper to the ton, averages $10.20 per ton, or a total of $30,600,000. Then there are 238,000 tons of siliceuous ore containing 20 pounds of copper per ton an and average value of $6.03 per ton, or $1,428,000. In the the above valuations, official estimates of gold values are included, namely $3.29 per ton in direct smelter ore; $3.00 per ton in concentrating ore and $2.45 per ton in siliceous ore.

The ratio of profits to gross income after operating, administration and general expenses were subtracted, was high, at 60%.

The question is raised as to whether profits in 1929 per share should be shown at $2.73, before depreciation and bond interest and redemption premium and development and mining costs prior to production, of $1.91 after these charges. While doubtless some depreciation allowance should be made, it is extraordinary that within two years after production commenced the company should have written off 31% of the cost of buildings, plant, equipment, etc., or a total of $2,337,408. Depreciation allowance last year was $1,273,710, or 21% of operating net. At that rate the entire buildings, plant and equipment completed or in process would be wiped out in less than 6 years. Furthermore, $204,220 interest on bonds and redemption charged off are non-recurring, while the $428,221 development and mining of prior periods charged off is non-recurring, although undistributed mining expenditures of $459,966 remain to be written off.

Let it be assumed that 50% of the ore reserves will go down into net profits, after all charges. This would represent $117,000,000. Add to this $5,000,000 net working capital, and a real liquid equity appears behind the 2,239,772 shares of $122,000,000, equal to $55 per share.

St. Lawrence Metals, Ltd., has issued a progress report. This company's property comprises some 357 acres in Mountaban Township, Que. A Radiore survey of the claims was carried out recently, indicating a mineralized zone extending the length of the property, a total of approximately 2,200 feet. An extensive diamond drilling program has been completed with results stated to be encouraging. A shaft has been put down to a depth of 50 feet and a winze continued to a depth of 110 feet. Cross-cutting and drifting at the 110-foot level comprises a total of 312 feet. The ore on the 110-foot level shows a width of about 22 feet. The report states that this ore is high grade. The company intends to carry out active development.

A meeting of Melnor Mines' shareholders will be called for the near future. The meeting will be held in Ottawa, and it is understood plans for the complete re-organization of the company will be discussed.

According to an announcement from Winnipeg work on the Shatford Basin Mines' property at Shatford Lake will be resumed at once. The property is located between the Jack Nutt Mines and Manitoba Tin Mines.

Supplies and equipment have been sent from Fort William to the Sapawe Lake claims of the Central Canada Mines and a program of underground work will be instituted at once. The work will be centred on the old Walsh property where a shaft was put down to 40 feet some years ago, and this working will be continued to a depth of 150 feet, with lateral work to be carried out at that horizon.

The annual report of the Alaska Juneau Gold Mining Company for the year ended December 31st, 1929, shows a substantial increase in earnings. Profits amounted to $1,025,208 after depreciation, interest, etc., but before depletion. This compares with a profit of $781,106, after corresponding deductions, in 1928.

Wood, Gundy Company Reviews Canadian Newsprint Industry in Recent Booklet.

TORONTO, March 8. (Special to Examiner).—Wood, Gundy and Company have published an interesting booklet reviewing the history of the Canadian newsprint industry generally as well as the growth and development of Canada Power and Paper Corporation.

The relationship is clearly shown between Canada Power and its various constituent companies, including St. Maurice Valley Corp., Belgo Canadian Paper Co., Laurentide Co., Wayagamack Pulp and Paper Co., Port Alfred Pulp and Paper Corporation and the Anticosti Corporation, the pamphlet also stresses the strategic location of the corporation's properties, both mills and timber.

Merger Rumors.

At no time during the recent dull market were rumors of pending mergers more numerous than they are to-day and in all quarters gossip is to be heard of negotiations for the consolidation of many Canadian companies. That the gossip is close to the truth in some cases is admitted semi officially and the streets is looking for official development before long. For weeks talk had been heard of the amalgamation of certain breweries and the adjournment of the annual meeting of Carlings to permit of negotiations for an option is taken as confirmation of this. Two or three mergers in the newsprint industry are mooted and it is said negotiations by one group have reached a settlement and an announcement only waits the final signatures to the deal. Now comes word from Montreal that two textile companies are about to join forces and the public is almost prepared for anything that might happen along these lines.

Attention is drawn by National City Company to the foreign bond market as one offering attractive possibilities for the investor. Reviewing the situation at the beginning of the decade. And now, the National City Company points out that at the end of the war, European countries were exhausted of capital and the necessity for rehabilitation and building up their productive capacity forced them to seek money in New York. American Investors had no confidence in European countries and could be tempted to purchase foreign loans only at ransom prices. Great Britain had to borrow on a 5½ per c3nt to 6¼ per cent basis, France had to pay from 7½ per cent to 9 per cent, Belgium the same, Austria about 7½ per cent, Czecko-Slovakia around 8½ per cent Netherland 6½ per cent, Georgian and Italy, when their currency was stabilized, 7½ per cent to 8 per cent.

South American countries paid prices ranging from 6 per cent to 8 per cent. To-day these conditions have changed. European prospects have improved, governments are more secure and there has been a gradual restoration of European credit. Europeans themselves are purchasing their own bonds for investment: It is estimated that over $500,000,000 European bonds were purchased in New York and removedfrom that market by Europeans in the past two months.

B. A. Stock Split.

No definite date has been set for the distribution of the new certificates of British American Oil, as a result of the proposed two for one split in the ordinary stock, but officials expect that the new script will be ready to forward to stockholders about May 1st. The necessary detail work is being carried out and just as soon as officials know the exact date the shareholders will be advised of the procedure to be followed in exchanging the present certificates for the new.

LEAD STOCK SIDELIGHTS.

The market on Toronto exchange to-day gave every indication that the week would close quietly, with prices holding pretty well around present levels, gains made in individual stocks this week have been largely held and although the general list is dull the undertone is strong and bespeaks a good technical position. This morning both Brazilian and Nickel, while less active, were firmly entrenched at 40 or better. There were no new developments to arouse enthusiasm and most stocks were at a standstill.

While only one separator has been attached to Lowery Petroleum No. 1, and no real production test has been possible, unofficial estimates have placed possible production between 600 and 800 barrels daily. A second separator will likely be attached within two or three days.

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES JOINTLY OBSERVE WORLD DAY OF PRAYER

Services in Campbellford United Church Held Under Leadership of Mrs. W. H. Achton.

GOOD PROGRAM.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 8 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — All women's organizations of the Protestant Church joined together in the "World's Day of Prayer" held in St. John's United Church yesterday afternoon.

The service was under the leadership of Mrs. W. H. Ashton, and those assisting were: Mrs. R. C. Tate, Mrs. A. Haig, Mrs. Ranshe, Mrs. D. Weston, Mrs. Clark Wallace, Mrs. J. Boyle, Mrs. J. Sluggett, Mrs. J. Battesby and Mrs. J. Walkinshaw.

A paper was read by Mrs. W. J. Mark on the subject, "He must be lifted up," in which she drew attention to the season of Pentecost being the season to uplift. She drew a word picture of the first Pentecost, when the Holy Ghost came into the hearts and lives of the first leaders of the Church, and urged upon all to realize that the same spiritual uplift can come to the world in the same way. "Human nature does not change," said the speaker; "it is the same now as it was 1900 years ago. It is the Holy Spirit that changes us if we allow Him to enter our hearts and lives."

Mrs. Mark, answering her question as to "How Christ was to be lifted up," said there was only one way, "by absolute surrender, and this can only be done by prayerful humility and strict obedience to the Father's will."

Those taking part in the musical part of the service were Mrs. H. Richardson, Mrs. H. James and Mrs. F. J. Smith and Albert Hazel, organist.

Day of Prayer, but also a Day of Prayer observed by world Christians. And so the whole round world is indeed becoming 'bound by gold chains about the feet of God'."

This brief explanation of the origin, growth and blessing of the day was given by Mrs. Jones, after the soft music, silent meditation and prayer with which the program, "That Jesus May Be Lifted Up," opened, the president also adding the information that this year's material for the Day of Prayer had been prepared by an Oriental Christian, Miss Helen Kim of Korea, Miss Kim is now Dean of Women, Ehwa Haktang College, Soeul, Korea, and came to this school when a very little girl; she helped to put herself through college, with the aid of a scholarship, taking her post-graduate course at the Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio. The program, as everyone agreed after its study and the experience of Friday's meeting, was the best by far that has ever been presented since the Day of Prayer was inaugurated.

After the "Call to Prayer" by the leader, and the hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," Mrs. E. Whyte, vice-president of the Auxiliary of St. Thomas' Church, took charge of the responsive readings of the opening section; Mrs. Seton, president of the Auxiliary of Grace Presbyterian Church, was in charge of the next section, "Jesus Answers Every Need"; which closed with the hymn, "Art Thou Weary?"

Mrs. (Dr.) Rae, vice-president of the Auxiliary of St. Andrew's United Church, conducted the section, "Let Us Confess," which included periods of silent prayer and the prayer hymn (unaccompanied) "My Faith Looks Up to Thee." Following this, came the part, "Let Us Give Thanks," with Mrs. Seton, Mrs. S. E. Eakins, Mrs. (Rev.) J. Riddell, and Mrs. R. J. McKnight leading in prayer.

After the responses by the congregation as Mrs. Jones led in "Let Us Pray," prayers for the King and Empire, for revival, for the young men and women of Canada, and other work of the Kingdom, followed, those taking part being: Miss Burnham, Mrs. H. E. Smith, Mrs. V. C. Lambert, and Mrs. (Dr.) Rae.

The final section, "He Must Be Lifted Higher," made a fitting climax to a deeply spiritual program, members of the Anglican Auxiliary taking part, including Mrs. H. R. Scott, Miss Rose Macnamara, and Mrs. McKee Bingham.

The "Dedication," quoted from David Livingstone's historic words, was in unison, followed by the Lord's Prayer, and the hymn, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," after which all joined in the Benediction.

Next year it will be the turn of Grace Presbyterian Church to hold the Day of Prayer under the auspices of its Woman's Auxiliary, and the following year it will again be the turn of St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

KEEP THEM HAPPY BY KEEPING THEM WELL

It is natural for children to be happy, active and full of fun. When they are fretful, fussy and disinclined to play you may be sure something is wrong. Almost invariably that something lies in the digestive tract.

It is to meet the need for an absolutely safe corrective of childhood ailments that Baby's Own Tablets have been designed. They gently regulate the stomach and bowels and thus drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and allay teething pains. Concerning them Mrs. W. E. Forsyth, Dover, N. B., writes: — "I would not be without Baby's Own Tablets as I know of nothing to equal them for fretful, fussy babies who are troubled with colds or sour stomach."

WOMEN HOLD DAY OF PRAYER

For Past Ten Years Women Have Been Uniting in World Day of Prayer.

Big Attendance at Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, March 8. —(Examiner Correspondence.)— The World Day of Prayer was fittingly observed by a joint service of the three local Woman's Missionary Auxiliaries, the well-attended gathering being held in Saint Andrew's United church yesterday, the president of the 'Hostess' Auxiliary, Mrs (Rev.) W. W. Jones, presiding.

Ten years ago the World Day of Prayer was instituted in Canada, and two years later the women of the United States by their own special request joined in this unity of fellowship, thus making it not only interdenominational, but also international in its scope. The movement grew, however, and in 1929 twenty-nine nations, the world around, observed this great day of intercession, and thus it became "not only a World

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 8—Buyers beat a late session retreat from the wheat market yesterday and allowed prices to slump about a cent after gains ranging up to 1½ cents had been scored. Values were 7-8c to 1c lower than Thursday's finish at the close.

Cash wheat offerings were light, though there was a fair demand for some grades. Spreads were unchanged from previous closing differences. Trade in coarse grains was dull, all commodities holding fractional gains.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Man., March 8. (Canadian Press).—Buyers beat a late-session retreat from the wheat market yesterday and allowed prices to slump about a cent, after gains ranging up to 1½ had been scored. Values were ¾c to 1c lower than yesterday's finish at the close.

Early upswings were the result of Chicago's strength, which followed a statement by the United States Farm Board that its buyers would remain in the market. Pit trade continued on a light scale.

Only a small quantity of high grade Canadian wheat was sold for export, according to seaboard reports, and the foreign outlook did not improve.

Cash wheat offerings were light, though there was a fair demand for some grades. Spreads were unchanged from previous closing differences. Trade in coarse grains was dull, all commodities holding fractional gains.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, March 8.— The low market at Chicago and the sudden opening of Ontario roads, which enabled the farmers to ship in supplies certainly sent the egg prices on the local market shooting downward during the past week. The quotation to country shippers yesterday, for ungraded eggs, delivered, cases returned, was just 10 to 12 cents less than the quotation on the same day last year. American eggs have been pouring into Toronto all week and receipts of Ontario eggs have been extremely heavy. Dealers were quoting country shippers, yesterday, the same prices as Thursday, which were for extras, 30c to 31c; firsts, 28c and for seconds, 24c. The prices to retailers dropped 2c, making them 37c for extras in cartons; 35c for extras loose; 33c for firsts loose, and 33c for seconds loose.

Canadian Egg Markets

The past week on all Canadian egg markets has been featured by some very drastic price declines. Production at most points has shown a substantial increase during the week, but the drop in values may be traced largely to the further reductions which have taken place on United States markets. During the week importations of eggs from the United States still continue heavy. Supplies were being brought in at practically every Province except British Columbia.

The Prairie Provinces, more particularly Alberta, are now showing a fairly substantial surplus over local requirements. One car of eggs was shipped East from Edmonton during the week, and should the present rate of production continue it is probable that Calgary will have a surplus for shipment during the present week. There was one car of United States eggs brought into Calgary last week, but it does not appear probable that any more will be needed at that point.

Butter and Cream

The butter market was draggy all week, and yesterday weakened slightly. Brokers were quoting 34c to 34¼c for No. 1 creamery, 33½c to 33¾c for 38 scoring No. 2, and 33c to 33¼c for 37 scoring No. 2. There were reports that small lots of No. 1 had sold slightly higher than the 33¼c price. The demand has been very poor on the local market, though at the first of the week there was some interest apparent in finest New Zealand, a cargo of which landed at Halifax recently. But the Halifax price of 33¾c, duty paid, was too heavy for Toronto brokers, and there was no word of any sales.

Cheese

The cheese market has shown exceptional firmness all week, and there was a fair demand with unchanged prices.

Potatoes

The potato market showed more strength late in the week, and Ontario potatoes were quoted by wholesalers at $1.65 in bags, and $1.55 in bulk.

GREENHOUSE IS PLEASING SIGHT

Campbellford Grower Preparing For Spring Flower Season.

GALAXY OF BLOOMS.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 8 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Although the outside world may be drear, with the disappearance of snow and the exposing of the winter ash heaps, although the March winds may sting and the sky be overcast, yet to wander into the greenhouse of C. W. Palliser is to forget the dreariness and cold of the outer world. Campbellford is fortunate in having such a beauty spot in its midst.

At this season of the year, when all the spring flowers are being nursed in a torrid atmosphere for the Easter season, it is a sight that appeals to the most indifferent of nature lovers. Cyclamen of varied shades in full bloom vie in loveliness to the large variety of carnations, pink, red and white. Row upon row of geraniums, ready for outdoor planting, can be seen, banked with the bloom of the antirrhinum. And in all their stately splendor, the lily, both Calla and Easter, rear their heads in regal pride. Smilax and begonia mingle with ferns of all variety, which even includes a large cactus, transplanted from an estate in England.

Mr. Palliser is an up-to-date man, and to add to the success of the greenhouse, has recently installed an automatic Kolestric stoker. This enables an even temperature to be kept day and night, and is fitted with an automatic control.

TO REPRESENT IMPERIAL OIL

OVER 40 APPLICANTS.

HASTINGS, March 8 (Examiner Correspondence).—Arthur Blade of The Imperial Oil Co., was in town this week to appoint a man for their local station to succeed C. Hess, who has resigned to open up a garage in Havelock. When interviewed by The Examiner, Mr. Blade said that he had over forty applications for the position, the most he ever had for any one position. After carefully going over the applications, Mr. Blade gave the position to Harold Stewart of this town. Mr. Stewart has been a resident of Hastings for the past three years, where he has been employed by the Canadian National Railways on the section for the past seven years. Mr. Stewart was married last June to Miss Stella Dainard formerly of the Bell Telephone staff.

CHOIR MEMBERS GUESTS OF SESSION AT ANNUAL BANQUET

Delightful Program Presented at Social Gathering Held in St. Andrew's Church.

IN CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 8 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — The choir of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church were guests last night at a banquet given in their honor by the Moderator and Session. About eighty were entertained, Rev. Dr. W. J. Mark presiding.

After a delightful spread served by the ladies of the church, Dr. Mark commenced the program with a few brief remarks.

He explained the reason of the gathering an an act on the part of the Session to formally acknowledge the splendid work performed by the choir. He pointed out that it was one of the greatest spheres of service in the church and that St. Andrew's choir were laboring in that sphere gallantly.

Good Program.

A vocal solo by Mrs. F. DeCarroll brought a hearty response from the audience, to which she graciously responded.

The toast to the King was next proposed by W. R. Battisby. In his remarks Mr. Battisby drew attention to the greatness of the British Empire and the popularity of its head, our King. "It is a privilege," he said, "to live under the flag of the greatest Empire in the world." This toast was responded to by the singing of the National Anthem.

The choir was next toasted by Allan Watson, who extended the gratitude of the Session to them for the time and labor they expend on their work.

W. A. Newcort, organist and choirmaster replied on behalf of the choir. He spoke of the service that can be rendered to the church by the choir and urged upon all choir members to realize that whether great or small their part, they were rendering a service that the angels of Heaven could not render. He also gave a brief outline of the history of music and what it owes to the church and brought out the fact that music was associated with every important event in human hustory.

E. H. Lewis, a guest of the session, contributed a vocal solo which was encored. Mrs. E. H. Lewis accompanied.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by Robert Innis who voiced a vote of appreciation for the efforts they made on behalf of the church. William Cock, replying, said that he had a great appreciation and respect for the ladies and the willingness they showed at all times to help in every way.

Master Kenneth Callinson gave two splendid violin numbers, "The Broken Melody" by Auguste Van Biene and "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni. Mr. Newcort accompanied.

The toast to the Church was given by Charles McKelvie, who drew attention to the fine organization of St. Andrew's and the fact that they were free of all debts. In reply, J. A. Anderson stressed the solidity of the Presbyterian Church. He spoke of the building of the Church on the blood of its martyrs, of the staunchness of the old Covenanters who put their faith before everything else, and stated that in his opinion the Presbyterian Church had nothing that could be improved upon.

At the request of the chairman, E. H. Lewis was called upon, and in a few words thanked all for the hospitality shown his wife and himself.

A feature of the evening was a presentation made by F. Collinson, president of the choir, to Mr. and Mrs. G. Bertrand, on the occasion of their marriage.

Mrs. Bertrand, formerly Miss Brady, who has been a faithful member of St. Andrew's choir for some years, replied in a few well chosen words.

pool basis whereby the Spring surplus would be conserved in cold storage to supply the market during the fall and winter when production is diminished. The pool idea gives the farmer a chance to participate in the profits of the business. Two payments are made on the pool, one on receipt of eggs and the other when they are all sold.

"For six years the returns from the pool have been well worth while to farmers," Mr. Longchallon said. "Each year there was an appreciable excess over the prevailing market price. The one exception was in 1928, and that year we did not make anything extra, but we didn't lose anything."

Last Year's Prices.

"Last year, for example, we paid 20c a dozen for extras and firsts as our advance payment; and the final payment was 12c on extras, and 9c on firsts. The totals were 32c and 29c respectively for extras and firsts and the prevailing market quotations when the eggs were accepted were 28c for extras and 25c to 26c for firsts, or about four cents a dozen more by the pool plan. All the money goes back to the producer except the operating expenses, and one cent per dozen is paid to the Co-operative company for managing the pool.

"We want to impress upon you that the Co-operative company is operating these stations solely because we believe they are in the best interests of the farmers. Their main purpose is to obtain a fair market price for your products throughout the entire year."

Mr. Longchallon concluded with an appeal to the farmers for loyal support if they decided to go ahead with the station. In other places, jobbers and retailers had shot up the price from their old level of three or four cents below the value of the eggs to several cents above their market price. This was simply an attempt to win the farmers from the co-operative selling idea.

The cost of operating the grading station would be about five or six cents a dozen on the eggs handled. This covered candling, crating, shipping and all the incidental expenses. In addition there was one cent a dozen to the co-operative company for management of the service.

One of the men in the audience told of a recent experience in Peterborough. He was offering a quantity of eggs for sale. The price quoted to him was from 32 to 35c a dozen, and while the crate was being emptied a customer asked the retail price which was quoted at 41 to 43c.

"That was a nice profit for the dealer, right there," this producer remarked.

J. B. Nelson said he believed there was a sufficient supply of eggs in the district, but he mentioned the fact that many farmers in Otonabee sold their produce direct to consumers in Peterborough. The effect of this factor in the Keene area should be considered, he said.

Mr. Eason remarked that most of the farmers in the vicinity of Keene, and for possibly three miles west, did not regularly sell in Peterborough.

A vote of thanks to the visiting speakers was moved by Sam Armstrong and seconded by Sam Comrie.

WHALERS UNABLE TO LOCATE ROCK

SOUNDINGS TAKEN.

OSLO, Norway, March 8. — (C.P.) —The whaling and exploring ship "Norwegia," commanded by Captain Hjalmar Riiser Larsen has left the Antarctic for Cape Town.

The "Norvegia" unsuccessfully sought a rock reported to have been sighted by Captain Henriksen of the Steamer Truls in the region of 59.9 south and 23.39 east. Captain Riiser-Larsen was of the opinion that the reported cliff must have been one of many overturned ice mountains which being covered with black earth are easily mistaken for rocks.

The "Norvegia" when only thirty miles from the position indicated by Captain Henriksen, found the depth 4,500 metres, giving no indication of land.

Last December Captain Riiser-Larsen reported that he and his fellow airman, Lieutenant Luetzow Holm had discovered new land between Enderby Land and Coates' Land. The two airmen left the "Norvegia" in their plane and alighted on the open ice near the land. From theer they went ashore and raised the Norwegian flag, taking possession of it in the name of their country.

FORGERY BRINGS TROUBLE

MONTREAL, Que., March 8. — Found guilty by Chief Judge Perrault in the Arraignment Court of obtaining $25 by means of forged money orders, John Wodsworth, who claims he is a native of Kingston, N.Y., will be sentenced here on March 11.

YOUTHFUL NOTE MARKS ANNUAL ARTISTS' SHOW

Exhibition Contains 268 Works, Chosen From the 700 Submitted.

OPENS TO-NIGHT.

Veterans Show Splendid Spirit of Timeliness—Adventurous Ideas.

TORONTO, Ont., March 8 (Written for the Canadian Press by Jehanne Bietry Salinger). — A large gathering of people is expected to make the preview of the fifty-eighth annual exhibition of the Ontario Society of Artists at the Toronto Art Gallery tonight. There are 268 works in this show. Seven hundred were submitted, out of which 200 were by non-members. The general note of this exhibition is one of broadmindedness and boldness.

The pictures contributed by the younger artists, those who had never been or very little heard of until now, are full of imagination and in some cases contain a spirit of youthful challenge. Many of the paintings by older men and women, by some of the old timers of the society, fit in beautifully with those of the younger ones. There is on the part of the veterans of the O.S.A. a splendid spirit of timeliness. Instead of staying behind, many with a fine pattern in their pictures show what the advance guard is giving in its bold compositions and adventurous ideas.

Old-Fashioned Paintings.

From the old-fashioned painting of "Reading the Bible," by George A. Reid, there is indeed quite a long way to the old master-like modernism of "The Iceman," by the Hungarian, Miklos Hornyanszky, a painter who now resides in Toronto. Each of these two canvases has its own public, to be sure.

In figure composition one of the finest pictures of the entire show is "Silence," by Angele Watson, who is a Belgian-born painter. This work is the acme of spiritual refinement. Its technique and color scheme are as subtle as its immaterial contents.

A family group by Robert Ross is a big work which seen not long after the compositions of Leon Kroll, the American painter, will give to the layman a work not as pleasing but so much deeper all the way around. Also in the figure work, "Under the Chestnut Tree," by Yvonne MacKague; "The Mirror," by L. A. C. Ponton; a nude study by Richard Taylor, and "John Willy," a fisher boy of Cape Breton Island, in a scene of fishing boats are fine contributions.

Local color is supplied by the two pictures, "Boat Houses in Ottawa," and "Monday Morning in March," by George Pepper of Ottawa, by the two landscapes by K. Morris of Montreal, done as though she were painting with a house-painter's brush so broad and thick are the strokes, but none the less beautiful for it. "South Porcupine," with its greenish yellow sky, its miners roaming about town, its low-roofed row of houses is the outstanding little picture with a local flavor to it. It is by Lorne K. Smith of Toronto.

Fine Canadian Works

Nora Collyer and K. Daly have fine little paintings that are truly Canadian in this show. The two most complete and beautiful landscapes come from the brushes of A. J. Casson and R. K. Couttice. The latter is a very young woman who has not been much talked about until now, although she had several momentous pictures in the group of small paintings of the Canadian National Exhibition. Arthur Limser contributes one of his powerful decorative combinations of trees, water and rocks. Fred Brigden, the president of the society, has a very cheerful picture of islands in a frame of azure blue water. The pattern is highly decorative and the treatment of the islands and the foreground solid and mellow, all at once. Fred Haines has a very pleasing palette and the fall colors that range from the rich gold to the red play happily in his picture of a bridge across a river.

Beautiful water colors are contributed by Francis Taylor of Winnipeg; Rowley Murphy of Toronto, Estelle Kerr and especially J. de N. Kennedy of the same city. Paul Caron of Montreal is also well represented in this medium. A very splendid tempera by Paul Alfred of Ottawa, is another good addition to the show.

Sculpture

In the sculpture section one of the outstanding works is "Walkirie," by Florence Wyle. Elizabeth Wood, who seems to be coming to the fore, has also interesting work in this section. E. Hahn and F. Loring are among the other exhibitors.

Other artists in various classes who have fine work in this annual are at random: A. Armstrong, Emily Carr, E. Crace Coombs, Kenneth Forbes, John Alfsen, David Milne, J. W. McLaren who contributes amusing cartoons in linoleum cutting, and C. W. Jefferys who gives his share in historical note with his remarkable pen and ink drawings; Bertram Brooker shines with a composition which classes him as a first class o'Keefe; Charles Comfort creates a sensation with a bold and aggressive figure work called "The Dreamer." Southern California academism steps in with the mountain scene of John Cotton, a Canadian who has lived on the southern shores of the Pacific Coast in the States for a number of years. "Music" a panel by Lowrie Warrener, is the most splendid piece of pure decoration of the entire show.

Scenes Of K.K.K. Actions In Oakville

Naval Honors Held Or Burial Refused

Liverpool, England, March 8. —(C.P.)—The British Admiralty is having other worries than the naval conference. Because the Admiralty won't accord honors at the funeral of Thomas Sly, aged 51, who had 30 years naval service, his widow refuses to permit him to be buried.

Sly died 14 days ago and when the public health authorities called the widow slammed the door in their faces.

Winegar was in front of the store when the two men ran out and leaped in a waiting automobile. The officer commandeered a car and gave chase. In front of the St. Aubin street address he ordered the car stopped and he leaped out and started shooting.

Badminton Finals Open This Afternoon

OTTAWA, Ont., March 8. (C.P.) Canada's badminton champions for 1930 will be enthroned here this afternoon. Play in the finals of the National Badminton Association's annual tourney gets under way at 2 o'clock and finds three of last year's five division titleholders defending their laurels.

The racquet wielders put the semi-final round behind them last night after many thrilling matches and not a few upsets. Two players stood out for their courageous and successful bids to enter the finals. Norma Hall, 14-year-old Ottawa girl who is little more than a tyro at the "bird" game although a youthful veteran of the tennis court, is in their to fight for the ladies' singles crown. In the line for the men's title stands Noel Radford, Vancouver star who battled his way through the semi-finals despite torn ligaments in one of his hips.

LIBERAL, LABOR UNEMPLOYMENT TRUCE IS ENDED

Gov't Defeat Looms Inside Week if Opposition Parties Line Up.

POLICY CONDEMNED.

Pressure on Laborites Starts Monday With Lloyd George's Speech.

LONDON, March 8.—The truce between the Labor Government and the Liberal party on the question of unemployment is at an end.

The Liberals will join the Conservatives in condemning the Government's method of dealing with unemployment and trade depression. And the Liberals have the balance of power in the House of Commons. If they swing into line as a solid body the defeat of the Government seems likely within a week.

The Conservatives already have a condemnatory motion on the order paper which will call for a debate on the whole matter. To-day a statement was issued from Liberal headquarters saying that from Monday on the Liberals would maintain constant pressure on the Government with regard to its unemployment policy.

The Liberals believe their challenge may lead to a crisis within the Labor party itself. In any event Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George will make a challenging speech on Monday, when the Liberals will raise the question of the Government's failure to remedy unemployment.

PETERBOROUGH'S HEALTH ASSOCIATION

"QUIETLY, STEADILY, BUT VERY EFFECTIVELY THE GOOD WORK GOES ON."

These are the words of the retiring President of the Peterborough Health Association in referring to its work for the past year. Quietly, so quietly, that but few people outside of the Association really know of it, this work goes on. Through the slush and mud, through driving sleet and blinding snow the car of the Association Nurse goes steadily on, day after day, carrying cheer and comfort into the homes of the city's less fortunate, but to whom life is still dear, and health most valuable.

To these people health is more important than to those more fortunately situated, because their ability to earn a living depends upon their health. It is the one great moment of their lives when they are once more able to be on their feet and pronounced fit to go back to work again. During the year just brought to a close the hard working nurse made over sixteen hundred visits; in addition to the visits, milk and eggs, running into thousands of quarts and hundreds of dozens were provided, for families not able to obtain them for themselves.

In cases where more than expert nursing was required several doctors gave freely of their time and professional skill that health might be promoted, and these people who are Peterborough citizens, returned to their daily tasks. The Children's Camp at Jackson's Park, though financed by Kiwanis Club was under the supervision of the following ladies of the Health Association: Mrs. Aylmer, Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. G. S. Cameron, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. A. W. Turner, Miss Archer, Mrs. H. P. McNulty, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. H. A. Morrow, who were each in charge for a week and who gladly accepted the responsibility that the work might go on. Aside from the expenses at Jackson's Park it costs about $3,000.00 a year, money well expended, to carry on this work so sadly needed and so much apreciated.

Very effectually indeed does the Peterborough Health Association function. In numerous homes throughout the city to which its services are called, behind it are some of Peterborough's most valued citizens, both men and women, who are freely giving of their time, efforts and money that this work may go quietly, steadily and effectually on.

ARTICLES OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER

PRAIRIES REAP THEIR SMALLEST CROP OF OATS IN TWENTY YEARS YET PRICES CONTINUE VERY LOW

Indirect Result of Shortage Was Jump in Oatmeal Imports in November.

Consumed Mainly On Farms.

Price Fluctuations Mean Less Than Changes in Those in Other Farm Products.

During the past twenty years Canadian farmers have not harvested as small a crop of oats as that of last fall, but, spite of the short crop, the price of oats has been comparatively low throughout the winter. The oat crop of 1929 amounted to 283 million bushels; that of 1928 to 452 million bushels. The closing price in Winnipeg on February 24, 1930, was 59¼ cents a bushel as compared with an average price of 73 1-8 cents in February, 1929. Since oats is a commodity which is largely consumed on the farm on which it is grown, fluctuations in the price of oats have less meaning than changes in the price of other farm products. The present low price of oats, however, is a reflection of the situation in the markets for other grains and does not seem to make due allowance for the acute shortage which will be felt in Canada in the spring. Since such a large proportion of the normal Canadian oat crop is for farm consumption, it is in the early spring, before horses can be turned out to graze, that the supply of oats becomes a matter of outstanding importance. A study of the consumption of the 452 million bushel crop of 1928 will lead to an understanding of the situation with which the farmer is now confronted.

28 Million Bushel Carryover

On July 31, 1928, there was a carryover from the previous crop of 28 million bushels, and this, together with the crop about to be harvested, furnished a total supply amounting to 480 million bushels to be distributed during the crop year. By July 31, 1929, 334 million bushels had been used for feed; 33 million bushels for seed, and 18½ million bushels exported, either in the form of grain or milled products. While this statement does not include all the minor disappearance of oats, the essential fact is that out of a supply of 480 million bushels of oats, the farmer used 367 million bushels on the farm within a period of twelve months and there was a carryover of only 45 million bushels.

At the beginning of the present crop year, this carryover of 45 million bushels, together with a crop of 283 million bushels, furnished a total supply for the year of 328 million bushels as compared with the 480 million bushels available at the beginning of the previous year. The shortage in the supply of oats available in Canada is substantially in excess of 100 million bushels.

The dry condition of the pastures last autumn and the early date at which livestock became dependent upon harvested crops served to accentuate the severity of the feed shortage. A further element has been the decreased sales of Canadian flour abroad and the corresponding reduction in the supply of mill feeds available in Canada.

Large Barley Supply

The factors making for a shortage of oats have been slightly offset by the large supply of barley which resulted from the record 100 million bushel barley crop of last fall. As a feed, barley must be used with discrimination since its heating content is such that it cannot be completely substituted for oats, but must be mixed with other feeds. The second factor on this side of the equation is hard to measure. It is well known that when shortage develops, wastage decreases, supplies are conserved, bins are more carefully emptied and grain appears from unexpected sources. The extent to which these unmeasured savings will replace the 100 million bushel shortage is a matter of conjecture. It is also difficult to determine the maximum amount of oats which might be imported from the United States. The oat crop of the United States in 1928 amounted to 1,439 million bushels — this was an average crop. The crop of 1929 amounted to 1,239 million bushels. While there are no statistics to indicate the relative amount of oats in farmer's hands in the United States at the present time as compared with the amount on hand last year, or in comparison with prospective requirements, yet it is probable that any marked advance in prices in Canada would be likely to draw more oats from the United States than might be indicated by the present small volume of visible supplies in that country.

As yet relative prices in Canada and the United States do not appear to have fully discounted the prospective shortage. In both Chicago and Winnipeg the average price in January was much lower than the average price in January, 1929 but, while average prices in the two markets were practically on a par in 1929, at present prices in Canada are almost at a level which would permit importation of oats over ten cents a bushel tariff barrier. Information from reliable sources suggests that the price of oats in Saskatchewan is now higher than in Montreal. If shortage becomes more acute, oats originally from Saskatchewan that were shipped to Montreal last fall may be returned to that province at advanced prices.

Oatmeal Imports Up

An indirect result of the oats shortage in Canada was an increase in the imports of oatmeal and rolled oats in October and November. In those two months the prices of oats in Canada were substantially above those in the United States, and imports of oat products rose from 137,000 lbs. in September to 1,307,000 lbs. and 1,415,000 lbs. in October and November During the winter there was less of a differential in Canadian and American prices than in the fall, and recent months have witnessed some falling off in the volume of these imports.

POULTRY FLOCKS NEED MOLASSES

SPLENDID FOR CHICKS.

Probably few poultrymen appreciate the value of molasses in a poultry ration. It is extremely rich in Vitamin B, rich in minerals, ranks high in digestibility, and is somewhat laxative in action.

According to one of the College Experiment Stations, molasses is richer in Vitamin B than some yeasts. Chicks that do not get an adequate supply of Vitamin B are apt to be retarded in growth.

Molasses is one of the few ingredients which is not deficient in potash. Chemical analysis shows molasses to contain nearly ten times as much potash as some of the cereal grains. Alfalfa is the only other feed ingredient particularly rich in potash and molasses has twice the amount of potash found in alfalfa. The chick needs potash to live and grow, while the hen needs potash for the egg. An egg is fairly rich in potash.

The laxative properties of molasses are even more valuable than the potash and the Vitamin B it contains. Almost every poultryman finds it necessary to give the birds Epsom salts once a month or thereabouts to overcome constipation as a result of heavy grain feeding. Salts tend to break down the calcium of the body which is quite objectionable. Molasses keeps the baby chick's digestive system open, and in this way tends to offset the effects of high temperature, and does not give disease such as coccidiosis a chance to gain a foothold as easily. This alone should mean a lot to every poultry raiser.

Rabbit Breeding Is Studied in College

EAST LANSING, Mich., March 8. (U.P.)—Rabbits, long associated with Easter eggs and tortoise races, today have taken their place in economic life to such an extent that a special school for rabbit breeders will be held at the Michigan State College of Agriculture here, March 10 to 14.

Laymen and professors will conduct classes in which feeding methods, disease control, marketing and judging will be discussed.

Unbeaten Broad Jumper

Nimble Dick has won among the best of his breed that could be found in Canada. Witness—First, in the broad jump at Eglinton horse show, in 1923-24-25-26, with a record of 27 feet, which has never been beaten.

Further honors include the winning of the "Ten" jump at the C. N. E. 1924-25-26. This course is made up of 10 of the stiffest leaps anywhere in Canada and is conceded to have eliminated more ambitious jumping talent than any series of hazards known this side of the Atlantic.

In 1927 Nimble Dick won the "Owners Up" ribbon at Hamilton, added to which he carried away the first prize in the "Touch-and-Out" stakes at the same place for 1927, 1928 and 1929. And as if that was not enough for this agile and dependable steed, he won the sweepstakes that same year there and again in 1929.

At home, in Toronto, the husky black took sweepstakes at the C. N. E. for 1928, the reserve champion hunters in 1929 and many lesser events against fields of the finest horseflesh that has ever been produced in this Dominion.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, March 8.—Local egg prices, which have been considerably reduced of late, dropped still further yesterday, a decrease of 1c being posted by several wholesale houses. Low-priced American eggs have been forcing the local market down for some days, and heavy arrivals of the United States product are reported daily. Price to retailers range from 41c to 43c for fresh specials, down to 33c to 34c for fresh seconds.

The trend of the butter market was also lower, quotations being reduced to a range of from 34¼c to 34½c yesterday. Some 2,500 cases of butter arrived from S.S. Surrey, which docked at Halifax with New Zealand butter last week. To the retail trade solids are quoted at 37c and 38c, and prints 38c and 39c.

The potato market was unchanged.

Winter wheat flour was reduced 10c in carlots yesterday, with a greater reduction in broken lots. Prices now range from $5.40 to $5.60 a barrel.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 8.—Invoking of emergency rules, which permit railroad track delivery of grain on March contracts had a decidedly unsettling influence yesterday on prices of all cereals. Largely as a result corn and rye values tumbled down to fresh bottom quotations for the present crop and forced wheat to lose earlier advances. Wheat and other grains as well had scored upturns owing a good deal to official notice that Farm Board auxiliaries will buy sufficient wheat to stop any considerable decline in the wheat market.

Wheat closed nervous at the same as Thursday's finish to 1 cent a bushel lower. Corn closed ⅝c to 2c down; oats varying from ⅛c decline to ¼c gain, and provisions showing 7 cents to 12 cents advance.

Almost every applicant was a young man, under thirty, hale, hearty, and eager to work. For some reason known only to the powers that be in Orillia, it has been found necessary to put a maximum of twenty-five cents to the amount the town will spend in providing these unfortunates with a meal.

"Whistler" Groundhog Heralds Warm Weather

SPRINGVILLE, March 7.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Weather conditions today might tend to discourage the overly anxious "Spring-hopefuls" but they may cheer up once more for Mr. Groundhog knows a "thing or two" and this morning just before the snow storm, he was seen for the first time this season by John Whitfield, North Monaghan.

Spring must be in the air or earth or somewhere, or he would not have ventured forth from his cosy quarters—perhaps the incessant cawing of the crows warned him that the days were getting warm on the hillsides. Anyway the groundhogs are at work for 1930.

Wheat Farmer Turns To Flax

BELIEVES MORE PROFITS MAY BE MADE IN CHANGE

T. D. Campbell, Largest Grower in World, Has 30,000 in Crop.

WHEAT AT BOTTOM.

Foresees Great Farming Corporations Inside Twenty-five Years.

Thomas D. Campbell, the world's largest wheat farmer, though expecting substantially higher wheat prices after the recent precipitous slump, plans in the Spring to turn from wheat to a commodity in which the anticipated profit margin will be larger.

At present, the Campbell Farming Corporation has 30,000 acres in Montana planted in Winter wheat, but when Spring comes Mr. Campbell plans to turn his vast industrial farm to flax raising. He believes he can raise one bushel of flax for every two bushels of wheat, and make better net profits. I caught hold of Mr. Campbell while he was in New York to confer with bankers, and welcomed the opportunity to get a farmer's view of the agricultural outlook, now that politicians, business men, amateur economists, statisticians and speculators have had their say.

Boom in Right

Incidentally, Mr. Campbell thinks that the acuteness of agricultural problems will hasten the development of big business in the realm of agriculture. He predicts a surprisingly large flow of investment capital into farming in the next five years, and in twenty-five years he foresees farming corporations which will resemble the United States Steel Corporation in stature. The small farmer, Mr. Campbell concedes, will persist, but chiefly in the role of small truck farmer, where he will not have to hire outside labor. The employer of labor, Mr. Campbell insists, will have to apply labor saving devices, engineering skill and scientific methods to eliminate waste and reduce operating cost. Mr. Campbell told me that there are already 5,000 industrial farms in the United States which are employing business methods in farming.

Mr. Campbell cited his own decision to switch to flax for the next crop as an indication of the operation of the new business philosophy in farming. By the way, he urges other farmers in the United States to consider the wisdom of following his leadership in rotating from wheat this Spring into flax, and perhaps soy beans. Mr. Campbell is enthusiastic about flax, because in the first place it commands a higher price—about $3.40 a bushel. Secondly, America is not able to raise enough to meet its requirements, whereas it produces a vast surplus of wheat.

Three Years To Catch Up

Mr. Campbell believes it will take from three to five years for American farmers to catch up with the home demand for flax, on which there is a tariff of 65 cents a bushel at this time. Mr. Campbell estimates the annual home consumption at 42,000,000 bushels, and the American production at not more than 28,000,000 bushels. He believes that any price over $2 a bushel for flax would be profitable.

Until recently Mr. Campbell had been skeptical of the outlook for wheat prices, but now is definitely of opinion that the bottom has been reached. In explaining why he thought economic grounds wheat prices should rise from recent depressed levels, Montana's industrial farmer remarked:

"On Tuesday, wheat was cheaper in relation to cost of production and land value than for any time in thirty years. One dollar wheat in Chicago means wheat at 63 cents a bushel in Montana, and an average price of 80 cents on the farm. Moreover, wheat prices lost some 60 cents a bushel in the last three months without any significant change in the statistical position of the commodity. There has been much talk of a great surplus, but history shows that such surpluses tend to disappear from the market when prices get low enough.

"Wheat at recent low prices has sold much below the cost of production on the average farm.

"Ultimately, I think that the Farm Board is going to contribute more to the solution of the farm problem than has been done for years. Mr. Legge has used excellent judgment in his operations during the last three months.

"The competition from Russia has been exaggerated. Russia won't be an important export factor, in my opinion, for five years. The exports from southern Russia have been offset somewhat by imports by northern Russia."

Mr. Campbell said that inasmuch as farmer had sold nearly 85 per cent of their wheat before the slump they were not much affected, except sentimentally. Much of the wheat which farmers are still holding, he pointed out, is seed wheat. The real purchasing power of farmers, Mr. Campbell pointed out, will depend on what prices prevail next July when Kansas wheat comes on the market and next September when the wheat of the Northwest will be marketed.

Despite Vast Increase in Tractors, Number of Horses Unchanged in West

In the past it has been feared that the introduction of power equipment on the farms and in city hauling would decrease the number of horses required, and that there would be a corresponding decline in the consumption of feeds. Some writers have gone as far as to suggest that the farmer was working against his own best interests by purchasing gasolene instead of using farm grown oats. The available facts do not substantiate this contention in either Canada or the United States.

There has been a rapid trend toward the mechanization of the farm in Western Canada. For the past decade sales of tractors have averaged more than 7,000 a year and they reached a record total of more than 17,000 in 1928. There is little doubt that this record was exceeded in 1929. In spite of the introduction of this number of tractors, the number of horses on the farm has remained practically stationary for some years. In the United States, where agriculture has been expanding less rapidly than in Canada and where the mechanization of the farm has been more highly developed, the last twenty years have witnessed an actual decline of nearly six million horses on the farms. In neither country is there a decided trend toward increased or decreased oat production.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND IS BUSY

BROOM MAKING GROWS.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Mar. 8.—Although Prince Edward Island is an agricultural province, over 80 per cent of her population being engaged in farming, and while wheat, oats and other cereals of excellent quality can be grown here, nevertheless flour and breakfast foods are imported to the estimated value of a million dollars and upwards. From time to time efforts have been made to develop new industries in Prince Edward Island but considerable difficulty has been found in getting the necessary local capital.

In various parts of the Island there are mills producing flour, oatmeal, feeds, and cereals, but as western wheat has to be used mills in other provinces which are closer to the raw material. It is evident that the industries which should succeed here are those closely allied to farming, fishing, and fox raising. The Island has long been known as a dairying province, being sometimes called the "Denmark of Canada."

"Spud Island"

The province well earns the title of "Spud Island" and the past year the revenue from potatoes both table stock and seed has probably been the largest in the history. Next year, the total crop based on the acreage is estimated at 6,300,000 bushels of which about 4,000,000 bushels will be exported.

This is, of course, raw material. Potato starch mills have been in operation for some years but only when potatoes are cheap. An attempt was made to establish potato flour mills some time ago but the proposition did not materialize.

Considerable advance has been made in canning of vegetables principally beans, also pork and beans, and corned beef and cabbage.

The canning of blueberries and other small fruits are carried on, but only a small scale.

The fisheries have for a long time been an important industry in this province, the principal item being lobsters, mainly canned, although the export of live lobsters has been growing. Canned clams and quahaugs are being put up by various firms.

A large plant has been successfully supplying the market with the cans for lobster packing and other purposes. Since its establishment fifteen years ago the plant has been doubled and further extensions are being made this year.

Tobacco has been successfully manufactured and a number of brands, especially chewing tobacco, are well known, but all from imported leaf as little progress has been made in the movement to grow native tobacco.

A new and successful industry is that of broom making which started here only a few years ago and has steadily increased its output.

Out of the fox industry has grown a kindred one, namely, the manufacture of fox biscuits. There are but few iron working plants on the Island in these marine engines, potato machinery, steam boilers and retorts for canning factories are manufactured.

Charged with committing a fraud of 5,000 francs in Switzerland, twenty-year-old Willie Lindemann was recently arrested in Sydney, N. S. W., just as he was landing.

MAJOR J. BLACK IN NEW POSITION

Becomes Agricultural Instructor in Ontario For Canadian Industries Ltd.

HAD WIDE EXPERIENCE.

Canadian Industries Limited announce, through B. Leslie Emslie, Technical Promotion Manager of the Fertilizer Division, the appointment of Major James Black, A. R. C. S., to the position of Agricultural Instructor for Ontario.

Major Black received his early technical training in the Albert Agricultural College, Glasnevin, and in the Royal College of Science, Dublin, of which he is an associate.

Following his graduation he became a lecturer on the staff of the Royal College of Science and gave courses of instruction at some of the Stations of the Irish Department of Agriculture.

On the outbreak of the world war Major Black joined the colors, but, because his services were considered more valuable in another field, he was recalled from France for service in the Purchasing Department, under the War Office. After demobilization he became Chief Organizer for the Agricultural Organization Society.

Subsequently he was appointed director of an undertaking which was concerned with the distribution of agricultural produce and the purchase of farmers' supplies, fertilizers, livestock foods, etc.

During all this time he continued to direct affairs on his own farm which is situated in a progressive district, where intensive methods are practised, and convenient to coastwise traffic which conveys produce direct to the English market.

Through diversified experience Major Black commands an intimate knowledge of both the practice and and science of farming and is thoroughly versed in the operation of the intensive system of grassland management which is bound to become a very important feature of future fertilizer work in Canada. He has also personal experience of the uses so popular in the British Isles, as a top-dressing for pastures, for sugar beets and other crops.

The appointment is a direct result of the decision—already announced in the press—of Canadian Industries Limited to construct a fertilizer plant at Hamilton, Ontario, and to participate in the fall trade of, 1930.

From this brief description of Major Black's experience, his qualifications for the position which he now occupies will be readily recognized.

For completing 50 years' service with the same employer, James Anderson, a farm manager at Midway, was recently awarded a gold medal by the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland.

PILOT SNAPPED AERIAL PICTURES

FOR NORTHERN MINER.

The special Industrial Edition of the Northern Miner is just off the press, an ambitious production, containing 88 pages, overcrowded full with industrial news of the rapidly growing northern mining and mineral belt, and numerous photos of some striking in the extreme. Two photographs in particular hold the attention, one occupies the doubled spread page in the centre of section one and comprises a fine aerial view of the greatest mining enterprise in the British Empire—Copper Cliff, the centre of "Nickel's" vast operations. It shows the enlarging plant, loading station, crushing and grinding house, new 9,000-ton concentrator under construction, new smelter, new stack, dust house and other structures which have rapidly changed in number and size with the development of the Company's ambitious plans. The picture was taken by William Norbert Millar of the Northern Airways, located in this city, on Tuesday, February 25, from a height of 700 feet. The other picture also taken by Pilot Millar is a vivid aerial view of Frood Mine, Sudbury, and occupies the front page.

The Northern Miner, published in Toronto, with a branch office in Cobalt, is edited by Richard Pearce, who it will be recalled accompanied the MacAlpine exploration party on their trip to the far north last year and who was lost along with the other members of the party for several weeks.

OBITUARY

MADOC, March 8.—(Examiner Correspondence).—News reached Madoc this morning of the sudden death of Miss Annie Gawley, R.N. of Malone. Deceased had apparently been in her usual health last evening but succumbed to a poor spell early yesterday.

Miss Gawley leave many relatives and friends in Malone and Madoc, who have the sympathy of the entire community.

MARMORA, March 8.—(Examiner Correspondence).—It was with feelings of deepest regret that residents learned on Thursday that Anna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bonter, had passed away in Belleville Hospital before an operation for mastoid could be performed. Anna, who was eleven years old, had not enjoyed good health for a considerable period, yet was able to attend day school until two days before her death. Despite her ill health, she was of a most cheery disposition and always had a smile for those greeting her. When health permitted, she was faithful in her attendance at St. Paul's Sunday school. Besides her parents, two brothers and three sisters at home mourn her loss, Mac, William, Marjorie, Hilda and Jean. The funeral will in all probability be held on Saturday.

SULLIVAN IN COURT AGAIN.

TORONTO, Ont.—Patrick Sullivan, editor of a local weekly publication, was arraigned on a charge of publishing obscene literature in the General Sessions yesterday before Judge O'Connell. He pleaded not guilty through counsel and elected trial by a county judge without jury. Remand of one week was granted.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright
Where nothing stains the pleasure a weet,
Or dims the radiant light,
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind,
But each shall seek the common weal
The good of all mankind

MOUNT PLEASANT.

The reports presented, the earnestness shown and the optimism displayed at the last annual convention held in Toronto promises much for the coming year. The holding of these conventions in the various centres throughout the province has been justified in several respects. First, it has enabled a larger number of branch and district officers and members to take advantage of these gatherings and it has brought to prominence in a larger field a number of women who have shown marked executive ability in planning for and conducting the proceedings in a most thoroughly business-like way; and, while the territory included in the central convention has been gradually lessened, the effectiveness and value of the gathering to the individual has not diminished, but rather increased, for each individual seems to feel a keener responsibility with representatives from a smaller area.

The greatest inspiration at these conventions were the reports on activities initiated and carried on to a successful conclusion by a local branch which is the foundation upon which all success must rest.

We must not forget that the purpose of the Institute is primarily education; an education which makes for greater efficiency in the housing, feeding and clothing of the family.

There is a growing appreciation of the fact that grown-ups with suitable literature available and the co-operation of all the members, can add materially to their knowledge, especially that which has a practical application. By a study of the splendid literature available for the asking from the various departments of government and through standard works recommended by the leaders, greater efficiency has resulted.

Then there is the exchange of experience on the part of practical women, which is of untold value to the members, for, after all, it is methods and theories which have been tried out and proven which are most convincing.

While the members among themselves are accomplishing wonders in education, they all come to a point where they feel the need of systematic instruction from those who have had special training and advantages, so the Department of Agriculture has provided systematic instruction through the demonstration lecture courses.

The Institutes exercise a wholesome social influence in the community co-operating with the young people in their social undertakings and providing in many communities libraries, assisting in securing good literature and wholesome entertainment, using their influence in securing educative and wholesome moving pictures. They believe that by giving the young people a choice between the wholesome and constructive and that which is merely entertaining they will choose the former.

The women of Ontario, through the Institutes, have demonstrated that through united action they can get most of the things they desire for their community, and in general, they can do most things which should be accomplished through their own effort. So, we find co-operative effort along various lines in the community, where formerly the whole thought was to go to some centre of population for entertainment and culture. It is much more wholesome and much more effective for people to do and to provide for themselves rather than to depend upon outsiders.

The Institute under service to the needy in the community. In a great many rural centres the Women's Institutes are asked to take charge of relief work and some of them receive financial assistance from the municipalities where the requirements are beyond the resources of the members.

MILLBROOK.

"Instruct your Health and Child Welfare committee to have a few copies of Dr. Helen MacMurchy's new book 'The Baby' also 'Rickets, Their Prevention and Cure' on exhibition at your next Institute meeting", suggests one Department official; "and send copies to mothers in the community not yet connected with the Institute branch; the knowledge that may be gained through their perusal and study will undoubtedly save lives."

Both books may be had from the Department of Health, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, free of charge.

Piano classes and vocal music in the schools have proved of great cultural and educational value, and Institutes all over the province are more and more sponsoring the addition of these to the curriculum. In some cases the W.I. paid the expense involved, but as the value of the instruction became apparent, the trustees decided to shoulder at least part of money requirements, and the parents were willing to help, when necessary. There is a government grant of fairly generous proportions, and the balance need not be a burden if divided between the Institute and the trustee board. However one item is an absolute necessity when musical instruction is given, and that is a good piano, kept properly tuned and otherwise cared for. Teachers may right be held responsible for the care of the instrument, seeing that pupils do not abuse the privilege of having a piano provided for the school's use.

In many places throughout Ontario the election of one woman member to the school board has been an undertaking of the Institute, and other branches are urged to follow the good example thus set. There are so many things relating to health, sanitary conditions, noon oversight of the pupils, music in the school, etc., that a woman's advice is really now considered a necessity in connection with matters coming under the school board's jurisdiction. "If your community still lacks this 'improvement', see that the lack is remedied at the next municipal election time", is the advice coming from sections where the change has been successfully tried, and from headquarters as well.

The grandmothers are well to the fore to-day in Institute activities. Most branches put on an annual "Grandmother's Day" and now, in some communities these ladies have themselves prepared and given the program. "Indeed, it is often the great-grandmothers who can give the most interesting meeting", declares a secretary from an eastern county; "many of the 'mere grandmothers' are too much like their daughters to be counted in anything really 'old.' We had a fine meeting with great-grandmothers and grandmothers answering to the roll-call with "Things grandmother said or did when from ten to fifteen years of age"; songs included, "The Little Brown Church in the Vale"; "Home Sweet Home"; "Swanee River"; "Lily Dale"; "The Mistletoe Bough", and several others dating back fifty, sixty and even seventy years. One or two of the oldest ladies gave little talks on the professor who gave them music lessons in their girlhood, and the kind of programs they had at concerts of the same period; some told of the private schools they attended as girls, and even had the certificates received for good conduct and efficiency in fancy work, the fine, and really beautifuly penmanship being something to marvel over in this age of typewriters, when good handwriting is the exception, not the rule.

Recipes from old cook books were especially interesting, and reminiscences of pioneer days on the farm held the close attention of the listeners. Of course no such evening is complete without some antiques for exhibition, and in several cases the old ladies could tell interesting incidents connected with the article shown. Altogether such an evening was voted the very best the Institute has ever held in the community annals.

WARSAW

After the United States took the Institute idea, little Belgium was the next country and the first in Europe to come into line. A commission sent by their government to Canada, to study the system, and headed by M. Paul de Vuyst reported favorably, and today largely as a result of M. de Vuyst's devoted labors there are over seven hundred Cercle des Fermieres in Belgium.

This approach to a translation of Women's Institute is used in Quebec, and in France too. France took the idea from Belgium, and they have a successful development in the "Semaines Rurales", which are held all over the country, and are very much like the American Women's Institutes. France has a few Women's Institutes (Cercles des Fermiers) carried out on the same lines as the Canadian. In both France and Belgium there are clerical and anticlerical Institutes corresponding to the political parties and organized by the Ministry of Agriculture. This is something rather difficult for Canadian women to understand. The societies which try to fill the educational and social needs of rural women in the northern countries of Europe are chiefly home economic societies. "Martha" societies of Finland are famous and very like the W.I.'s. The largest organization in Sweden and Norway is Home Economics for both town and country women.

The Country Women's Associations of Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Germany, and Hungary is more like our W.I.'s. Domestic Science and community betterment are taught and a certain amount of assistance is given to women money-earners. There is a distinct economic trend, and the farm woman is helped with advice and marketing as in the Province of Quebec. It is generally recognized that those who are responsible for the education of the rural women, are also responsible for their economic condition and therefore help of all sorts is given in teaching, practical aid is given to hand-craft workers and to farm women to develop sidelines on the farm.

After Belgium Canada's next effort was made in Wales. The first W.I. in the British Isles was formed in a village in Anglesey, called Llanfair P.O.

English W.I.'s were organized and that very rapidly as in the twelve years since the first Institute was organized, over four thousands have been organized. English life and society is different from ours, but the Institutes are absolutely democratic every members has a say, and every member has a chance and all classes join. They have taken up all sorts of interests, music, drama, handicrafts, literature, social gaieties, friendliness, and all sorts of whimsies and social joys. The English villages are closer together than ours, and there are generally some wealthy women who gladly devote much of their time to helping out. This makes the carrying out of some of the interests a little easier than in most of our rural districts, where most of the women do all their own work, with probably much of the sewing, and many trips to the barn.

Every Institute there is its own best advertisement. Where the English people undertake to do anything they do it. They felt the need of the Institute when they found what it was during the war, and they accepted it as an economic necessity, consequently its rapid spread and acceptance by all classes.

Our Mail

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne:

I should love to know if you are young or a maiden lady. I have been reading your letters about that party. Everyone seems to stand by you and that lady who said wait until that young person had a husband and a few children that kept his wife at home while he went to these so-called parties. They have too many in these days with drinking and smoking and young girls think they are smart to get married men to take them for car rides and a husband that doesn't care what happens to little children as long as they can put it over their wives. They think their selves smart—some are heartless—have I not suffered for these so-called parties!

The children missed Uncle Wiggily those days they did not put the story in, and I see by the paper tonight it is in. They will be very pleased indeed. I must close—don't think me rude in asking if you are a maiden lady.

Violet

Thank you Violet, I am glad the kiddies like Uncle Wiggily so well. Sometimes, though it is impossible to get it in.

Dear Anne—

I want to thank you for the way you are conducting the women's page for your broadness and consideration. It is no easy task to think up some subject which may be interesting to some, probably few are to all and you do succeed.

I did like Marion and being terribly conservative I dreaded the change, but I soon saw you were bravely taking hold of your work and would succeed. If you are young, that is a glorious advantage. I sometimes wish I could turn the years back — forty-five or forty years. Just carry on, we do not all see alike, but I fancy if we knew each other we would be friends, even if in many of my ways I am almost mid-Victorian. Most of us will help you.

Really Nyrna hardly can have said her prayers over the letter she wrote. I am not saying if she did not agree with you she should not say so, but I do say she surely could have done so in a lady-like manner. No, she could not because anyone who could write in the way she did is not refined, the language is vulgar. Anyone who could take two or three drinks, smoke, allow men's arms to be draped over their shoulders is not refined.

I am not saying these things are actually wrong for all, they would be for me—but this I do say and there is no contradiction—the girl who does these things has lost something within herself which is very precious. Sunday School teachers, choir leaders, choir singers even ministers are just as liable to fall as any other. I used to think any church worker was exemplary by virtue of his office! My first lesson was a personal experience when an elderly minister and a big man in his denomination was driving me a few miles on a cold winter evening. The old wretch tried to kiss me. He did not! Never since I have trusted one more than anyone else. Since then I have knocked around a great deal and seen all sorts of people and never do I feel like saying because a person is a church worker he is above reproach. He should be. Do not think I do not believe in church and church workers, I do. Church attendance and church worker is one of my hobbies.

On the other hand I love fun and amusement and love to see young people having a good time. Dancing is the poetry of motion. Oh yes, I have seen dancing that was nothing less than indecent, but that does not condemn the whole dance. Card playing too, I approve. I have been told by some that these are always cheating but I have played since I was a child and among my friends it has not been done. Those who cheat at cards would cheat at anything. Drinking and smoking are positively injurious in more ways than one. Therefore I cannot see that they are right, and there are no two ways about it, as a rule those who indulge are apt to be a little fast. Petting or anything of that kind is lowering to a girls dignity and to any one's moral standard. Wrongs are more easily allowed. I do not say are allowed, but may be more easily allowed.

For evening gowns decently low necks, not naked back are pretty. The naked back is ugly at best. If a dress must have a train it looks better fairly long. The trains with knee length dresses looked like tails. A woman can get around anywhere quite easily with a skirt two or three inches below her knees. If she has to get out on farm machinery or around barn yards very much I really think bloomers, not breeches are best.

If you Nyrna could have been a guest at some of our parties, I am sure you would have enjoyed yourself and gone home with a pleasant taste in your mouth, unable to write as you did to our leader. Times change. People like to come to the parties we feel able to give so far anyone who had been here seems to want to return. We give a wholesome welcome, try to have some special entertainment, we have games of various kinds, including cards and dancing. When we invite guests who do not approve of cards nor dancing we do not have them. Our suppers are not elaborate but we do try to have them good and daintily served. Our home is plain but comfortable, it is far from expensive, nor there is nothing gaudy nor cheap.

Nyrna you evidently are a church women, just think over things, and pray over them, really and see if you feel towards Anne Wilcox as you did. Her work is a difficult one. Disagree if you feel it is right, tell her so too, if you think it is right, but remember every woman should be able to bear the title of gentlewoman and then we cannot say things in a very disagreeable way. It would never do for us all to think alike, but we can all be gentlewomen.

Sincerely yours,
Quid Est.

Thank you Quid Est.

Goitre Not a Disease

Milwaukee Doctor Makes Remarkable Discovery.

Milwaukee, Wisc.—It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not a disease and is not to be treated as such. Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. 900, Box 737, Milwaukee, Wis., a prominent goitre specialist for over 24 years, has perfected a different method of treatment for his patients that has proved remarkably successful. This same method is now being used for a home treatment of goitre cases all over the country with astonishing results. The Doctor states that goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention, no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations. Dr. Rock is the author of a book that tells in a simple way about treating goitre at home. He has published this book at his own expense and will send a copy free to anyone interested. Write him to-day. —Adv.

Fashions

NEWEST FASHIONS REMINISCENT OF OTHER DAYS

UP WITH THE JACKET A SEQUEL TO DOWN WITH THE SKIRT

NEW YORK, March 8 (C.P.)—The jacket theme in sports fashions is synonymous with modern youth, fresh daring, varied and occasionally quite bold in the quality of originality. They are not only cut frankly short, in direct opposition to the length of skirts, but in their sports versions they are characteristic of many gay and active ideas.

There is the bolero which, though for some time a dress feature, has this season been elevated to the dignity of a suit jacket. This, the briefest of the jacket models, may be exploited separately in fabric or knitted versions, or it may make of the suit the jauntiest of costumes.

Then there is the bellhop jacket suit, double breasted, cut sharply off at the waistline, a piquant interpretation which is importantly related to the "Spahi" or Algerian cavalry costume. Here is a type which is especially suited to certain specialized sports activities. It originated for the winter sports season, but it also aspires to spring recognition since like the windbreaker it finishes abruptly at the waistline, which makes it less bulky for the practical sporting suit. The windbreaker suit is again one of the contestants for the short jacket honors in the sportswear field, and especially popular for golf, for the very reason that it has no flying tails.

Aside from these three forms that are each undeniably individual but are related in that they all make the normal waistline the point at which they terminate, there are other versions of the short jacket in suits — less specialized in character.

The simplest are those straight box jackets, just frankly cut an inch or two shorter than they have been, or if they have not actually had their length reduced, the wearing of a belt —virtually a law—gives the appearance of a shorter jacket. Something of the same principal that influences the flared peplum styles, which approximate the same lengths but take on an even shorter aspect due to the perky little flare.

In jackets without these characteristics, another way of producing the effect of curtailed length is brought into use the rounded corners of the front of the jacket, curving away from the center front. This device is one of the badges of the 1930 spring tailored suit, which is equally dated by the nipped-in waistline—a consequence of belting, brief darts or tapered gores.

VICE REGAL VISIT

TORONTO, Ont., March 6.—Viscount Willingdon, the Governor General who is in the city to attend the dinner of the Navy League of Canada to-night, made an unofficial visit to the plant of the Gutta Percha Rubber Co., Ltd., to-day where he studied the processes of rubber manufacture. He was the guest of Lieutenant-Governor W. D. Ross at luncheon.

"What a difference," says TORONTO mother

"My little daughter, Doris, suffered from constipation until she was very weak and pale," says Mrs. A. Brooks, 14 Currie Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "She got so we had to force her to eat, and nothing agreed with her.

"What a difference there is since we've been giving her California Fig Syrup. She began to pick up with the first dose. Now she's well, strong and happy, with a splendid appetite and wonderful color."

When bad breath, coated tongue or fretfulness warn of constipation, don't wait. Give your child a little California Fig Syrup. A child loves it. Headaches, feverishness, biliousness vanish with its use. Weak stomach and bowels are strengthened. Appetite improves. Digestion and assimilation are assisted. Weak children are strengthened.

To identify the genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years, look for the word California on the carton.

Madame Schiaparelli feels she has achieved a new note in the scarf which trims this coat in tweed of a deep blue basket weave.

UNUSUAL SCARF GIVES CHIC TO COAT MODEL.

By Madame Schiaparelli.

The effectiveness of this coat is derived from the original treatment of the scarf collar, which, cut as a part of the back crosses over the shoulders and ties in front. Blue tweed, of which I have made this coat, is one of my favorites among the tweeds, and many of my most recent models are in this color. I find it very refreshing after the reign of beiges and brown mixtures. This material is in the popular basket weave. (Copyright, 1930, by the Bell Syn., Inc.)

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

THERE HAS BEEN much controversy lately because of the change of the fashion. I haven't noticed many of the neighbors discussing the subject except some of them to disagree with Nyrna when she said, "just when we stand on the threshold of our fullest opportunity dress designers decide to push us back twenty years—with the return to long, floppy, untrim dresses, we are putting on again the first fetters of bondage."

• • • • • • •

I disagree with Nyrna there—I don't think that the skirts if they remain the length of the fashion of today, will ever hinder any women from attaining distinction in the business world.

• • • • • • •

She speaks as though they were already trailing on the ground as did those of our great grandmothers!

• • • • • • •

We read where in New York the business women started the style of wearing quite long dresses to work and the men objected! And no wonder they objected—imagine any woman trailing around an office with her dress down to her ankles all the way around!

• • • • • • •

Dresses this length aren't supposed to be worn to the office, nor for street wear—they are to be kept exclusively for afternoon wear at teas and afternoon affairs and then in the evening we wear them a little longer still—or shall I say as long as like?

• • • • • • •

The decree by which sport clothes were forever divorced from colthes for afternoon and evening wear is one of the most important pieces of style news in recent years.

• • • • • • •

Sport clothes, no longer required to appear at afternoon teas and sundry other dress-up occasions, are able to express themselves with a freedom and individuality quite impossible so long as they were trying to do duty in a dozen places and fill a lot of unrelated social engagements.

• • • • • • •

Sport clothes have really come into their own, and have created for themselves a new place in every woman's wardrobe.

• • • • • • •

If you will look over a group of recent sports models, the first thing that will strike you is that they have put every suggestion of banality and monotony, which was the mark of the sports costume for such a long while. The two-piece model which was useful enough in its way, has been succeeded by a variety of cleverly-cut costumes, which are no longer trying to ape silks and satins in their effects, but which are making the most out of the truly sports material.

• • • • • • •

We have had tweeds of many combinations and colors, but none, I thing, is quite so new and smart as the tweed in which the dominating color is blue. It is a deep blue tweed in a basket design.

• • • • • • •

The new tweed suits are as usual quite smart and will be worn quite a lot this spring and the coats are shorter than ever.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

MENTAL I YGIENE.

It is easier than it used to be to get people to safeguard the health of children's bodies. Their breathing is not obstructed by adenoids and enlarged tonsils as frequently as it used to be. Trips to the dentist are rather usual. Diet is watched and health habits guarded. So far so good. Now what about the mental hygiene of the children.

It is useless to work toward building a healthy body for a child if one neglects the health of his mind. Mind is affected by experiences. The kind of experiences a child knows color his thinking and therefore govern his actions, his character. If we subject a child to experiences that are harmful to his thinking, to his mind, we injure him as surely as though we had beaten and starved him.

Some people like to tease a child. They dangle something before his eyes and as he reaches for it they snatch it away. The more excited the child becomes the more fun for the other person. That is bad mental hygiene. That is subjecting a child to an experience that is harmful. It will give him wrong notions about people, about his power to get things that are within his reach. It will teach distrust of people and of himself. You can readily see what effect a mind filled with have on the general health and conduct of a child.

Some folks are not careful about shocking little children. They slam doors, they shout in loud and angry tones, they are harsh in word and action. They are careless about disappointing a child. They will tell him that something good will come if he does so and so and he does his part only to discoer that the good is not forthcoming. It is a shock to the mind of a child to find that his adult friends betray him. Shock breeds fear and fear is poison to mind and body. Mental hygiene guards a child against fear as physical hygiene guards him against infection.

Strain, worry, fear, all related difficulties, are bad for children. We must guard them against worry. It is bad to tell a child that he will be punished severely when his father comes home, or that next week he will be disciplined by the head of the school. If a child is to be punished punish him and get done with it.

Teach children how to prepare for examinations. As long as they have to take them the least we can do is to safeguard them against worry as far as in our power lies. By and by we shall have sense enough not to expose children to such trials.

Try to avoid failure for a child. So adjust his work that he must succeed, at least, experience sufficient success to keep his mental attitude healthy. Mental health comes first. All else depends upon it. Guard it as you would the child's very life for it is the essence of life.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

THE QUIETMIND.

One of the very first requisites for a mother or a teacher is a quiet mind. The influence of a quiet mind upon the children who come under its beneficient sway is of untold good, immeasurable good. The quiet mind is like the the rock in the wilderness—a support, a shelter, a surety.

The children who feel such a power in the background have a confidence that arms them against fear or failure. It stimulates them to great effort assuring them of understanding and support through trial and tribulation, in victory and success.

This quiet mind is not a gift. It is the result of a disciplined well adjusted spirit. It is born of a body in steadfast health. It is the expression of a spirit that is serene in its outlook having proven all things and laid hold on what was good.

Such a mind is not disturbed by little things. Trifles pass on their way without causing a ripple. Pettiness is outside its plane. Experienced in sorrow and stress it comforts without accenting the hurts of childhood and youth. Having surmounted the obstacles that rose in its own path it has a true vision for the guidance of those who follow after. Sore tried in the struggle for manly, womanly resolution and bearing in the complexities of daily existence the quiet mind has a sweet tolerance and a gentle word for those who err. It is the visible evidence of unseen wrestlings with the angel of the night.

"I am not like that," some weary mother says. "I lost patience with Nick to-day and slapped him. I got very much excited about Mary's examinations How can I have a quiet mind with a houseful of trouble, new every evening—fresh every morning?"

A quiet mind is not a gift. It is acquired. The very best way to acquire it is to face a houseful of trouble and conquer it. Easier said than done, but that can be told of anything worth while.

When the storm rages about, you listen for the still small voice of wisdom. Withdraw from the surface of the matter and draw strength from the infinite spirit that dwells within you. Know that you are stronger than any earthly difficulty and go on.

The hills that look down upon you, the stars that so serenly shine throughout your nights, have looked on countless lives such as yours. Time, eternity stays. We and all our little concerns pass. The best we can do is to draw upon the vast reservoir of the past and merge our littleness with its immensity knowing ourselves to be part of it, one with it in harmony and peace and power.

Cultivate for a little time daily this peace, this quiet of mind. Do it in your own way seeking whatever help you find suits your need. The time will come when your very presence says, "Peace." (Copyright, 1930, by the Bell Syn., Inc.)

In the Legislature

YESTERDAY IN THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

Premier Ferguson introduced a bill which would extend the life of a legislature, including the present one, from four to five years.

Hon Dr. J. D. Monteith, provincial treasurer, sponsored a bill which would raise from 15 to 16 the age at which a child could attend a theatre unaccompanied by an adult. Another bill would straighten out certain inequalities in the Corporation Tax Act.

Second reading was given a bill which would necessitate the use of more stringent safety measures underground in Ontario mines. This bill was the direct result of the Hollinger mine disaster two years ago.

Hon. John S. Martin told the Houhe that the amount of the outstanding loans under the Agriculture Development Act for 1927 was $15,500,000; for 1928, $19,400,000; and for 1929 $23,800,000.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

MADRIGALS TO BE HEARD TUESDAY

Well Known Chorus Will Appear in Collegiate Auditorium.

NOTED CELLIST COMING.

The Madrigal Singer's chorus which has been acclaimed by the leading musicians and music lovers of Toronto and of the Province, is giving a concert in the hall of the Collegiate Institute on Tuesday evening, when a program of exceptionally beautiful numbers will be presented.

This chorus is well known not only in Ontario, but in other parts of Canada and the United States, owing to the fact that it has been engaged to sing throughout the entire afternoon on Music Day at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Many letters have been received by the directress testifying to the pleasure is singing has given.

This chorus has also broadcast on four occasions over stations CKGW and CFRB, thus again affording real advertising for its home city. It also sang to an audience of 2,500 at one of the Royal York Hotel Sunday evening recitals with Dr. Harvey Robb at the organ and won an ovation from their listeners, which included many of the leading musicians of Toronto. So great was their success that Dr. Robb has engaged them for another recital the end of this month or beginning of April. The programme on Tuesday will comprise numbers representative of the folk songs of England, Scotland, Belgium, Armenia, also compositions such as Schubert's "The Lord Is My Shepherd", Wagner's "Spinning Chorus", and Rimsky Korsakoff's "Song of the Shepherd Lehl". Two very special numbers to be sung are "Tyrle, Tyrlow, Tyrle, Tyrlow" by that great musician and composer Dr. Healy Willan, which is being sung by the Madrigalists at the special request of the composer. It is an intense mystical number of great beauty, the words being taken from a Balliol manuscript of 1536. The other number is entitled 'Fresh From the Dewy Hill" and is composed by that eminent composer and fine cellist Leo Smith, who has published and dedicated this composition to "Dorothy Allan Park and the Peterborough Madrigalists." Mr. Smith's compositions are played and sung all over Canada, many of his compositions being performed at the Canadian Pacific Railway music festivals at Quebec, Banff, Vancouver and Toronto. Mr. Smith will be the cellist on Tuesday evening. Mr. Boris Hamourg and Mr. Smith are regarded as the two finest Canadian cellists. The other guest artist is the South American pianist, Senor Alberto Guerrero. His marvellous technique and poetic interpretations are coloured by the warmth of his personality and after once hearing Guerrero his listeners never relegate him to the realms of those they hear and soon forget. The Madrigalists are earnest students possessed of a real love of good music and their interest in their work is evidenced by a hundred percent attendance at their weekly practices. They get no financial aid or help of any kind, financing their work by the excellence of the programmes they present. This concert will be a noteworthy musical event.

BRANTFORD TAX RATE UP.

BRANTFORD, March 8.—Demands for public services for 1930, according to a budget prepared by the city treasurer, will require an increase in the tax rate from 39½ to 41 mills. The City Council will now sit down in an effort to do a little carving.

Beautiful hair!

Modern hair dressers arrange the hair so beautifully that it's bound to attract attention. That's why it's so important to guard its color and lustre; keep it in perfect condition.

There is no surer, simpler way to do this than with Danderine. Each time you use your brush, just moisten it with this delicately fragranced liquid. Then as you draw it through your hair, it removes the excess oil; brings out the natural color; makes the hair fairly sparkle with new life and lustre.

How much easier it is to arrange the hair afterwards. How it stays in place. And try "setting" the waves with Danderine. They stay in so much longer.

Danderine quickly dissolves the crust of dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition; helps the hair to grow long, silky and abundant!

For any

BABY

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother does not change to stronger medicines as the child grows older. Castoria is readily obtained at any drugstore, and the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature that appears on every wrapper.

Windsor Bulldogs Win to Retain Play-Off Chance

BORDERITES WIN FIRST DECISION FROM INDIANS

"Hap" Emms and Frank Carson Star in International Fixture.

OKEMEN TIE PANTHERS.

Green Shirts Unable to Get Extra Point For Play-off Position.

TORONTO, Ont., March 8. (Canadian Press).—Staging a great fight to land a play-off berth in the International Hockey League, Windsor Bulldogs last night trounced Cleveland Indians, three to two, to tie Detroit for fourth place. In the other game played the luckless Toronto Millionaires held London Ponthers to a two-all tie. The Detroit at Hamilton fixture was postponed.

Hap Emms was the hero of the Bulldogs' sparkling victory. He took Frank Carson's perfect pass and scored the winning goal with less than two minutes remaining to be played. The teams fought on even terms in the opening frame, each notching a goal andp laying warily. In the middle frame the team unloosed a series of speedy attacks on the opposing cages but they were unable to score. Windsor took the lead early in the third session on Frank Duncan's goal, but the Indians tried the score six minutes later and overtime seemed certain when Frank Carson made his fine play for Emms to tally.

London missed a fine chance to strengthen their hold on third place in the game with Toronto. The Panthers secured a two to one lead in the second period after a scoreless opening frame, but with less than five minutes remaining in the last session they became careless and Cliff McBride, assisted by Whitey Fields, slipped through the London rearguard for the tieing goal. The split in points enabled the Panthers to gain undisputed possession of third place from Detroit.

The leading teams clashed in the only contest scheduled for to-night and victory for Buffalo will enable them to tie Cleveland for the leadership.

Galt Terriers Clinch Position in Play-offs

TORONTO, Ont., March 8 (C.P.)—Galt Terriers clinched a place in the Canadian League play-offs last night by defeating the last place Brantford Indians, four to two. Guelph Maple Leafs increased their first place lead by defeating Kitchener, four to two. This match was scheduled for to-night at Galt, but advanced on account of an amateur final being played there.

MONTREAL PLAYS LEAFS TO-NIGHT

HOPE TO SET RECORD.

TORONTO, March 8 — Montreal Maroons, whom many enthusiasts rate as the greatest obstacle to the Boston Bruins' hopes of a second successive world's championship and continued possession of the Stanley Cup, will be the opponents of the Maple Leafs at the Arena Gardens to-night, when the second last home game of the local National League club will be staged. At present the Maroons are four and five points in front of the Canadians and Ottawa Senators respectively, who will be the other clubs from the Canadian group to enter the play-offs, and while they appear to have a strong hold on first place they need one more victory to clinch that position. They have but two more games to play after to-night, and both will be on home ice. Next Tuesday the Ottawa Senators, who have had more success against the Maroons than any other club in this group, visit Montreal, while a week from to-night the Maple Leafs will help Montreal close their regular league season.

The Maroons have a strong, powerful club, both physically and numerically, and at present their roster includes one goalie, five defence men and ten forwards. With the play-offs approaching, they have been giving their second and third-string forwards lots of work, and it is likely that Bill Phillips, Ward and Trottier will get lots of work to-night, along with W. J. Phillips, Northcott, Robinson and Dinsmore. The latter is the old Argonaut rugby and Aura Lee star who joined the Maroons when they were organized. After a couple of years he retired, but several weeks ago he again joined the squad. It is said that Dinny, in his eagerness to play with the Maroons once again, signed a contract for the princely salary of one dollar.

The Leafs are out of the running, but hope to improve their record during the remainder of the season, which calls for two game at home and three on the road. They cannot overtake Ottawa, but they wish to make the race as close as possible, and their long-standing rivalry with the Maroons is further incentive for them to turn back the Montreal squad to-night. The Leafs can take the season's series with the Maroons by winning the remaining two games as so far they have won one, tied one and lost two in the four games played.

VARSITY DEFEATS HAMILTON 2-1 IN ALLAN CUP BATTLE

REGULAR INJURED.

TORONTO, Ont., March 8 (C.P.)—Alex. Levinsky, sturdy defence men of the Junior team will likely reinforce University of Toronto in their second game with Hamilton Tigers in the Ontario Hockey Association Allan Cup elimination series at Hamilton on Monday. In the first contest here last night, Varsity defeated the Tigers two to one, but lost the services of their star centre, Bill Stewart, who suffered a slight concussion when checked to the ice in the middle frame. His condition is not serious but he will not be available for the return game.

Hamilton gave Toronto fans the impression they will be hard to overcome in the Ambitious City. The Tigers outplayed Varsity throughout most of the game, but their scoring efforts were very weak.

All the scoring developed in the second period with Varsity gaining a two-goal lead before the Tigers reduced the margin on McKay's fine individual rush.

A game which has aroused unusual interest amongst hockey fans will be played in Toronto this afternoon. It will bring together Niagara Falls and West Toronto, finalists in the Junior Championship.

Tickets for the game were sold out yesterday,indicating that the "Kids" still attract fans, despite the great progress made by professional hockey in recent years.

At Galt, Iroquois Falls, Senior champions of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, will meet Paris, Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate champions, in the second of their two game Allan Cup elimination series. The Falls' Eskimos won the first game at Toronto, six to nothing, but Western Ontario fans still remember the great comeback of the Parisians in defeating Walkerton, and will not acknowledge the Eskimos' superiority until after to-night, at least.

The Queensboro team proved to be the stronger, and win with a score of 6-0, after a well fought game. Skating was indulged in by all for the balance of the evening.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, the hockey championships is being wound up, and while we ain't got no teams anywhere near the gravy bowl, the customers is more or less interested in who cops the silverware. Personally, old-timer, the jr. battle is the 1 that gets one all hot and bothered, and right now I'm pulling for them West Torontos to come through and grab off the honors. Up to this week I didn't give a hoot 1 way or tother, but since the Toronto birds come thrugh with that fine bit of sportsmanship and threw away a 1 goal lead that the officials had give them in the 1st game, I've become a W. T. rooter, and I don't mean likely. They ain't many teams that you and me ever heard of, Mac, what would toss away a win like that, most outfits figgering that if they get the best of a referee's decision why that's just a brake in the game. The West Toronto management, however, knew that the goal that put them ahead of Varsity in the 1st battle was not according to Hoyle, and so they asked the hockey moguls to throw the marker into the ash can and call the score a 1-1 tie. Any team with that kinda sportsmanship, Mac, deserves to win the medals, and while I ain't got a thing again Niagara Falls, I hopes the West Torontos come through.

In the local sport arena, Mac, the City League finals has been the chief excitement, if any. The C.G.E. outfits copped both the sr. and jr. titles, the Electric Works Toolroom beating De Laval in the sr. argument and the C.G.E. Office lifting the jr. title from the Canucks, which has been more or less monopolizing the title for some years. The City League ain't raised much enthusiasm among the hockey public for some reason or other, but the players has got a lotta sport out of it, and after all that's the main thing. Anyway, the season is over and the promoters better begin laying their plans for the next campaign.

The baseball season ain't so far away, Mac, but right now, outside of a lot of truck and traffic by local managers after players, they ain't much to talk about there. From a Central Ontario League standpoint, the most hopeful news is the story from Port Hope that the Hopers and Cobourg may join their forces to put a team in the sr. loop in place of Deloro, demobilised. If the lakefront towns do get together they can be sure of a warm welcome in the Central organization. Locally I don't know a thing. A lotta of the old guard said last fall they was going to take up golf this year and drop outa baseball. Whether they make it stick or not is another story. Anyway, if they is to be anything doing in the sr. line this summer, it's about time to get busy and get organized.

Well, Mac, they ain't no use talking when you got nothing to talk about. Check and double check. And so, hoping for more dope next week, I throw up the sponge now.

Take care of your sciatic nerve.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

LEARNED TO RUN IN THE MARITIMES

Leigh Miller, Hamilton's Star Sprinter, First Shone in Halifax Meets.

HALIFAX, N.S., March 8.—(By W. J. Foley, Canadian Press Sports Writer).—Leigh Miller, whose sensational victories over Jack Elder, Simpson and other United States cracks have caused Upper Canadian writers to hail him as a worthy successor to Percy William, double Olympic sprint winner in 1928, learned his running fundamentals in high school circles of Halifax.

It was in the fall of 1927 that Miller was given the opportunity of displaying his wares outside the Maritimes. The Halifax Chronicle sent Miller to the Canadian championships at Toronto that year. Miller did not win a medal but he made a splendid showing.

The next spring the Chronicle sent Miller to the Olympic trials at Hamilton. Again the Maritimer failed to win an event, although he chased the fleetest Canadian runners to the tape in the century and the furlong. Previous to the Olympic trials, Miller was sent to Hamilton to train under the watchful eye of Bobby Kerr, a Canadian Olympic winner in 1908. Miller failed to place on the Canadian team, of which Percy Williams was the outstanding man, but his showing in the trials attracted attention and the Maritime champion was offered a position at Hamilton. During the summer of 1928 Miller startled the world when he raced the 100 yards in 9 3-5 seconds, tieing the world's record, at Pictou, Nova Scotia.

Shortly after his great run at Pictou, Miller went to Hamilton to reside. At that time he was "tapeshy" and poor at starting. The majority of his victories came through his driving speed in the stretch, although he had the bad habit of "shying" at the tape.

When Miller joined the Hamilton Olympic Club he was placed under the watchful eye of competent coaches. It was not long before his startling speed became noticeable and many big things were predicted of the "Maritime Flyer."

Last year, in preference to attending the Canadian championship sports at Banff, Miller journeyed to Pictou, the scene of his record-tieing run the year before and easily defeated the cream of New England college sprinters.

Before the outdoor season closed he distinguished himself in Toronto and Hamilton meets. During the indoor season of 1930 Miller came into his own. He now has a world's indoor sprint record to his credit and has been lined up for meets during the summer with some of the outstanding sprint men across the border.

NEW YORK RANGERS REAL MONEY TEAM

TORONTO, March 8. — The New York Rangers have one of the greatest trios of forwards in the National Hockey League and not much else, except the habit of winning play-off games that the record says they should lose. The Rangers apparently have only an outside chance of victory in the 1930 series for the Stanley Cup, but they were supposed to have no more than that two years ago when their fighting spirit took the historic emblem of the world's hockey championship to the United States, nor last year when they were runners up to the Boston Bruins.

As a combination Frank Boucher, Bill Cook and Bun Cook are rivalled only by Boston's Weiland-Clapper-Gainor line, which has divided most of the season's scoring honors with them. Boucher, a poke-check extraordinary, also is one of the circuit's greatest play-makers, getting 34 assists in the 40 games he has played. Bill Cook is recognized as about the best right wing man the league can boast, while brother Bun is an effective foil for the pail.

The other Ranger forwards are an odd assortment. Butch Keeling, Murray Murdooh and Paul Thompson were untried youngsters when the Rangers first reached the cup finals in 1928, but they rose to the heights as "money players," and have continued to get goals when they were needed most. Leroy Goldsworthy, Sparky Vail and Leo Quenneville are the inexperienced youngsters of this year's team.

Are Weak Defensively.

The New York defence has been the team's weak spot all season, letting their rivals gett goals almost as fast as their own forwards could score. The loss of Big Ching Johnson put out by a broken jaw early in February was a severe blow for which even the purchase of Leo Reise, an experienced veteran from the New York Americans could not compensate. Little Leo Bourgeault has shown signs of tiring under the strain of trying to make up for the absence of his big mate. Ralph Taylor bought from Chicago, has not quite measured up to his task, while Bill Regan, brought up from the Boston Tigers, is short on experience.

Johnny Roach, star guardian of the Ranger goal, has done a lot to make up for the defence weakness, but he has his occasional off nights.

The Rangers have judged their pace well through the latter part of the season, saving as much energy as possible for the play-offs by aiming at ties and barely holding their second place deadlock. Except for the Boston Bruins they have nothing worse than an even break with any of the teams which have won play-off positions, and may do even better in the short series which decides the title.

PARIS (U.P.).—The French Touring Club organized a national competition to find a way to end the noise of hotel corridors. The winner of the prize, a 500-mile railroad pass, Miss Madeleine Ladeuil, suggested a simple, printed card for posting in all hotels: "Silence by each one assures the rest of all."

ASSOCIATION TEAM CONTINUES TO PILE UP VICTORY RECORD

Win For Seniors Over Westclox Quintet Will Give Them Championship.

FINAL COUNT 52-12.

Routing the St. Paul's squad by the score of 55—12 at the Y.W.C.A. last night, the "Y" Seniors won their second game in the Senior group play-offs in the Peterborough Ladies' Basketball League. They will next meet the Westclox and a win will give them the Senior cup. The Seniors have not dropped a game this season.

By half time in last night's game, the Seniors had run up a count of 22—8, due to the stellar efforts of Viola Harvey and I. Davidson. However, every member of the squad played big time basketball to make the 52 score possible. For the losers Clare Patterson and Maizie Cowan were the only hopes. The Saints' defence play was weak.

The teams:—

"Y" Seniors—Forwards, V. Harvey, I. Davidson; center, I. Chambers; guards, H. Jackson, J. Allin, M. Holmes.

St. Paul's.—Forwards, C. Patterson, M. Cowan; centre, A. Comstock; guard, G. Comstock, E. Morrow, S. Jackson.

Referee—Arthur McLeish.

SENIORS DEFEAT WOHELOS

In the junior group play-offs in the league, the Senior School Girls are in the same position as the "Y" Seniors. They have one more game by which they can win the Junior cup.

Last night they defeated the Wohelos by a 27—10 score, in a fast tilt. The way the game opened it looked as though the Wohelos were going to take the School Girls for a ride. The Wohelos led the first quarter by the narrow margin of two points At the end of the quarter the count was 4—2 By half time the School Girls had turned the tables and the score was 8—4

Improving their defence and their offensive moves, the School Girls ran their tally to 27 before the end of the game, holding their opponents to 10.

The teams:

Senior School Girls—Forwards, H. Cole, G. Burns, G. Cunningham, J. Harvey; centre, E. Armstrong; guards, O. Elcombe, K. Lang, D. Rogers.

Wohelos—Forwards, L. Slaughter, E. Bradley, M. Simpson; centre, H. Bradley; guards, M. Leahy, H. Willams, T. Schiarizza.

Referee—Arthur McLeish.

On Monday evening the play-offs will continue, the Westclox meeting the De Lavals at 7 o'clock and the "Y" Intermediates clashing with the "Y" Elementary squad later.

EMPIRE GAMES MAKE PROGRESS

Great Variety of Events Will Be Contested When Athletes Reach Hamilton.

LARGE ENTRY LIST.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 8.—(C.P.)—Stars in their own particular line, boxers, wrestlers, swimmers, oarsmen, bowlers, tennis, rugby and soccer players, are already for the first British Empire Games, to be held here from Aug. 16 to 23. Through days weeks and months of strenuous exercise, they are preparing for the greatest test that many of them have ever faced—that of competing with the stars from all parts of the British Empire this summer.

The Empire Games are not to be confused with the Olympic games, which are held every four years, with the object of promoting international peace. The Empire meet is simply a gathering of athletes from the Empire, a sort of get-together. At the Olympic games in 1928, the idea was formed, and once the ball started rolling it gathered impetus at every turn.

The opening ceremonies will be held Saturday Aug. 16. Amateur athletes who are British subjects and have resided for six months in the country they represent will be allowed to take part, the definition being that of the Imperial Olympic Committee. There are to be contests in athletics, boxing, wrestling, rowing, swimming, lawn tennis, bowls and rugby and association football. In the athletics each country may enter four competitors for each event and six for the Marathon race. The events will be:

For men— 100, 200, 400, 800, 1,500, 5,000, and 10,000 metres, Marathon of 26 miles 385 yards; 3,000 metre steeplechase, 110 metres hurdles and 400 metres hurdles; high jump; long jump; hop, step and jump; pole vault; throwing the javelin; throwing the discus; putting 16 lb. shot and throwing 16 lb. hammer.

For women—100 metres; 200 metres 800 metres; 110 metre hurdles; high jump; throwing the discuss and throwing the javelin.

For schoolboys. (under 20)— 100, 200, 400, 800 and 1,500 metres; 110 metre hurdles; high jump; long jump; pole vault; throwing the javelin; throwing the discuss; and putting 12 lb., shot.

Relay races—Men—400 metres; and 1,500 metres.

Schoolboys—400 and 1,600 metres.

In wrestling and boxing each country may enter two persons in each category, but can have only one competitor in each. The categories are:

Flyweight, 112 pounds; bantam 118 pounds; feather 126 pounds; light 135 pounds; welter 147 pounds; middle 160 pounds; light heavy 175; and heavyweight, over 191 pounds.

The rowing events will be single sculls, double sculls, coxless fours, fours with coxswain, and eights. Each country may make two entries in each event, but only one may compete. One reserve is allowed for the sculling events, two for the fours and four for the eights.

The swimming events will be:

Men—100 yard free style; 100 yard backstroke; 200 yard breaststroke; 400 yards free style; 1500 yards free style; high diving, plain and fancy; diving from springboard.

Women—100 yards free style; 100 yards backstroke; 200 yards breast stroke; 400 yards free style; diving from springboard; plain high diving.

Team races—Men's 800 yard relay.

Women—400 yard relay.

Water polo—Team of seven men and four substitutes.

In addition, there will be Association football, rugby football, lawn tennis, which includes singles and doubles, and singles for boys and girls under 20, and bowling, including singles, Scots doubles and rinks.

A commemoration medal will be given to every competitor, and there are three prizes for every event — gold, silver and bronze medals. In team events, each member of the winning team will receive a similar medal and also a diploma.

Bobby Robinson, of this city, manager of the meet, is in Great Britain at present, settling the preliminary details before the invasion begins. From the present indications it would appear that at least 1,000 athletes, with numerous handlers, trainers, managers, and officials will meet here.

His Majesty King George has consented to be the patron of the games and the honorary presidents are the Prince of Wales and His Excellency Lord Willingdon.

CHARLIE ROBSON HANGS UP SPIKES

C.P.R. Lineman Who Connected Up First Wire Linking Atlantic With Pacific Retires.

HALIFAX, N. S., Mar. 8.—With forty years of service on the spikes behind him, Charles Robson, veteran lineman who joined the Atlantic and Pacific by wire in 1890, has hung up his climbers for the last time. It was almost at the beginning of his term of service with the Canadian Pacific Railway that Charley Robson held a wire on a pole near Elmsdale, whither his gang had strung it from Truro, and connected it with another strung out from Halifax to meet it. He had joined the first Atlantic-Pacific wire of the C. P. R. telegraph system.

The years between the joining of that wire in a snowstorm at Elmsdale and his retirement, Mr. Robson has spent in an almost uninterrupted career of maintaining communications and building new ones. His one accident occurred seven years ago, when a cross-piece broke and he was hurled to the ground, causing injuries which, he says regretfully, have forced his early retirement—at the age of sixty five years. He was working at the time without a safety belt, an innovation which, as an old timer, he has steadily refused to wear. A safety belt would have held him, he admits, yet he went back to work some months later without one, the work of a lineman being "mild and peaceful." "There are as many people hurt walking along the streets as working on telegraph poles," he insists.

Charley Robson has helped to keep the wires working through more sleet storms than he can remember. The "silver thaw" early this winter when Nova Scotia was incommunicado with the rest of the world for one business day as linemen strove to get the lines through he regarded as a mere nothing.

Mr. Robson finishes his career as a lineman under much the same working conditions as he began it. Only the safety belt and a tool for tightening and joining wire have been added to the lineman's kit since he entered the service in 1889.

Speaking Of SPORT

By Frank Getty

The French boxing public has discovered a philosopher-prize-fighter in the ranks of the old-timers. Robert Dastillon, once known as "the unleashed hurricane" and veteran of 400 battles, regrets not a whit the passing of his greatness, but finds plentiful consolation in fishing, promoting cockroach fights, and transporting newspapers from one editorial office to another.

HELPS THE NOVICES

"I have no further ambition," he said to Henry Cumming, United Press staff correspondent in Paris. "I am happy as I am. I still love boxing, and though I know I can never return to the vigorous days of my youth, I can still help out as sparring partner to those who are beginning as I did 20 years ago."

Dastillon began his ring career back in 1909, and has fought throughout Europe and America as well. In 1912 he engaged in 30 fights, and at one time or another met all the best boxers of his class. He has met and defeated Criqui, Lepreux, Vinez, Kleber and others.

• • •

But the shades of those by-gone days never return to plague the tranquility of the philosophic warrior. The gentle tug of the trout on the line now compensates for the irrevocable loss of cyclonic activity in the ring.

The "unleashed hurricane" seems to have been a kindly zephyr in dealing with his fellow-men. In the days of his prosperity he once entered the ring against a very much heavier, but unknown, opponent.

GETS GATE, GIVES IT

Dastillon was told he would receive the lion's share of the "gate," since he was considered the chief drawing card. His opponent, while unwilling to claim superior ability, professed an equal rating with Dastillon in the matter of gate receipts because he was the sorrowing father of two children who hadn't eaten for several days.

The "gate" was only a peephole in those days, but Dastillon turned over half his earnings of forty dollars to the unfortunate parent after dealing nearly as gently with him in the ring.

The sports fan who likes the unusual has a full share of that sort of thing in recent events. Johnny Risko, one-time baker's assistant, was given a draw decision in his bout with Vittorio Campolo, tall Argentine, at Miami. Campolo had been an odds-on favorite.

Bill Tilden lost a straight-set contest with E. C. Peters, ranked sixth in the British tennis lists.

The Army-Notre Dame football game was shifted to Chicago, after it had been regarded as a New York fixture.

Pete Latzo, once a a coal mine breaker boy, drew a decision over Larry Johnson, lithe negro.

Boojum and Whichone were not nominated for the Kentucky Derby. They had been winter book favorites.

Lew Burston, New York boxers' manager, goes in strong for foreign boys. He says that even amateurs who flash to the front, are worth little because each has at least one person who owns a 'piece' of him. Here are some of Burston's importations:

• • •

STAN BURGOYNE WINNING COACH

Results Show He Headed Importations Brought to Nova Scotia From Upper Provinces.

HONOR TO MARITIMES.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 8 (Canadian Press).—Five Upper Canadian hockey coaches handled Nova Scotia amateur clubs during the season now closing and, while not all could be successful, especially when four of them handled teams in the same league, the Eastern Nova Scotia loop, hockey followers of the province are inclined to believe that the coaches proved of very little benefit to hockey this year.

One coach admittedly made good. Not because his team happened to win the Eastern League but because Stan Burgoyne, from "somewhere in Ontario," by his coaching and handling, gave the town of Truro the best hockey team it has ever had. Truro had three Maritime championships to its string previous to this season.

Burgoyne has about the same players that finished in a tie for second place in the Eastern League last year but he has instilled teamwork into his players and his handiwork is perhaps the finest hockey machine to represent the Province in many years. Nova Scotia has boasted many hockey teams but few hockey machines. And there is a difference.

Other coaches were not overly successful. Louis Berlinquette took over the New Glasgow Colts shortly before the dawn of 1930 and made little or no improvement, the team finishing last in the league and winning only half a dozen games in eighteen. Steve Vair, who coached the Wolverines, defending their league honors won last season under the guiding hand of Coach Joe Matte, into the league playoffs Coach Walter Smaill, Kentville, put his team into the playoffs but the Wildcats played no better hockey during the season than they did in the previous season. At Sydney, Cape Breton, Hector Lepine took over a homebrew team, added three Upper Canadians and won the regular A.P.C.B. series. In the league playoffs the Stellarton Oaklands, a young team coached by the veteran Chester Gregory, former star of Provincial hockey, defeated the Sydney Millionaires by a five-goal margin in home and home games.

Coach Joe Matte was a sensation here in 1929. He took over the Halifax Wolverines when they were floundering around in the cellar position, in the Eastern League and taught them sound hockey and splendid teamwork. With a fair team Matte led his charges to the Maritime finals, losing by a single goal. In some thirty games the Wolverines played under Matte they lost four and tied one. They won the rest. Matte coached the Bathurst Papermakers this year.

EVER since the Pontiac Six has been on the market, cars bearing this name have enjoyed an enviable reputation for value. The first Pontiac, because of what it offered at low prices, broke all existing records for a new car during its first year in production. Succeeding Pontiacs served to give the name Pontiac still greater significance for motorists in search of the most that their money could buy. And now this reputation for unusual value is being extended still further by the New Series Pontiac Big Six—a new and finer car with a famous name.

Greater Beauty, Finer Performance. This latest Pontiac offers even more striking beauty and finer performance than did its popular predecessors. New bodies by Fisher, including two entirely new types, account for the added smartness of its appearance. Improved-type rubber mountings for its 60-horsepower engine make its smoothness more pronounced. A new steering mechanism provides increased handling ease. Its highly efficient, weather-proof, internal four-wheel brakes have been made more dependable than ever. And an added measure of driving safety is likewise contributed by its new, sloping, non-glare windshield.

Big Car Qualities. The New Series Pontiac Big Six incorporates outstanding big car qualities of speed, power and pick-up. It has true big car dependability and long life. And it combines these big car features with astonishing economy of operation.

Let us show you the New Series Pontiac Big Six. Let us demonstrate its exceptional all-round performance. You'll find it a car you will be proud to own and drive —truly a finer car with a famous name. And you'll find it easy to purchase on the G.M.A.C. Deferred Payment Plan.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S LIMPY STICK

"Well, I shall have to use my limpy stick this morning, I think," said Uncle Wiggily as he left the breakfast table and went to the window to look out and see whether it was raining or snowing.

"Your limpy stick?" asked Mrs. Longears, who was having her second cup of carrot coffee, after having helped Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy get the forty sixteen rabbit boys and girls off to school.

"That's a new name for my red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch that Nurse Jane gnawed for me out of a cornstalk," said Uncle Wiggily with a kind look toward the muskrat lady housekeeper. "When my rheumatism hurts I must limp on my crutch.

"And does it hurt this morning?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"A little," answered her husband.

"Oh, I'm sorry!" she murmured. "Must you go out, though? Can't you stay in until your rheumatism is better?"

"Thank you," spoke Mr. Longears, "but I need to go out and have an adventure. I shall get along very nicely with my limpty stick. I think. Nurse Jane, would you be so kind as to bring it to me."

Soon, with his red, white and blue striped crutch, or "limpy stick" as he called it, Uncle Wiggily was hopping over the fields and through the woods. Uncle Wiggily limped down a little hill, across a little glade, and started to go up a little hill on the other side.

But here the old rabbit gentlemen got into trouble, for the ground was soft, the sun having thawed out the frost, and when Uncle Wiggily thrust the end of his rheumatism crutch into the dirt, it went down so deep that it stuck there and he couldn't pull it out.

"This is a pretty kettle of fish!

"Dear me! This is too bad! I certainly need my limpy stick!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I must try to pull it loose!"

However, pull as he did, he couldn't get his crutch loose, so he had to hop on one leg, as best he could over to a flat stump half way up the hill. There he sat down, for a flat stump makes a fine chair, and Uncle Wiggily began wondering what he could do.

"I can't get home without some kind of a limpy stick to lean on," said the old rabbit gentleman. "And I can't get my crutch, so what is the next best thing to do?"

Looking up to the top of the hill, Uncle Wiggily saw there a store in the window of which were hanging a number of long, candy canes.

"One of those would be just fine for a limpy stick if I could get up there," thought Mr. Longears. "But I never can reach the top of the hill without something to lean on. I wonder how I can get one of those candy canes?"

Just then along came Neddie Stubtail, the boy bear.

"Oh, Neddie!" called Uncle Wiggily. "Would you mind going up the hill to the store and buying me a limpy stick?"

"Right gladly will I do that, Uncle Wiggily!" growled Neddie in his big, jolly bear voice. "But what is a limpy stick?"

A limpy stick is a candy cane that I may lean on to walk home when I have the rheumatism," said Uncle Wiggily. "Here is the money. Please go buy me a candy cane limpy stick."

Neddie took the money and suffled up the hill. And then Uncle Wiggily began to think:

"My goodness! Bears are very fond of candy. Neddie has a sweet tooth I am sure. Suppose, after he buys my limpy stick candy cane, he starts to nibble it, and then eats more and more and eats it all up? Suppose he does that? I'll never be able to get home!"

So Uncle Wiggily looked anxiously up the hill. He saw Neddie go into the candy store. He waited and saw Neddie come out. He saw Neddie start down the hill with the long, red and white striped candy cane.

Then all of a sudden, Neddie stood still!

"Oh, now he's going to start nibbling it! Soon he'll eat it all up and I'll have no candy cane limpy stick and I'll never get home!" thought Uncle Wiggily. But Neddie did nothing of the sort. The boy bear had only stopped to smell the candy cane. He didn't nibble the teeniest bit of it, but brought it safely to Uncle Wiggily who used it for a limpy stick crutch to help him home to his bungalow.

And when he was home Uncle Wiggily had no further use for the candy cane so he gave it to Neddie who then could eat it all up. And very good it was. So everything was all right.

Leo Macaulay introduced an amendment to the Planning and Development Act under which a council could require the owner of a piece of a sub-division to grade and gravel the roads before registering the plans.

W. Heightington (Cons., Toronto), sponsored a Bill which would give a municipality the right to require the owner of property to keep in repair a strip of land lying between the street line and his building so as to save the corporation from liability for damages by reason of its being out of repair.

Second reading was given a Bill introduced by Hon. Charles McCrae, Minister of Mines, which would compel the introduction of more drastic safety appliances in Ontario mines.

Hon. John S. Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

OVER 6,000 SEE PICTURE.

Seldom has an entertainment at the local theatres so consistently attracted the crowds as the feature film, "Sunnyside Up," which was showing at the Regent for five days this week, and which concluded last evening.

Each night large queues were to be seen extending the whole length of the block between Water and George Streets, and it is estimated by the management that over 6,000 people paid admission to see the picture.

NEW GAME.

Very small boys in Peterborough have developed a new "come on" game in the city with some success. The game as it is worked, is generally the same. The small lad first tinkers around for a moment with one of the patent gum boxes, and then with a dejected look on his face, goes into the store behind the gum box, and says, "Mister—I put a cent in the box and nothin' came out! What'll I do? You'll give me a stick o' gum, wontcha?"

But the gum proprietors are now commencing to demand more definite proof regarding the disposition of the cent before giving their gum, and the game is not as profitable as it used to be.

MAY BE FORCED TO RETURN.

The dismissal of Canadians employed in Detroit due to a move by the city and business firms to retain only those of American citizenship will have its effect here in Peterboroufh, for there are numerous former residents who live and work in the Motor City. The report that J. L. Hudson Company, Detroit's largest store, in discharging non-Americans will mean quite a number of Peterborough young men and girls who left employment in local stores to go to Detroit, will find themselves out of work.

FRANCE LOYALLY

Rebuilding Begins.

TOULOUSE, France, March 8. — (C.P.).—Stimulated rather than discouraged by the magnitude of the task which becomes hourly more apparent to them, the population of the stricken French flood regions are setting rapidly and intelligently about the task of repairing damage wrought by the Garonne and its tributaries.

At Montauban, where 10,000 out of 28,000 inhabitants are without shelter, housing was the first problem faced by municipal authorities, who made a rapid survey of damaged houses in the town. Those capable of repair were taken in hand at once by contractors.

By almost superhuman efforts the electrical power plant was put into commission again, but it will be two months before the gas plant can work, and there is no drinking water from the usual sources. Detachments of military engineers from Perpignan and Versailles are on their way to aid in the work of reparation.

Over 500 Lives Lost.

Loss of life in the flood disaster, it now appears, will run well over the previous high estimate of 500, with Moissac, where 150 perished, the hardest hit of the towns. Property damage will aggregate many millions of dollars. Thousands are homeless, where a week ago was one of the happiest, healthiest sections of southern sunny France.

At Villemur on the Agout river, rescue workers with provisions had to detour nearly twenty miles to get from that part of the city on the right bank of the Agout to that part which of the left, since not only the big bridge there but also those at Macdelaine, Leyrac Mirepoix were swept away.

If in the region of the Tarn the loss of life was light— there were only four dead there—damage to property was immense. Half the department notably the regions of Lavour, Castres and Mazamet, was covered with the flood water. Weaving and spinning mills and weather and dressing factories were swept away and the power plants along the river disabled.

Mazamet alone had an annual turnover of more than a billion francs and the Chamber of Commerce estimates provisionally the damage at a hundred million francs. The work of restoration here will reduce time as well as money. Thousands of flood victims will be forced to remain in idleness for weeks until factories are rebuilt and reconstituted.

The Y.W.C.A. received $15; the Red Cross Society $25, and the Relief committee of the chapter, $50. The newly-elected regent, Mrs. R. C. Cummings, was in the chair.

It was arranged to hold a St. Patrick's Day tea at the home of Miss Daisy Davidson, 191 Antrim street, on Monday, March 17th, under the convenorship of Miss H. Buller and Miss F. Adams.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served, arrangements being in charge of Mrs. N. C. Staples.

Otonabee Chapter Meets

At the regular meeting this week of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E., held in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. with the regent Mrs C. A. White in the chair it was decided to hold a chain of bridge parties to augment the society's funds, in an "Over the Top" campaign. Arrangements were also discused for the sponsoring of a picture at the Regent Theatre during the latter part of this month, the proceeds to be devoted to the Well Babies' Clinic and the Health Association.

Two new members were received into the Chapter, and a social hour, with the service of tea, concluded the meeting.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 8 (C.P.) — Premier Mackenzie King announced in the House of Commons last night that the bill to make it possible to refuse clearances of liquor destined to the United States, would be up for consideration again next Tuesday.

SPECIAL DAY IS OBSERVED

Local Women's Organizations Hold Combined Meeting in St. John's Church.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

The spirit of prayer pervaded the very representative gathering of women, who met in St. John's Anglican church on Friday afternoon in response to the call for world wide prayer, by the Inter-Board Committee of the Women's Missionary Societies of Canada.

Mrs. A. W. Turner was chairman and leader of the program of praise and prayer, "That Jesus be lifted up." This program, in some form, was being carried out by Christian women throughout the world on Friday.

Silent meditation and prayer opened the service, and the leader read the Call to Prayer.

"All Hail the Power of Jesus' name," and "Crown Him with Many Crowns," were the well loved missionary hymns sung. "Jesus Answers Every Need" was the heart searching responsive service led by Mrs. Robt. Hall of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

"Let us Confess," was the subject for a season of silent prayer, (1) In my own life; (2) In my family life; (3) In my neighborly life; and was followed by prayer on these three divisions of the subject by Mrs. Johnston of Bethany Tabernacle. The prayer hymn, "My Faith Looks up to Thee," was sung without accompaniment.

Prayer for "National and International Life," was offered by Mrs. Adj. Jones of the Salvation Army, and for "Church Life," by Mrs. E. W. Coon of George street United church.

"Let us Give Thanks" was the subject for prayer in which Mrs. F. H. Dawson, Mrs. H. E. Connolly and Mrs. E. LeBarr of All Saints' church; and Mrs. Brownlee and Mrs. Tucker, St. George's Church, all led

"Let us pray"—

For our King and Country, was led by Mrs. J. Forbes Allen of St. Andrew's United Church.

For "This Anniversary Year of Pentecost," Mrs. S. D. Carver representing Trinity United Church.

For Young Men and Women of Canada to give their lives to the service of Christ, Mrs. McKenzie, of Knox United church.

For "The Young Life of the World" by Mrs. R. Wright, of Park street Baptist.

For "The Spirit and Teachings of Jesus Christ on Human Relationships," Miss Jackson, Murray street Baptist Church.

That "Christ's Kingdom may Come on Earth," by Mrs. Smiley and Mrs. Throop, representing Mark street United Church.

After reading "He must be Lifted Higher," by the leader, the congregation in unison re-dedicated their lives and all they possessed, to the Kingdom of God.

The closing hymn, "O Love that will not let me go," was followed by the benediction—also in unison.

HEALTH IS VALUABLE

Many things of incalculable value to the individual depend upon his or her good health. Happiness, contentment, usefulness and prosperity in their generally accepted meaning can prevail to the fullest extent only in proportion as good health is experienced. Health is the most valuable and the least valued of our possessions, for without it the world holds few attractions.

ONE OF THE BEST WAYS

to keep healthy is the Chiropractic way because spinal manipulative treatments free the nerves of pressure, thus permitting the life forces from the brain to reach every tissue cell. Nerve energy is that "spark of life" which animates the body and causes every organ and part to do its allotted work.

Let Chiropractic release the power within you.

104 PERSONS ARE KILLED IN THEATRE FIRE

$100,000 Fire Sweeps Alberta Village

30,000 BUSHELS OF WHEAT LOST; 8 STORES BURNED

Fire Causes $100,000 Damages When Flames Sweep Alberta Town.

ENTIRE BLOCK LEVELLED.

Fanned By Foothill Winds, Flames Spread Rapidly in Rockyford.

CALGARY, Alta., March 10 (C.P.) —Fanned by foothill winds, flames tore through the town of Rockyford just before dawn to-day, razing eight stores and a grain elevator and causing damage estimated at more than $100,000. An entire block was levelled by the blaze. Rockyford is about 60 miles north-east of Calgary, in Southern Alberta.

Thirty thousand bushels of wheat stored in the Alberta Pool elevator were a total loss when sparks from the burning buildings settled on the grain-bin's roof and started it ablaze. Intense heat from the roaring conflagration broke windows in buildings across the street from the fire. For a time the Canadian National Railway Station appeared doomed, but valiant work by firemen restricted the flames.

The fire originated in the National Cafe. The cause is undetermined. Another cafe, a meat market, two vacant stores, a pharmacy, a confectionery and a general store—as well as the pool elevator and its annex—were destroyed. Within two hours the full block of structures was burning, and firemen had not checked the flames' advance until after daylight.

Homeless Now Sheltered.

AGEN, France, March 10 (C.P.) — Torrential rains after five days of magnificent weather again descended upon the flood regions of Southern France to-day at Agen, Moissac and Montauban, greatly hampering work of excavating in the search for bodies in the two latter towns.

The rain, if it does not lessen, threatened to make the waters rise again. Little donkey-engines were station at nearly every door pumping out cellars and making no headway as the water commenced to seep in again.

The homeless of Moissac were sheltered in an army barracks, while those on Agen are being taken care of at the Artillery School building here.

Running water in this town is now practically normal. All wreckage has been cleared and the total loss of life fixed at nine, all women and children. In Moissac the bodies recovered numbered 131. Only a small area on which there was debris remained to be cleared, but it was expected the deaths there alone would number 150.

Estimates on the total number of dead ranged between 400 and 500.

THREE K.K.K. MEN APPEAR IN COURT

Elect Summary Trial at Oakville and Plead Not Guilty.

FOURTH NOT LOCATED.

OAKVILLE, March 10. — Electing summary trial and pleading not guilty, three Hamilton men, members of the Ku Klux Klan appeared in the police court to-day on charges of "having their faces blackened or otherwise disguised without lawful excuse. The charges arose out of the action by some 200 members of the organization who gathered here at midnight a week ago and separated Ira Johnston, who boasts of Indian descent from his white fiance. The couple possessed a marriage license.

Those appearing in court were William A. Phillips, Harold Ormie and Ernest Taylor, all of Hamilton. A fourth man, William Maloney, also of Hamilton, could not be found to be served with a summons.

Girl Aviator Sets New Altitude Mark

Roosevelt Field, N.Y., March 10. — Elinor Smith, 18 year old girl pilot to-day attained an apparent altitude of 32,000 feet in an attempt to set a new altitude record for women. The previous record set by the late Marvel Crosson, was 24,600 feet.

Miss Smith carried on her flight a sealed barograph which will be sent to Washington to be read. On landing she said that one of the two altimetres in her airplane showed at one point in her flight 32,000 feet, and the other 30,000.

At this altitude, she said, the super-charger regulating the flow of gas and oxygen to her motor apparently froze.

The physical effort of adjusting the motor made her dizzy, she said, then everything went black, and she fainted.

When she regained consciousness she had dropped to 27,000 feet, and the airplane was in a smooth, gentle glide.

LONE BANDIT HOLDS UP BANK

GETS $1,000.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 10.—(By the Canadian Press.) — Unmasked and armed with a revolver, a solitary bandit strode into a downtown branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce to-day, ordered four clerks into the open vault and escaped with $2,500 in cash. The robbery occurred before the banks doors were opened for business.

Waving the clerks ahead of him with a revolver held in his coat pocket, the robber marshalled them into the vault and slammed the door shut. He scooped up all the loose cash in the teller's cage and disappeared. Soon afterward, the bank clerks discovered that the vault catch had not snapped, and gained their freedom.

The bank branch is located at the corner of Princess street and William avenue, across the market square from Winnipeg's City Hall. At the time of the hold-up, street cars were clanging along two streets past the bank and passers by were numerous on the sidewalk.

NOTED ACTRESS DIES IN LONDON

Marie Studholme Reached Height of Career in Musical Comedy.

STARTED WHEN 16 YEARS.

LONDON, March 10 (By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — Marie Studholme, one of the most popular actresses of that era at the turn of the century when musical comedy had become superimposed upon light opera, and before the revue had been invented, died to-day at the age of 54 years.

George Edwards, the emperor of entrepeneurs in the musical comedy world, discovered Marie Studholme and brought her into prominence through "A Gaiety Girl" and other pieces, just as he did many another nicely educated girl with stage ambitions, a fair share of looks, and a more than commonplace singing voice. Marie Studholme appeared on the stage when she was 16 years old, in "La Gigale" at the Lyric.

The actress's heyday coincided with the sudden rage for the picture post-card and her attractive features caused her to become for the time perhaps the most photographed personage in the country.

She married H. Giles Barrett. They had no children, but adopted two in their infancy. For some years he had lived quietly in retirement.

Passersby seeing smoke issuing from the ground found the dugout and inside, Secord's skull and a few charred bones, all that was left of him, after the ceiling had crashed, in fracturing his skull and splashing him with flames from his fire.

REVINSKY TO PAY DEATH PENALTY FOR SALESMAN'S MURDER IN 1928; HANGS AT REGINA JAIL IN MORNING

Cabinet, After Review of Case, Decides Not to Interfere.

NO CAUSE FOR DOUBT.

Doomed Man Fails to Pick Photo Which in Any Way Resembles Sloan.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 10 (Canadian Press).— Herman Revinsky, now in jail at Regina, Saskatchewan, must pay the death penalty to-morrow morning for murder. Cabinet having reviewed the case carefully has decided that there will be no interference with the sentence of the Court.

In connection with the decision against interference in the Revinsky case, the Remission Service of the Department of Justice to-day issued the following statement.

All Stories Inaccurate.

"The Secretary of State has just announced the decision of His Excellency in Council not to interfere with the law taking its course in the case of Revinsky, who is to be executed to-morrow morning at Regina for the murder, in June, 1928, of one Katz. A variety of accounts of this case, all incomplete and inaccurate, have been widely circulated with the result that public opinion appears to be entirely confused. The truth is that after careful analysis of the sworn evidence taken at the trial, which was overwhelmingly conclusive, the Minister of Justice and his advisers have never entertained any doubt whatever regarding the case. The postponement of execution on the 18th ultimo was therefore, not on account of the Department entertaining any doubt; it was the publicity given to a statement erroneously attributed to a Federal investigating officer by newspaper reports which caused the reprieve. The officer was reported to have said he believed that one Sloan, now convicted of murder at Sydney, might be the alleged 'Jimmie Brown' charged by Revinsky with having committed the murder in Saskatchewan for which he, Revinsky, stands convicted. It was then deemed advisable to grant a respite to exhaustively investigate the report and dispose of any doubt in the public mind in such a grave matter.

"Since then it has been positively established that at the very time the murder was committed in Saskatchewan, Sloan was at Waterbury in the State of Vermont.

"In addition, it was arranged, through the Mounted Police, that a gallery of some twenty-five photographs, including that of Sloan, be shown to Revinsky, to afford him an opportunity to identify the alleged 'Jimmie Brown.' The result was that Revinsky picked out the photograph of a man who in no way resembles Sloan. Neither do the physical characteristics of the man picked out tally with Revinsky's own previous description of the alleged 'Jimmie Brown.'

"The postponement so generally construed as indicating the existence of a doubt regarding Revinsky's guilt was, therefore, only a measure of extreme caution indicative of the very great care exercised in the disposition of capital cases.

"Most accounts refer to a jury disagreement at the first trial. There was no disagreement. The jury did not even deliberate as the trial in question was non-suited by the judge because of an irregularity.

"There was not a single clement feature in the case, and, in the circumstances, there remained no other logical course than to allow the sentence to be carried out according to law."

FREED ON SECOND TRIAL

THREE RIVERS, Que., March 10. Alfred Brule, sentenced to 20 years and 15 lashes after being found of guilty of a serious offence against a young girl, was acquitted to-day by Stein in a second trial. Bruel was sentenced a year ago but appealed the case and was granted a new trial.

Girl Envy of Party In Her New Dress

At a party the other night one girl had a particularly "swell" time. She wore a silk dress, minus sleeves and other things in the conventional evening gown mode. This dress made her the envy of her friends that night, but this morning it was the cause of her appearing in Police Court on a charge of obtaining under false pretences.

It was the old story of the Little Poor Girl trying to look like the Lucky Rich Girl. Lacking suitable finery for the party, she had this dress sent home from a local store on approval. Several days passed and the merchant became suspicious. The dress hadn't been returned and no cash payment. The girl nineteen and pretty, admitted it all to the magistrate.

It wasn't the first time that she had thus hoaxed merchants and appeared in brilliant raiment at parties, but it was the first time she had failed to return the dress.

She was allowed to go on suspended sentence, having paid the $9.98 for the dress, and having made arrangements to have another one, also out on approval, cleaned and pressed before returning it.

She was severely lectured and promised, "Never to do it again."

TWENTY-NINE DIE IN MINE DISASTER AS CABLE BREAKS

EIGHT INJURED.

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, March 10 (C.P.)—One European and 28 natives were killed and two Europeans and six natives injured to-day in an accident in an underground shaft of the Crown Mine.

A cage containing 28 native miners broke away and carried to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of about 1,600 feet. All the natives were killed outright. Another cage working in conjunction with the run-away was badly damaged by the other cage's rope.

Its door was torn open and one of three European miners inside fell out and plunged 1,000 feet to the bottom of the shaft. The rope also injured two other Europeans and six natives in the same cage.

DOMINION LIFTS CATTLE EMBARGO

Ban Against Cattle From Scotland and England Has Ended.

FREE FROM DISEASE.

OTTAWA, March 10.—The embargo against English and Scottish cattle has been lifted, Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, announced here last night. The ban against Scottish cattle ended yesterday, and that on English cattle on March 7.

Cattle from Great Britain may now come to Canada, after a considerable period when Old Country shippers were out of the Canadian market. The outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in England and Scotland was responsible for the embargo.

It was been contended for some time by British cattle men that herds were free from the disease, but as a measure of precaution that embargo was maintained until any possibility of the disease reaching this country was removed. Officials of the department explain that a characteristic of the foot-and-mouth disease is that it remains dormant for a time, then breaks out again with renewed vigor. It is now regarded as certain that last traces of this malady have disappeared in Great Britain.

WILLIAM H. TAFT Former President of U. S. Passes in Washington

GREAT AMERICAN NATION PREPARES TO HONOR FORMER PRESIDENT

MADE BRAVE FIGHT.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 10. — (C.P.)—The body of William Howard Taft lay to-day in the still serenity of his home, while a great nation prepared to confer upon him its highest honors.

A profusion of floral tributes, bright with the blossoms of spring, crowded the lower chambers of the House and testified to the respect and affection of the people for the genial, friendly man who served in the two highest offices of the Government.

The quietude of the pleasant old house on Wyoming Avenue was unbroken save for the occasional arrival of solicitous friends bringing expressions of sympathy to Mrs. Taft, or of messengers with more flowers and notes of condolence from the great of this and other nations.

From the White House to the most far-flung outpost of the military and naval services of the United States, flags stood at half staff. Congress met only to adopt resolutions of sorrow and then adjourned as a mark of respect for the former President and Chief Justice.

With impressive services of dignified simplicity, the nation to-morrow will heap its honors upon the memory of Mr. Taft. For three hours, the body will lie in state beneath the massive rotunda of the Capitol. Funeral services at All Souls' Unitarian Church, where Mr. Taft worshipped for many years, and interment in a wooded slope of the Arlington National Cemetery will follow.

Made Brave Fight.

At the point of death for many days, suffering hopelessly from a combination of ailments, Mr. Taft had surprised his physicians by the vitality of his last hours. But at 1.45 on Saturday afternoon a sudden stroke, while he was alone except for his nurse, heralded the end.

Fifteen minutes later Dr. H. G. Fuller reached the bedside, but turned away with a shake of the head. Mrs. Taft, summoned from another room took up her station near at hand for the last vigil. At 5.15 o'clock death snuffed out at last the flickering flame.

The only daughter, Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, was away for a short automobile ride when death occurred. The two sons, Robert and Charles, both of Cincinnati, had left Washington after spending several days at their father's bedside.

"The former Chief Justice died at 5.15 p.m. A sudden change in his condition occurred at 4.45 p.m., from which he failed to rally."

A military escort will accompany the body to Arlington National Cemetery. He will be the first President to be buried at Arlington.

Charles P. and Robert A. Taft, sons of the departed jurist, joined their widowed mother and their sister yesterday, while citizens everywhere were in mourning. With Colonel Camp-

Prince Continues Hunt Into Uganda

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, British East Africa, March 10 (C.P). —The Prince of Wales left here yesterday for Uganda to continue his hunting trip, interrupted more than a week ago when he contracted sub-tertial malarial fever while on a safari near here.

His departure was quite informal, only the Governor and a few other people bidding him farewell at the station. He previously had received a number of friends at Government House.

From Uganda the Prince expects to make his way deviously up to Khartum and up the Nile to the Mediterranean, where he will board a ship for England, probably arriving about the last of April.

His recovery from fever was unexpectedly rapid.

LLOYD GEORGE OPENS ATTACK

DEMANDS ACTION.

LONDON, March 10 (C.P.)—Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George to-day opened the Liberal guns on the Government's handling of the unemployment problem in accordance with an announcement made from Liberal headquarters last Saturday, that the "period of truce" on the unemployment problem was definitely at an end.

The former inaugurated debate in the House of Commons by calling attention to figures showing that the number of unemployed when the Labor Government took office was 1,100,000 while the latest figures show 1,539,300 jobless.

He said that Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Cabinet Minister, who is in charge of the unemployment problem, while rightly pleading for patience, had led the House to believe that a definite impression on the alraming figures would be made by February, but that to-day's figures were 147,000 worse than the same time last year.

Nation Disappointed

Mr. Thomas must feel disappointed as is the whole country, he said. "The time has come, therefore, for a very candid and fearless review of the whole position, not so much in a spirit of criticism as in a spirit of helpfulness and of converting the House into a Council of State."

The Liberal Leader declared that the House of Commons could not escape its responsibility in the matter. Mr. Thomas had worked hard, but as far as his remedies were concerned, he had taken too narrow, limited and far too timid a view of his responsibility. Effective steps, Lloyd George said, had not been taken to overcome the present emergency.

FIRE SWEEPS JAPANESE WAREHOUSE AT SHOWING OF PATRIOTIC FILM MANY VICTIMS SMALL CHILDREN

BIG CELEBRATIONS.

Many of Those Who Were Killed Were Trapped in Building.

SEOUL, Korea, March 10 (Canadian Press). — One hundred and four persons were killed and more than 100 injured to-day in a fire which broke out at a motion picture show at the Chinka Naval Base in Southern Korea. Most of the victims were Japanese naval men and their wives and children.

The show was being held in a warehouse at the naval base in observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the capture by the Japanese of Mukden in the Russo-Japanese War. The anniversary was celebrated throughout the empire to-day.

The film, which ignited and caused the fire, was a patriotic reproduction of scenes in the Russo-Japanese conflict. About 600 persons were in the building when the film burst into flames and fired the structure.

Most of those who perished were trapped in the building. The blaze broke out at three o'clock in the afternoon and raged for two hours.

The majority of the victims were small children. Flames from the warehouse for a time threatened to spread to a nearby ammunition magazine. The bluejacket fire fighters barely managed to prevent this.

WORLD GETTING BETTER ROTARY SPEAKER SAYS

Humanity on March Toward Brighter Days Rev. Mr. Millyard Tells Club.

POWER OF IDEAS.

Part Thinkers Have Played in World's Progress Stressed By Speaker.

"The world is not growing worse—it's getting better and humanity is on the march toward a brighter day," declared Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, of George Street United Church in the course of an eloquent address before the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day on the subject, "The Power of a Great Idea." Rev. Mr. Millyard reminded his hearers that it was the responsibility of individuals to associate themselves with the procession toward a better day so that they would prove a help rather than a hindrance.

At to-day's luncheon, T. H. Gillespie was introduced as a new member by Rotarian C. G. Graham and given a hearty welcome.

Introduced by Rotarian R. F. Downey, Rev. Mr. Millyard pointed out that the power to think differentiated human beings from the animals. If the latter could think at all their thoughts were on a lower level than those of mankind, for while in a comparatively short time man had progressed from the caves and mud huts of earlier days to modern conditions of living, the robins were building their nests in exactly the same way as they had always done. Referring to the part played in the world's history by the thinkers, the speaker remarked that their lot had not been an easy one. Often they had been jeered at and sneered at, prosecuted and sometimes martyred but finally their ideas had prevailed. Reviewing some of the ideas that had been in the world for a long time, that had been advanced only after great difficulty and that at last had made progress, Rev. Mr. Millyard instanced the thought that mankind should be free and not enslaved, that government of the people for the people and by the people should prevail, that international disputes should be decided by appeal to arbitration and world courts instead of by warfare and that service rather than selfishness should be the standard.

Peterboro Health Association Bulletin

VOL. 10. | MARCH 10th. 1930. | No. 2

The annual report of the Peterboro Health Association was published in last Thursday's Examiner. This gave in cold figures the thousands of quarts of milk, the hundreds of dozens of eggs that had been supplied to needy cases throughout the year. It told of the more than sixteen hundred calls made by the efficient and hard working nurse maintained by the Association, of the supervision of the Children's Camp at Jackson Park. It mentioned all this, but there was much behind these bare statistics that was not stated or mentioned.

It did not state that one day last week the nurse came in from duty at ten o'clock in the evening, was called out at two o'clock the next morning, and drove her car through the darkness, sleet and rain to the extreme outskirts of the City, on an errand of mercy while the City slumbered peacefully on.

It could not be shown in the report that only a few days ago one of her calls was at a house where the mother was helpless from heart attack lying on a bed with practically no bedding. The father, earning on an average of about two dollars per week doing odd jobs, the only work he had been able to secure throughout the winter, and the pitifulness of it all, out of this meagre sum he wanted to pay twenty-five cents for the nurse's attendance.

Neither did the report tell of a family who were all huddled in one room for warmth, on one of the days when the thermometer was many degrees below zero, the father lying on a bed in the corner with a broken leg, waiting for the nurse to make her daily call.

There was the case of the six weeks' old baby coughing its little life out under an overcoat, the only covering it had, while the mother watched through the window for the coming of the nurse, and the father was tramping the streets vainly looking for work.

DYING MAN CLEARS ALL BLAME FROM HIS WIFE FOR FATAL SHOT IN SCUFFLE UPON SIMCOE ROAD

"I Shot Myself" Were Words Muttered By Wride With Last Breath.

INQUEST THURSDAY.

Tragedy Followed Quarrel in Midnight Darkness For Possession of Gun.

SIMCOE, Ont., March 10 (Canadian Press) — Although Provincial Police have not yet completed inquiries into the case, they announced night that the death of Wilson Wride, 23-year-old farmer of Jarvis, appeared a case of accidental death, and no arrests have been made. Wride was fatally wounded late on Friday night when a loaded shot discharged as he was struggling with his wife.

The young farmer started out from his home with the avowed purpose of killing a neighbor. Mrs. Wride followed him and vainly tried to persuade him to return home. In desperation she tried to get the gun away from him and while struggling for possession, the weapon discharged its load of pellets into Wride's body, inflicting a mortal wound, from which he died in a hospital here a few hours later.

Shot Himself

"I shot myself. No one else is to blame" were the main statements among the mutterings heard by those at his bedside as he lapsed into a semi-conscious state just prior to dying.

This explanation, given the weight of a formal ante-mortem statement by the authorities, is not interpreted as a confession of suicide by Wride but rather as corroboration of his wife's story he was shot during the tussle in the road.

Wride was married four years ago at 17. His wife was 19, an orphan. The young couple started out in life by working at the farm of Wride's father who moved to Jarvis. Two children were born to the couple, a girl and a boy, now aged three years and 18 months respectively. They appeared happy to neighbors and villagers.

An inquest into Wride's death will be conducted here Thursday.

GUN RUNS AMUCK ON NAVAL PLANE SAILOR IS KILLED

Twelve Others Watching Manoeuvres Badly Injured on U. S. Cruiser.

SAFETY CATCH OFF.

NORFOLK, Va., March 10 (C.P.).—One man is reported killed and 12 others injured as a result of a machine gun on a navy airplane running amuck in Cuban waters, where the scouting fleet is now engaged in winter manoeuvres, according to reports received at the naval operating base here, and in letters from members of the crew of the cruiser Concord to relatives in this city.

The accident happened several days ago, but for some unexplained reason, the details have not been made public. According to the information received here, Lieut. Wm. A. Watson, piloting a gunning plane, neglected to close the safety catch on the machine gun in the flying craft. The plane landed in the water near the stern of the Concord and the gun began firing. Before it could be taken in charge it had killed one man and wounded 12 others.

The plane had been engaged in manoeuvres with cruisers attached to the scouting fleet, and a number of the crew of the Concord had gathered near the stern of that vessel to witness the landing of the plane in the water near the stern of the cruiser. It was among these men that the machine gun collected its toll.

SOO WOLF WAR TAKES NEW LIFE

AIRPLANE PARTY OUT.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March 8. (C.P.) — It has been a tough session for the wolves in this section of the country in the last few weeks and quite a number of trappers and hunters have claimed bounties on wolf pelts. Yesterday Bob Beck, of Searchmont, the champion wolf killer of Algoma, who is, he says, unable to count the total number he has disposed of during his career, arrived in the city with nine more pelts on which he claims the bounty, these being of animals which were killed between February 9 and March 1.

Then, too, the party of Sault Ste. Marie hunters, who went to St. Joseph Island, by airplane to engage in a hunt for wolves which have been roaming the eastern end of the island, returned with news that while none of the members of the party had been able to secure a wolf, one had been shot by Tom Jondreau of Hilton Beach, who accompanied them and who has other wolves to his credit in the past.

USE OF THE LASH IS CONDEMNED BY JUDGE O'CONNOR

Flogging Should Not Be Imposed as Part of Punishment Claims His Honor.

THROWS OUT QUERY.

If Protection of Society Demands Use it Should Follow Closely After Sentence.

COBOURG, March 10. — Strongly condemning the use to which the lash is put in the administration of Canadian justice, Judge L. V. O'Connor at a banquet of the St. Peter's Anglican Church Men's Club, in this town, declared that no judge has any right to impose flogging as part of the punishment of a convicted man, without being thoroughly conversant with the offender's history and the special circumstances surrounding the case. Even if the protection of society demands the lash, Judge O'Connor declared, it should follow so closely on sentence that the offender would consider it as the logical consequences of pain or disgrace which he may have inflicted on his victims.

"For example, the lash should not, as has frequently been the case, accompany sentences of five years, with the provision that ten or twenty lashes should be inflicted six months after the man's incarceration and the other ten six months before he comes out of the penitentiary," declared Judge O'Connor. "The man who has suffered one installment with the first six months of his sentence may have made an honest effort to reform and made up his mind to become a good citizen. Then why should be be put on the rack again? I would like to hear an answer from some of those who support this repeated flogging."

OSHAWA, March 10.—On Saturday the City of Oshawa celebrated its sixth birthday, marking six years of phenomenal growth that has been equalled by practically no other city in Ontario.

From being the baby city of Ontario, this municipality has gone ahead so rapidly that it is now eighth among all the cities of the Province in point of population. Only the cities of Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, London, Brantford, Windsor and Kitchener are ahead of it. In the six years the population has jumped from 16,659 to 25,550, a gain of about 55 per cent. The assessment has grown from $9,237,520 in 1924, to $16,250,960 at the last assessment. The various city services have kept pace with the city's rapid growth.

INDIAN GOV'T HAS ITS FIRST DEFEAT

Army Secretarial Budget Rejected by Vote of 49 to 44—Expenditures Too High.

HEAVY CRITICISM.

NEW DELHI, India, March 10. — The Indian government sustained its first defeat at the present session of the Legislative Assembly Saturday when the House rejected the army secretarial budget by a vote of 49 to 44. The governments defeat by a close margin followed the voicing of a strong protest in the Assembly against the heavy cost of military expenditure, the government's failure to establish an Indian Sandhurst and the present method of recruiting Indian officers.

Indian speakers were particularly incensed at Field Marshal Sir William Birdwood, the Commander-in-Chief, for his failure to attend the House sitting.

Gerald Macworth Young, Army Secretary, assured the Assembly the government was doing its best to reduce expenditure. He defended the present methods of recruiting Indian officers.

BANDITS ESCAPE AFTER GUN DUEL WITH OFFICERS

One Constable Ditched and Showered With Rifle Bullets—Escapes Injury.

POSSE ORGANIZED.

Car Found Abandoned Riddled With Shots From Police Pistols.

WINDSOR, March 10. — Two fugitive gunmen, believed to have been connected with the hold-up of a store and shooting of Patrolman D. Winegar in Detroit, "said it with bullets" yesterday as district and Provincial Police sought to stop their dash through this region.

Following an interchange of gunfire by pursuing officers and the suspects, the racing automobile was disabled near Thamesville, Ont., where it was later found abandoned. There was no trace, however, of the men, and throughout Saturday and Sunday a posse scoured the countryside in vain.

Despite the fusilade of fire rained upon the pursuing officers, none was wounded, but evidence of the marksmanship of the police was revealed on examination of the fugitive car. Eight shots had found their mark—the gas tank being punctured and a tire flattened. There was no indication, however, that the occupants of the gunmen's car had been hit.

Detected in Windsor.

The car carrying the gunmen was first detected by Traffic Officer Charles Hefferson, as it sped through Windsor. He immediately gave chase, although at the time he did not connect the men with the Detroit shooting. Hefferson, who was unarmed, overtook the car, but as he drew up with it the driver forced him into a ditch, and the car disappeared down the road, while bullets from a rifle whizzed about the officer as he followed.

Hefferson, from a farmhouse, communicated with Constable C. Russell at Chatham. The latter, armed with an automatic, waited for the racing auto. As it passed, shots from his revolver took effect, but the gunmen kept going.

Russell commandeered a taxi and gave chase. They got alongside the fugitive car near the eastern limits of Chatham and had a good look at the men. At close range the rifle was fired at the pursuers, a bullet striking the radiator. Another pierced the windshield and missed the driver by inches. Others punctured the body of the pursuing machine.

Word Flashed Ahead

Heavy road traffic forced Russell to withhold his fire until he again got within range with his automatic. He emptied the chamber into the rear of the gunmen's car, but, shielded by the darkness, they succeeded in making good their escape.

Word was flashed ahead to Thamesville, and a posse was organized to intercept the car. They heard, nothing of the gunmen, however, until a motorist reported having seen a car swing from the highway a short distance west of the village, where the abandoned bullet-riddled machine was found.

According to the police, the description of the men resembles closely that of the gunmen wanted for the shooting of the Detroit policeman and the hold-up of a store there.

TORONTO GROCER HOLD-UP VICTIM

Thug Takes $200 From Till After Beating Proprietor Insensible.

USED PISTOL BUTT.

TORONTO, Ont., March 10 (Canadian Press).—Mistaken for a customer calling for groceries previously ordered by telephone, a robber gained entrance after midnight Saturday to a west-end grocery store. He brutally attacked the proprietor, Ronald L. Johnston, 50, and after knocking him into insensibility with the butt of a revolver, took $200 in cash from the unconscious man's pockets.

Johnston was found lying on the floor with three different scalp wounds and was rushed to a hospital, where his condition is not serious. His wife, who was in the apartment above the store, heard groans of her husband as he attempted to raise an alarm, and discovering his condition, notified police, who learned the thug had escaped in a waiting motor car.

HOUSE IS BURNED AT RIFLE RANGES; DOG GIVES ALARM

ON NORWOOD ROAD.

William Simmons and six other members of his household doubtless owe their lives to the vigilance of one of their two dogs, which aroused them from sleep early this morning and led to the discovery of fire in the west wing, which caused the total destruction of the house and most of the contents, including both dogs.

The house situated on the Norwood road in Otonabee township was owned by the Department of National Defence and was the residence of Mr. Simmons, caretaker of the rifle range for ten years.

He informed The Examiner that he is an old Imperial soldier, having seen a great deal of foreign service. He has been in Canada 22 years and on the outbreak of war enlisted in the 2nd Battalion with which he served in France. On demobilization he secured the job on the Peterborough Range where he has been since April 1920.

Living in the house at the time of the disaster which overwhelmed them this morning was Mr. Simmon's wife, Mr. and Mrs. Kearney and three years old child Fibrence, a son George and William Lee.

Mrs. Simmons Had Been Ill

"My wife has been under the care of the doctor for the past few days" said Mr. Simmons, "and this morning at about 1.45 we were awakened by the howling of the dogs. My wife asked me to go down stairs and quiet them and also bring her a drink of water, which I did. On returning to bed my wife said she could smell something burning and urged me to do down once again to investigate. When I opened the kitchen door, which was at the end of a small passage leading from the main part of the house, I saw a great sheet of flame. Hastily shutting the door and shouting for the other occupants to hasten out of the building, I reached for a wooden bucket and kept throwing water on the door to stay the progress of the flames. I was clad in my nightwear and was in my bare feet. My wife threw me down a few articles of clothing. Seeing that my efforts were useless I telephoned for the Fire Department and they responded

DRY FORCES RAID FASHIONABLE INN

ONE PROMINENT POLITICIAN.

NEW YORK, March 10. — Resuming his drive against the sale of liquor in New York hotels, Major Maurice Campbell early to-day directed 20 prohibition agents in a raid on the famous and fashionable Forest Hills Inn, social centre of a rigidly restricted residential community and arrested Louis C. Gosdorfer, owner of the Inn, and a prominent Queen's Republican, and nine employees for alleged violation of the Volstead Act.

According to the charges of sale and possession of liquor on which the ten were booked at the Newtown police station, later to be released in bail of $1000 each pending arraignment before a United States Commissioner in Brooklyn to-day, a dozen bottles of assorted liquors, and as many kegs of beer were seized behind the grill room bar, which the agents said was installed about six weeks ago.

About 200 patrons, most of them residents of Forest Hills, were on the dance floor, and about the tables of the grill room when the enforcement men made their way into the room.

THE investment which will make a man independent in his old age is not a matter of Capital. It is an investment of Income, or rather of part of it, that will do the work. Few of us ever have Capital for this purpose, but all have an Income of some sort.

Investment from Income is purely a matter of Thrift. Not "tightwad" Thrift but a careful, methodical planning of one's Income to make it provide for future as well as present necessities.

1. Make a Budget.
2. Keep an intelligent record of expenditures.
3. Insure your life.
4. Have a bank account.
5. Make a will.
6. Own your own home, eventually.
7. Pay your bills promptly.
8. Take more life assurance as an investment.
9. Spend less than you earn.
10. Share with others—Thrift without Charity dries up the Spirit.

For particulars of the Imperial Guaranteed Income Policy which will assure you a monthly Income when you retire, or should you become disabled, write to our nearest office to-day. No telling when you may become "uninsurable."

FORMER PRESIDENT OF U. S. PASSES AWAY IN WASHINGTON

The lower floor of the Taft residence was filled with floral offerings. A basket of tulips, crocuses and yellow spring blooms, sent by Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, fronted the fireplace of Mr. Taft's study.

The plot where Mr. Taft's body will rest was selected yesterday by Mrs. Taft and her three children. It is on the side of a wooded hill looking over the winding Potomac River and toward the Capital, in which he worked so long and well. It is situated not a mile to the north-east of the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Flags Half-Masted

America's mourning was symbolized by the flag fluttering at half-mast at the White House. Similarly throughout the States and territories of the nation, and on vessels of war and peace in home and foreign ports, did the flag express the public's sorrow as proclaimed by President Hoover.

The sympathy of the world was brought to Mrs. Taft and her relatives at the home wherein her husband rested in death. Messengers arrived with condolences, some in short, sad sentences or regret and others in eulogy of the late jurist's talents and achievements.

The regrets of the Canadian Government were expressed by Hon. Vincent Massey, in person, and in telegrams from Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Lord Willingdon, Governor-General.

Congress to Adjourn

Senator Watson of India and Representative Tilson of Connecticut were prepared last night to introduce resolutions for Congress to adjourn out of respect to the former President. Whether the Senate would do so was uncertain, however.

A part of the military honors which are to be paid the late jurist will consist of firing salutes at all army posts in the United States and foreign stations to-day, and during the time the body is being taken from the church to the cemetery.

At reveille to-day every army post fired thirteen guns. From then until sundown a gun will be fired every half-hour, and immediately after retreat a forty-eight gun salute will be fired.

During the funeral on Tuesday, the army posts will fire a twenty-one gun salute.

Social Events Postponed

In accordance with the 30-day period of mourning proclaimed by President Hoover, hostesses throughout the Capital have cancelled invitations sent out for various dates within that period. The entire social life of the city will be at a standstill.

The funeral will be conducted from the Unitarian Church in Washington, which he attended during all his life in the Capital.

The services probably will be held on Tuesday, but definite decision will be withheld until arrival of all members of the family to-morrow.

It was the wish of Mrs Taft and Mrs. Helen Taft Manning that the church was selected for the funeral instead of the East Room of the White House, which had been tendered the family by President Hoover.

To-day was also the eighty-ninth birthday anniversary of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, oldest member of the Supreme Court.

Hoover's Tribute

President Hoover last night officially announced the death of William Howard Taft in a proclamation which read:

"To the people of the United States:

"It becomes my sad duty to announce officially the death of William Howard Taft.

"Mr. Taft's service to our country has been of rare distinction, and was marked by a purity of patriotism, a lofty disinterestedness, and a devotion to the best interests of the nation that deserve and will ever command the grateful memory of his countrymen. His career was almost unique in the wide range of official duty: as Judge, as Solicitor-General, Governor-General of the Philippines, Secretary of War, President of the United States, and, finally, Chief Justice.

MADOC SOCIETY TO PRESENT PLAY

Plans Discussed at Recent Meeting of Women's Missionary Society.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, March 10.—The Woman's Missionary society of Trinity United church held their March meeting at the home of Mrs. Jas. Irwin on the afternoon of Thursday with an exceptionally good attendance of thirty-two. The program was in charge of Mesdames Wellman and Bristol Sr. Mrs. Wellman took charge of the devotional exercises, and the Heralds of the Watchtower were called on for the monthly reports. The response was good from Japan, China, Africa, and Indian work, no report being presented from Trinidad and Korea. Mrs. Maybee read a letter from the superintendant of systematic giving. Reports were received from the different committees, all showing efficient work.

Mrs. Ashley, president, took charge and received treasurer's report, roll call, reading of minutes, and financial committee reports. It was decided to have a play put on during the latter part of March, and a social evening later on.

Mrs. Bristol took charge of the program, and a devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. Parks followed by a poem read by Mrs. Fox.

The study chapter of "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem" was given by Mesdames Ludbrook, Wood, Rutherford and Ashley, taking the third chapter "The Winning of Europe." Mrs. Hough then followed with a scripture lesson and Mrs. Rivers led in prayer. After the taking of the offering and a hymn, Mrs. Dingman closed with prayer. Dainty refreshments were served, and a pleasant social half hour spent. Several new members were received, and arrangements were made for the Day of Prayer to be held on Friday. Arrangements were also made for Missionary Supplies to be sent regularly to Miss Wood for the benefit of a Study Class being formed in another neighborhood.

Society Meets

The Presbyterian W. M. S. held the regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. George West on Thursday afternoon of this week with a very good attendance, and a specially good program. At the close of the regular meeting dainty refreshments were served by the assistant hostesses.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, March 10.—The local egg market remained unchanged on Saturday, with plenty of receipts from Ontario and a large amount of American eggs in hand. Prices to country shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, cases returned, were the same as quoted Friday, 30c for fresh extras, 27c for firsts and 23c for seconds. The quotations to the retail trade were 37c to 38c for extras in cartons, 35c to 36c for extras loose, 33c for firsts loose and 30c for seconds loose.

United States Market

The Chicago spot market for fresh-gathered firsts were firm at 23¾c to 24c, but local dealers were not quote so interested as previously, due to the heavy shipments of Ontario eggs. Local brokers were quoting extras at 32c, firsts 30c and seconds 27c, graded eggs, free cases.

Butter and Cheese

The butter market weakened a little on Saturday, and brokers were quoting 33¾c to 34¼c for cheamery, pasteurized, No. 1; 33¼c to 33½c for 36 scoring seconds, and 32¾c to 33c for 37 scoring seconds. Finest New Zealand was quoted at 34c to 34¼c, but small lots of No. 1 Ontario went for 33¾c. It was a buyer's market.

The cheese market was firm, with prices unchanged.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 10.—Receipts of butter and eggs in Montreal all last week were substantially greater than those of the previous week, and well ahead of those of the corresponding week last year. Imports of butter from New Zealand and eggs from the United States were the main reasons for the increase. Prices of both dropped correspondingly.

Egg prices will be still lower tomorrow, with decreases of from 1c to 3c a dozen prevailing. Quotations will range from 30c. a dozen for storage seconds to 39c. a dozen for fresh specials.

Butter ended the week at 34¼c to 34½c a pound wholesale, in car lots, of New Zealand finest, the main grade arriving here. To the retail trade solids were 37c and prints 35c a pound.

The cheese, potato and dressed poultry markets ended the week steady and unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 10. — Aggressive buying operations in new-crop deliveries hoisted wheat late on Saturday about 2¼c a bushel above the low prices reached earlier. The buying appears to be based on indications that an unwieldly interest on the speculative selling side of the market was outstanding and that values would rise sharply if traders who were short of wheat were forced to change positions. On the upward swing of wheat prices, however, general commission-house selling enlarged, and the gains failed to hold well, London cabling that 300 vessels had been tied up as a result of lack of demand for overseas grain.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, ranging from ¼c net decline to 5-8c advance, compared with Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1c to 1 3-8c off, oats 1-8c to 5-8c down, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2c.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

WINNIPEG, March 10.— Declines of 1⅜ to 1⅛c were recorded at the close of the wheat market Saturday. In the first hour prices slumped 2c but a fraction of this decline was wiped out.

Weak Liverpool cables, absence of export demand and no apparent demand in the near future for Canadian wheat all combined to send prices lower. Only 200,000 bushels of wheat were exported overnight.

Trading was slight in the cash wheat and coarse grains and values were unchanged from Friday's close.

WORKING MODEL OF LITTLE THEATRE SUITABLE FOR SCHOOLS

This splendid working model of a little theatre, suitable for public school and high school dramatics, was constructed by A. J. Rostance, instructor in manual arts, Toronto. By an ingenious combination of split curtains and standard stage porperties, Mr. Rostance is able to arrange a variety of settings with lightning-like speed. He maintains that stage stage and its equipment would little more than the usual annual play, which all schools put on that its adaptation would stimulate and give added impetus to amateur theatricals.

NEW UNIFORM FOR OFFICER

IN CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — A meeting of the Police Committee was held Saturday afternoon in the court room, the chairman, Reeve J. M. Bygott, presiding. Deputy Reeve J. N. Stone, Councillor W. S. Wiggins and Chief G. C. Bromley also present.

The question of uniforms for the police force was discussed, and it was decided, on motion, to get a complete outfit for Constable G. Hardy and to obtain those articles of attire of which Chief Bromley was short.

The bylaw regarding the dog tax was discussed, and it was decided that in future the Police Department should be given authority to collect.

It was also arranged that the following fees for dog licenses should stand: Dogs, $2.25 for the first dog; $4.25 for the second, and $4.25 for every additional one. Bitches, $4.25 for the first one; $6.25 for the second, and $6.25 for every additional one. The 25c covers the tag. Chief Bromley was authorized to obtain the tags at once. This schedule of fees will be placed before the town council for their approval at the April meeting.

The policing of Trent River was left entirely to the Police Department to handle.

The matter of a raise of $100.00 in the salary of Constable Hardy was discussed. This will be presented to the Council at their next meeting.

The committee felt the urgent need of a proper parking bylaw, and after a survey of the problem decided to present a bill to the Town Council, covering a 30-minute period for parking in Campbellford.

in a very short time. They were too late however the fire had by this time spread through the dry pine walls with amazing fierceness and rapidity.

Saved Some Furniture.

In the meantime Mr. Lee, with a willing little band of helpers, including neighbors, endeavored to save a few household effects, which he added would amount to about $150, whilst he valued the amount of furniture lost at about $700. It was not insured. He did not know whether the building was insured.

Approaching the scene of the fire from Peterborough, one could see a lurid glow in the eastern sky and when within a few hundred feet firemen were discernable, along with a little group of people silhouetted against the red and raging inferno. At that moment the shell was all that remained of a once handsome residence, and a few minutes later whilst chatting to Mr. Simmons the walls caved in with a dull thud and the structure was razed to the ground a glowing mass of cinders.

Saved Garage.

Fire Chief Gimblett in charge of his men and with the chemical truck directed operations. Seeing that it was useless to attempt to save the house, he ordered some of the men to salvage a cook stove and other articles and posted firemen at the rear of the building giving them instructions to concentrate their attention on saving the garage. This they were able to do after a hard struggle in the intense heat and flying sparks.

Mr. Simmons also keeps a cow, horse and chickens all of which were safely housed in a barn out of the danger zone.

In addition to furniture he lost a Durant touring car which was housed in the drive shed along with two other cars which were saved.

The women folk spent the remainder of the night at Mrs. Price's farm. They stood in the roadway with the other gruop of men, helplessly watching the cruel flames wreak their destruction. A few household effects, including chairs, a table or two, a refrigerator, kitchen range, a heater, a child's teddy bear perched in a ludicrous position on a chair and other articles were ranged along the roadside, to be taken away later by friendly neighbours' teams and trucks.

Mr. Simmons alleges that he called for assistance of four motorists who were passing, but none of them would heed his request. Following hot on the heels of the Fire Department reel and chief's car was the police patrol car and two constables.

ONTARIO

Official Warning
To Truck Drivers and Owners

Loads Must be Reduced During March and April

Important clauses in The Ontario Highway Traffic Act are designed to protect roads, both paved and unpaved, during early spring. Because of moisture that lurks in road foundations, excessive weights and speeds do extensive damage to road surfaces at this time.

What the Law Says

The Highway Traffic Act declares that during March and April, on roads outside cities and towns:

Solid tired trucks and trailers shall be limited to half a load;

Pneumatic tired trucks and trailers, with a carrying capacity exceeding three tons, shall be limited to half a load;

Speed limits all the year round are: 15 miles an hour for solid tired vehicles and 20 miles an hour for pneumatic tired vehicles of more than 8 tons gross. During the spring months, drivers must be particularly careful not to exceed these speeds.

The Law Provides Penalties

The penalty for overloading during March and April is a fine, imprisonment or both. Licenses also may be suspended. Highway traffic officials have been directed to be especially vigilant in apprehending all who disobey.

The Department of Highways desires to impress upon truck and team owners and drivers the provisions of the law. It seeks their co-operation in seeing that the law is obeyed in all circumstances. Ontario's investment in good roads, now amounting to many millions of dollars, must be protected.

A NOVEL SUGGESTION.

The suggestion from Principal Alfred Fitzpatrick of the Frontier College that the Canadian wheat pool should sell its grain at a compromise price provided the Governments of Canada and Great Britain would agree to buy several millions of wheat to be sent to the famine districts in China, is a novel proposal that by its originality will serve to concentrate attention upon the situation in China.

Although the radio and the improvement in cable and telegraphic communication have made the world a very small place and space and time have to a great extent been annihilated, it is nevertheless true that the average Canadian citizen has failed to realize the appalling nature of the famine in some sections of China or to appreciate the fact that six millions of people are without food and that two millions, equal to one-fifth of the whole population of the Dominion, have died from starvation.

Principal Fitzpatrick claims for his proposal that it would solve the wheat problem, stimulate business in Canada, save many lives in the famine district and ultimately have the effect of developing a broader market for Canadian wheat among the teeming millions of China.

His plan is interesting and should at least arouse Canadian interest in a major calamity that every day grows worse.

LET THEM CLASSIFY THEMSELVES.

One feature of the report of Mr. Justice Hodgins who investigated the question of automobile accidents and compulsory insurance for the Ontario Government appeals to most people as a common-sense appreciation of the situation.

Mr. Justice Hodgins does not recommend compulsory insurance for automobile owners.

He would prefer to have them all start out with a clean sheet and make their own classifications through the manner in which they handle their cars.

Under this system when a driver became involved in an accident for which he was responsible he would have his license cancelled until the monetary damages had been settled, and then when his ptrmit to drive was restored he would be given a lower rating than the driver who had not had an accident.

That seems a fairer proposition than to compel all car owners to carry insurance a plan that would penalize the careful driver whose accident record is clear.

Mr. Justice Hodgins' suggestion, if adopted, would apply to automobile insurance the same principle as is now applied in fire insurance, in which field buildings are rated according to the fire hazards they present and premiums are estimated accordingly.

The report gives the Government and the public plenty of food over which to ponder.

THE BURDEN OF TAXATION.

The Canadian Taxation Institute hits the mark squarely in the centre when discussing expenditures by various administrations it points out that "the cost of government will be lowered if and when the citizens are determined that it shall be done."

So long as we are content to allow Governments to pile up huge revenues and spend them just as freely, so long as we are satisfied with an "easy come, easy go" administration of public affairs, we can expect a heavy tax burden, and we will look in vain for any concrete evidence of retrenchment.

If our people would only realize that the average Canadian wage-earner must work for more than one month out of every twelve to pay his share of the upkeep of Federal Provincial and municipal Governments, there might be a demand for economy in public life.

That is the situation existing to-day, or putting it in another way, out of every dollar earned by the Canadian worker he or she has to pay 13½ cents as a tax to keep our Governments running.

The average income, based on an estimate of 3,200,000 wage-earners in Canada, is $1,590 a year, and out of that sum the Federal Government takes $115, the Provincial Government $36 and the municipalities $36.

The figures are staggering enough surely to create on the part of the people of this country an earnest desire for a more economical administration of public affairs.

A FINE ANNIVERSARY NUMBER.

The Winnipeg Tribune has been celebrating its fortieth birthday with a mammoth anniversary number, which it has devoted largely to telling the story of Winnipeg's progress and development since 1890.

The Tribune is to be congratulated upon the thoroughness with which this great task has been accomplished.

Newspaper men in particular will appreciate the immense amount of research that necessarily enters into the preparation of such an ambitious number which covers every phase of activity in the life of Canada's third largest city.

And apart from that, the Tribune's special number is notable because it shows that expansion in Winnipeg has exceeded the fondest expectations of those who four decades ago predicted remarkable development for the business capital of the West.

"It is a story," as the Tribune puts it, "which has outrun and overleaped the dreams of forty years ago. Winnipeg had great expectations in 1890, and the record of those expectations exists in the early files of the Tribune. In almost every line of development performance has exceeded the forecast."

Lucky indeed is the community that can look back over forty years, remember the predictions made at the beginning of the period and visualize in the conditions of to-day the fulfillment of every prophecy.

The Tribune has done an excellent service for its home city in preparing such a remarkable record of Winnipeg's growth and achievements.

Fishermen off the coast of New England report that the bottom of the ocean has disappeared. However, I think they will find it somewhere about there. An ocean bottom has no place to go but down.—Detroit News.

A SHARE OF LIQUOR PROFITS.

The hope is expressed that every city in Ontario will be represented in a deputation that will wait upon the Provincial Cabinet to ask that the municipalities be given a percentage of the receipts or profits of local liquor stores. Windsor is the latest municipality to swing into line; naturally it would not be averse to receiving a share of the money spent in its liquor stores by people who cross the border for short or long periods.

This is not the first time that municipalities have asked for a share of provincial direct taxation. Their request has never been complied with. On the principle of "What we have we hold," the Ontario Government will always be exceedingly slow to share any of its income with the municipalities, except in assistance to public services of a charitable or educational character. To the promised deputation the Provincial Government could point out an extraordinarily large number of snags in the way of such a procedure in this case.

To give the municipalities a share of their local liquor receipts or profits would seem to place a sort of premium on sales. The "wettest" municipalities would receive the largest contribution. It might be an inducement to certain municipalities that are now dry to go wet; it might encourage a campaign for larger local sales. What would the prohibitionists say to all this?

Incidentally if the Government did decide to give the municipalities a share of the receipts, some very interesting information would be disclosed that hitherto has been withheld. It would be instructive to know how much liquor is sold by the Ottawa vendors and what the profits thereon are.

It will not be surprising if a number of municipalities join this deputation to the Ontario Government. A share of the liquor receipts on the face of it looks like "found money." Except in a few places, however, where the liquor sales are larger than they would be but for geographical location, it is doubtful whether there would be any real change in the situation as a whole. Money received from liquor sales by the Ontario Government has to be devoted either to public services or to the reduction of debt. Without profits from liquor the Provincial Government would have to collect more taxes or reduce the services the public throughout the Province are enjoying. The larger centres of population, being the greatest beneficiaries, would have to pay the biggest share of any additional taxation or suffer most in services.

Premier Ferguson's answer to the deputation which it is proposed shall wait upon him may be accurately forecasted.—Ottawa Journal.

WATERWAYS APATHY.

Business Week, published in the United States, perceives little hope for the St. Lawrence Waterway and places the blame for the situation upon the Prime Ministers of Ontario and Quebec. It also seems to feel that the Canadian Government has made only half-hearted attempts to settle the constitutional questions involved between the Provinces and the Dominion, and is no at all disappointed that its efforts in this direction should have met with failure. In fact, the Business Week feels that in Canada opponents of the waterway are in the majority.

The real situation probably is that there is little organized opposition in Canada to the St. Lawrence Waterway Development. The chief opposition in the past has come from the Province of Quebec, but even in that Province there has been some tempering of former objections. The chairman of the Montreal Harbor Commission has declared for the waterway development and Prime Minister Taschereau has, according to current gossip, somewhat modified his views and is almost willing to be converted to the waterway. The Montreal Board of Trade remains the last active opponent in Canada of the development.

Propaganda in favor of the waterway has been assiduously promoted. In view of the apparent watchful waiting policy of the Dominion Government, it may seem anomalous that the chief press propagandists for the waterway are the Toronto Globe, the Toronto Star and the Manitoba Free Press, which are supporters of the present Government.

Yet despite all has been said on the waterway, public opinion in Canada is not thoroughly aroused as to the necessity for it, and this probably more than any other reason is the important factor in the delay.

When a power shortage impends and draws attention to this feature of the development, the public may give more serious attention to the matter. In the meantime the fact that American opinion is so strongly in favor of the waterway, particularly the opinion of the present administration at Washington, is a trump card that Canada holds in negotiations regarding the tariff and other international matters.

When public opinion is thoroughly agreed upon the need for the waterway and Canada's ability to finance its share of the scheme, then further progress will be made. In the meantime a few people are getting excited about it.—Financial Post.

A Thought

HOSTILITY

He who has his thoughts truly set on the things that really exist cannot even spare time to look down upon the occupations of men, and by disputing with them, catch the infection of malice and hostility.—Plato.

What To-day Means To You

"PISCES."

If March 10th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2-30 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Viewed from a material standpoint, only, favoring influences will be in force on this date. An unsatisfied hunger, however, will be sensed for those things which feed the mind and soul. Travellers are warned against minor accidents.

The child born on this March 10th will be endowed with much natural ability, and is not destined to play a minor role in this life. It will be gracious in manner kindly of heart, and sociable. Its adaptability will be its dominating trait.

Nature was most kind to you when she gave you your "contentment." Your wars with self or your surroundings are short-lived—you accept the inevitable with a smile and you work for the rest with a spirit which is bound to bring success and not failure. Your ambitions are more of an intellectual nature than a material one, and you are always striving to improve your mind. You are only sociable to a degree. You enjoy the companionship of congenial folks, but you are really happiest when in communion with your own thoughts or browsing in a book. You have far too great a mental storehouse to permit boredom. It is not ease, riches or the applause of men for which you are striving, but the opportunity of doing something worth while. A superficial life in any form does not appeal to you, nor do superficial people attract you.

You have a very strong will power, (separate and apart from stubborness) and you usually carry out your resolutions. You have a modest amount of self-confidence, but you never assume a know-it-all attitude. You are able to recognize your own powers without letting conceit enter into your being. You have considerable initiative and you are not afraid of responsibilities. You are generally regarded as well-informed and intellectual and your judgment is respected. A busy, but secluded and quiet life is the one which you choose from preference.

CHAPTER 20.

We went upstairs quietly: I think it was in all our minds that we should not advertise our presence to Mrs. Greene. Rex's room, like all those in the Greene mansion, was spacious. It had a large window at the front and another at the side. There were no draperies to shut out the light, and the slanting midday sun of winter poured in. The walls, as Chester had once told us, were lined with books; and pamphlets and papers were piled in every available nook. The chamber resembled a student's workshop more than a bedroom.

Heath studied the body for several minutes.

"He was shot standing still, Mr. Markham. He collapsed in a heap and then straightened out a little after he'd hit the floor."

Vance was bending over the dead man with a puzzled expression.

"Markham, there's something curious and inconsistent here," he said. "It was broad daylight when this thing happened, and the lad was shot from the front—there are even powder marks on the face. But his expression is perfectly natural. No sign of fear or astonishment—rather peaceful and unconcerned, in fact, * * * It's incredible. The murderer and the pistol certainly weren't invisible."

Heath nodded slowly.

"I noticed that too, sir. It's peculiar.' He bent more closely over the body. "That wound looks to me like a thirty-two," he commented, turning to the doctor for confirmation.

"Yes," said Von Blon. "It appears to have been made with the same weapon that was used against the others."

"It was the same weapon," Vance pronounced somberly, taking out his cigarette-case with thoughtful deliberation. "And it was the same killer who used it."

He smoked a moment, his troubled gaze resting on Rex's face. "But why was it done at just this time—in the daylight, with the door open, and when there were people close at hand? Why didn't the murder wait until night? Why did he run such a needless risk?"

"Don't forget," Markham reminded him, "that Rex was on the point of coming to my office to tell me something."

"But who knew he was about to indulge in revelations? He was shot within ten minutes of your call—" He broke off and turned quickly to the doctor. "What telephone extensions are there in the house?"

"There are three, I believe." Von Blon spoke easily. "There's one in Mrs. Greene's room, one in Sibella's room, and, I think, one in the kitchen. The main phone is, of course, in the lower front hall.

"A regular central office," growled Heath. "Almost anybody coulda listened in." Suddenly he fell on his knees beside the body and unflexed the fingers of the right hand.

"I'm afraid you won't find that cryptic drawing, sergeant," murmured Vance. "If the murderer shot Rex in order to seal his mouth the paper will surely be gone. Any one overhearing the phone calls, dy'e see, would have learned of the envelope he was to fetch along."

"I guess you're right, sir. But I'm going to have a look."

He felt under the body and then systematically went through the dead man's pockets. But he found nothing even resembling the blue envelope mentioned by Ada. At last he rose to his feet.

"It's gone, all right."

Then another idea occurred to him, going hurriedly into the hall, he called down the stairs to Sproot. When the butler appeared Heath swung on him savagely.

"Where's the private mailbox?"

ONTARIO APPLES.

Dear Sir,—With reference to story in Friday's paper referring to decrease in apples, I might say the decline in the sale of apples is not caused by the people using more orange juice, it is because the people here were held up; we had to take the refuse, or domestics, which in my early days my grandfather fed to the pigs. The best apples or the good ones are shipped away. I always bought three and four barrels for the winter. This winter I bought only one and believe me they were half rotten before half the barrel was used. It seems home consumption has to take the leavings.

Yours very truly,

A Subscriber to Your Paper.

THE RADIO QUESTION.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—May I take a small space in your paper to call to the attention of your readers, and radio fans in particular, the new radio legislation which the Federal Government will consider in the very near future, and the urgent necessity of acting at once if they would like their wishes in this matter respected.

According to the Radio Commission's report, which, if the Government acts on it, will form the backbone of any new radio Bill it may see fit to pass. All existing radio stations in Canada to-day would be purchased and dismantled, and broadcasting as we know it at present, and for which we pay a license fee of $1.00, would become a thing of the past.

In their places the Government would erect seven high-power stations across Canada, operated, of course, by the Government. And as there is nothing in the Commission's report that would lead one to believe these stations would be self-supporting, but quite the contrary. It is all too apparent that the cost of taking over existing stations—and there are a great many building and operating new ones—must al come from the taxpayer's already overtaxed pocket, and from the set-owner in particular, who will then be paying through the nose with a vengeance in the form of a much higher license fee, and possibly a special tax on tubes.

In return for this higher license fee, probably about $5.00, and perhaps a tax on tubes, the set-owner has no assurance that he will receive entertainment on a par with that which he now receives in Canada for a fee of $1.00. And in the case of stations to the south of us, the entertainment, unless huge sums were expended, would in all probability be much inferior to that which we can ver yeilsily get at present from stations to the south absolutely free of charge.

The set-owner, being the most vitally interested, has the future of broadcasting in his own hands, though he may not know it. The Government, I am sure, has no intention of forcing a measure on the people against their wishes, but they must know the will of the people; and the only way it can tell what the majority of fans want is by every radio fan writing to his or her member of Parliament setting forth their wishes in the matter, so that when, and if, any action is taken on the Radio Commission's report, your representative may act and vote accordingly. Otherwise, we may be faced with the peculiar and ironical fact of paying an annual fee of $5.00 for entertainment which we will probably only listen to by force of necessity, and listening to a much superior brand of entertainment from American stations absolutely free of charge.

Delay may be fatal. Write to your Federal member to-day.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this opportunity to set these facts before your readers,—I am, yours, etc.,

"COMING TO TERMS WITH THE UNIVERSE."

Monday.

"Meeting Life's Demands."

SCRIPTURE

Memory Verse: "What doth the Lord require of thee but—" (Micah 6:8).

Read: Micah 6:6-8.

MEDITATION

Every person must complete this sentence for himself. The index of one's moral nature is the way in which he does so. This is life's final examination in spiritual insight. With the decay of outward authority many have jumped to the conclusion that there is no authority. Right and wrong is a matter of "As you like it." There is nothing required But those who have adopted this view do not seem to be a very happy lot. Moral requirements are the laws by which one lays his course. It is not always easy to answer Micah's question, but no one can come to terms with life unless he asks it and keeps on asking it.

PRAYER

Teach us Thy laws, O Lord, Inform us of Thy ways. Make the path of duty clear to us and give us the heart to pursue it. Out of the difficulties of the day, may we feel the joy of having done that which Thou hast required of us. In the strength of Christ our Lord we ask it. Amen.

HONEY DEW CO. ENTERS AGREEMENT

Chicago Syndicate to Manufacture and Distribute Products in United States.

J. J. Mitchell, vice-president of Continental and Commercial Trust Co., Chicago, heads the Chicago syndicate which has acquired the rights to manufacture and distribute Honey Dew products in the United States, outside the territories already covered, accordingto R. B. Lindsay, vice-president of Honey Dew, Limited, who presided at the annua meeting of the company held to-day. Mr. Lindsay explained that the syndicate, which had formed and financed a company to operate in Illinois agreed to purchase the flavoring syrup from Honey Dew Company's Buffalo plant at an increased price and that in the Illinois Company and any other company that will be organized elsewhere in the United States, Honey Dew, Limited, would hold 51% of the common stock, thus involving control. Thus, without any financial obligation involved, Honey Dew, Ltd., would receive a revenue from the syrup and from majority common dividends, if as and when these were paid. The new American organization would not interfere in any way with existing companies. The new American Company has issued 7% preferred stock (non-voting) at 98 to cover costs of establishing stores in Illinois. Honey Dew, Ltd..., was safeguarded in every way in its agreement in as much as it is free after 30 days notice to establish operations itself in any open territories, not covered by the Chicago company.

Honey Dew Western Ltd., Mr. Lindsay reported, was doing nicely, quite up to the records in eastern Canada. Results at Vancouver have been especially good, while Seattle shop had been opened only last Fall. Honey Dew Inc., which operates in the State of New York, have made favorable progress, which indicates substantial progress in 1930. Shops are located in small cities.

The turnover in the old and new shops of Honey Dew, Ltd., has shown increases this fiscal year, Mr. Lindsay stated, both in Ontario and outside. In answer to a question from a shareholder, he stated that no new financing was contemplated. The company was in a comfortable liquid position and obligations on rights were arranged as to payments in such a way that they would not be onorous. By its nature the company did not have large fixed assets, and its real assets would always be in earning power and its name.

H. L. Walker, General Manager, in addressing shareholders said that sales outside Ontario this year to date had been heavier per unit than in Ontario, and that sales in Ontario had grown over last year. There was a lot of territory to develop in the smaller cities of Ontario, but the management would concentrate immediately on developments in the larger centres, such as Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The combination of Honey Dew and sandwiches in the shops has proved a favorable development. Profits had been earned each month this year, with an appreciable increase in February. "Food would carry the shops", he said, "and results from sale of Honey Dew would be velvet. The company anticipated no more trouble with regard to infringments.

"The hand given in marriage," says cynical Sue, "is usually bestowed palm up." By Gettier.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

GOOD OUTLOOK IS PROMISED IN COPPER MARKET

Large Public Utility Progams Contemplated For Coming Construction Season.

GOOD YEAR FOR VIPOND.

Big Increase in Silver Production in United States Shown For January.

TORONTO, Mar. 10 (Special to Examiner.)—In the face of pessimistic prognostications regarding the copper situation and possibilities of lower price levels, local authorities are advancing some strong arguments in favor of a correction of conditions when the spring demand actually becomes acute. Large public utility programs are contemplated for the coming construction season and while the New York outlook is for a slow copper market for several weeks yet the volume of sales should gradually increase, it is believed until newly buying has gotten into step with actual consumption. The steady increase shown in copper consumption over a period of years is also pointed out, the progress being persistent in spite of various industrial fluctuations which took place.

Good Year For Vipond.

The 1929 mineral production report of the Ontario department shows that Vipond Consolidated had the best year in its history, increasing its production by over 18 percent. Total recovery of gold was $817,480 from an average of 300 tons daily, compared with $691,785 from 254 tons per day in 1928. The grade of ore was slightly lower in 1929 due to a decline during the last month or so of the year.

Hopes of a substantial decrease in the production of silver during January were dashed with the publication of statistics which show United States production of the metal was 4,914,000 ounced in that month compared with 4,592,000 ounces in December 1929. Canadian output in January was 1,882,000 ounces against 1,761,000 ounces in Deccember. The postponement of the annual meeting of Dome mines from the original date announced some time ago is believed to have been done to give directors a chance to collect sufficient information to make a definite announcement as to plans for a new mill at the property. Falconbridge Nickel, whose latest diamond drill holes have apparently not been up to expectation is reported to be planning more extensive drilling and exploration. Additional drill stations are now being prepared on the 1,000 level for further deep drilling tests to cut the ore body at various depths.

Newbec has now started mining operations on the 125 level, unofficial reports from the camp state. Regular shipments of ore to Noranda smelter are expected to get under way before the end of the week. The enlarged mining plant has been tuned up and is now working efficiently. Word from Rouyn also states driving through Noranda's "H" orebody on the 925 level has progressed 400 feet and is still in ore. Average values of the body are estimated at 6.5 per cent copper and about $3 in gold.

SOLLOWAY, MILLS SEARCH WARRANT FIGHT CONTINUES

CASE UP IN CALGARY.

Question Raises Point Never Brought Up in Action Before.

TORONTO, Ont., March 10.—Three search warrants issued in connection with the delivery from Toronto to Calgary of the books of Solloway, Mills and Company, Limited, have ...ched from Alberta to Ontario.

To-day at Osgoode Hall Mr. Justice Middleton reserved judgment on the brokers petition for an injunction to restrain Gen. V. A. S. Williams, Commissioner of Provincial Poli of Ontario, as police magistrate for Ontario, Inspector E. C. Gurnett and E. D. L. Hammond of the Provincial Police from acting under a search warrant issued by Magistrate W. Davidson of Calgary endorsed by Gen. Williams and given to the inspectors for execution. The point that arose on the motion before Mr. Justice Orde previously conceived the legality of shipping books from one Province to another to assist an action in the other province

Never Raised Before.

The question to-day as to the right of a magistrate to endorse a search warrant issued in another province and its legal effectiveness was declared to be a point never before raised in an action.

The company also sought a declaration that the warrant "on its force" was illegal and the return of the property and damage for trespass are demanded.

A similar action is proceeding in the Supreme Court of Alberta, Chief Justice Morrison having reserved decision on the motion for an injunction to prevent the Alberta Police from seizing the books under a search warrant.

Mr. Justice Orde ruled in favor of the Crown in the previous application to quash a warrant permitting the books to be delivered to Alberta. In this motion it was contended the books had already been sent to Alberta.

A. W. Rogers, appearing for the Crown, based his defence of the action of the Crown on the section in the Public Authorities Act which, he said, held that six days' notice must be given before action could be taken against a constable.

The hearing is continuing.

KINGSTON LAD REMANDED

KINGSTON, Ont., March 10.—In police court here to-day, Varley Smith, aged nineteen years, pleaded guilty to breaking into the drug store of Ward and Hamilton, the Red Indian service station, and also pleaded guilty to stealing an automobile.

He was remanded until Wednesday for sentence.

FRIENDLY SPIRIT LEADS TO PRISON

Brantford Man Ends in Whitby Jail For Giving Convicts Liquor on Train.

OBSTRUCTED OFFICERS.

WHITBY, March 10 (C.P.).—When William Dawson of Brantford offered liquor to five prisoners while they were being brought on a C.N.R. passenger train from Kingston to Whitby Saturday afternoon, and otherwise interefered with the convicts, he was placed under arrest by Chief H. Gunson of Whitby and Provincial Constable Mitchell of Oshawa who were in charge of the prisoners.

When the train stopped at Whitby Junction, Dawson found himself included among those who were in custody, and Warden Lucas of the county jail was surprised to find that the police had returned with six prisoners instead of five. Dawson has been charged with obstructing officers while in the course of their duties, and will appear in local police court Monday afternoon. The five convicts were from Portsmouth Penitentiary and have been brought here as Crown witnesses for the Supreme Court case of Rex. vs. Fred Plewes, charged with Jail breaking.

Winnipeg Wheat Again Drops To Low Record

WINNIPEG, Man., March 10 (C.P.)—Back to its year's low points, wheat refused to sink into new low ground to-day and rallied from the bottom to close 1c to 5-8c lower than Saturday's closing quotations. May delivery wheat, which had fluctuated within a narrow range during the morning, struck a small deluge of selling orders at noon, which sent the price down to $1.07¼ a bushel, equalling its season's low mark touched on February 25.

AERIAL FREIGHT LINE OPENS

LOS ANGELES.—Articles of incorporation were filed at Phoenix, Ariz., to-day for the United States Aerial Lines, Lt., initiating the first step toward organization of a nation-wide airplane freight service. The planes will be powered by Diesel motors, and be of a five to seven ton capacity. They will be heated, or cooled, by refrigeration as the need may be, and will cost approximately $110,000 each.

Wheat Averages Lower On Chicago Market

CHICAGO, Ill., March 10. (C.P.)—Despite Kansas reports telling of need of rain, wheat averaged lower in price early to-day. A depressing influence was the fact that Liverpool quotations showed new downturn, regardless of advantages Saturday on this side of the Atlantic. Opening unchanged to 1¼ off, Chicago wheat future contracts rallied somewhat but then sagged again. Corn, oats and provisions were also weak, with corn starting ⅛ A 1¼ down, and subsequently declining further.

DULL SESSION ON STANDARD

Price Changes Unimportant When Confined to Exceptionally Few Issues.

FALCONBRIDGE EASIER.

TORONTO, Ont., March 10. (C.P.)—Some evident softness in the Lindsley issues from the opening to-way was the only point of interest in an otherwise dull morning session on the mining market. Trading was confined to an exceptionally few stocks and price changes were unimportant in practically all cases.

Falconbridge opened easier at $4.60 and by noon had recovered to $4.80 only, off a quarter from last Saturday's close. Sherritt Gordon was inactive but firm at $2.81, while Sudbury Basin sold off 10 to $3.30 and Ventures 9 to $1.90.

International Nickel, after reaching a new high for the year of $42 on Saturday, was off another 30 cents to $41 to noon. Noranda was practically unchanged at $41.55, and Hudson Bay indefinitely in the discard as far as attention was concerned.

RING HOPES AT 43 INJURED MADDEN

NEW YORK, March 10.—The body of Bartley Madden came back to New York Saturday, and with it came a tragic story of an iron man who went to his death because he refused to grow old.

Vertigo caused his death, and the condition was caused by blows sustained in a sparring match with gigantic Victorio Campolo, claims "Dumb Dan" Morgan, a veteran boxing man and life-long friend of Madden.

Madden was forty-three years old, five years beyond the generally accepted age limit for fighting men. A man of remarkable strength and unusual capacity for taking punishment, he attempted to come back. He had won five bouts at the time he became attached to Campolo's camp at Miami, as a sparring partner.

Complained of Dizziness

According to Morgan, Madden complained of dizzy spells after he had boxed Campolo. He suffered an attack while on a sight-seeing tour of Washington on Thursday, and fell twenty-eight feet from a balcony in the Treasury Building. He died a few hours later.

Gene Tunney says Madden and Johnny Risko were the gamest men he ever met. Tunney does not include Jack Dempsey among his Legion of Honor men.

BROKER GETS 3 YEARS

STRATFORD, Ont., March 10. —(Canadian Press).— Convicted on two charges of false pretences in connection with the sale of stock in a rubber tire company, Frederick T. Gilroy, Toronto stock broker, was sentenced to-day to 18 months in the Ontario Reformatory on each charge. The sentences will run concurrently.

DURANT MOTORS PUBLISHING ANNUAL FINANCIAL REPORT

One of Few Canadian Companies Along With Ford Motors to Issue Statement.

LIGHT INCREASE IN B.A.

TORONTO, Mar. 10. (Special to Examiner.)—Notice has gone forward calling the annual general meeting of Durant Motors of Canada for March 25 next and as this company, along with the Ford Motor Car Company of Canada, is among the few Canadian companies to publish an annual report, the financial statement to be presented will not only be of interest to Durant shareholders but to all others interested in the industry as well. In the year ended December 31, 1928, Durant earned $1.81 a share and early in 1929 it looked as if the results for 1929 would be materially better, but there has since been a falling off in the demand for passenger cars and profit. Therefore will not be up to earlier estimates. For years past, Durant has earned the current annual dividend rate of 40 cents a share by a wide margin and the earnings for the year to be reviewed at the meeting are expected to meet dividend requirements by a substantial margin.

Another meeting that will hold more than the usual amount of interest this year will be that of the shareholders of Imperial Oil, due to be held shortly. A year ago the company published their first financial statement and only a few weeks ago British American oil did the same. B. A. Oil's profits for 1929 showed but slight increase over 1928 and S. R. Parsons, chairman of the board, in speaking at the general gathering of shareholders said this was due to a loss of heavy snowfalls in the east and unusually cold weather in November and December the extent to which these same conditions affected Imperial oil will not be known until the figures are presented at the forthcoming meeting.

PURITY DAIRY. LIMITED.

Acquisition of Purity Dairy, Limited, of Regina, by Dairy Corporation, Limited, for a consideration of a quarter million dollars, is in line with the program of expansion laid down at the time the company was organized and financed in the east. Starting out in control of Edmonton City Dairy and Montreal Dairy Company, the corporation has since acquired other plants in the leading centres of population in the prairie provinces and to-day controls companies operating at Montreal, Edmonton, Saskatoon and Regina the latest purchase, and has a substantial interest in a dairy at Calgary..

Bond Situation.

The increasing interest in high grade bonds noticed in January continued throughout February, and a substantial amount of important financing was undertaken by Wood, Gundy and Company. During the two months new financing totalled $100,158,755 compared with $70,600,678 during the corresponding two months of 1929. This increased amount was quickly absorbed and in many cases, the new issues now command a premium over the original offering price. There is at present little indication of extensive early financing by Canadian governments and municipalities and consequently, many well informed investors are taking advantage of existing opportunities to purchase availagle issues at present levels. These should prove satisfactory investments.

DROP IN WINNIPEG WHEAT ATTRACTS LITTLE NOTICE

Toronto Speculators Make No Attempt to Initiate Bear Movement.

NICKEL LEADS LIST.

Toronto Ont., Mar. 10. (C.P.)—The rank and file of stocks traded on Toronto Stock Exchange market moved within a narrow range as trading recommenced this morning. The speculative element paid but scant attention to the fall in wheat price in Winnipeg, no attempts being made to initiate a bear movement. But while stocks were well supported all along the line, such support was of the resistance rather than the aggressive type, buying being an acceptance of offerings and not a demand for them.

International Nickel again led the market but the stock was not so conspicuous as last week. Opening slightly lower at 41, it fluctuated within a narrow range, selling off fractionally at one time only to quickly recover and hold up firmly at or better than the opening price.

EXPORT BUSINESS IN GRAIN APPEARS DULL FOR SPRING

Not a Single Full Cargo Booked Out of Montreal Port.

SEASON OPENS END APRIL.

Scores of Freighters Due, Depending on Grain Ballast—Space Sellers Disturbed.

MONTREAL, Que., March 10. —(Canadian Press).— The Montreal Gazette to-day in a review of the prospects of evport grain business when shipping on the Great Lakes and cut of Montreal gets underway about the end of April or the beginning of May, finds the prospects "anything but bright". The review follows, in part:

"With March now entered into, the opening of navigation less than two months away, many eyes are turned to the prospects of export grain business when the shipping on the Great Lakes and out from Montreal to the ocean gets underway about the end of April or beginning of May.

prospects of export grain business ing contact with the leading men of the grain and shipping trade, reveals prospects that are anything but bright. Some rays of sunshine which would pierce the prevailing gloom over the industry, and chase away the shadows reflected on other basic lines of the country, are eagerly looked for, but the goods simply are not there. The facts a...

Not a Full Cargo Booked

"A survey ofth e situation, includ- has been booked for the opening of navigation out of the port of Montreal.

A small amount of liner space has been chartered, a total of five loads, amounting roughly in all to one thousand tons, a mere bagatelle.

"Companies whose business it is to sell space on freighters and liners plying out of Montreal report the outlook blue, vague and disturbed.

"Europe, which takes Canada's surplus wheat in ordinary times, has been practically boycotting Canadian grain for the last several months, and continues taking only sparse quantities, following a policy of hand-to-mouth buying.

"Ocean freight rates, namely the cost of transporting the grain from this side to Europe, are at distress levels, being approximately at the same rates as at the close of last year's season, when they had dropped to less than paying levels in an effort to get business. But cheap rates cannot help. The business is not there.

"Wheat bins of the country are filled to the brim, there being approximately 211,000,000 bushels of an exportable surplus waiting for a market abroad.

Freighters Want Ballast

The situation is depressing to shipping interests for the reason that outgoing liners want grain cargoes for ballast, while there are scores of freighters coming to this side with goods and wanting return cargoes. Already there are nearly one hundred freighters carrying coal booked to come here during the coming season, and not a single outgoing grain cargo in sight on which such vessels depend for paying traffic on their return journey.

"Of course it is a little early to guage exactly what the business will be at navigation's opening. But ordinarily in the first week of March there is a much greater activity in booking cargoes than exists at present. Some local grain men have been overseas to investigate the continued holding off of buying there, and have just returned. They report little prospect of early improvement in European demand for Canadian wheat. Hence the blue outlook at this date is further darkened.

"One factor brought out as possibly aiding to limit somewhat Montreal's early business are the prevailing low ocean freight rates out of Vancouver. What little business is being obtained, Vancouver is at the moment getting the preference for the business."

INSTITUTE PLANS TO INSTALL LIGHTS

Apsley Society Presents Play in Effort to Raise Necessary Funds.

APSLEY, Mar. 10. — (Examiner Correspondence.)—The Women's Institute has an ambitious project in view, that of installing electric lights on the village streets, obtaining the power from George Stephens' plant. In an effort to raise funds for this purpose, a three act comedy, "Mrs. Briggs of the Poultry Yard," was performed in the Parish Hall on Tuesday evening, under the direction of Rev. C. A. G. Spence at the request of the members of the Institute. The hall was filled with an appreciative audience, who thoroughly enjoyed the performance, and the sum of $21.25 was realized. At the close of the play a hearty vote of thanks to the performers, and to Mr. Spence was proposed by the president, Mrs. C. S. Windsor and seconded by Mrs. W. Lean. The play went without a hitch from start to finsh and hardly any prompting was necessary. The cast was as follows: Mrs. Briggs, a woman of business, Mrs. G. Kilborn; Ralph, Jimmy, Almira, Melissa, her children, George Carr, Herbert Lean, Ida Taylor, Eunice James, respectively; Silas Green, a near relation, Norman James, Mr. Lee, a wealthy neighbor, Roy Brown; Virginia Lee, Idena James; Daisy Thornton, her friend, Helen Lean; Mrs. O'Connor, with no liking for goats, Miss Knaggs; Mandy Bates, whose tongue will stumble, Mrs. R. Tucker.

A dance followed the play, and the Women's Institute desire to thank Mr. John Coones for providing the music voluntarily.

Another feature of the evening was the judging of quilt blocks made by children of the local schools, the judges being Mrs. F. McFadden, Miss V. Wagar and Miss Fitzsimmons. The prizes were awarded as follows:

Special—Eva Tucker, for best of all blocks.

All of these great ideas had had a hard time but they had gained strength and had advanced. Slavery was virtually eliminated, and great progress had been made in the curbing of the power of tyrants since King John signed the magna charta. As to the peaceful settlement of international disputes Mr. Millyard was sure that just as the duel had been virtually outlived as a means of deciding personal differences so would warfare disappear as a means of settling international roubles. The Rotary Club and similar organizations were proof, the speaker maintained, that the idea of service as preferable to selfishness was making headway.

He had no sympathy with those who declared that the world was getting worse and was satisfied that if people who thought so could be moved back into any previous period in the world's history they themselves might select long enough to absorb the atmosphere of that period they would soon want to change back to the modern times just as the Communists who howled about the success of the Russian experiment would soon get enough of it if they had to live in Russia.

Rotarian S. R. Armstrong voiced the thanks of the Club to Rev. Mr. Millyard for his thoughtful address.

THE MOST ATTRACTIVE HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER INVESTMENT AVAILABLE

ON every point—yield, security and profit possibilities—the Collateral Trust Bonds of Beauharnois Power Corporation are the most attractive Hydro-Electric Power investment available today.

Security is assured by contracts with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario and with Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated which alone provide earnings more than sufficient to pay the estimated operating expenses and all interest and sinking fund charges of the present development.

Profit possibilities are contained in their attached warrants which provide a bonus of 5 Class A Common shares and the right to purchase 20 Class B Common shares with each $1000 bond.

We recommend Beauharnois bonds for investment.

The Beauharnois section of the St. Lawrence River has a potential total of 2,000,000 horsepower, of which a 500,000 horsepower development is now under construction. We shall be glad to send you a descriptive booklet on request.

FENELLA W.M.S. HOLDS MEETING

Mrs. W. H. Curtis Hostess to Members of Society—Good Program.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FENELLA, March 10. — The Fenella W.M.S. held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. W. H. Curtis on Wednesday afternoon, March 5, with a large attendance.

Mrs. Laurence Isaac of the Harwood United W.M.S., and Mrs. Tim Bates of the Harwood Anglican W. A. were present, and on invitation spoke briefly of the work being done in their respective societies.

During the business period suggestions were offered and a discussion took place regarding a speaker and plans for an Easter service.

The program consisted of the following: The Devotional leaflet, "Miracles then and now," read by Mrs. Fred Talling, was based on Scripture taken from Acts 2:1-4, and Acts 3, 6, 8. "Very frequently the healing of the cripple at the Beautiful Gate of the Temple, is spoken of as the first miracle of the Apostles, but after all this miracle pales before the wonders of conversion, the conversion which turns hate to love and former preferences to abhorence, is re-creation, as truly a miracle, as was the first creation, and think of the large number of these conversions within the brief period covered by these early chapters of Acts. At Pentecost, 3000, soon after 5000, 8000, who in a few weeks or months, allied themselves with this despised sect, because the Spirit of God had wrought a miracle in their lives.

Leaflets read by the following ladies: Mesdames W. J. Jibb and H. Macklin, and the Misses Jennie Curtis Ruby Herrington and Florence Macklin, followed up the story of the expansion of the Christian religion from the birthday of the church at Pentecost, into the east and south Asia Minor. Study the further revelation of God's purpose for the world in the great adventure of Christianity into Europe.

A duet, "Wonderful Story of Jesus," was sung by Mrs. Frank Down and Mrs. Clark Jewell, and a reading "If I Dearly Love My Brother," given by Mrs. C. W. Macklin, completed a very interesting program. Collection amounted to $2.05.

Afternoon tea was served at the close of the meeting, by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Jennie Curtis.

Personals.

Mrs. James Bradbury, of Cobourg, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Brenton.

Mr. Norman Jewell, who underwent an operation in Cobourg General Hospital, has recovered sufficiently to return home.

PILES GO QUICK

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That is why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Pile Sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

"—I went to the Canned Goods Fair, The prunes and the tunes were there—"

HAVE you, too, heard the Cannery racket—the little tin-clad "Sound" operas and jazz numbers, so genially welcomed here by the delicatessen set?

To some theatre interests this is a heart-warming clamor. It means economy for them, hence greater profits.

To persons of sound musical taste, it is ludicrous and impudent—an affront to the intelligence and taste of the theatre-going public. They see in the talkies no excuse for resort to Canned Music.

If you, dear reader, are one of those who recognize that machine-made sound cannot take the place of living orchestras and organists in the theatre, TREAT YOURSELF TO A SIGH OF RELIEF. SIGN THE COUPON BELOW. Then mail it!

WIDE AWAKES AT MILLBROOK

Society Plans to Prepare Art Scrap Books as Extended Project.

STUDY BOOKS OF BIBLE.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, March 10. — The Wide Awakes C. G. I. T. group held its meeting at the church this week, with seventeen members in attendance, the president, Miss Marian O'Brian, in the chair.

Business items included the decision to prepare art scrap books as an extended project, these to be sent, at the year's end, to some mission field, or hospital, as shall be found needful, or best, when the undertaking is completed. Another extended project now under way is the memorizing of the books of the Bible, the leader conducting a lesson, with illustrative chart, at each regular meeting. The group is aiming at becoming a 'recognized' group, a higher standing than 'registered', which it has held since organization about ten years since.

In the devotional period the tenth chapter of John was read alternately and the talk was on "The Pastured Sheep", based on the verse: "They shall go in and out and find pasture."

Miss Phyllis Kidd read an account of the author the hymn, "O Worship the King," and the manner in which it came to be written; at each meeting, for the next few weeks, a study of one of the great hymns of the church will be pursued.

Previous to the opening of the devotional period a brief study on the subject of "Courtesy", was taken up, Miss Beatrice Jones reading an article that summed up this important virtue: "Command of temper, delicacy of feeling; and simplicity of manner, will fit anyone possessing and cultivating them for the best society". A pleasant social time, with games and 'eats', was enjoyed at the close.

It is expected that an initiation ceremony will mark the meeting next held by the group.

LADIES' ASSOCIATION.

Mrs. A. J. Brown Entertains Members of Saint Andrew's Church Society in Millbrook.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, March 10.—Mrs. A. J. Brown entertained the Ladies' Association of Saint Andrew's United Church for its March meeting at her home, Tupper street, the president, Mrs. C. C. Garside, taking the chair, and Miss Estelle Hetherington presenting the talk for the devotional period.

The subject of Miss Hetherington's address was "Why Pentecost", since in June of this year the nineteenth hundred anniversary of this important event in the life of the Christian church occurs. The part women played in the early church was also emphasized by the speaker in her most instructive and inspiring talk, many of the members taking part by reading Bible verses illustrative of the points developed.

During the discussion of business items it was decided to hold a home-made baking sale on Saturday, March 15, and committees to look after the canvassing were appointed for the various sections of the village and countryside.

In charge of the bake tables will be Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. Martin Brock, and Mrs. Westall; Mrs. W. Fred Fallis will superintend the afternoon tea, her helpers being Mrs. Weston Fallis and Mrs. E. Thornton. Canvassers include: Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, Mrs. H. A. Earle, Mrs. J. Spence, Mrs. H. A. Fallis, Mrs. Garside, Mrs. I. M. Nattress, and Mrs. F. H. Smith.

The treasurer's report on the afternoon tea held at the February meeting will be at the home of Mrs. E. Thornton.

LINCOLN.

The school children of Canada will be reminded that the twelfth of February is the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. What can that gracious spirit offer to the children of our day?

It seems to me that the note of sincerity, of fundamental honesty of thought and action might be accented for our good. Lincoln knew, as all wise leaders of men may know, that we are fallible, that there is much of shoddy in the best of us. He knew our weaknesses but he also knew that in every one of us lies a response to the call of sincerity supporting its ideal.

This understanding of men, based as it was upon his own sincerity, enabled him to be patient with all sorts and conditions of people. Because he never tried to deceive himself as to his own motives and aims he had a marvellous directness and clarity of mind that pierced to the heart of the matter. Because he could smile at his own vagaries he could be gentle and tolerant of those of other men. Conscious of many sides of a question he could still abide by his faith in the ideal until it came to common acceptance.

When th se who had less than his power of simplicity and directness appeared before him with their plans for the salvation of the nation he could listen, he could understand,—send them away empty yet with no smart, with no grudging. They retained their faith in his sincerity even when he decided against them.

Only strong souls can know the serenity of mind which complete sincerity brings. Weak people, helpless people, never may know it but must shift from thought to thought, never quite certain, never convinced, always ready to yield to the pressure of the mob, to the voice of assumed authority, to high influence and emotional urges. Lincoln was proof against all that. His sincerity made him a bulwark for the people.

We too must accept this truth about idealism and its sincerity. Honesty of thought and purpose, a high idealism wait on the call of utter sincerity The great body of the people know and answer to that call. Lincoln understood that well and therein lay the secret of his power with people.

Mistakes had to happen. They were unimportant to the great idea. Misunderstandings and errors are but the waste on the floor of the master's workroom to be swept up and discarded. One group may beset us with wails and lamentation, another may threaten and sneer. Misguided weakness may caution and selfishness make impossible demands. Strong in the sincerity of our ideal we go serenly forward to the end, as Lincoln did.

If we can give the children of to-day some glimpse of this need for sincerity in public life, some hint of understanding of the essential quality of honesty and sincerity essential in all our dealings, in all our national activities, we shall do well. Lincoln will not have lived and died in vain.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

PASSAGE OF FOOD THROUGH THE SYSTEM.

Before we had the X-ray the progress of a meal throughout the body was thought to take three to six days.

With the use of the barium meal, which shows up black on the X-ray screen or film, it was found that most of the barium left the body in 24 hours, and that only small traces could be seen after 48 hours.

Thus it has been generally believed that a meal would go through the body in one to two days.

However reaserch men, Drs. Alvarez and Freelander, who have been doing an unusually large amount of work on this subject, have been able to show that our old ideas of food taking three to six days in its passing, is more nearly correct.

They find that the barium meal acts somewhat like a purgative and that is the reason it takes but 24 to 48 hours.

By the use of 30 small beads taken with the ordinary meal, they found that 15 percent went through the first 24 hours; 40 percent the second; 15 percent the third; and 10 percent the fourth. After that, it might take days or weeks before the entire number leave the intestine.

Now beads are not any different than other little objects such as seeds of berries or figs, or the skin of an apple or other fruit, which cannot be digested.

It was found that individuals, healthy and normal in every way, sometimes took longer for the passage of the beads than three or four days, whilst in others who were not as strong physically all the beads passed in two days.

Now every health writer, including myself, talks frequently about the harmful effects of constipation, and of how, if waste matter is left in the intestine too long, that it will be absorbed into the blood and cause poisoning (autointoxication) of the system.

How is it then that many individuals keep healthy and yet food material is three, four, and even five days, in passing through the body?

Simply because the material is always moving along, even at a slow rate, and also because these individuals have within the intestine, organisms that so act on these wastes that they are rendered harmless to the system.

Another point overlooked, is that should you eat much fruit or take a laxative that empties the intestine, it takes two almost days for the intestine to become filled again, and no laxative should be taken to induce emptying intestine because the walls will grip or grasp the waste when it accumulates naturally. And it is this gripping or grasping power of the walls of intestine that moves the wastes along.

PATENT LEATHER KEEPS STEP WITH TAILORED TREND

By FRANCES PAGET

Copyright, 1930, by Style Sources

NEW YORK, March 8.—(U.P.).—Certain revivals in fashion seem logical developments, rather than casual recurrences. This is true of the black patent leather handbag which is slated as a spring favorite. There are several excellent reasons why it should prove successful. As a complement to the tailored suit it is especially good, and the more so since the return of the patent leather shoe is again talked of.

Patent leather lends itself to smart tailored developments and metal or leather trimmings may be used to advantage. The third good reason for the black patent leather handbag is the importance of black, alone or combined with white or colors, in costume jewelry designed for spring.

In addition to black, white and colored patent leather is being used in bags created both for town and resort wear.

The fabric bag in its great variety continues to lead the field at the smart winter resorts and promises to be equally important for spring. The newest idea in the roster of fabrics which offers a high style item as well as one for general distribution is the handbag of flannel. This fabric occupies a distinct niche in resort fashions this season, appearing most often in suits. Handbags fashioned of similar material are being made, and when the suit is of the compose type, with striped skirt and plain jacket, handbags are made of the stripe on the diagonal, with the place of tweed in the handbag field, the colors obtainable being applicable both for town and sports wear.

LAKEFIELD, March 10. — What was probably the last hockey match of the season was played on Thursday evening between the Colts and The Grove, and despite the soft condition of the ice it was one of the best games of the entire season. Both teams were at their best and battled vigorously for victory. The score was 4-3 in favor of The Grove, but the Colts had won the round to cop the Casement Cup. The game was handled very efficiently by J. Gray, who gave satisfaction to both teams. The two goalies played stellar parts and were equally good, the Macrea Brothers and the Stuart-Elmsley combination lived up fully to their winter's record and their team mates backed them up; the combination play of the Colts was not as good as The Grove, but there was plenty of individual brilliancy, with spasmodic combination. Kennedy and Wannamaker, the two junior members of the team gove a good account of themselves, and also the High School boys, White and Jewell. The older members of the team, Wingett, Abrams, Adamson and Stenner, all showed speed and skill, but were not enough inclined to co-operative play, preferring lone rushes for the most part.

The first goal was scored by Macrae, and one minute later Elmsley added a second, then Stenner on a pass from Wannamaker scored.

Kennedy scored the first goal of the second period, making it a tie, but Macrae II and Stuart each added a counter, increasing the lead of The Grove. The third period was a hard tussle, but only one goal was scored, when Jewell netted one for the Colts. The line-up was as follows:

Uncommon Sense

How Do You Know You Cant

Overconfidence is better than no confidence at all.

It is natural to most people, when requested to do some difficult job to reply: "I can't".

To be sure, if I were requested to build a locomotive I should be a little hesitant about undertaking the task.

But if I were interested in mechanics, and young enough to learn sufficient about them to build a locomotive, I would be foolish to decline the request, though I might ask twenty years or so for its performance.

I have known many "I can't" boys, and they still are just about where they were when they began their careers.

I have known nearly as many supposed victims of overconfidence, and those whose careers I have followed are all doing pretty well.

I don't quite agree with the assertion that in the bright lexicon of youth there is no such word as fail.

It has been my experience that more young men expect to fail than expect to succeed, and they usually do fail.

In an ordinary working life, opportunities of one kind or another come to almost every one.

Those who go out to meet them, they do not always make the most of them, but the chances are that they will do better than if, overpowered by some apparently Herculean task, they refused to begin it.

A boy who grew up beside me left the town at the same time I did and took a job in ....., climbing poles to string lighting wires.

He did not know then that he had any especial adaptability for electrical engineering, but climbing poles was the job he got, and he did it as well as he could—so well in fact that he was soon taken into the shop, where he had a chance to learn about switchboards and generators and how they were made and what they were for.

In a few years he was offered a job with the ..... which was then being electrified—a bigger job than he had expected to get.

Nevertheleis he took it. In a couple of years he had saved enough money to enable him to take a year's course in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Then a man connected with the construction of the Baltimore belt line tunnel took a chance and offered him a still bigger job—a job so much more important that most lads of so little experience and training probably would have refused to risk it.

My friend, however, calmly took it on and got away with it.

Today he has a high executive position with one of the big electric railways in the country, and a great and well-earned reputation, all because he never got in the habit of saying, "I can't".

He said to me one day, "I never was sure I could hold these jobs, but I didn't know I couldn't hold them, so I tackled them."

That kind of determination, plus some ability, will carry a young man a long way.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

ON March 17, which falls on Monday this year, we will celebrate St. Patrick's Day and isn't it a pleasant coincidence that green is the color associated with this day and also with Spring?

• • • • • • •

An O, what fun one can have at a St. Patrick party! I suppose many of you enjoyed the Valentine parties you attended, but I am sure you will enjoy the ones on this festive 17th of March, just as much.

• • • • • • •

The first festive day in Spring commemorates this Saint of the Emerald Isle and so in your decorations and refreshments, green should be the predominating color.

• • • • • • •

In looking through the Encyclopedia I find the following about the patron saint of Ireland: "A famous incident recorded of his early labours as a teacher, was the plucking of a shamrock to illustrate the doctrine of the Trinity."

• • • • • • •

"St. Patrick died at Saul, near Downpatrick, according to some authorities, on March 17, 493, although the year is given by the Bollandists as 490."

• • • • • • •

And when you are making the decorations for the party, a bit of foliage or the leaf of the shamrock suggests the renewed verdue and so it will be well to use a plentiful supply of green leaves, even though they may be made of green crepe paper.

• • • • • • •

I am sure you will want to play some games at the party and so I am going to give you a couple to-day.

• • • • • • •

Here is a game entitled, "Watch the green light." Arrange two rows of chairs at right angles to each other, bisecting one another. Leave sufficient space at the point of intersection so that persons walking in either direction can pass, as if at a street corner.

• • • • • • •

Divide the company into two groups and form them into two rows ready for marching, one along the route or "street" indicated by one row of chairs and the other group along the other route.

• • • • • • •

Arrange two light bulbs, one red and one green, so that they can be switched alternately and in full view of the "pedestrians" who must watch vigilantly.

• • • • • • •

As the colores change the lines must stop or go as the light indicates for the direction in which they are walking. When the colors change, those who top must immediately seat themselves.

• • • • • • •

The player who finds himself, standing in the midst of the "traffic" must pay a forfeit ,or drop out of line, whichever the hostess decides shall be the rule of the game.

• • • • • • •

The slogan, "watch the green light and be safe" will be an appropriate one and will cause much hilarity. If you haven't green and red bulbs, the desired effect can be obtained by placing thin green and red cloth or tissue paper about the bulbs.

• • • • • • •

Another game that is funny is to mark a green chalk line across the floor, or tack down a strip of green braid if the floor is carpeted, and see who can walk down it while he rolls a small rubber ball along the line before him.

• • • • • • •

If you have some original St. Patrick's games, you might send them in so that some of the other neighbors might try them.

WOMEN'S MUSIC CLUB HEARS MOST INTERESTING PROGRAMME

Madam Goulet Was in Charge of Very Attractive Entertainment.

FRENCH FOLK SONG.

One of the most interesting of the many interesting programs presented this season by the Women's Music Club, took place on Saturday afternoon at the studios of the Conservatory of Music when Madam Sifroy Goulet was in charge of a very attractive entertainment. The audience was very enthusiastic over the pretty French songs sung by Madam Goulet who was assisted by several musicians in a very artistic program. In the absence of Miss Mabel Clarry, the president, the chair was taken by Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, who introduced the musicians and commented most favorably on the excellent program, at its close.

Madam Goulet sang most charmingly and also gave a brief paper on the Folk Songs of Canada, which was just as attractively rendered as the bright, buoyant songs of the Lower Provinces and the older land of France, which were listened to with intense interest. In sweet, clear voice and with a very attractive style, Madam Goulet sang two groups, in French. They included "Vive la Canadienne," "A la Clair Fontaine," "En Roulant ma Boule," "Alouette, Gentille Alouette," "Dors mon gas!", "Le fil Casse,' 'and "La Paimpolaise."

Taking part in the program with their usual splendid rendition of varied types of music, were Mrs. Gerald McClelland, singing "Mother, My Dear" and "The Brownies"; Miss Musa Cox, playing two pianoforte solos, "Esprite du Soir" and "Marche Mignonne," Miss Mary Westbye, in violin selections; the "Meditation" from "Thais," and Bohm's "Moto Perpetuo," and Max Warne, also playing on the violin: Victor Herbert's "Serenade" and Kreisler's "Liebesfreud." Mrs. McClelland also gave a reading entitled "Tit for Tat." The different soloists received much applause in every instance.

French-Canadian Folk Songs.

In speaking of the folk songs of French Canada, Madam Goulet explained that they were carried from Normandy to Quebec by the French and were preserved here as French-Canadian folk songs. In recent years, renewed public interest in these charminng melodies has been aroused by the Folk Song Festivals held throughout the country and some thousands of them have been collected and published.

Many of our French Canadian folk songs can be traced back to French originals dating earlier than the seventeen century ai... these were brought out by the first immigrants to our land and sung by them to the stroke of the paddle, to the song of the spinning wheel, crooned over the cradle and played by fiddlers for dances in habitant kitchens.

Preserved only in memory, as they were passed on from generation to generation, they changed in mood and in form and at this date have become, to all intents, indigenous products.

"Canadians, who are a music-loving people, now have the opportunity of learning music that expresses Canada—because it was created by those who have lived long in the land."

At the conclusion of a very pleasing and unique program, tea was served. The rooms were decorated prettily with primulas and daffodils and potted plants.

Mrs. Allan, in charge of the meeting, expressed the thanks of the listeners to Madam Goulet and those who had asisted her and also voiced the general appreciation of the entertainment.

Mrs. Allan also announced that the annual meeting of the club will probably be held on the first Friday in April, and a nominating committee was apointed, with members in Mrs. A. L. Amys, Mrs. J. E. Middleton and Mrs. W. Denston.

"Angels of Mons" Created By German Camera Planes Wartime Ruse That Failed

PARIS, Mar. 10—The angels of Mons really existed, but they were motion pictures thrown upon the screen of foggy, white cloudbanks in Flanders by cinemagraphic projecting machines mounted in German airplanes which hovered above the British lines.

This is the rational, though startling explanation offered by Colonel Friedrich Herzenwirth, formerly of the Imperial German Intelligence Service, in a matter that has been the object of considerable research and puzzling during the past sixteen years.

Some of the most eminent psychologists in Europe had settled the question as one of mass-hynotism and hallucination, while admitting that visions had been as real and solid to the soldiers as their own rifles and bayonets.

British Tommies in the historic Mons retreat of Aug. 24, 1914, reported the appearance of "Angels the size of men," who seemed to form the rear-guard of the harassed army of Contemptibles. Superstition and wartime propaganda quickly seized upon these reports and interpreted the visions as divine intervention.

The Colonel admits that the Germans miscalculated in this respect, for the primary object of the motion pictures had been to create a superstitious terror in the enemy's ranks, which was calculated to produce a panic and a refusal to fight upon an enemy which, by all appearances, enjoyed special supernatural protection.

Trick Turned to Advantage

"What we had not figured on was that the English should turn the vision to their own benefit. This was a magnificent bit of counter-propaganda, for some of the English must have been fully aware of the mechanism of our trick. Their method of interpreting our angels as protectors of their own troops turned the scales completely upon us. And the British command contented itself by simply issuing an army order unmasking our trickery, it would not have been half as effective.

Colonel Herzenwirth, however, explains that the Germans were more successful with their cloud motion pictures on the Russian front in 1915 when the Czar's army was sweeping forward through the Carpathians and threatened to engulf Austria. Instead of Angels the German planes carried pictures of the Virgin and Child.

Russians Overwhelmed

The Virgin was shown with uplifted hands as if motioning to stop the murderous Russian night attacks. As had been the case in Flanders, the German planes carrying the magic lanterns with enormously powerful Zeiss lenses flew above the enemy lines. A dense snowbank in the sky above the German army was used as a screen. The airplanes themselves were enveloped in the night and a prearranged uninterrupted drumfire in the trenches prevented the Russians from hearing the whir of the motors.

The picture was allowed to appear only the fraction of a minute then here, then on another part of the front. The effect in the Russian ranks, mainly composed of primitive and superstitious peasants, was overwhelming. Entire regiments who had beheld the vision fell upon their knees and flung away their rifles. Col. Herzenwirth says. If a panic did not seize the entire Russian army it was because atmospheric conditions interrupted flying.

Just For a Moment

The German aviators also could only project their pictures for a brief moment, just when their machines were at the correct angle from the cloud banks. A moment too early or too late and the picture was blurred or distorted.

The trick was repeated several times on the Russian front and was invariably successful. No matter what the Russian officers said to calm their moujik soldiers nothing could make them fire in the direction of the sacred apparition. "There is reason to believe that our trick seriously undermined the morale of certain Russian peasant regiments. We know from prisoners we took that in some cases companies actually killed their officers and flung their rifles away, shouting that they would not be guilty of firing upon an army over which the Mother of God hovered in protection.

"Joan of Arc'

While the French in Picardy and the Champagne region the Germans made another miscalculation however. "Instead of taking the figure of a woman that we threw upon the clouds one night as that of the Virgin or a saint protecting our army, the French promptly recognized Joan of Arc,' he said. Their interpretation was that Joan was in the lead and the trick of the upturned hand which we had thought so clever, came near our undoing. The French thought that Joan had beckoned them to come along and finish the Boche right then and there," the Colonel explained.

British Saw St. George

"The tables were turned upon us once more when we changed from a woman to a man in Flanders. The British said it was St. George leading them on to the slaughter of a modern dragon and his brood, apparently meaning Kaiser Wilhelm and all his host. Anyway, we did not find it healthy to experiment with more visions in the sky for, instead of helping us, they were causing the enemy morale to improve. An army that feels itself led on by supernatural forces is more dangerous even than one which has it over its enemy in equipment."

The psychologists who advanced the unsupportable thesis of large masses of men having become hypnotized simultaneously were correct in one thing; they admitted that the vision had been real and solid to the soldiers. The testimony of the large number of troops who talked seriously about the vision they had seen could not be doubted, although there was a great deal of incredulous scoffing and punning on the subject in France afterward.

The soldiers were right after all.

ANNUAL "AT HOME."

Successful Affair Staged Under Auspices of L.O.B.A. in Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — One of the most successful functions organized by the L.O.B.A. was staged on Friday night in the Parish Hall, when their annual "At Home" drew a large crowd to enjoy a very pleasant evening. The hall was delightfully decorated with the colors of the order and the spirit of good fellowship and friendliness prevailed throughout the evening.

The first part of the evening was spent in playing cards, of which there were twenty-two tables in play. The prizes went to: Lone hand, Mrs. Harry Campbell; ladies' game, Mrs. Charles Glenn; consolation, Mrs. R. A. Linn; gentlemen's game, Reed Adams; consolation, Alfred A. Starnum.

The supper provided by the ladies was voted one of the best spread ever. Over one hundred people sat down to tables loaded with a large variety of tempting goods. The ladies excelled themselves in their preparations, and the service was excellent.

"I couldn't resist buying some adorable imported stockings. But I wondered later if they could ever be washed, they were so fragile.

"I asked the man in charge of the studio's big wardrobe department. He said, 'Of course! We wash everything here, including antique fabrics and historic laces, in Lux.'

"My cobwebby stockings have been washed at least a dozen times in Lux and look just as new and perfect as the day I bought them."

West Toronto Juniors Hold Two-Goal Advantage

QUEEN CITY SEXTET WINS FIRST FROM NIAGARA FALLS

FINAL COUNT 4-2.

TORONTO, March 10.—West Toronto will take a two-goal lead to Niagara Falls on Tuesday night for the final game of the O.H.A. junior championship. The locals doubled the score on the Cataracts here Saturday afternoon before a crowd that packed the Arena Gardens. In each of the second and third periods Bill Hancock's juniors outscored the visitors from the Power City by 2 to 1, and carried off the initial victory of the round by 4 to 2. Two goals may not seem much of a lead, but those who witnessed Saturday's game are almost unanimous in the opinion that the West Enders are the better team, and should win the second game and the title.

Although both teams passed up a number of good scoring chances through ineffective shooting when right in on the net, the West Toronto team suffered most in this respect. In the second period the local outplayed their rivals by a goodly margin, and only the phenomenal blocking by Fischer in the visitors' net and bad judgment on the part of the West Toronto snipers prevented a much higher total than was secured. The Falls defense was easily solved by the locals, who [illegible] enough to roll up a commanding lead, as they went right in on the net for shot after shot at close range. They showed too much of a tendency to make extra passes which such scoring opportunities presented themselves, and thereby miscued on more than one occasion. On other chances they failed to lift the puck over Fischer's outstretched form, and he was able to smother shots that he had no chance of seeing. Had the teams cashed in on the number of scoring chances that were provided them, West Toronto would have won by a much larger score. Owing to a predominance of red in the uniforms of both teams, two Toronto players wore the white and blue sweaters of the Maple Leafs.

Falls Defense Weak

It was a fine game of hockey, with both teams fully realizing the importance of the occasion, and extending themselves to the limit. There were moments when the West Toronto sextet exhibited too much caution considering the weakness of the Falls defense, but no chances were taken with that speedy front line of the Power City aggregation. Heximer, Shannon and Kaminsky are players who take advantage of every break, and the West Enders showed considerable respect for them by falling into a defensive style of hockey when the visitors showed signs of staging a rally.

The score was close enough all the way to keep the fans in a continual state of excitement, and the players supplied enough action to satisfy the most enthusiastic. The goalkeepers turned aside shot after shot that had all the earmarks of a tally, but they both looked bad on a couple that beat them. Thoms started the scoring for the West Enders with a speedy drive following a face-off near the Niagara Falls blue line. He was in mid-ice at the moment, and Fisher's view may have been partly blocked. The puck travelled waist-high through the Falls' defense, and Fisher failed to stop it. The West Enders made the score 2 to 0 later on, when Lamport waited for a pass at the goalmouth, while Collings carried the puck out of the corner and sidled along the end boards. Lamport made sure of his tally, and twice batted the rubber into the net before the red light was flashed.

Niagara Falls' first goal was of the "soft" variety. "Fan" Heximer, who was lifting the puck too high for the most part when at close range, drilled a low shot from mid-ice that Geddes fanned on. Geddes looked extremely weak on that counter, but he stopped others that were more threatening.

Thomas got West Toronto's third goal shortly after the beginning of the final period. He blazed another shot from fairly long range, and it went in off Fisher's stick. The Falls team gave its best display in this period, and only excellent work by Geddes kept the visitors from overcoming West Toronto's lead.

Chocolate-Erickson Battle Is Postponed

TORONTO, March 10.—That the 'Kid' Chocolate-Johnny Erickson bout has been postponed until March 28 is the news received from Matchmaker Playfair Brown of the Shamrock Club, who is at present in New York. In the meantime Chocolate is scheduled to box Al Ridgeway of New York at Madison Square Garden on March 21. Tickets for the Chocolate-Erickson bout will be left at the advance agencies. Those already sold will be honored on March 28, although, of course, those wishing refunds may secure them. The bout promises to be a big attraction, with a capacity attendance, or close to it, and it is likely that most of those now having tickets will retain them.

PARISIANS PASS OUT OF PICTURE

BATTLE TO 2-ALL DRAW.

TORONTO, Ont., March 10 (C.P.)—The Paris Greenshirts, worthy holders of the Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate championship, passed out of the Allan Cup picture Saturday night when they failed to overcome a six goal lead Iroquois Falls, Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior champions had secured in the first game of their elimination series at Toronto.

In the second contest at Galt the Parisians outplayed their heavier and more exeprienced opponents for most of the game, and although they secured a two-goal lead in the second period, they were unable to sustain the furious pace of the first 40 minutes, and the Eskimos came on to notch a brace of markers and deadlock the count at two-all during the last frame.

Iroquois Falls will now mark time until the winner of the Hamilton Tiger-University of Toronto series is decided. Varsity will travel to Hamilton to-night with a one-goal lead secured in the first game at Toronto of their home and home Allan Cup elimination series. The Students won that game, two to one, although outplayed most of the way, and their chances of overcoming the Tigers are not considered exceptionally bright. In addition they will be minus the services of their regular centre, Bill Stewart, injured in the first game.

If necessary 30 minutes overtime will be played in order to decide a winner to meet the Eskimos in the first of a two-game series at Toronto, March 12. If the teams are unable to decide a winner after overtime, a third game will be played at Oshawa on Tuesday night. The winner will then meet the Northern champions in Toronto on Thursday night.

LONSWAY REMANDED FOR WEEK.

ORANGEVILLE, March 8. (C.P.)—Roy Lonsway, 36-year-old farmer of Melancton township, held on a charge of vagrancy in $10,000 bail, since the deaths of his wife and two children, during a fire in their home home on February 15th, was remanded for a week when he appeared in court yesterday. The provincial police are still investigating various angles surrounding the fire's origin.

AWAIT WINNERS OF HAMILTON TIGERS-TORONTO VARSITY SERIES

The above photo shows the Iroquois Falls team, Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior champions. The northern team, which has plenty of class, experienced little difficulty in winning the title again this year, the only team extending them being South Porcupine. Five members of last season's champions are still with the crew, the only exception being Evans, Huggins and Kerr. The players, from left to right, are as follows: Front Row, (1) E. O'Donnell, sub. goal; (2) C. Murray, defence; (3) T. Wilpetis, sub.; (4) C. Saunders, sub.; (5) J. Lavigne, defence; (6) J. Chereoski, right wing; (7) H. Powers, goal. Back row, (8) A. R. Mobbs, manager; (9) L. Le Page, trainer; (10) J. Pender, sub.; (11) P. Parry, right wing; (12) J. Wilson, sub.; J. E. Patterson, executive; (17) R. E. Forrest, executive.

GREYHOUNDS READY FOR SOUTH CONQUEST

Will Meet Winner of West Toronto-Falls Series for Canadian Junior Title.

TORONTO, Ont., March 10.—(C.P.)—Sault Ste Marie Greygrounds, Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior champions, arrived here to-day on the first lap of their quest for the Ontario Hockey Association Memorial Cup, emblematic of the Canadian Junior championship.

Eager for fresh conquests following their decisive triumph over the Cobalt Miners in the Northern final, the Greyhounds will practice on local ice while West Toronto and Niagara Falls decide the championship of the O.H.A., the return of their home and home series being slated for Niagara Falls to-morrow night.

This marks the third successive time the Soo yuongsters have come south as Northern challengers and according to the New Ontario critics the team is the strongest to ever wear Greyhound uniforms.

Home Brew Players.

The home brew character of the team is emphasized by the fact all were born in Sault Ste. Marie. Two of these are natives of adjacent towns and have grown up in the Soo.

An interesting feature of the Greyhound's personnel lies in the fact there are two new Canadians on the line-up, but both claim the Sault as their birthplace. Sandi Delabbio, goalkeeper, was born of Italian parents and Arvi Maki, of Finnish parents.

Six members of last year's sextette are still with the team, only much more polished and improved in their play. They are: Delabbio in goal, the midget of the squad; "Curley" Keenan, 160 pound left wing star; Austin Dundas, right defence player, who is a terrific body-checker; "Punch" McDougall, right wing; Bill Hunter, left wing, and Ross Ganton, utility forward and the heaviest player on the team, weighing 172 pounds.

Other members are: Henry Lauzon, centre; "Butts" Dunn, utility forward; Arvi Maki, forward; Bill Scott, defence, and Frank Conway, sub goalkeeper.

In 17 league games the Greyhounds lost but three ;scored 72 goals against 30 for their opponents, and in four games of the group play-offs the opposing goalkeepers were beaten for 34 tallies while only seven were scored against them.

LAKEFIELD SWAMPS CAMPBELLFORD 9-2

Visitors Have Edge on Play in Public School Battle.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — In a battle that ended in defeat for Campbellford at the Arena on Friday night, Lakefield practically swam their way to victory over the home team in an exhibition match staged between the two Public Schools by a score of 9-2.

The ice was in poor shape, being covered with water, but both teams put up a game fight for supremacy.

The Lakefield aggregation proved superior in their combination play. Campbellford showed a good brand of hockey, but seemed to suffer in the first period from stage fright. In the second period they settled down to real work and made a good showing from then on. Not so strong as Lakefield in combination play, they nevertheless staged some good solo work.

Game Opens Fast.

The first period opened very fast, with end to end rushes, and the team work of Lakefield became prominent. After ten minutes of play the puck was placed in the Campbellford net on a fast shot by Chittick. This was fololwed by another goal by Payne. Play continued even from then to a few minutes before the bell rang, when two more goals were scored for Lakefield.

Lakefield 4, Campbellford 0.

In the second period Campbellford came on the ice with a determination to give an account of themselves. Bad shooting kept the count down, but Runions and Lambert gave a splendid exhibition of goal scoring through solo play.

Lakefield 5, Campbellford 2.

In the third period Campbellford was badly outclassed though they put up a splendid fight. Some fine lone rushes piled up the Lakefield score, and the game finished with Lakefield 9, Campbellford 2.

Lakefield played the stronger combination, and showed a well coached and drilled team.

The Line-ups.

BISONS WHIP INDIANS IN OVERTIME GAME 4-3

Goal By Carl Voss Breaks Up Close Battle at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, March 10. — Cleveland's International League hockey team was defeated by the Golden Bisons of Buffalo Saturday night 4 to 3 in one of the fastest games of the season. A freak goal after two minutes and 59 seconds of the overtime—a shot directed by Carl Voss—was Buffalo's margin of victory. The puck, rolling on its side, circled toward the goal mouth and drifted into the net left vacant by Alfie Moore, who had dashed out to break up the play. The shot was made from a scrimmage, and a desperate headlong dive by one of the Clevelanders in a vain effort to intercept the shot was a split second too late.

Buffalo—Goal, Taugher; defense, Lederman and Murray; centre, Huard; wings, Godin and Gross; subs., McGuire, Young, Dunning, Clark and Williams.

Cleveland—Goal, Moore; defense, McFarlane and Frew; centre, Gray; wings, Doraty and Brophy; subs., Roth, Voss, King, Martin, Cain and Hiller.

LEAFS VICTORS IN ROUGH TILT

Six Major Penalties and One Match Doled Out at Detroit.

RANGERS SHUT OUT 6-0.

DETROIT, March 10. — The slim crowd of spectators who saw the Detroit Cougars in their last home stand here last night were treated to quite a spectacle when they witnessed two fistic encounters, a match penalty resulting, and six major penalties. In addition, they saw Herbie Lewis, Cougar wingman, play lone-handed hockey against three Toronto players for two minutes and saw the Detroiter hold the Leafs without a score for this period. Previously, however, the Leafs had put the game away, the whistle blowing with the score 2-1 for Toronto.

"Rusty" Hughes, heavy Cougar defence man, starred in the fistic encounters, taking a major penalty the first time, in the second period, along with Harold Cotton of Toronto, and drawing a match foul in the third period, when the ice took on the appearance of a prize-ring, both teams mixing it up. In the third-period melee, besides Hughes' match foul, Noble, McCabe, Horner, and Day drew majors. Horner was badly cut by a flying fist or stick in the third period battle.

CLOSE CALL FOR MAROONS.

TORONTO, March 10. — Despite a strong rally by the Leafs in the final period, the heavy-hitting Montreal Maroons hung on long enough to gain a 3 to 2 verdict in their final appearance of the season here on Saturday night. In the first two session, the Maroons had the better of the going, and ran in three counters without a reply from the locals, but it was a different story when the Leafs started to make headway, Ace Bailey figuring largely in the rally when he got an assist and a goal.

There were more than the usual number of vacant seats when the big leaguers swung into action, this being in direct contrast to the afternoon where a capacity crowd saw the West Toronto Juniors defeat Niagara Falls by 4 to 2 in the first of the championship final games. With the Leafs out of the running long ago, some of their followers have lost interest, which is natural under the conditions.

BLACK HAWKS LOSE OUT.

NEW YORK, March 10.— The New York Americans, fast-finishing tailenders of the National Hockey League's international group, turned back the Chicago Black Hawks last night, 5 to 2. The defeat prevented Chicago from consolidating its grip on second place in the American division, leaving the Hawks with a two-point margin over the New York Rangers at three games to go.

The Chicago players appeared tired and were not able to cope with the speed and smooth passing of the Americans. They remained in the running only in the first period and did not get their second goal until late in the final frame. Rabbit McVeigh was high scorer for the Americans with two goals. Himes, Masseear, and Holmes got the others. Tommy Cook, and Earl Miller did the Chicago counting, getting a goal and an assist each.

RANGERS SHUT OUT.

MONTREAL, March 10. — Playing the usual flashy, speedy game which is typical of the Montreal Canadiens at the top of their form, the flying Frenchmen downed New York Rangers 6 to 0 before a near-capacity crowd here on Saturday night. Although outplayed from the first bell, the Rangers did not once give up the battle and at times seemed almost on a par with their Canadian rivals. Although all the Canucks' goals were cleanly and cleverly scored, on the play the Rangers hardly deserved to be shut out and the game was far more exciting and even than the score would indicate.

Belloni and Debaets Win Long Bike Race

NEW YORK, March 10.—Pedalling madly through a continuous uproar, Gaetano Belloni, bushy haired Italian, and his Belgian partner, Gerard Debaets, broke a six-team tie for first place in the final fifteen minutes of the forty-eighth international six-day bicycle race Saturday night and won the closest struggle in the history of the sleepless grinds by a margin of one lap

The final night of the six-day tour of the splintery pine saucer furnished a crowd of 15,000 with as many thrills as could be packed into the climax of one of the fantastic events There was almost endless jamming, as eight of the ten teams, all with a chance to win, fought frantically for the lead, bumped wheels, smashed down the slanting banks, and finally cut loose in the closing dash that gave Belloni and Debaets the victory. The winners travelled 2,330 miles and nine laps.

EVERY BELL TELEPHONE IS A LONG DISTANCE STATION

Quicker service and cheaper than ever before

Long distance telephone service is constantly improving. Seventy per cent of long distance connections are now completed while the calling party holds the line.

In 1927 it took an average of 5.8 minutes to complete connection. In 1929 the average was 3.5 minutes per call and many calls, of course, are put through on the instant.

And with this greater speed there have been two reductions in long distance rates within the last year. Every Bell telephone is a long distance station today, making speech possible across the province or the world — more quickly — and at lower rates — than ever before.

OVER-AGE LIMIT AGAIN PLAYS TROUBLE.

The great series for the juvenile hockey championship of the city in which the Brock street Tigers and the Adanacs have battled through five games on such even terms, has come to another of those unsatisfactory conclusions. It was found that several of the Adanacs were a shade over the age limit of seventeen years and when ordered to play a sudden death game minus these players they defaulted to Murphy's Brock street clan.

CACKLE OF CENTURY ENDS AMIABLY.

Babe Ruth will fix his signature to a contract to-day calling for an annual salary of $80,000 for his next two years of baseball services. The Babe waited for an hour in an hotel lobby on Saturday for the return of Colonel Ruppert from the Yankees' practice field, and then the agreement was made.

It is estimated that if the two year contract runs its entire course [illegible] from baseball during his long and distinguished career, including salaries and world's series spoils, will have aggregated close to three-quarters of a million dollars, which places the Babe in a class by himself as the highest paid player to ever grace a diamond.

The late Jack Dunn started Ruth on his path to fame and fortune in 1914, when he took him from St. Marys Industrial School in Baltimore and paid him $600 for his brief stay with the Orioles. Later the Baltimore skipper sold several players, including Ruth, to the Boston Red Sox, the latter in turn farming out the slugger-pitcher to Providence, where he drew down $1300 for the balance of the season. His big salaries did not start until 1920 when he went to the Yankees at an income of $20,000. This jumped to $52,000 in 1924, and to $70,000 in 1927. His baseball salaries, including the present two-year contract, will have reached $698,900 by the Fall of 1931, while his cut in world's series games totals $40,497, making a grand total of $739,397. For allowing his name to be used for advertising purposes he is said to have made close to $500,000. Ruth is supposed to have $250,000 in banks, and some $125,000 in a trust fund to his credit.

ATHLETICS MINUS IMPRESSIVE INFIELD.

If they weren't world champions, writes John Kiernan, New York Times' sport specialist, that infield of the Athletics wouldn't be so impressive. They have two hitters, Foxx and Dykes, and two fielders, Boley and Bishop. Dykes might be counted a good combination man at fielding and hitting, but not a star in either department.

Most great teams have been built around great infielders, and the Athletics haven't a great infield, which leads to the suspicion that they are not invincible. The 1911 Athletics had Baker, Barry Collins and McInnis. Of course a great team also has fine pitchers, but often the difference between a nine-hit game and a five-hit game is the work of the infielders. A great infield helps to make great pitchers.

TWO-GOAL ADVANTAGE FOR WEST TORONTO.

West Toronto gained a two-goal lead in Toronto on Saturday afternoon by defeating Niagara Falls in the first game of the Junior O.H.A. finals. The Mutual street rink was crammed, it being estimated that 9,000 fans viewed the classic The Toronto outfit deserved the win and would have had a bigger margin had it not been for the great work of Roy Fisher, the Cataracts' goalie. The second game is scheduled for Niagara Falls on Tuesday night.

In connection with junior hockey the Soo Greyhounds, N.O.H.A. champs will make the third successive try to win the Memorial Cup. They have six of last year's team left, and are reported to be strong, defeating Cobalt by 15 goals on the round for the northern title.

VARSITY CARRIES ONE-GOAL LEAD IN HAMILTON.

Varsity has only a one-goal advantage to carry into the senior O.H.A. battle at Hamilton to-night. If a tie on the round results at the end of regular time 30 minutes over-time will be played. If the teams are still tied a third game will be played at Oshawa on Tuesday night, and the winner will meet Iroquois Falls on Thursday at the Arena Gardens. If a winner is decided to-night then the clash with the northern champs is scheduled for Toronto on Wednesday.

C.G.E. BOWLERS BEAT VISITORS

Local Players Victors By Overwhelming Margin of 2,552 in Annual Tourney.

HIGH CALIBRE TOSSING.

Six teams of men and one of women representing the C.G.E. Bowling Club won a decisive victory over an equal number of bowlers from the Toronto Davenport Works, by the overwhelming margin of 2,552 pins at the Duffus Alleys on Saturday night, when the annual bowling tournament was held.

The pin spilling in general was of a very high calibre, the local bowlers taking an 800 pin lead in the first games and although the Queen City crew lessened the lead in the second game, the C.G.E. teams finished strong to pile up a big majority.

The following are the names of the prize-winners:

Miss M. Pilling, C.G.E., high single, 199.

Miss B. Raynor, Davenport, high single, 240.

J. Playford, C.G.E., high single, 284.

A. Munroe, Davenport, high single 264.

V. Ridley, C.G.E., high single, 282.

A. Baker, Davenport, high single, 278.

BURKE AND SHEEDY REPORT TO O'NEILL

Second Baseman Has Taken Considerable Weight Since Last Season.

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 10.—Leslie (Bucky) Burke, carrying considerable excess weight, and Clayton Sheedy blew into camp yesterday and were given a warm welcome by Steve O'Neill, the Toronto Leafs, boss, and the players. Burke tips the scales at 189 pounds, and that is a lot more than the sparkling second baseman weighed at any time during the 1929 campaign. But he looks well and claims he never felt better in his life. Sheedy appears to be in better condition than when he reported last Spring, and is looking forward to playing the three-star baseball that gained him some fame when he was a member of the Baltimore Orioles. Burke reported that Pete Cote would be along Monday or Tuesday.

Taking It Easy

The weather was warm yesterday and the O'Neill squad enjoyed its most useful workout since the camp was opened on Thursday. It is not possible yet, however, to get a line on the rookies, and it will not be for a few weeks. O'Neill is going along slowly with his men, and so far they have not been asked to do much else but toss the ball and run.

Practice each morning begins at 10.30 and is over at 12.30. The players must have breakfast before 9 o'clock, and then walk two miles to the ball park, where they are fortunate in having one of the finest clubhouses in Florida. It belongs to a golf club.

Bill O'Hara, the Leafs, popular business manager, is much concerner about the athletes that he has to keep fed. He thinks some of them must have been firemen at some time or another. At any rate, he considers it quite a mystery how they get dressed after practice and hike the 16 furlongs back to the Arcade Hotel.

Garnet and Grey Leads Play Throughout Battle Only to Lose Out 37-30

Offering a Strong Defense on the Five-man Plan, Combined With Smooth and Well Organized Attacks, the P. C. I. Youngsters Have No Difficulty in Copping Early Lead, Which They Fail to Hold.

STRONGEST BASKETBALL MATERIAL OF CITY LINED UP WITH THE OLD BOYS OF SCHOOL

By a 37-30 count, the P.C.I. basketball squad met defeat when they tackled a strong squad of Old Boys in the Collegiate gymnasium Saturday afternoon in an exhibition match. The defeat came after they had led the Old Boys a merry chase for the greater part of the contest.

The Old Boys' squad consisted of the city's strongest basketball material, with "Bim" Sturgeon and Ken Kingston on the forward line, Scotty McLeish at centre, and Joe Cooper and Hec McLeod on defence. P.C.I. played without Leigh Glover, a first-string defence man, and Wilf Preston, forward.

Take Early Lead.

Leading off with some smart ball, the Garnet and Grey boys took the lead over the Old Boys. Their attacks were well organised and worked smoothly and early successes resulted from combine plays. They offered a strong defence on the five man plan with Stanger and Armstrong in the key positions.

At the close of the first session the P.C.I. lads led by a margin of two baskets. The count was 21-17.

In the last stanza the visitors improved their offensive tactics. McLeish began to operate with Sturgeon and Kingston on forward plays from centre and a number of ringers were registered on tip-off plays. The Garnet and Grey line-up found greater difficulty in getting within firing distance of their objective although they worked faster and harder. A couple of the P.C.I. counters were registered on forced tries by Routley. Wolstenholm and Macdonald contributed as well to bring the P.C.I. final count to 30.

While the defenders were working for their nine points in the last session the Old Boys' smoother attacks were paying steady dividends. Kingston and Sturgeon were largely responsible for the 20 points they bagged.

On the whole, the scrap was an exhibition of fast moving basketball. The boys drew few fouls.

The teams:

Old Boys—Forwards, K. Kingston, R. Sturgeon; centre, C. McLeish; guards, J. Cooper, H. McLeod; subs., T. Hall, George Huffman.

P.C.I.—Forwards, C. Routley, W. Ward; centre, H. Macdonald; guards, N. Stanger, V. Armstrong; subs., J. Wolstenholme.

Referee—Arthur McLeish.

20—1 WIN FOR SENIORS

Another exhibition tilt on the afternoon's bill between the "Y" Seniors and St. Paul's, two girl squads from the Peterborough Ladies' Basketball League, resulted in a dicisive victory for the Seniors by the count of 20—1.

Clare Patterson scored the lone point for the St. Paul's gang that saved them from a total whitewash. She got it, of course, on a free toss, in the first period.

Due to the bulldog defensive and whirlwind attack of the Seniors, the Saints didn't have a look-in. They managed to work the ball forward on a few occasions, but their hopes were disappointed when their inaccurate basket attempts failed. The Seniors worked their forward plays with precision, and it was easy work for Viola Harvey and Isobel Davidson to run up the total. Irene Chambers exhibited some big time work, engineering plays from the centre. Hazel Jackson and Jeanette Allin made a stonewall defence.

Three periods were played. At the end of the first, the count was 8—1 with the Seniors on the heavy end. In the second, the Seniors added 4 points to their total and 8 in the third, while Saints failed to increase their score of 1. The teams:

"Y" Seniors—Forwards, V. Harvey, I. Davidson; centre, I. Chambers; guards, H. Jackson, J. Allin, M. Holmes.

St. Paul's—Forwards, M. Cowan, C. Patterson; centre, A. Comstock; guards, G. Comstock, E. Morrow.

TORONTO PLAYERS WIN TWO TITLES

Three Badminton Championships Retained By 1929 Winners.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 10 (C.P.)—Three Canadian championship titles remained in the East and two went to the West at the conclusion of the final rounds of play on Saturday in the ninth annual tournament of the Canadian Badminton Association played on the courts of the Badminton Club of Ottawa.

Mrs. John Porteous of Montreal took the ladies' singles title, carrying with it the Ottawa Challenge Cup, by virture of her defeat of little Miss Norma Hall, 14-year-old Ottawa entry, in the final round of play by 12—14, 11—5, 11—2.

Jack Purcell of Toronto retained his hold on the men's single title, after a rather hollow victory over crippled Nel Readford by 15—1, 15—5.

The defending champions in the ladies' doubles, Miss Eileen George and Mrs. J. Woodman of Vancouver were successful in their quest for their second title, defeating Mrs. H. F. Wright and Miss Ruth Robertson of Ottawa.

The men's doubles title, which was undefended, was taken by Colonel G. G. Blackstock and C. K. F. Andrews of Toronto, who staged a garrison finish to take the Canadian championship with flying colors from A. B. Massey and Terry Sheard, of Toronto, after the latter pair had taken the first game at 15—11.

The mixed doubles had an all-Vancouver final. Last year's titleholders, Miss Eileen George and Jack Underhill defeated Mrs. J. Woodman and Radford by 15—6, 15—6. Mrs. W. H. Knowles of Montreal won the ladies' consolation singles.

NEW SCHOOL PLAN.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, (U.P.) — John L. Clifton, state director of Education, will soon propose to Ohio schools and colleges a program of educational guidance, designed to remedy some of the defects of the present educational system. Clifton decided upon the need for such a program when a survey he conducted revealed that 20 per cent. of the freshmen in Ohio colleges are failing, and that only seven per cent of the children who enter the first grade enter college.

BABE RUTH ACCEPTS YANKS' FINAL OFFER

Home Run King Will Receive $160,000 For Two Years Signs To-day.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 10.—Babe Ruth came in from without the pale shortly after noon Saturday and accepted terms to play ball with the Yankees. He and Col. Ruppert, the boss and bankbook of the club, had been in conference about five minutes when Col. Ruppert sent for the troop of New York reporters and made the following terse, but meaty, announcement:

"Boys, Ruth has accepted the terms offered him by the club Friday of $80,000 a year for two years, and will sign his contract Monday."

Thus, after a night of serious thinking, and with symptoms of repentance and a change of heart by Ruth before day broke, the historic holdout ceased to be. Its passing surprised nobody who knew of the compromise trend of Friday, and the sober mien of Babe after he had refused Col. Ruppert's concessionary offer of $80,000 a year for two years.

PICK NORSEMAN FOR CHALLENGER

Nova Scotians Pin Their Faith on Roue Designed Sloop.

WILL USE FIFE CREATION.

HALIFAX, March 10.—(C.P.)—Nova Scotia yachtsmen are keenly interested in a bit of boat building now going on at the yards of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, the Island, Toronto. At these yards, William Ogle master builder of the R. C. Y. C. is constructing the 6-metre Norseman, one of three candidates for selection as challenger for the famous Canadas Cup, now held by the Rochester Yacht Club, Rochester, N. Y.

Nova Scotia's interest is due to the fact that the Norseman has been designed by W. J. Roue, Halifax, naval architect. Mr. Roue won honor for himself and his province when the Lunenburg schooner Bluenose, built to his design first captured the International Fishermen's Trophy back in 1921. Bluenose still retains the title of undefeated champion fishing schooner of the North Atlantic. Nova Scotians hope that what Roue has done in international racing with a fishing schooner, he will repeat with a yacht.

Norseman will compete at Toronto this summer with two other 3-metre boats, built from the blue prints of two famous Old Country designers—Fife and Nicholson—for the right to challenge for the Canada's Cup, which is recognized as the blue-ribbon trophy of yacht racing on the Great Lakes and, in international racing ranks next in importance to the America's Cup and the Seawanaka Cup.

Norseman, designed in Halifax and building in Toronto, is the all-Canadian boat of the trio. "Quest", partly built at the Fife works in Fairlie Scotland, is now being completed at the Oakville Yacht Works, Oakville, Ont. Her keel, back-bone, deck-beams and some of her frames came over from Fairlie. "Vision", from the drafting-board of Nicholson, designer of Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's latest challenger for the America's Cup, is now being built at Gosport, England, and will be shipped as a complete yacht to Canada early this summer. All three yachts have been ordered by a Royal Canadian Yacht Club Syndicate, headed by Commodore George H. Gooderham.

When the three come together at Toronto for their trials, Nova Scotia yachtsmen while wishing the other two all sorts of luck, will pin their faith in the little Bluenose sloop as best bet for challenger. Norseman's main dimensions are 48 feet overall, 30 feet waterline, 8 feet 4 inches beam. Marconi-rigged, she will spread 835 square feet of canvas. The Nicholson boat will be a little narrower and the Fife craft some inches shorter than Roue's sloop. Norseman's keelson is of oak, her frames of American rock elm and her planking of Honduras mahogany.

Roue's yachts are not unkown on the Great Lakes. His R-class sloop Acadia, built at Baddeck, N. S., some years ago by F. W. (Casey) Baldwin, son-in-law of the late Alexander Graham Bell, for Commodore Gooderham, has done nobly at Toronto. She made a good showing in international racing on the lakes some years ago and in several seasons won the championship of her class in the R. C. Y. C.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

As one sporting scribe puts it: "What we want to find out is whether Primo Carnera is a prize-fighter and a potential champion or just a freak of nature?" Since Dempsey and Tunney left the prizefight stage gate receipt scores are still nothing to nothing. Apparently Carnera has provided material to show off the admiring public and the most is being made of this opportunity to cash in on a red hot prospect. When it comes to sideshow attraction Primo has it over the other boys like a bean can over a bean. The difference between Carnera's fights and a sideshow is, however, about $15,000 per show. The big boy hasn't as yet, bumped into any heavyweight dynamite but when he does, the battle of Bull Run will look like a picnic. In the "scrap" with Owens, big boy got a sock in the middle and immediately began to howl. We want to see Carnera come up against someone in the class of the Sharkeys and Schmelings then we can give him a boost. You can guess what kind of a boost for yourself.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MOON DIAMOND.

One afternoon the Bob Cat's wife said to him.

"I wish you would get me a diamond ring."

"A diamond ring!" yowled the gentleman Bob Cat. "My goodness! That is something new. Who ever heard of a Bob Cat lady wearing a diamond ring? I never did!"

"That doesn't mean it can never happen!" snapped Mrs. Bob Cat. "I want a diamond ring and I see you are going off to the woods to look for an adventure as Uncle Wiggily does. Well, unless you bring me a diamond ring, you needn't come back.

"Those are hard words," yowled the Bob Cat. "But, speaking of Uncle Wiggily, I was just wondering—"

"I wasn't speaking of Uncle Wiggily," mewed the lady Bob Cat. "I said I wanted a diamond ring! Bring one home with you—please!"

"Though she said "please," for all the politeness there was in it she might just as well have said "molasses!" Or even better, for molasses is sweet and the Bob Cat lady certainly wasn't sweet just them

"But where will you wear a diamond ring if I am so lucky as to see one for you in the woods where Uncle Wiggily finds adventures?" asked Mr. Bob Cat.

"A diamond ring!" yowled the Bob Cat.

"Where can you wear a diamond ring? You have no fingers and if you put a ring on your claw it will stop you from going out to catch rabbits and such like."

"I'm going to wear the diamond ring on my tail!" said Mrs. Bob Cat. "I have such a little tail, just like yours, that all the other animals make fun of it. But if I put a diamond ring on my tail they will see how stylish I am and they will laugh no more. So bring me a sparkling diamond ring. Don't forget!"

"I'll try not to," growled the Bob Cat as he slipped off to the woods to try his luck.

Now it was about this same time that Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods on his way home to his hollow stump bungalow. He had been out all day and now night was coming on and Mr. Longears hoped he would be able to reach his bungalow before it grew too dark. He had been to the movies with Mr. Twistytail, the pig gentleman, and they had stayed rather later than they meant to.

"But even if you are caught out in the woods after dark," Mr. Twistytail had grunted to his rabbit friend, "there is a bright moon and you can easily see your way."

"That's just the trouble!" said Uncle Wiggily. "The same moon which will make it light enough for me to see my way home in the dark will also make it light enough for the Fox, the Wolf or the Bob Cat to see me and chase me and, perhaps eat me!"

"Oh, I hope nothing like that happens!" cried the pig gentleman. "Wait a moment. Ah, I have it. Here is something lucky! He took from his pocket a piece of glass and gave it to the rabbit. "Carry this lucky glass with you," said Mr. Twistytail, "and though you have to hop through the woods by moonlight you will be safe."

"Ha! Ha! laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Thank you for the glass, but I don't see how it can bring me any luck. However, I'll take it.

Putting the piece of glass in his pocket Uncle Wiggily hopped along through the forest. It grew darker and darker and then the moon came up from behind the trees and made the ground look as if covered with silver. Uncle Wiggily hopped along faster and then, all of a sudden, he heard a rustling in the bushes and out popped the Bob Cat.

"Well, snarled the bad chap. "I've been looking all day for a diamond ring to bring my wife, for she told me not to come home without it. I haven't found a diamond ring, but I have found you Uncle Wiggily. You are nice and fat and I think if I take you home my wife will forgive me for not bringing a diamond."

"Say, say!" cried the rabbit gentleman. "I don't want to go home with the Bob Cat. I know what that means —supper—and I'll be the supper! But what's this about a diamond ring. Ha! The lucky piece of glass Mr. Twistytail gave me! Perhaps that will sparkle in the bright light like a moon diamond. I'll try it!"

Uncle Wiggily slyly dropped the piece of glass on the ground where a moonbeam could shine on it. How it sparkled! Like a big gem!

"Look!" cried the rabbit gentleman, pointing to the sparkling bit of glass in the moonlight." Look, Mr. Bob Cat!"

"Oh, a diamond! A moon diamond for my wife's tail!" howled the bad chap. "I'm lucky after all! I'll take this diamond home to her and come back to get you, Uncle Wiggily, wait for me!"

Picking up the piece of glass he thought was a moon diamond, the Bob Cat ran home with it to his wife. But did Uncle Wiggily wait? Indeed he did not. Home to his bungalow safely ran the rabbit gentleman and all was well.

MYSTERY MUSIC HEARD.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., (U.P.)—The source of phantom "music" which emanated from a steam pipe in a church here when a radiator was removed for repairs and which ceased after the radiator was replaced remains a mystery. One observer declared the tones resembled a piano and chimes, another said they sounded like an organ, while a third, a newspaperman believed they resembled the "sawing" of a violin.

WHITES INJURED IN NATIVE FIGHT

Bad Feeling Comes to Head When Europeans Interrupt African Meeting.

KNIVES DRAWN.

CAPETOWN, South Africa, March 10— (Canadian Press Cable.)— The long-standing quarrel between the European and the native elments of the Union flared into flame Saturday at the Village of Rawsonville, near Worcester, in the Cape Province. Nine Europeans and several natives were injured in a clash precipitated by a meeting of the African National Congress.

One report says the fight started when a group of young Europeans sought to break up the Africans' meeting. Trouble had, apparently, been brewing for the past fornight, with native agitators active. When forty natives arrived from Capetown this afternoon to attend the meeting the feeling came to a head.

Some Europeans visited the assembly and asked the natives to disband. When they were walking away from the scene, their mission a failure, they were suddenly sowered, without warning, with a volley of stones and other missiles.

The Europeans, though unarmed, turned and rushed the colored men, who drew their knives. An elderly European was knocked down and almost throttled to death by a group of natives.

BRONFMAN FOUND TO BE NOT GUILTY

Wealthy Montreal Distiller Cleared of Attempting to Corrupt Officer.

CASE DATES BACK TO 1920.

ESTEVAN, Sask., March 10—Harry Bronfman, millionaire distiller, of Montreal, is not guilty of attempting to induce a Customs officer, Cyril Knowles, to make false returns.

A jury in Court of King's Bench, before Mr. Justice Bigelow, brought in that verdict late Saturday night.

The offense for which Bronfman was tried was alleged to have been committed in 1920. It was charged that the wealthy distiller had attempted to counsel Knowles, an inspector of the Customs Department, to issue a false statement of money's received by him on three automobiles illegally entering the Dominion through the Gainsboro' Sask., port.

In Regina last month Bronfman was tried on a charge of attempting to obstruct the course of justice by causing two material witnesses to absent themselves from a liquor trial in Moose Jaw in 1922. The jury disagreed and a retrial was ordered.

ANNUAL MEETING OF MILLBROOK CHURCH

Increased Membership Shown in Sunday School and Young People's Society.

MILLBROOK, March 10—(Examiner Correspondence). — The annual meeting of Carmel United Church was well attended, the reports presented being full of encouragement and interest, with increasing membership in the Sunday School and Young People's Society, and improved programs at the regular sessions, the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., presiding over the gathering.

Regular worship services are not conducted in connection with the church at the Carmel appointment, but special occasions are marked with public worship during the year, capacity congregations, good music, and inspiring sermons adding greatly in deepening the spiritual life of the membership.

The Carmel Sunday school has been very efficiently and successfully conducted for several years past, and during 1929 it was open every Sunday of the twelve months, the average attendance was high, the method of conducting the sessions varied, and evidently a good work in the Kingdom interests was accomplished.

During the year the temperance, missionary, and cradle roll departments were organized, and are being carried on under good management, adding much to the helpfulness of the school. A legacy of one hundred dollars from the late Rev. Joseph Wilks, who was always much interested in the work at the Carmel appointment and greatly loved and respected by its entire membership, will be used to provide books, Bibles, hymn-books, or other good literature each year for the next ten years, the bequest to be paid at the rate of ten dollars annually when the yearly awards are being purchased for attendance, memory verses, etc.

In 1929 a Young People's Society was organized, with a large membership roll, the average attendance being reported as thirty at the twenty-two meetings held in the twelve months; one hundred and thirty dollars was raised, and after all accounts have been paid, a small balance still remains in the bank. On two occasions during the year the young people from Saint James' church, Peterborough, visited the Carmel organization, putting on the entire program, inspiring and helpful gatherings being held. Miss Martha Lunn is president, and W. Paterson, vice-president.

The church was reshingled during the past year, painted outside, and the interior thoroughly redecorated, at an expense of more than five hundred dollars, all of which has been fully met, and there is a balance on hand toward the current year's needs.

The superintendent of the Sunday school is Mr. E. Paterson, with Will Lunn assistant; Miss M. Bristow is secretary, and George Dew assistant.

Each instance really happened in our City of Peterborough and happened within the last month, not only that but they are continually happening, they are daily instances in the life of the Health Association nurse. Day after day she makes her rounds relieving pain and helping to restore health. Many of the city's doctors freely give of their time and professional skill to the same cause.

The Health Association is quietly and continually doing a great and much needed community work in Peterboro which we like to call a city of homes. The President is Mr. J. J. Turner; the Vice-President, Mr. J. John. Associated in the work are many of the City's most respected business men, also Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. Aylmer, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. G. S. Cameron, Mrs. A. W. Turner, Miss Archer, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. F. P. McNulty, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. H. A. Morrow and many other ladies.

They are freely giving of their time, efforts and money that this great community work should go on, but they cannot do all. It requires about three thousand dollars a year to cover expenses, aside from the Children's Camp at Jackson's Park which is financed by the Kiwanis Club. There will be a shortage of about twelve hundred dollars, and Peterboro citizens are asked to contribute this amount to care for this work which is Peterboro's alone. This effort is of too much value, of too high standing to be curtailed for lack of funds. Please send your subscriptions to the Examiner, or to Mr. C. P. Borland, Bank of Toronto. They will be gratefully acknowledged each day in the Examiner as they are received. We know this appeal will not be made in vain.

GOOD OUTLOOK DAIRY COMPANY

Prosperous Summer Predicted For Seymour West Cheese and Butter Company.

MILK ROUTES.

(Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

CAMPBELLFORD, March 10. — A well attended meeting of the Seymour West Cheese and Butter Company, was held in the school house on Saturday afternoon, with a good attendance present. Robert Irwin presided.

The trend of the meeting showed that there was the indication of a prosperous summer ahead of the company. Despite general conditions prospects are excellent and a strong feeling of optimism is prevalent.

The question of milk routes was gone into with the result that the following contracts were let:

Routes No. 1, Daniel Smith; No. 2, William Melville; No. 3, Edwin Quinn, Route No. 4 was left with the directors to decide upon.

The hauling of the cheese to Campbellford was put into the hands of A. J. Meyers of that town.

There Were Others

One wintry day, down by the snow-clad strand
Of Little Lake, an airplane, well manned,
And breed as freight, while crowds admiring stare,
Sailed gaydy off, upon the frosty air,
With merry hum sped through the waveless blue,
Lightly as homing pigeon ever flew,
And in short space, fair Warsaw's town, hard by Safely descended from the leaden sky.

Where was unladen, with but scant delay,
That precious cargo—bread, life's staff and stay—
Instant, a motley crowd was gathered round—
Men, women, children, from her farthest bound,
Who loudly boasted that none else beside
Had ere with daily bread been thus supplied;
Since once on Eatham's shore, their daily fare
To Israel came, upon the breezy air.

Yet let them pause a moment in their pride,
And take the page historic for their guide;
They'll find that one, so says the Sacred Book,
The great Elijah by lone Cherith's brook,
Who from the royal tyrant's anger sought
A safe retreat in that wild, desert spot,
Had morn and eve, the while he lingered there,
Received both bread and meat, direct by air.

IN MEMORIAM.

LAKE — In loving memory of the late Gilmore S. Lake, who departed this life in Nicholls' Hospital, on March 10, 1929.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
Still one knows how we miss you here.
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting with no farewell.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow.
But memory keeps you ever near us,
Although you died one year ago.

Sadly missed by his loving wife and son, Elmer, Mrs. G. S. Lake, Marmora, Ont.

MRS. C. T. WHITE

Practically the whole community attended on Sunday the funeral of the late Mrs. C. T. White who was laid to rest in Gardiner's cemetery following a service conducted by Rev. S. H. Moyer at the family residence. It was a striking tribute to her memory. Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

DIVISION COURT

A heavy bill was scheduled for the March sittings of the Division Court, which began Friday morning and concluded to-day, but the list dwindled as a result of many adjournments and settlements. For Friday there were 11 cases scheduled involving amounts between $6 and $75.15. To-day there were 7 cases. The amounts involved were between $102.32 and $267.00 Only one came to trial and was disposed of readily. It was Lowe and Outram against Charles Munden, and plaintiffs were awarded $100.92 of their claim with costs.

Nine judgment debtors were examined by the court this afternoon. Judge O'Connor presided at the Friday sessions of the court and Judge Huycke presided to-day.

CONTRACT LET

The Woolworth Company has taken out a permit from the City Engineer's office to make alterations and improvements to the value of $20,000 to their local store on George street. Thomas Ephgrave is the contractor and local labor will be employed. Work will start immediately.

ANOTHER CALL

A container full of grease which had been placed in the oven, boiled over this forenoon, catching fire and necessitating a call for the Fire Brigade to 239 Burnham street. On arrival of the fire reel, the blaze had been successfully combatted by the householder and the services of the brigade were not utilized.

ICE GIVING WAY

The water over a large area of Little Lake is now clear of ice. It opened some days ago in the vicinity of the C.P.R. bridge and the ice has been crumbling rapidly under the influence of the warm surface water and the stronger rays of the sun.

The ice surface on Rice Lake in the vicinity of Bewdley, however, is practically intact as yet and up to the past few days cars and sleighs have been driven over it.

LET'S GO!

Hundreds of Peterborough motorists made hay while the sun shone yesterday. As soon as the Sunday breakfast dishes had been pushed away a large portion of the city's auto-owning population must have jumped into their chariots and headed for the wide open spaces for the long trek began at a very early hour out the Port Hope Highway. The heavy traffic continued until late in the evening.

Traffic Officer "Ted" Hornick was kept busy checking up on cars still bearing last year markers. He nabbed many yesterday and Saturday, and some motorists who had the new markers with them but had omitted to put them on were required to perform the task on the spot and were tendered a sharp warning as well.

NEVER TOO OLD—

The ancient and honorable game of marbles seems to be gaining increased popularity. Up to the present it has been considered a juvenile form of amusement but it seems to be gaining a hold on adults. On Hunter street on Saturday two local men were to be seen bowling "miggies" on the sidewalk with a group of urchins and by the joyous shouts of the boys it would seem that they were administering a lesson in the art to the two gentlemen.

RYERSON RITCHIE IMPRESSED WITH CITY'S FUTURE

All Peterborough Now Needs is Wise Planning Declares Mr. Ritchie.

UP TO LEADING MEN.

Population Should Double Within the Next Two Decades.

Ryerson Ritchie, on his return to the city, being asked what he thought of Peterborough's future, said:

"Peterborough has the best outlook of any city, comparable with it, in all Canada. In most of the elements of community growth, it is already distinctive. All it now needs is wise planning, backed by intelligent, purposeful co-operation. Canada faces an era of city development never before equalled. If the leading men and women of Peterborough will it and work for it, as for their best interests, they can with certainty look forward to a growth that should within two decades, double the present population. That has been done many times by less-favored communities, and it can be done right here."

Ryerson Ritchie is a son of Peterborough, and year by year has, more or less, been a resident. In many ways he has shown his deep attachment for Peterborough. For one thing he was instrumental in converting the old Board of Trade into the present Chamber of Commerce, of which he was unanimously elected an honorary member.

A Real Specialist.

In the United States, Mr. Ritchie as regarded as dean among Chamber of Commerce specialists, because he originated the modern form of organization, with its varied departmental activities, and also because of the high positions attained by the seven metropolitan bodies of which he was the executive officer. He is probably the only native of Peterborough whose distinguished career is registered in the American "Who's Who." He was first executive secretary of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, then of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, and later of the Detroit Board of Commerce; the latter two being consolidations of several associations. Recently he was invited to reorganize the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce, after that was accomplished he was elected executive secretary to effect a working re-establishment.

The Chicago Association of Commerce and the San Francisco Chamber were reorganized and established, with the new constitutional plan, under the guidance of Mr. Ritchie as executive officer. He also was called to Boston as executive director to plan the consolidation and operating conduct of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, which united three main and several trade associations.

Laying the foundations of the two greater state chambers, those of Ohio and New Jersey, was assigned to Mr. Ritchie. He had charge also of the institution of the British Empire Chamber of Commerce in the United States of America, and has been consultant for a score of bodies in the larger cities that originated or were reorganized under the new form of conduct.

DR. ALFRED SCULLY IS LAID TO REST

LINDSAY, March 10. (Special to The Examiner)—The remains of the late Dr. Alfred Scully, of Cleveland, who was murdered in that city on March 4th, arrived in Lindsay on Saturday per C.P.R. and were taken to Tangney's undertaking parlors. The remains were accompanied by Jerome Scully, of Los Angeles, Cal., a brother of deceased; Mother Editha, of St. Joseph's Community, Toronto, a sister; Dr. F. Corrigan, who was associated with the late Dr. Scully on the staff of St. Alexis and St. John's hospital, Cleveland, and Hugh Duff, of the Weddell Hotel, Cleveland, a close friend of the deceased for thirty years. Other relatives and close friends of the deceased from Toronto also accompanied the remains.

At one-thirty o'clock the cortege proceeded to St. Mary's church where the services for the dead were conducted by Very Rev. Monsignor McColl. The remains were laid at rest in the parish cemetery, the services at the grave being conducted by Rev. Fathers Galvin, of Downville, and Black, of Lindsay. The pallbearers were Messrs. G. P. McHugh, Toronto; M. Mulcahey, Dr. Shannon, J. Curtin, Lindsay; D. Scully and W. Scully, of Downeyville.

His Honor Judge O'Connor, a close friend of the deceased, also Mrs. O'Connor, a cousin and Dr. King, of Peterborough, who was in the same graduating class at McGill University with the late Dr. Scully; also Joseph Maher of Peterborough, attended the funeral.

The Examiner correspondent had an interview with Mr. Hugh Duffy, of Cleveland regarding the tragedy. Mr. Duffy stated that there was absolutely no clue to the pertetrator of the crime. It was at first believed that the deed was committed by a drug addict, but there is now a tendency to assign robbery as the motive although nothing conclusive has been discovered as yet. The late Dr. Scully had some forty dollars on his person when his body was found. His diamond ring was missing, however, but this was found later in the vault. A number of stock certificates as well as a cheque for a small amount in stock dividends are missing and the police have been unable to trace their whereabouts.

Mr. Duffy spoke in high terms of the deceased. He was a man of unimpeachable character, ranked high in his profession and did not have an enemy in the city. He was unmarried, was a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters and for a number of years the Knights of Columbus and the Elks.

WOULD HAVE TO WALK THE FLOOR NIGHTS DUE TO GAS CROWDING HEART

EX-SERVICE MAN THANKS BON-TONE FOR QUICK AND WONDERFUL RELIEF

Mr. George R. Osborne of 268 Major St., Toronto, was a member of 18th London Rifle Brigade, and saw service in India, Rangoon and England. He is very well-known and highly esteemed. Mr. Osborne states: "For about 13 years now I have suffered greatly from a dropped stomach and my food would sour and ferment instead of digesting and would form gas which bloated me terribly. Almost every night this gas would crowd around my heart so badly that I would have to get up and walk the floor to relieve the pressure. My kidneys were in a weak condition and I experienced a constant strained feeling through my back and abdomen. If I would stoop over to pick up something I would become dizzy and when I straightened up would feel sort of lightheaded. I was told that my condition could not be corrected but after reading and hearing of the remarkable results Toronto people were obtaining from this new medicine, Bon-Tone, I decided that I would give it a trial, and now after taking this herbal compound just a short while I find that all that has been said about it was true. I can thoroughly enjoy my meals now as everything digests as it should and I don't have any more gas pains. The pains and uncomfortable feeling in my back and abdomen have left—I eat well and sleep well now and feel fine—thanks to Bon-Tone."

Start the Bon-Tone treatment at once. Call or write to Bond's drug store, Peterborough, Ont., for more information about this wonderful medicine and ask for the free booklet, "The Road to Success." Single bottle, $1.25, half treatment; three bottles (by mail), $3.00.

REV. R. A. SPENCER URGES AGAINST CHANGE IN ASSESSMENT ACT SO CATHOLIC SCHOOLS MAY GET AID

Institutions Should Not Share Public Funds Because They Are Sectarian.

DIVORCE BROUGHT UP.

Problem Ought to be Decided By Hierarchy of Another Province.

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 11.—(Canadian Press).—Charging a supreme effort on the part of the Roman Catholic hierarchy to induce the Government of Ontario to change the Assessment Act, so that they might gain access to the public treasury, Rev. R. A. Spencer, grand master, addressing the opening session of the Fifty Fourth Annual Convention of the Grand Black Chapter of Ontario West, said in part:

"Much has been said on both the Roman Catholic and Protestant sides, and there is neither time nor space to go into the argument. I take it that you are all acquainted with the main points. Suffice this to be said.

Are Not Public Schools

"The Roman Catholic schools are not public schools in the regularly accepted opinion as to what constitutes a public or state school. They are religious schools and controlled entirely by the people of that particular faith; they are sectional or parochial or sectarian schools, they were never organized to meet the general need of the public but were put into operation simply because the Roman Catholic Church was not satisfied with the state schools which it could not control. Because they are sectarian and not a public necessity they are not entitled to any public funds. The other churches would have a similar right for aid. I simply state my conviction that no public money should be used for sectarian purposes. If they are bound to have separate schools for their own ends to build up their particular faith, let them provide for them."

Continuing on this theme, the Grand Master said:

"It would be wise, in my opinion,

OTTAWA, Ont., March 11 (Canadian Press). — Total ordinary revenue of the Dominion of Canada for the eleven months of the present fiscal year, which ended on February 28 last, amounted to $403,082,773. This was a decrease of $5,855,782 from the total for the same period a year ago. Ordinary expenditure, on the other hand, shows an increase of $10,639,009 when the two periods are compared. Total ordinary expenditure for the eleven months just ended amounted to $310,148,104, as compared with $299,509,095 for the eleven months which ended on February 28, 1929.

Vast Throng Pays Tribute to Memory Of Ex-President

William Howard Taft Rests Among Graves of America's Brave in Arlington Cemetery—Grave Overlooks White House, His Presidential Home For Many Years.

NATION PAYS ITS FINAL TRIBUTE UNDER DARK CANOPY OF A GREY MARCH SKY — THOUSANDS IN PROCESSION

WASHINGTON, March 11. (C.P.) — A vast throng of people this afternoon paid tribute to William Howard Taft, a man whom Canadians, to quote the words of Lord and Lady Willingdon, knew as "a friend," almost as a fellow citizen, from his long summer residences of thirty-three years at Point Au Pic, Quebec.

At two o'clock a great procession passed with ceremony to All Souls' Unitarian Church, where during his years the former President and Chief Justice had worshipped. From the church the casket was borne to Arlington Cemetery, across the Potomac River, and in a green knoll he was interred with simplicity among the graves of the mighty, his grave overlooking the White House, his presidential residence for many years.

The Canadian Minister and Mrs. Massey, together with the staff of the legation, were among the mourners. Several of the Canadian colony here had known the ex-president as a personal friend.

Canadian Flag Half Mast.

The Canadian flag again flew at half-staff to-day over the Dominion's territory in Washington; and the northern people joined with their neighbors in sorrow.

From dawn until a westering sun dipped steeply above the calm hills of the cemetery, where it was his wish to sleep for all eternity, every pulse of the United States Government beat in rhythm to the tribute heaped upon his memory.

At the last, it was left to the thunder of guns and the soft notes of the bugle, sounding a soldierly requiem to a fallen commander, to voice the message that Taft of Ohio had been committed to his grave.

Dark Gray Sky.

The nation paid its final tribute under the dark canopy of a gray March sky. Fitful showers of rain, cold and penetrating, began early in the day, dimming somewhat the military glories of the cortege.

Early in the day the body was taken to The Capitol, where it lay in State until noon under the rotunda.

MISER ASKING CHARITY DIES WORTH $28,000

NEW YORK, March 11.—Hidden ingeniously in various parts of a room occupied for fifteen years by an eccentric, police yesterday found six bank books totaling saving of $28,000.

The discovery dissipated the lenged of poverty with which Jacob Frankel had surrounded himself so successfully as to have won, free of rent, a room in a large tenement house.

Frankel, who was sixty-five, died of pneumonia and malnutrition. He had refused a doctor's order to go to a hospital.

Fifteen years ago, professing direst poverty and enfeebled health, Frankel induced the Sirotas to give him a room. He never worked, so far as the Sirotas could learn. Nor did he eat more than an occasional morsel.

Wilson Wride, 22-year-old Saskatchewan farmer, who is dead from gunshot wounds, and his wife, who it is alleged, attempted to restrain him from going in search of another man. The gun carried by Wride, exploded during a scuffle between the pair upon the highway. In an ante-mortem statement Wride completely cleared his wife of any blame.

NAVAL PARLEY TAKES UNEXPECTED TURN AS BRIAND AND DINO GRANDI STAGE LENGTHY PRIVATE SESSION

Italians Called Into Session — Both Leaders Refuse to Talk.

ANNOUNCEMENT LATER.

U. S. Refuses to Act in Consultative Capacity in Any Security Pact.

LONDON, March 11. (C.P.) — The Naval Conference took an unexpected turn this afternoon when Foreign Minister Briand, of France, conferred an hour and a half with Dino Grandi, chief of the Italian delegation. He refused to discuss the conversation. Grandi then summoned the Italians into session but likewise would say nothing regarding the negotiations. He indicated that he might have an announcement later.

The United States naval delegation it was stated in authoritative quarters, is taking the important stand that it cannot participate in a consultative capacity in any security pact which would be a quid pro quo for reduction of French naval claims. It was said that perhaps there would be no objection to a consultive pact as such, but that there would be grave objections to entering one at this juncture as an inducement to France to reduce her naval figures.

British Meet French.

The experts of the British and the French delegations to the Five-Power Naval Disarmament Conference met this morning, examined the tonnage statement submitted by the two countries, and agreed upon certain figures as a basis for discussion. And this afternoon and evening, while the MacDonald Labor Government battles for its Coal Bill, the Conference activities will move down to the Houses of Parliament. There the British delegates will face a double task. On the one hand they will have to keep an eye on the tortuous path of the Coal Bill through committee, they will have to watch for a division which might leave the Government in a minority. On the other hand they have a series of conference gatherings to attend. First they have a meeting of the first Conference Committee of the Naval Conference. That will be followed by a meeting of the heads of the delegations, and by a meeting of the British Commonwealth delegations, which in turn will be followed by an Anglo-French meeting with the United States represented by an observer.

Briand Would Go Half Way.

The position of France runs through the whole discussions of the Disarmament Conference. Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, is understood to be favorable to a plenary session of the conference to permit him to make a public statement on the French stand. He is reported to favor a means of meeting the present difficulties half way. As quid pro quo for reductions in her naval programme, France is asking for a guarantee of further security. But the British, from the opening of the conference, have thrown cold water on any suggestions of a Mediterranean Locarno involving additional military or naval obligations. Any proposal to extend the obligations they assumed under the covenant of the League of Nations would no doubt also bring objections from the British Dominions.

M. Briand is now said to be favoring a scheme under which the French proposal of a new treaty of mutual guarantee would go over to a subsequent conference. France in the meantime retaining the tonnage figures she submitted to the conference.

Chicago Etiquette Taboo in Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., March 11. (Canadian Press).—"Everybody carries a gun in Chicago," said Kirby B. Black of the Illinois city when arrested here last night for pointing a gun in the direction of attendants of a local hotel when they requested more silence on his part. SOVIET ATHEISTS PLAN ATTACK ON GOD AND RELIGION

Order Issued For Special Shock Troops and Cavalry in Easter Week.

MOCK RELIGIOUS SHOWS.

Ignore World Wide Cry Against Communists For Church Attitude.

MOSCOW, March 11. — (A.P.) — With the approach of Easter and Catholic and Protestant days of "intercessory prayer on behalf of Christians," Soviets Atheists officials are busily formulating an intensified assault upon God and religion.

Ignoring the world-wide outcry against Communists for their attitude toward the church which they say is only a cloak for an economic blockade against the Soviet Union, these leaders to-day issued instructions to members of the League of Communist youths numbering 2,500,00 members to have "special shock brigades and groups of light cavalry" during Easter week lead the anti-God movement and investigate the schools, universities and clubs to see how the anti-religious education of the young is being carried out.

Mock Religious Carnivals.

Members are directed to organize mock religious carnivals, Atheist meetings, torch light processions and lectures and also to fight for extermination of the Kulak, the complete collectivization of all farms in Russia and fulfilment of the five-year industrialization plan.

Harkening undoubtedly to Stalin's recent admonition to go easier with the peasants in enforcing the Government's rural policies, to-day's orders to anti-religious propagandists warns them that anti-religious demonstrations by the masses should be spontaneous, voluntary and not provoked by force of formal administrative order.

FINNISH FARMER WOUNDS HIS WIFE DURING QUARREL

Police Make 57 Mile Journey By Car and Wagon to Investigate.

ARREST IS MADE.

Son Finds Mother Shot Through Lung With 22 Calibre Bullet.

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., March 11.—(By the Canadian Press.) — Completing their 57-mile journey, which occupied more than nine hours, two Provincial constables arrived at Bruce Mines to-day and arrested August Lindquist, a Finnish farmer, charged with wounding his wife. The woman was reported to have been shot during an altercation with her husband last evening.

Provincial police headquarters here received word last night that Mrs. Lindquist had been found by her son on the floor with a .22 acilbre bullet wound in the vicinity of her lung. Medical aid was summoned and Mrs. Lindquist will be brought here to-day for an X-ray examination. The prisoner will be brought here on the same train.

Shortly after midnight Constables James McBain and Guy Carmichael left here by motor car for Echo Bay, 17 miles west of the Sault. Due to the condition of the road, caused by the recent floods, the officers were forced to continue the remaining 40 miles by horses and wagon.

NEW COAL FIND IS ONLY LIGNITE

Hon. Chas. McCrea States It Is Not Real Coal, But Same As First Discovery.

SEAM 58 FEET THICK.

TORONTO, Ont., March 11 (C.P.). —Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, in commenting to-day on a report that an important discovery of real coal had been made near Cochrane, said that it was not a new find and that it was situated in an extension of the Blacksmith Rapids field, some 126 miles from Cochrane.

Government geologists, the Minister said, had drilled over the property for some time, and had struck a thickness of lignite coal about 58 feet. It was not real coal, but only the same type that was discovered a year ago at Blacksmith Rapids.

"The seam," the Minister of Mines said, "is the thickest yet discovered, but it is ordinary lignite and not real coal. The geologists infer that, through the action of glaciers, there was one section of the field not disturbed and in striking 58 feet, it will be the greatest thickness we will find."

Payless Employees May Work for Gov't

OTTAWA, Ont., March 11.—(Canadian Press). — Parliamentarians and civil servants have had their curiosity aroused by a suggestion that there may be some Dominion Government "employees" who receive no salary. The implication comes from two questions placed on the order paper of the House of Commons by J. F. Fafard, (Lib. L'Islet).

"Are there any employees in the topographical branch of the department of the interior who receive no salary?" Mr. Farfard asks. "If so, what are their names and what companies do they represent?"

GANG LEADERS VERY WEALTHY

Three Chicago Leaders Boast of Their Big Business to Chief of Detectives.

ONE HAS $700,000.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 11 (C.P.).—Three gang leaders boasted of their "Big Business" venture to Chief of Detectives John Stege yesterday.

First there was Joe Saltis, known as the beer baron of the South Side, who came down from his Wisconsin country place to attend the funeral to-day of his friend and henchman, John (Dingbat) Oberta, slain last week.

Between his tearful pleas to the detective chief to "Call Off the Cops" while he attended the last rites of his friend, Saltis found time to tell the chief and reporters of his $100,000 country place in Wisconsin, "with a golf course and a club-house to accommodate 126 people."

Then there was George (Bugs) Moran, north side successor to Dion O'Banion, whose ranks were so sorely depleted by the St. Valentine's massacre of last year. George, who was picked up in the loop yesterday for his weekly interview with police, added to the day's financial news with the tale that he had invested $125,000 in a north side cleaning establishment.

These two, of course, only mentioned casual amounts, but George (Potatoes) Kaufman, who recently slapped a man who pushed too fast as they were going around together in the revolving door of a loop hotel, lightly dropped the news to Stege that he still had $500,000 or $700,000.

AUGUR PRODUCES NEW WITNESSES AT SEDUCTION TRIAL IN OTTAWA

WAS ON CAR RIDES.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 11 (C.P.)—Voluminous testimony with defence witnesses as to the character of Miss Laurence Martel, young Hawkesbury, Ont., girl who Louis M. Auger is charged with seducing, was entered this morning as the trial of the former Member of Parliament for Prescott County entered its second day. Two male witnesses testified to going on automobile rides with the girl previous to February 15 and 16 of last year, on which dates Miss Martel alleges Auger attacked her in his House of Commons room.

Auger recently was acquitted of a charge of criminal assault in connection with the allegations. Trial on the seduction charge is being held in County Criminal Court before Mr. Justice E. J. Daly.

After protection of the Canada Evidence Act had been granted Alphonso Mayette of L'Original, Ont, he testified to meeting Miss Martel outside a Hawkesbury cafe. They drove to a Pointe Fortune hotel, where they procured beer which, he said, they drank. Mayette swore that he was intimate with the girl on this occasion. Replying to a question from the Bench, witness said he was intoxicated during the ride home from the hotel.

Girl Denies Stories

After two other witnesses had entered testimony as to their knowledge of the girl's character, the defence closed its case and Miss Martel was recalled to the stand. She declared Alphonse Mayette had told a concocted story and denied ever having known the man. The evidence of Alphonse Mondu, another defence witness who testified to indulging in indecent familiarities with Miss Martel, was described by the girl as "a tissue of lies."

Moses Doctor, of defence counsel opened his address to the bench by challenging the age given for the girl plaintiff. At the time of the alleged attacks by Auger, it is claimed, Miss Martel was 17 years of age. Counsel pointed out a baptismal

Floyd was buried February 22, with nothing for company except the telephone.

REVINSKY PAYS DEATH PENALTY IN REGINA JAIL

Reconciled to Fate He Walks Unfalteringly to Gallows at 12.25 a.m.

FEW WITNESSES.

Spent His Last Few Hours Writing to Parents and Sweetheart.

REGINA, Sask., March 11 (C.P.).—Reconciled to his fate, Herman Revinsky, 23-year-old clothing salesman, walked calmly to the scaffold in the Regina Jail yard, and a few minutes later was dead, a half-hour after midnight.

Shows No Concern.

Sentenced to death for the slaying of David Katz, Toronto clothier, and his employer, in a western selling trip Revinsky was taken from his cell at 12.25 a.m. He walked unfalteringly to the gallows, the black cap was adjusted. Rev. Max Kalef, Regina rabbi, and spiritual adviser, recited prayers, and at 12.30 a.m. the trap was sprung by Arthur Ellis, the hangman.

A few minutes later Dr. O. E. Rothwell, jail physician, pronounced him dead.

M. B. Wilkinson, sheriff, William Gleadow, jail warden, Dr. Rothwell and a few jail attendants were the only witnesses of the execution.

Six hours previously Revinsky had been notified that executive clemency had been denied him. "If that's what is to be, well, then, I guess it's all right," were his only words.

His last hours were spent in writing to his parents, who reside in Hamilton, Ont., to his fiancee, and relatives in Eastern Canada.

Granted Three Weeks' Stay.

Sentenced to die on February 19, a three weeks' stay of execution was granted, following a report from Nova Scotia that a murderer had been apprehended in a lumber camp who was said to answer the description of "Jimmy Brown," whom Revinsky had always maintained was the actual slayer of Katz. This report was proved unfounded, and a further stay of execution denied.

Katz met death in the sand dunes country, near Carmichael, Sask., in June, 1928. Revinsky was arrested several months later in Vancouver and returned to Maple Creek, Sask., for trial. At his first trial the jury was discharged when it was disclosed the prisoner had been threatened by police officers in obtaining a statement. At the re-trial he was convicted and immediately sentenced to death. This was on November 15, 1929.

Peterboro Health Association Bulletin

VOL. II. | MARCH 11th, 1930. | No. 3

The pulse of the City throbs on, the heart of the City beats in sympathy with the noble community work the Peterboro Health Association is doing. Subscriptions have already begun to flow in from last night's appeal in The Examiner and are still coming. This is Peterboro's own work, the building up of her own citizens. All that these people who are less fortunate than some others ask, is the chance to regain their health that they may work and build up a home for themselves in Peterboro. Their hopes and their aspirations are for a home "Even as you and I."

The twelve hundred dollars asked for is only about a third of the sum the Association annually expends, to say nothing of the time and effort that is put in by the officers and members, that this work may go quietly, continually, but very effectually on. This work is done so quietly that but few people outside the Association have any idea of its greatness or the amount of good accomplished.

That Peterboro is taking care of its own is shown by the response to last night's appeal. The sincere thanks of the Health Association is given to those who have contributed; more than passing mention must be made of the subscription of the Peter Robinson Chapter of the I.O.D.E. Such a generous contribution and the cordial spirit in which it was given is most appreciated and most encouraging.

KU KLUX KLAN WILL APPEAL SENTENCE

K.K.K. MEMBER FINED $50 IN POLICE COURT

Two Companions Charged in Oakville Parade Are Acquitted.

SENTENCE TO BE APPEALED.

All Three Readily Admit Belonging to the Secret Order.

OAKVILLE, Ont., March 11 (Canadian Press). — Three members of the secret order of the Ku Klux Klan admitted in Police Court here yesterday, and the evidence brought out, they were members of a night riding party organized by the Klan headquarters at Hamilton on the night of February 28 last, which participated in an unusual incident in this town. One of the men, W. A. Phillips, Hamilton, was found guilty of "masking by night without lawful excuse," and was fined $50.00, and costs of $33.20, with the alternative of 30 days in jail. The other two were acquitted when Magistrate W. E. McIlveen found the Crown had made no case against them and dismissed the charges.

Sentence to Be Appealed.

The conviction against Phillips will be appealed, his counsel, Reid Bowlby, intimated. The latter also defended one of the men acquitted, Ernnest Taylor, Hamilton. The third man, Dr. Harold Orme, Hamilton, received a separate hearing.

The trio admitted participating, actively or indirectly, in achieving the purpose of the Klan in returning to her mother, Isabella Jones, Oakville, a young white girl who had been living with Ira Johnston. The Klan believed Johnston to be a negro, but he claims to be of Indian descent.

Phillips was found guilty and his comrades discharged because the evidence definitely proved he had been masked, while no witness could swear to having seen Orme or Taylor with their hoods on.

As the sub-section of the Criminal Code on which the men were tried refers to disguise "without lawful excuse," the implication was the Court agreed with the Crown the actions of the Klansmen were illegal. Yet with the other two men admitting they were engaged in the same purpose as Phillips, their cases were deemed "not proven" because no one had seen them masked.

Defence counsel for the defendants argued the sub-section under which the charge was laid was included among a number of other sections headed "burglary and housebreaking," and the reference to masking was intended to apply only to persons found disguised who could not prove they were not planning burglary.

Actions beyond Law.

Crown Attorney Dick of Milton, argued the sub-section was aimed at anyone found masked and suspected of doing anything unlawful whatever. He said the evidence demonstrated the men and their companions were performing actions beyond the law in violation of the justice and rights of a British citizen.

Chief Constable David Kerr of Oakville was a principal witness at the trial. He described his meeting with Phillips, Orme, Taylor and another man after he had heard of the burning of a fiery cross in the centre of the town and had investigated the visit of the motorcade from Hamilton. He knew Phillips, he said, and had recognized him when he stepped out of a car with his hood on, and later taken it off. A few minutes later he had met Orme, Taylor and others but had not seen them with their hoods on.

Orme denied wearing a hood. "Anyway," he said, "I do not care who sees me as I go." He then declared he was a member of "a secret order—the Ku Klux Klan."

Dog Death Chamber Traps Its Inventor

HAMMOND, Ind., March 11.—(Canadian Press).—Skinno Summers, conductor of the local dog pound, constructed a new and improved "death chamber." Yesterday he picked out a group of doomed dogs, turned on the gas and waited. After about a half hour Summers decided it should be all over by then and went to collect the corpses. Several hours later a policeman noticed a pair of familiar feet protuding from the chamber. He found the dog catcher asleep—gassed—and the dogs romping around playfully.

COMMONS DOWNS HIGHWAY GRANTS BY 79 TO 59 VOTE

Bill Urged Five Years' Aid — Trans-Canada Highway Suggested.

ENCOURAGE TOURISTS.

Conservative, U.F.A. and Labor Groups All Support Proposal.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 11 (Canadian Press). — By a vote of 79 to 59, the House of Commons last night defeated a private member's resolution calling upon the Government to consider grants to the provinces for highway construction. The division found the Conservatives and members of the U.F.A. and Labor groups ranged together in support of the proposal. All the Professives, with the exception of B. W. Fansher, member for Lambton East, also voted in the affirmative. Against the proposal voted all the Liberals and Liberal-Progressives, membersr of the Independent group, and Mr. Fansher.

It was private members' day, and a single resolution occupied the attention of the members for the entire sitting. It drew into the debate the Prime Minister and members of the Government, in opposition to the principle of Federal grants for highways. It brought from Hon. R. B. Bennett, Opposition Leader, an expression of support for the proposal.

The Resolution.

The resolution was moved by D. F. Kellner, U.F.A., member for Athabaska. It read as follows:

"Whereas the need for establishment of highways is greater than in 1919;

"And whereas in that year the Dominion Government recognized its responsibility in this matter by a substantial grant, which grant is now exhausted;

"Therefore be it resolved, that, in the opinion of this House, the Government should consider the advsability that a further substantial grant be made to cover the next five years' development of highway construction.

From nearly all groups in the House came expressions of opinion either for or against the resolution. The majority of the speakers were favorable to it. They cited the benefits to be derived from increased tourist traffic. The existence of a trans-Canada highway, it was felt, would have the effect of stimulating the profitable influx of visitors from the United States. Also, it was pointed out, there was an unemployment problem in Canada, and the building of roads would help in its solution. The Dominion could very well assist in what was at least partially a national undertaking.

Develop Park Roads

On the other hand, it was urged by members of the Government who participated in the debate, that the Dominion was already expending large sums of money in connection with the construction of roads in national parks. With reference to the contention that the Dominion had made contributions to the Provinces for highway construction in 1919, the reply was that such contributions were justified from a national point of view because of the return from overseas of large numbers of unemployed soldiers. But this was a peculiar condition, and the action then could not be regarded as a precedent.

DRASTIC CHANGES ARE CONTAINED IN NEW MINE BILL

Safety Device Proposals Follow Recommendation of Judge Godson.

EIGHT HOUR DAY.

No Male Under Age of 16 Can Be Employed is One of Clauses in Bill.

TORONTO, March 11 (C.P.) — Drastic changes in the safety devices to be adopted in Ontario mines were contained in a bill which received second reading in the Legislature yesterday. Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, said it contained most of the recommendations made by Judge Godson, who investigated the Hollinger disaster two years ago.

Under its provisions the Chief Mining Inspector of the Province would be given the power to cause to be erected rescue stations above the surface where they were deemed necessary. Restrictions would be placed on the handling and storing of dynamite Trained rescue crews would be maintained at every mine and every employee would be forced to study this work Where two mines are situated nearby, the Chief Inspector would have the power to order a communicating tunnel dug from one to the other to provide a means of escape in case of fire or explosion

Must Speak English

All foremen, the bill stipulated, must be able to give orders in the English language No male under the age of 16, shall be employed in any capacity and no woman in other than a clerical position. The eight-hour day is recognized under the bill and no person may be employed underground for longer than this shift.

In reply to a question put by W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., Premier G. H. Ferguson said the annual report of the Liquor Control Board would be tabled some day this week.

Amendments to the Judicature Act and the Old Age Pension Act were passed in committee stage.

In two Amendments to the Municipal Act, the first introduced by W. W. Staples (Cons., Victoria South), and the other by E. J. Murphy (Cons., Toronto), a municipality would be given the power to regulate all taxicab brokers, junk dealers and second-hand shops.

Hon. George S. Henry told the House that the total collected under the Gasoline Tax last year was $9,250,000. Of this 2½ per cent. was paid to 36 companies as commission for collecting. Rebates to farmers amounted to $527,475.

DOGS RUN AT LARGE NINE MEN ARE FINED

The result of a close check by Provincial police on the dogs running at large in the townships of North Monaghan and Otonabee was plainly shown in County Police Court yesterday afternoon when nine Otonabee men were fined $1 and costs for not preventing the rambles of their canines.

'Terror' of Gunmen Heads Detroit Cops

DETROIT, March 11. (Canadian Press).—Patrick O'Grady, Irish of course, and a fatalist, the terror of all Detroit gangsters, has shot his way to the top of the force. He becomes superintendent of police here March 15.

O'Grady has pushed in more doors with his shoulder amid a hail of bullets than any other man in Detroit. He has accounted for numerous "bad men" some dead, others in prison, during his 25 years in the service.

"They'll get you yet, if you keep it up" his friends have warned him.

"Well, if they do, Frank will get them" is O'Grady's stock reply. Detective Sergeant Frank Holland, a machine gunner in the world war, is O'Grady's partner in fields of danger. They have saved each other's lives on many occasions. O'Grady believes they won't "get" him until fate decrees.

CIVIL ACTION OVER SALE OF GARAGE IS BEING HEARD BY JUSTICE GARROW

PORT HOPE GARAGE.

COBOURG, March 11.—The symbolic white gloves, which sheriffs have been wont to present to assize Judges on occasions when the docket has been unmarred by criminal cases, have apparently been discarded in this utilitarian age for the sartorially "de rigeur" cream-colored Mexican deer skin. At least that was the complexion of the pair which Sheriff Nesbitt yesterday presented to Mr. Justice Garrow at the opening of the Spring sessions of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

The grand jury was dispensed with for the present sittings, and the petit jury was dismissed until Tuesday while the court proceeded with the other of the two civil actions on the list, a suit involving the purchase of a garage in Port Hope.

The plaintiffs in this case are Peter Taylor Walker and his son, Alexander Walker, and the defendant is J. A. R. Elliott, real estate dealer in Port Hope. Peter Walker was a tenant farmer living near Hampton, Darlington township, Durham County. On August 20, 1928, he replied to an advertisement in which Elliott offered for sale the "Tourist Garage" in Port Hope for $13,000, including property, equipment, stock and goodwill.

In 1913 Walker had come out from Scotland penniless. Two years ago he and his two sons, one twenty and the other sixteen, were working a two hundred acre farm. The boys wanted to go into the garage business, but would not leave unless their father accompanied them. Walker owned eighteen cattle, sheep and a complete equipment of farm implements nearly new. He also had an equity of about $2,500 on a farm in East Durham. Plaintiff estimated that after a sale of his farm stock he could invest about $3,000 in a garage.

Paid $3,000 Deposit.

By an agreement in September, 1928, Walker bought Elliott's garage at the price of $13,000, paying $3,000 cash and agreeing to pay the balance in half yearly instalments of $250 with interest at 6 per cent.

Walker alleged that Elliott had told him he had been offered $25,000 for the property, and had represented its net income at not less than $2,500 a year. In his suit the plaintiff declared that the value of the business had been greatly overrated and misrepresented. He asked for an order dissolving the agreement, also $3,250 paid to Elliott with interest at 6% from October 1, 1928, and also $2,000 as damages.

In a counterclaim Elliott asked for payment by plaintiffs of $11,977.27. Frank M. Field of Cobourg is solici-

BOY IS DROWNED AT BELLEVILLE

BODY IS RECOVERED.

BELLEVILLE, March 11. — Jack Savage, 7 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Savage, Albert street, was drowned last night while playing with Ray Peets, Chatham street, and Harry Taylor, Wingham street, at Victoria Park. The youngsters after school went to the park to play, and they were venturing out on the frail ice at the mouth of the River Moira, when Savage pitched into the water when the ice gave way. Peets, his companion, did not report the occurrence to the police until almost 7 o'clock. Chief Alex. Kidd directed the grappling operation for the recovery of the body, although it was believed that it has been carried by the current beneath the ice which has accumulated at the mouth of the stream.

OFFICERS HELP DESTITUTE PAIR

TAKEN INTO CAR.

MONTREAL, Que., March 11. — (Canadian Press).—A man, his wife and two small daughters who left Montreal yesterday with the intention of walking to Toronto, were given a lift and some money by three Montreal police officers who overtook them en route. The detectives, who were on their way to Alexandria, Ont., to take possession of an automobile stolen in Montreal and recovered there, came across William Jackson of Toronto and his family on the road.

Jackson, a plumber and steamfitter, said he was destitute in Montreal, and had decided to go to the Ontario capital, where his wife would be sheltered by his mother-in-law. The family's few possessions were packed in a sack which Jackson was carrying. Mrs. Jackson had an infant in her arms.

The detectives took the family in their car at Pointe Claire, Que., and dropped them at Lancaster, Ont., giving them some money and advising them to visit the minister of their faith at that town.

Admission to "Ex." Is Set at 25 Cents

Admission prices to the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition to be held September 8 to 13, were fixed at a meeting held last night of the Exhibition Board. The prices were settled at: General admission to grounds 25 cents and children 15 cents; cars admitted to the grounds 50 cents; general admission to the grandstand: afternoons, 50 cents; evenings, 25 cents; children 25 cents.

The Board debated the question of admission pro and con, and when a settlement satisfactory to all was reached, President Denne stated that it was to be hoped that these prices would remain fixed for some time, because they had been jiggled up and down too much.

Elevated box seats may be installed at the grandstand. Reg. Turner said he had examined the stand with this idea in mind, and it would be feasible. A committee was formed to report on it. A reserved seat section will be made in the stand at any rate.

All the committees reported to the Board, showing that they have their work well in hand and the Prize List will soon be sent to the press.

HUNT FOR FLOOD VICTIMS CLOSES

Reconstruction Going Ahead in Tarn and Garonne Valleys Despite Rains.

DROWNED ANIMALS BURIED.

MONTAUBAN, France, March 11. —(C.P.) — Despite torents of rain, which may fill the river banks again, reconstruction is proceeding rapidly in France's flood-devastated regions. With this city as centre for the efforts. The work will be carried on in the Tarn and Garonne valleys along the same lines as along the Yser and Meuse after the war.

Four hundred soldiers, including a number of black Senegalese, to-day finished their task of burying in quicklime 3,000 horses and cattle which littered the Tarn valley from Montauban to Moissac.

For four days the Negro soldiers never faltered at this trying work, but finally after hours of ceaseless rain they showed signs of despondency and had to be relieved. Most of the Negroes wore gas masks.

Search of ruins for other bodies was practically complete to-day at Moissac, but will not be finished for two or three days at Montauban. In Castel Sarazin, between Moissac and Montauban five bodies were found Monday in a culvert beneath a railroad track.

Montauban still is cut of from the rest of the world as far as railroads are concerned, but one telephone has been repaired and is being operated.

Based on actual clinical tests, they have selected the best for hospital and home use after trying out different widely known methods for treating head colds, coughs and chest colds.

NURSE SURPRISED TO SEE HOW SOON COLD DISAPPEARED

Peterborough people no longer feel miserable and needlessly risk pneumonia by neglecting colds. For hospital doctors have made it tempting to ends colds promptly at home by the pleasant Ayer corrective—a compound of wild cherry, terpin-hydrate and other ingredients used to reduce fever, remove congestion and clear out the cold.

Miss Alice Ryan, hospital nurse, made the mistake of staying on duty after contracting a chest cold. Next day examination by the doctor showed a pulse of 86, respiration 20 and temperature 100.

Within a short time after the doctor gave her double strength Ayer's Cherry Pectoral she was surprised to find how quickly the cold started to clear up. That night she slept comfortably and woke up feeling greatly relieved. When she returned for medical examination the next day, her temperature, pulse and respiration were normal again and the cold had cleared up completely.

This action on the part of physicians has had a remarkable effect in showing how to end colds quickly. And the experience of Miss Ruth Curtis which has been shared in hundreds of Peterborough homes, shows how easily and quickly colds may be ended with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a pleasant tasting compound of wild cherry, terpin-hydrate and other ingredients which hospital physicians have selected as the best for hospital and home treatment of colds.

Miss Curtis, for example, was treated for a threatening cold caught while working for hours in a department store near a "drafty" door-way. Just a few pleasant doses of Cherry Pectoral, her doctor reports, gave surprisingly quick relief. By night she had overcome the "weepy" stage of her cold and in the morning her fever was gone. She continued the Cherry Pectoral treatment, as her doctor directed, and examination next day showed that this hospital certified medication had removed all traces of the cold.

HOSPITAL DOCTOR ENDS HEAD COLD PLEASANT WAY

An entirely new method that ends colds quickly—often in just a few hours—is now prescribed by doctors in numerous hospital cases and is also establishing a most unusual record in Peterborough homes.

Albert H. Blake, for example, was examined for an acute head cold which had congested the air passages of his nose and chest. Then the doctor gave him surprisingly quick relief with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a hospital remedy which has been certified as the quickest and surest in hospital and home treatment of head colds, coughs and chest colds.

With the first pleasant swallow he felt comforting, healing warmth. Almost immediately congestion and fever began to subside. By morning he was breathing freely through his nose and his cough was alleviated. Examination on his visit to the doctor next day showed that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral had rapidly cleared up every trace of the threatening cold.

END CHILD'S COUGH BY HOME USE OF HOSPITAL METHOD

Mrs. L. M. Condon, like numbers of mothers here, realizes that there's no need to be alarmed when a child wakes up with cold congestion in the middle of the night. And she is grateful to her doctor for telling her what to do.

Her little daughter, Janice, awoke with a severe coughing spell, a fever of 101 and congestion spreading rapidly. On the doctor's advice she was given a laxative followed by double strength doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral every hour. Almost immediately the cough began to subside, the doctor reports. In a few hours the congestion was clearing up and in another day she was out playing—as well as ever.

This is the first time in the history of this community in which both parties concerned were life long residents. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison are both members of the second generation of the Morrison and Moncrief families. Their parents being all pioneers almost 100 years ago.

Mr. Morrison has always shown an interest in public affairs, being a member of the township council for some years and officiated as reeve for some time.

At 7 o'clock on Monday eve a crowd of friends and neighbors gathered at the Sunday School hall, where seating capacity was at a premium. The honored guests occupied seats on the platform, being supported by bridesmaid Mrs. Thos. Armstrong and groomsman William Moncrief, who assisted in a similar capacity just fifty years ago.

D. N. Dodds, an old friend and neighbor, occupied the chair. After some instrumental selections by the local orchestra consisting of H. Moncrief, H. Cardwell and Jas. Wood. The program was opened by singing "O Canada" and "The Maple Leaf For Ever". Mr. Dodds expressed his pleasure in having the honor of presiding at such a memorable occasion and called on Stanley Robinson who read the following address:

Dear Friends—We, your friends and neighbors of this community, have gathered here this evening to help celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of your wedding. We feel that you should receive our congratulations more especially because we realize that it is given to comparatively few to celebrate a similar occasion.

Since your entire life has been spent in this vicinity and the occasion is so rare as to be worthy of special recognition, we extend to you the hearty good wishes of a large circle of friends won by good citizenship.

Your service to society both public and private seems to have been promoted by high ideals and as a tangable evidence of our appreciation we ask you to accept these gifts, hoping that you may be long spared to your family and to us all with best wishes for similar anniversaries; sgd., D. N. Dodds, Mrs. Beva Dodds, W. C. Wood, Jacob Isbister, Mrs. Jas. McRoberts, Frances Wood, Blanche Robinson, Stanley Robinson, Mr. Jas. McRoberts, Mrs. J. Isbister.

After "Jolly Good Fellows" was heartily sung by the audience little Jean Moncrief presented the bride with a sheaf of sunburst tulips.

In behalf of the happy couple Jos. Morrison of Peterborough replied in a few well chosen words.

The chairman read letters of congratulations, from Vancouver, Winnipeg, Guelph, Toronto, Attwood, Campbellford, etc.

The local clergy were called upon and gave short and appropriate addresses. Reeve Wood and councillors Moncrief, Waterman, Whittington and Jno. Emberson, who were all friends and neighbors, spoke in glowing terms of the worthy qualities as friends, neighbors and citizens.

Thos. Donaldson of Cavan, who with Mrs. Donaldson, celebrated his 55th anniversary on the same day, closed this part of the program with a few very congratulatory words and expressed his great pleasure in being able to be present.

During the program two very appropriate quartettes were given by Mrs. Lang, Mrs. F. Wood, Jacob Isbister and S. Wood. The program closed with the national anthem, after which the ladies of the community served a dainty lunch.

CIVIL ACTION OVER SALE OF GARAGE

tor for the plaintiffs, assisted by T. N. Phelan, K.C., of Toronto, and Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough as solicitor for the defendant.

Left Son In Charge

To Mr. Gordon, Walker admitted that he had left the garage in charge of his son and Robt. Harcourt, an experienced mechanic, whom he employed at a wage of $25 a week, from the date of purchase until about March 1st last year. He had no cash register and the only record of business was in a day book. No accounting was made of the purchase and sale of materials for the purpose of checking up on the business. Walker said that early in 1929 he realized that the income from the garage was not meeting his expectations. Finally he let out Harcourt after about five or six months employment, and carried on with his sons. He had looked over the property twice before deciding to buy it, but on the third visit to Port Hope he went directly to Elliott's office. Competition increased in the neighborhood of the Tourist Garage, which is on both the Peterborough and Kingston highways, and after Harcourt left the repair business dwindled.

Walker contended that the available business was not as Elliott had represented to him.

Alleged Books Padded.

Robert Harcourt, who had worked for Elliott and had also leased the building, swore that Elliott had "padded" the day book entries prior to the Walker purchase. Cross-examined by Mr. Gordon who produced the daybook and asked witness to point to one falsified entry, Harcourt answered that he could not single out one; nor could he recall when he had made to Walker the charge that Elliott had "padded" the entries. He also admitted that on September 30, 1924, he had owed Elliott $3,039.89. Another admission by Harcourt was that he had bought an automobile but had registered it under the name of a young woman living in Port Hope.

Mr. Gordon—Was that money you took from the business and did not account for?

Harcourt—No.

Mr. Gordon—Why did you put it in her name?

Harcourt—Because she helped to pay for it.

"Is she a relative of yours?"

"No."

Jame Hall, Port Hope garage man, testified that he had bought the "Tourist Garage" November 11, 1924, for $8,000. He carried on for two years but could barely make ends meet. Then when he became ill Elliott locked him out.

"I figured that it was not worth more than $4,000 including everything when I walked in," Hall said. "I spent $2,000 improving the place, and when Mr. Elliott spoke to me about selling it I thought I might get a hundred or so out of it. He decided to sell it for $12,000."

'Gas" Profit Light.

Another witness in the garage business estimated that $6,000 would have been a heavy price for the "Tourist Garage." He affirmed that there was no profit in summer from retailing gasoline because of its high evaporation. The average profit for the year might be 1½ cents a gallon.

Mr. Justice Garrow—Why do so many citizens go into the gasoline business?

Witness—It must be their imagination that has them astray.

Mr. Phelan—Like so many people who buy trucks and go into the trucking business.

CAMPBELLFORD NEEDS AIRPORT

Usefulness of Aviation Stressed at Organization Meeting of Flying Club..

OFFICERS ELECTED.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 11. — (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Aviation received its official sanction here last night when the Campbellford Flying Club held its organization meeting and elected officers at the club room in the Queen's hotel. C. D. Beattie was elected to fill the president's chair; the secretary-treasurer's office was given to Douglas McComb and the board of directors are Walter Henson, H. Burgess and W. Nelson.

Mr. Beattie, outlines the policy of the club, said that the membership fees would go for work on the machine and to pay the expenses of the free flying.

He was efficient and willing to handle the ground course and this work he would do gratis. He urged the necessity of a larger membership of the club. Speaking of the social side of the institution Mr. Beattie pictured the advantages it would hold for the gang men of Campbellford in combining a useful craft with the clean and healthy amusements of the club room.

Speaking of the necessity of an airport at Campbellford he said that there were many Americans who would come more often to this town and visit the resorts in this district of there was a proper landing place for machines.

S. M. Sinclair, air mechanic for Leavens brothers of Belleville also gave the club a very interesting talk. He dealt with the technicalities of flying and explained in a very able manner the composition of the machine possessed by the Campbellford club.

Douglas McComb, newly appointed secretary-treasurer, addressed the club in a short talk on some of the benefits of commercial flying.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 11. — All grain values underwent setbacks yesterday, conditions being so abnormal that Liverpool quoted wheat there lower than equally good wheat can now be bought in Chicago. With the United States wheat visible supply continuing to increase and no export outlet in sight, rye tumbled to below any price reached in many years and corn dropped to a new bottom level for the season. Government estimates on domestic farm reserve stocks of wheat, corn and oats were construed as bearish, but were r t received until after trading was at an end.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were nervous, ½c to 2 3-8c a bushel below Saturday's finish. Corn closed 1¼c. to 1 7-8c. down, oats 3-4c to 1c off and provisions showing 20c to 25c decline.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 11. — Local butter prices exhibited a slightly weaker trend at the opening of the week yesterday with quotations ranging from 34c to 34½c a pound for finest New Zealand, with some carlots as low as 33½c. To the retail trade solids were 37c. and prints 38c a pound.

Egg prices continued to be reduced ranging from 30c. for storage seconds to 39c. for specials. Arrivals were 44 boxes, as compared with 53 boxes on the corresponding day last year. Prices remained at 18½c to 18¾c for Easterns and 19c to 19¼c for Westerns.

The potato market was unchanged, with quotations ranging from $1.45 to $1.55. Poultry prices remained steady.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, March 11.—Prices for eggs on the local market took another drop yesterday, and this time the country shipper was offered 2c less than previously on extras, and 1c less on first and seconds. The quotation was to shippers for ungraded eggs, delivered, cases returned: Extras, 28c.; firsts, 26c, and seconds, 22c. The prices were also lower to retailers, and they were offered: Extras, in cartons, for 36c to 37c; extras, loose, 34c to 35c; firsts, loose, 32c; seconds, loose, 28c to 29c.

The Chicago spot market was quoted at 24c to 24½c for fresh-gathered firsts, but the local dealers were not interested in American eggs owing to the low price for Ontario eggs. It was stated that the importation period had passed, and that from now on business would be confined to Ontario production. Brokers were trying to secure 32c for extras, 30c for firsts, 28c for pullet extras, and 26c for seconds, without moving any appreciable quantities.

Butter.

The buetter market remained dull, and dealers were reported as buying from "hand to mouth." Prices remained the same as quoted Saturday: 33¾c to 34¼c for creamery, pasteurized, No. 1; 33¼c. to 33½c for 38 scoring No. 2, and 32¾c to 33c for 37 scoring No. 2. Poor prices on the English market generally react on the Canadian markets, and yesterday the English butter market was the lowest it has been in nine years. Quotations there were 139 shillings per cwt. and the average quotation for March 10 has been 175 shillings per cwt. This means a drop of about 9c per pound.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 11. — Uneasy and lacking outside market news on which to base a definite feeling, the wheat market fell off yesterday. Prices, which varied little through the morning, sank at noon to equal the year's bottom marks reached late in February. The close was slightly higher, but values were 1 cent to ¾ cents lower than the previous close.

At $1.07¾, May wheat was at its seasonal low. It closed about a cent better, good resting orders providing punch for the belated comeback. A flurry of selling orders accounted for the mid-day price break.

Cash wheat offerings were again light, holders refusing to sell at prevailing levels. Demand was brisk and spreads were unchanged.

A little investment buying n oats provided the coarse grains mark t with its lone feature. All commodities eased off in price at the close in sympathy with wheat.

Cash Prices.

Wheat—No. 1 hard $1.05¾, No. 1 Northern $1.06 ¾, No 2 Northern $1.02¾, No. 3 Northern 98½c, No. 4 94½c, No. 5 87c, No. 6 67c, feed 54½c, track $1.06, screenings, per ton, $5.00.

involved, said she "guessed so" when asked if she had been living immorally with Ira Johnston at the house where the Klansmen found her.

Miss Jones said the members of the party which called for her had used no violence. "They acted as perfect gentlemen," she said, and they did not cause her to feel she had to go with them if she did not want to.

Mothers Thankful.

In defending the purpose for which the Klansmen had come to Oakville, Mr. Bowlby addressed the magistrate: "I am sure there are hundreds of mothers who would be eternally thankful such a step had been taken.

Magistrate McIlveen replied he would convict Phillips and referred to the sentence of five years' imprisonment to which he was liable under the criminal code. Crown Attorney Dick told the magistrate it was the latter's privilege, if he desired, to impose a fine or any term of imprisonment he thought fit. "The Crown does not ask for imprisonment," he said. "All the Crown wants to show is there is a machinery of justice in Canada—and to show it to those persons who may have a different idea."

EXAMINATIONS ARE NECESSARY

E. H. Greig Speaker at Weekly Luncheon of Campbellford Rotary Club.

MODERN REFORMS.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 11 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Featuring the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club in the St. Lawrence Hotel yesterday, E. H. Greig, principal of Campbellford High School, gave a splendid talk on the subject, "Certain Phases of Present Education." The club president, N. A. MacCall, was in the chair.

Mr. Greig spoke of the unjust system of education years ago, when, if a pupil failed to pass in one subject, he was classified as failing in all.

Then came educational reform, and a pupil in the middle school was allowed a failure in two papers, and in the intermediate school a failure in four papers. These papers could be re-written during the following term, so giving the pupil a chance to pass in all subjects. This reform was carried still further, said the speaker, until to-day we have the system whereby a pupil passes if he gains 50 marks for any subject. This, in the opinion of Mr. Grieg, necessitated more work for the teaching staff and disrupted school organization for nearly every pupil had to have an individual schedule, and it gave the lazy student a chance to study indifferently.

It was his opinion that a student should have to pass a certain number of papers on specific subjects and complete the year in a definite way. This would prove a more just method as far as the student was concerned.

Vocational Training.

The speaker praised the system of technical and vocational training as better fitting students for their life's work, but thought that these courses of training should only be entered upon after they had obtained their High School graduation. Some students evaded the subject which to them seemed useless, especially the classics, but Mr. Greig went on to show how these subjects, such as the dead languages, were the finest mental training a pupil could have.

In the speaker's estimation it was better to take the general work first and then specialize. Mr. Greig spoke of a reform that was to be discussed this Easter at Toronto to the effect that a student who passed with 50 per cent. average would not be compelled to write departmental examinations. This would mean that the brains of the pupils was left to the individual school. He saw a danger here in the lack of uniformity of school standings. Every university in the province has its standings to keep up and departmental examinations gave a uniform standing and enabled students to prepare themselves more fitly for the university entrance.

In concluding Mr. Greig quoted from an address given by Principal Taylor at Cobourg: "The subjects as far as the making of a living were concerned, meant nothing. Philosophy led to no riches, but it was the finest of all trainings for the mind. The dead languages were dead, but the man who made himself master of them had in the process made himself master of his own tongue... The real return, however, from any general education lay not in the power it gave to make a living but in the happiness it brought the possessor of it.

DIES FOLLOWING BOTTLE OF BEER

William Austin Succumbs at Home of Friend in Belleville After Drink.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., March 11.—(By the Canadian Press).—An inquest has been ordered by Coroner Dr. R. W. Tennant into the death of William Walter Austin, Canadian National Railway's section hand, who was found dead early yesterday at the home of H. S. Ashley, a friend.

Ashely told police Austin came to his home Sunday night with a bottle of beer, of which he drank a portion of the contents. After drinking the beer, Ashely said, his friend fell off a couch on which he had been lying. Thinking him asleep, Ashley said he picked Austin up and placed him back on the couch. He left him and went to bed, he said, but when he found him this morning he was in the same position, dead.

The remainder of the beer will be analyzed and an inquest will be opened March 18.

A CREAMERY MERGER.

Evidence of the trend towards amalgamation that is characteristic of modern business is the announcement that British interests are planning a merger of the 200 creameries in Ontario.

Peterborough district is keenly interested in this development, for the British promoters have an option on a number of creameries in this section of the country which will become part of the creamery chain if the deal goes through.

The argument in favor of the amalgamation is that always advanced when mergers are to the fore, namely, that with more centralized control the operating costs would be cut down and at the same time production would be increased.

This is an era of chain stores which invaded most fields of commercial enterprise, and it is not surprising to find a movement on foot to apply the same principle to the production of butter.

Undoubtedly it is true, as claimed, that more butter would be produced at less cost were the creameries of the Province to come under one management.

Whether such a development would in the long run prove as beneficial to the milk producer and the consumer of butter as the present competitive system is something that time will show.

THE MINING INDUSTRY.

The vast amount of interesting information given in the special number of the Northern Miner in regard to the development of the mining industry makes the 88-page edition a most valuable storehouse of data upon a subject of great moment to the people of Canada.

Incidentally the number is of peculiar interest to Peterborough citizens, for among its illustrations are some splendid air photographs taken recently by N. Miller of the local Northern Airways Company.

The Northern Miner has done much in this and other special numbers to give the mining industry intelligent advertising, and to supply Canadians generally with a more accurate conception of what is involved in the great contribution made to the national wealth by that industry.

Worthy of note is the editorial that stresses the change that has taken place in mining in the last fifteen years, a change that has seen the experimental stage and the shipment of mining products in a raw state give way to a more permanent condition, indicated by the millions that have been spent in the building of refineries, smelters and power plants and the establishment of adequate transportation facilities.

No one could read this special number of the Northern Miner without arriving at a new conception of the extent of Canada's mining industry and the part it is playing and will play in our national prosperity.

EXTENDING THE TERM.

The criticism is made of Premier Ferguson's bill to extend the life of the Legislature from four to five years is that he proposes to make the bill applicable to the present Legislature and therefore is awarding a five-year term to members who were only elected for four.

In actual practice it is not likely to work out that way.

Governments in Ontario under the present four-year system have almost always gone to the country after the third session, and if the same tendency is followed after the introduction of the longer term, it is safe to assume that the election will come before five sessions are held.

In other words, what Mr. Ferguson really proposes is to substitute an election every four years for the present system of holding one every three years, a change that should commend itself to most people who see no reason why in the absence of any outstanding issues on which the electors should be consulted the Province should have to pay half a million dollars every three years on elections.

During the last campaign there was frequent criticism of the Government for unnecessarily bringing on an election, and the change now advocated should meet with the support of those who complained on that occasion.

THE HEALTH ASSOCIATION.

The Peterborough Health Association, one of the most beneficial of all local public service activities, is appealing to the people of this city for the sum of $1,200, urgently needed to balance its budget for the current year.

The great services rendered by this organization through its camp at Jackson Park, its public nurse and the splendid assistance it gives in cases where sickness and poverty are twin enemies to be fought are so well known to the community generally that little difficulty should be experienced in securing the sum needed.

It should be understood that while the Kiwanis Club with its ever-ready willingness to serve finances the operation of the Jackson Park campaign, the other activities of the association requires some $3,000, of which $1,800 is available, leaving the balance to be raised by public subscription.

No organization has shown itself more worthy of community support than the Health Association.

Its record is an open book; it has brought nursing service and assistance to scores of Peterborough families and paved the way to better health for hundreds of Peterborough children.

Through the whole-hearted co-operation of public-spirited citizens, including the medical profession, this machinery for relieving suffering and distress has functioned admirably year after year, and the people of Peterborough realize the value of its activities too well to cause those activities to be curtailed through lack of the necessary funds.

A REAL ART.

(Chicago Tribune)

Phil Scott, the English heavyweight, lost his Miami fight to Sharkey, the great emotional actor of Boston, as was expected and in a fashion which was not unexpected. Mr. Sharkey seems to go a bit loco when he is excited by combat. He cries, rages, and uses strange oaths, an unusual technique. He fouled Mr. Scott and was not disqualified. Mr. Scott was merely disabled and, trying to renew the fight, lost it with the next blow. It did not astonish any one that the English fighter was fouled. He always is. Nor did it astonish any one that Mr. Sharkey fouled him. He would if he could, but the conduct of the referee has promoted more international ill-will than even the London peace navy conference has thus far.

The British observe that one of their prize fighters is maltreated in the American ring and discuss the incident morosely. If it will help to smooth matters over it might be explained that the American ring does not play any international favorites in doing a shady bit of work. Firpo had to fight two men when he fought Dempsey. When this big Italian, now working the branch railroads, is ripe for a large show something will be done to him which may even interest Mussolini. With long counts and promoters' fixes, with set-ups and fouls, high prices and bad matches, the noble art, at least as it involves heavyweights, is getting itself ready for a long sleep. It already has its bedroom slippers on and is reaching for its night gown.

The gentlemen who operate in the business have an artistic passion for doing crooked things even if they go broke doing them. That's a real art.

RIGHTS OF THE PRESS.

Convicted once of contempt of court, two Cleveland newspaper men have been freed by a higher judge. The decision on the appeal is one which should be of interest to the public at large. The final judgment read, in part:

"We live in an age of pitiless publicity, where the freedom of the press and freedom of speech are paramount issues, and newspapers should have the right to print what they please, always guiding themselves by the laws of libel. A free people must have a free press, and a newspaper should have the right to speak freely its views."

These men were convicted for criticizing the action of a judge in a court action, something which is always regarded as dangerous for a newspaper to do. The appeal judgment, however, seems to set out clearly the rights of those who have the duty of keeping the public informed of the world's doings, and of commenting on them.

There was a time when courts were supreme, and any hint of criticism of their actions was fraught with peril for the critic. When one looks at it reasonably, however, there seems to be no excuse for barring the press from expressing itself in such matters. Judges are not infallible, and in the last analysis, they are servants of the people.

No one would venture to suggest, in this age, that the press be denied the privilege of criticizing governments. Yet governments make the laws. It seems only reasonable, then, that the newspapers should have the same privileges in regard to those who administer them.—Border Cities Star.

THE STORY OF A SPEECH.

Among the world's great orations, which have been preserved in print, that of Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg is universally conceded a high place. Americans are not alone in proclaiming its perfection. The late Earl Curzon characterized it as the masterpiece of modern English eloquence. Lord Charnwood, who wrote one of the best studies of Lincoln, ranked it as a classic which will endure as long as the English language is spoken, and other authorities have been equally exalting in their estimates.

Just what were the qualities that gave to the Gettysburg utterance its pre-eminence is a question which has often been discussed, not always convincingly, or with the same conclusions. It has been reserved to an American admirer, who has contributed voluminously to the literature that has gathered around the name of Lincoln, to make a minute and exhaustive examination of all the circumstances attending the preparation, delivery and reception of the famous address, and these are set forth, with appropriate comment, in a book which, whatever other merits it may possess, can certainly claim that of novelty.

For long the impression prevailed that the Gettysburg address was an impromptu effort, the inspiration of a solemn moment and a moving occasion. Another idea, which crystallized into a popular legend, was that the speech, or the greater part of it, was written by Lincoln on the train while on his way to the scene of the dedication of the cemetery. The facts, as now disclosed, show the President prepared his address with great care and deliberation, writing and revising it with his own hand at least six times, the first in Washington before he left for Gettysburg, the last for publication sometime after it had been delivered. It is one more proof that though eloquence may be a heaven-born gift, it owes not a little to painstaking art.

There are some speeches that read better than they sounded, thanks, perhaps, to judicious revision; there are others which seem to lose much of their effect when translated into print. The Gettysburg oration belongs to the former class. The records indicate that the impression it made upon the audience gathered to hear the President was anything but favorable. The people, it is said, were greatly disappointed, and Lincoln himself described his effort as "a flat failure." One of the unique features of the address, indeed, is the contrast between its immediate reception and the fame to which it subsequently attained.

Close analysis of the speech shows that in some of its passages it was neither original in substance nor flawless in form. But no meticulous criticism can detract from the superlative merit of a piece of prose, that stands as an imperishable monument of the power of the spoken word.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Lobbying against the liquor bill is reported from Ottawa, but the measure is considered as certain to pass.

What To-day Means To You

"PISCES."

If March 11th is your birthday, th best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 7 a.m. to 8:15 a.m., and from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m.

The activities and pleasures of Youth are favored on this date. Sosical gains may be expected and a general state of happiness should prevail. Business affairs will remain somewhat at a standstill. Writers will feel inspired and encouraged.

Children born on this March 11th will have well-balanced mentalities, will be fond of home and home-life and will be extremely loyal. They will be determined and fixed in principle, very law abiding and "square shooters."

There are several qualities in your natural make-up which inure to your benefit and which make life pleasant and easy for you. In the first place you can concentrate on everything you undertake, from solving a difficult problem to doing some trivial personal affair. You allow yourself to revel in your dreams and fancies, but you never allow them to cause you to "wool-gather" when serious thinking is in order. Genius itself has been called concentration concentrated, and nothing great in this world has even been accomplished without it.

You are innately courteous at all times to all people—there is nothing which will ever make you forget to act like a lady or a gentleman. The courtesy in your personality brings out the very best—instead of the worst—from every other personality with which it may come in contact. You give a smile and you receive a smile. You possess considerable repose; not a soporific kind, but the kind which brings about a quiet happiness which outward circumstances are powerless to ruffle. You are in short captain of your soul and master of your fate.

You know how to be obedient—you can give and take commands in a proper spirit. You respect those in authority, and you are obedient to that which is highest within yourself. You will have many interests outside of your home, but you will never neglect your home duties.

THE GREENE MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE

"I don't know that I exactly understand you." Sproot's answer was placid and unruffled. "There is a mailbox just outside the front door. Do you refer to that, sir?"

"No! You know I don't. I want to know where the private—get me?—private mailbox is, in the house."

"Perhaps you are referring to the little silver pyx for outgoing mail on the table in the lower hall."

"'Pyx,' is it!" The sergeant's sarcasm was stupendous. "Well, go down and bring me everything that's in this here pyx.—No! Wait a minute—I'll keep you company. * * * Pyx!" He took Sproot by the arm and fairly dragged him from the room.

A few moments later he returned, crestfallen.

"Empty!" was his laconic announcement.

"But don't give up hope entirely just because your cabalistic diagram has disappeared," Vance exhorted him. "I doubt if it would have helped you much. This case isn't a rebus. It's a complex mathematical formula, filled with moduli, infinitesimals, quantics, facients, derivatives and coefficients. Rex himself might have solved it if he hadn't been shoved off the earth so soon." His eyes wandered over the room.

"And I'm not at all sure he didn't solve it."

Markham was growing impatient.

"We'd better go down to the drawing room and wait for Dr. Doremus and the men from Headquarters," he suggested. "We can't learn anything here."

We went out into the hall, and as we passed Ada's door Heath threw it open and stood on the threshold surveying the room. The French doors leading to the balcony were slightly ajar, and the wind from the west was flapping their green chintz curtains. On the light beige rug were several damp discolored tracks leading round the foot of the bed to the hall door where we stood. Heath studied the marks for a moment, and then drew the door shut again.

"They're footprints, all right," he remarked. "Some one tracked in the dirty snow from the balcony and forgot to shut the glass doors."

We were scarcely seated in the drawing room when there came a knocking on the front door; and Sproot admitted Snitkin and Burke.

"You first Burke," ordered the sergeant, as the two officers appeared. "Any signs of an entry over the wall?"

"Not a one." The man's overcoat and trousers were smudged from top to bottom. "I crawled all round the top of the wall, and I'm here to tell you that nobody left any traces anywheres. If any guy got over that wall, he vaulted."

"Fair enough.—And now you, Snitkin."

"I got news for you." The detective spoke with overt triumph. "Somebody's walked up those outside steps to the stone balcony on the west side of the house. And he walked up 'em this morning after the snowfall at 9 o'clock, for the tracks are fresh. Furthermore, they're the same size as the ones we found last time on the front walk."

"Where do these new tracks come from?" Heath leaned forward eagerly.

"That's the hell of it, sergeant. They come from the front walk right below the back steps to the front door; and there's no tracing 'em farther back because the front walk's been swept clean."

"I mighta known it," grumbled Heath. "And the tracks are only going one way?"

"That's all. They leave the walk a few feet below the front door, swing round the corner of the house, and go up the steps to the balcony. The guy who made 'em didn't come down that way."

The sergeant puffed disappointedly on his cigar.

"So he went up the balcony steps, entered the French doors, crossed Ada's room to the hall, did this dirty work, and then—disappeared! A sweet case this is!" He clicked his tongue with disgust.

"The man may have gone out by the front door," suggested Markham.

The sergeant made a wry face and bellowed for Sproot, who entered immediately.

"Say, which way did you go upstairs when you heard the shot?"

"I went up the servant's stairs, sir."

"Then some one mighta gone down the front stairs at the same time without your seeing him?"

"Yes, sir; it's quite possible."

"That's all."

Sproot bowed and again took up his post at the front door.

"Well, it looks like that's what happened, sir," Heath commented to Markham. "Only how did he get in and out of the grounds without being seen? That's what I want to know."

Vance was standing by the window gazing out upon the river.

"There's something dashed unconvincing about those recurrent spoors in the snow. Our eccentric culprit is altogether too careless with his feet and too careful with his hands. He doesn't leave a fingerprint or any other sign of his presence except those foot tracks—all nice and tidy and staring us in the face. But they don't square with the rest of this fantastic business."

Heath stared hopelessly at the floor. He was patently of Vance's opinion; but the dogged thoroughness of his nature asserted itself, and presently he looked up with a forced show of energy.

"Go and phone Captain Jerym, Snitkin, and tell him I wish he'd hustle out here to look at some carpet tracks. Then make measurements of those footprints on the balcony steps.—And you, Burke, take up a post in the upper hall, and don't let any one go into the two front west rooms."

SOCIETY OBSERVES SHROVE TUESDAY

About Eighty Persons Attend Pancake Social Held in Havelock Anglican Church.

HAVELOCK, March 11.—(Examiner Correspondence).—About eighty persons attended the pancake social in St. John's (Anglican) vestry basement, on Tuesday, March 4, when the Ladies Guild held their annual pancake supper on Shrove Tuesday. Delicious golden brown pancakes and maple syrup were served from four to six o'clock. These were made by Mesdames George Smith, Thomas Curtis and Thomas Cummings. The sum of twenty dollars was realized, and all who were present declared they had a big quarter's worth.

Mesdames Covert, Leask, Rice, Watson, Jones, and Dickenson were the waitresses. Mrs. H. Roche is President of the Guild. This was the first social affair held in the new vestry.

Enjoy Social Evening.

A very pleasant social evening was enjoyed by a large number of members of Knox Presbyterian W.M.S. on Wednesday, March 5, in the basement of the church. The entertainment took the form of a concert and social and many friends of the ladies accepted the invitation of the ladies and were present to enjoy their hospitality.

The opening number was hymn 399, "Come Let Us Sing Of A Wonderful Love", and prayer by the pastor, Rev. J. Lennox. He then extended a welcome to the visitors and after a few timely remarks called for the various numbers on the program as follows:

Recitation, Mr. J. Kinnaird; duet, vocal, "Jesus Is All the World to Me", Mrs. Jamieson; instrumental solo, mandolin, with piano accompaniment, Mr. Kinnaird, Mrs. Southward at piano; vocal solo, "Somebody", Mrs. T. C. Jamieson; vocal solo, "I've Found a Friend", Mrs. Southward; chorus, "I Am Thine O Lord; address, Rev. M. E. Wilson; chorus, "Follow Me' the Master Said"; address, Mrs. Kinnaird; instrumental selection, Mr. Kinnaird; address, Glimpses of Japan, illustrated with lantern slides, Rev. J. Lennox.

This was followed by the auctioning of the autograhed quilt, which was sold to Mrs. Kinnaird for seven dollars. After the quilt was disposed of refreshments were served, and a pleasant time was spent in friendly chatter. This was concluded by singing The National Anthem, and Benediction by Rev. Mr. Lennox.

"COMING TO TERMS WITH THE UNIVERSE."

Tuesday.

"The Peace of Fidelity."

SCRIPTURE

Memory Verse: "Angels came and ministered unto him" (Matthew 4:11).

Read: Psalm 119:161-168.

MEDITATION

Jesus had come victoriously through His temptation. His last words to Satan were the closing words in the passage for to-day: "Thous shalt worship the Lord thy God and Him only shalt thou serve." One must go the way that God and his universe are going or else be at sixes and sevens with the world and himself. When Shelley was a child he once set fire to a fagot pile. When questioned as to why he had done so he replied that he had wanted. "to make a little hell" of his own. This is not hard to do. The easiest way to do it is to throw off all sense of standards to which we must be loyal. The happy man is the one who keeps faith with his ideals. "Angels come and minister unto him." This is the peace of fidelity.

PRAYER

O Thou, who art the strength of all souls, abide in us this day and make us strong. May we have such fidelity that there may abide in our hearts the peace of God that passeth understanding. Amen.

AMUSING SCENES IN ANNUAL EVENT

Dramatic Club of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum Present "The Heart of a Shamrock."

ON 17TH OF MARCH.

Rapid strides have been made within the past few days in preparation by the Dramatic Club of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum for the presentation of "The Heart of a Shamrock", a lively somedy-drama in three acts which will be given at the Grand Opera House on Monday evening next, March 17.

Even though the production is still in a rough state and still to be greatly developed and polished before its presentation, it has furnished capital amusement for visitors at rehearsals, and has many fun-making possibilities. Every member of the cast is most enthusiastic over the play, which is a thoroughly modern Irish comedy-drama, causing laughter galore, and based on a mystery plot that holds the attention from start to finish and has a very unexpected ending. There is no one stellar part, all actors having a good chance to present their individual roles.

Throughout the three acts, the rapid action jumps from one interesting episode to another, in which are mingled thrills, laughs and surprises. The comedy is natural and unforced, the characters have many interesting little mannerisms and the interest is well sustained. Members of the cast are as follows: Miss Minnie Allen, Miss Stella Brady, Miss Peggy Roche, William Collins, John Madden Tom Lynch, Ed Leonard and Frank Marocco.

MANY ISSUES AT HIGHER LEVELS

Market Closed at 12.30 To-day in Respect to Late Chief Justice Taft.

HEAVY TRADING.

By Stanley W. Prenosil (Associated Press Financial Editor.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 11.)—The stock market turned irregular to-day after an opening outburst of buying had carried more than two score issues to new high levels for the year. Trading was in heavy volume, with the ticker failing more than 20 minutes behind the market. The exchange was ordered closed at 13.20 p.m., out of respect for the memory of former Chief Justice Taft, whose funeral is being held to-day in Washington.

Call money renewed unchanged at 4 per cent with indications that the rate would be maintained. Wall Street is looking for a temporary stringency in call money over the week-end. One of the most constructive news developments of the day was the estimate of another huge decrease in crude oil production last week. This decline, coming at a time when the seasonal demand for oil products is increasing, was widely hailed as a constructive development because of the large surplus stocks on hand. General asphalt crossed 60, and was accompanied into new high ground by Atlantic Refining and American Republics.

General Motors crossed 45 to a new high level for the year, one block of 15,000 shares changing hands at that price. Checker Cab, Dupont, Radio, Timken Roller Bearing, Coca Cola, Consolidated Film, Warren Bros., and General Refractories were among the many other issues to sell at new peak prices for the year.

Peoples Gas, large blocks of which are reported to have been taken out of the market by investment trust, was marked up 5 points to a new top at 289, Auburn Auto responded to reports of increasing sales by climbing 5 points to a new peak at 254.

LABOR MINISTRY WINS IN HOUSE

Amendment to Coal Mine Bill is Beaten By 30 Votes.

LONDON, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—The Macdonald Government was victorious on the first of several divisions on amendments to the Coal Mine Bill to-day by a vote of 272 to 242.

The margin of 30 votes victory which the Laborite Government received was one of its largest on a controversial question. The margin of safety on a question of confidence ten days ago was zero.

LONDON BANKS LEADERS OF FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

Survey Made of Banks in United States and British Commonwealth of Nations.

C.L.C. DEFERS PAYMENT.

TORONTO, Mar. 11 (Special to Examiner.) The California Bank of Los Angeles has compiled a table showing the relative position, according to deposit liabilities in United States dollars, of the largest banks of the United States of American and the British commonwealth of nations. Two London institutions lead all others and five of the nine to have total deposits in excess of a billion are British banks. Midland Bank Limited, of London leads with $1,800,000,000, followed by Lloyds Bank of London with $1,700,000,000. National City Bank of New York is the first American institution, ranking third with $1,600,000,000. The Bank of Montreal and the Royal Bank of Canada are the ranking banks of the Dominion, being in twelfth and thirteenth places, respectively, with total deposits of over $800,000,000. Canadian Bank of Commerce is seventeenth with deposits of $637,000,000; both the bank of Montreal and the Royal Bank ahead of the Bank of England, which is in fourteenth place with total deposits of $779,000,000. The Bank of Nova Scotia, Imperial Bank of Canada, Banque Canadienne Nationale and Dominion Bank are well up in the list. Of total deposits, representing $42,000,000,000 by 150 institutions, 57 British banks contribute $19,000,000,000 and 93 American $23,000,000,000.

Defer Payment.

Directors of the Canadian locomotive company have decided to defer payment of the 7 per cent, cumulative dividend on the preferred stock following publication of the financial statement for the year ended December 31, 1929, in which a profit and loss deficit was reported for the year. William Harty Jr., in his remarks to the shareholders stated the final six months of 1929 was a very poor period for placing of orders for locomotives but expects 1930 to be much better.

In other years this company paid dividends on the senior security out of surplus when earnings were not sufficient to meet requirements but the loss of $120,000, in 1929 comes on top of a deficit of $404,590 in 1928 and surplus profit, after all charges, in 1927 of only $6,438. The company has $1,500,000 in preferred shares of $100 par on which the next quarterly distribution of $1.75 was to have been made April 1, 1930.

MYSTERY WOMAN TAKES NEW FORM

Lincoln Erlanger, Theatre Magnate, Married Woman in Toronto in 1891.

ONCE BEFORE COURT.

TORONTO, Ont., March 11. (Canadian Press).—Abraham Lincoln Erlanger, theatrical magnate of New York, who died last week, and distribution of whose $70,000,000 estate is causing much controversy because of his own use of the term "unmarried" in his will, contradicting the claims of a "Mystery Woman" who describes herself as his widow, did go through a form of marriage in Toronto, July 5, 1691. The bride gave her name as Adelaide Bailey, of Buffalo, N.Y.

Annulment of this marriage was sought 20 years later. The case came before the late Sir William Meredith, then Chief Justice of common pleas, on Jan. 7, 1911. The endorsement on the record is "Case struck off list. Leave to plaintiff to re-enter at any time without further fee."

RABIES OUTBREAK NEAR FRANKFORD

Man and Twin Sons Being Given Pasteur Treatment—Four Cattle Destroyed.

SECOND OUTBREAK.

BELLEVILLE, March 11 (C.P.).—Another outbreak of rabies has occurred near Frankford, this time of a more serious nature. Blake Moran and his twin sons, Allan and Arthur, have contracted the disease and are being given the Pasteur treatment by Dr. McMullen of Frankford. Four young cattle, owned by Mr. Moran, have had to be destroyed, and his whole herd of about 25 head is quarantined.

Health authorities declared to-day that if there is any further outbreak among cattle the whole section will be quarantined.

This outbreak, following as it does shortly after three farmers of that district had been treated for rabies by Dr. McMullen, shows that the outbreak is more general than was at first expected. A sharp watch is being kept on all cattle in the district. Several dogs have been shot, but it is feared that they have been "running" the cattle and biting their heels, with a consequent general spread of the disease. Most of the farmers in the vicinity of Frankford have been taking the Pasteur treatment as a precaution against contracting the disease.

FEVER EPIDEMIC AT PEAK

TORONTO, Ont.—Hope that the scarlet fever situation in Toronto had reached its worst was expressed today by Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, Medical Officer of Health. He said 33 cases were reported yesterday and a further 24 cases before noon to-day.

Betty Nuthall Takes Up Business Course

LONDON, March 11. (Canadian Press)—The Daily News today says that Betty Nuthall, British tennis star, will miss several of the important spring tournaments because she is taking lessons in business management and cookery with the object of running a restaurant in London.

"She is becoming a capable business woman, Betty's mother said to the Daily News, "and she can cook a steak nicely. She also is taking lessons in typewriting. The Nuthall family has been in the restaurant business for years and Betty has the advantage of family tradition."

Several other morning papers carried stories similar to that in the News.

Chicago Wheat Gains After Early Setbacks

CHICAGO, Ill., March 11. (C.P.)—Aggressive buying of May wheat lifted that month and March early to-day to well above yesterday's finish notwithstanding setbacks at the start. New crop months, July and September, however, averaged lower, affected by bearish aspects of the government report on domestic farm reserve stocks and by weakness of quotations at Liverpool. Opening ½ A 1 3-8 off, Chicago wheat futures rallied afterward, but with the new crop months showing relative weakness. Corn and oats were also irregular with corn starting unchanged to a drop of 2 cents, but subsequently recovering. Provisions held firm.

LIST STEADY ON TORONTO CURB

NICKEL QUIET.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 11. (C.P.)—Influenced by the prospect of Wall Street closing operations for the day at 12.30 p.m., out of respect for the late Chief Justice Taft, the Toronto Stock Exchange market to-day experienced even quieter trading than yesterday. As midday approached trading was practically at a standstill. Price changes over the entire list were small and unimportant.

International Nickel, leader in recent sessions, was quiet this morning, with the price at midday unchanged from last night's final of 40 5-8, although it had gone higher shortly after the opening. Attention centred rather on Ford of Canada "A" and Famous Players, both unusually active in comparison with the recent turnover. Ford of Canada moved up to 30¾ where it is the highest in quite sometime.

DRESSES A LA BRIDGE

NEW YORK.—The latest colors of women's dresses are named after bridge terms. "Slam" is a warm shade of beige; "Hoyle" is a rich golden tan; "Contract" is a bright henna color; "Finesse" is a light dahlia shade; "Game" is a green-blue that flatters both blondes and brunets.

Attorney is Given His Own Medicine

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 11 (Caadian Press).—Asa Keyes, for a quarter of a century a public servant in the Los Angeles District Attorney's office, goes to San Quentin Prison to-night to join the thousands of convicts he sent there. Murderers, kidnappers, robbers, mebezzlers, swindlers, all the victims of Keyes' prosecutions, await his entry as a fellow-convict, and Keyes says he is not afraid of them.

Four thousand and thirty men and women were sent to the State's prison by Keyes in the five years he was District Attorney. In the previous five years, while he was chief deputy, 1,060 persons here were sent to either San Quetin or Folsom prisons.

Keyes is under sentence of one to fourteen years on a charge of accepting bribes from defendants he had sworn to prosecute.

INDIAN WOMAN SHIFTING BLAME IN MURDER CASE

Aged Flower Peddler Accuses Friend of Prompting Act.

OTHER ADMITS KILLING.

Believed White Woman to be Witch and That She Should Die.

BUFFALO, March 11.—The murder of a white woman by an aged Indian squaw, who believes witches should die, to-day developed into a furious battle between the two alleged co-conspirators.

Lila Jimerson, who is charged by police with planting the thought that Mrs. Clothilde Marchard, wife of a famous artist, was a witch in the mind of Mrs. Nancy Bowen, aged Indian flower peddler, denied all responsibility. Lila told her interviewer:

"I never tell her to kill Mrs. Marchand. She and I good friends. We often go with Mr. Marchand for automobile rides."

Other Admits Killing

Seated stolidly in a chair in the women's quarters at the police station was Mrs. Bowen. She said:

"Sure I kill Mrs. Marchand, I hit her with hammer.' Lila tell me she no good woman, she witch. Lila say if no kill Mrs. Marchand kill me and my friends."

Neither women displayed emotion. Indian stoicism prevented that. Mrs. Bowen told of striking the fatal blows with the hammer as though she were discussing the sale of sassafras. She said:

"I walk in house and see Mrs. Marchand. I say to her, 'You witch woman?' She say, 'Yes'."

"I say, 'You want to kill me and my friends?' and she say, 'Yes.' Then I hit her hard with hammer. She fall down. I hit her again. I choke her. I pick up paper, put chloroform on it and put it in her throat. Then I go out."

CANADIAN ART AT WASHINGTON SHOW PRAISED

Ada Rainey, Noted Critic, States Paintings Most Original Seen in Years.

SING SAGA OF CANADA.

R. S. Hewton and Lauren Harris of Toronto, Both Complimented.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 11. (By Ken Clark, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent) The exhibition of Canadian art in the Corcoran galleries under the auspices of the American Federation of Arts apparently has suffered little because of the cancellation of the formal opening owing to the death of Ex-President Taft, universally regretted by Canadians whose well known friend he was.

The exhibition opened to the public on Sunday and seven hundred Washingtonians viewed the paintings. Two were sold, those by Pepper and Robertson.

Of the fifty-nine paintings in the exhibition the Washington Post critic Ada Rainey, speaks in the most complimentary vein. She says the American Federation of Arts is to be congratulated for organizing such a splendid exhibition which is so free from the academic and formal tendencies of much popular painting. "The Canadian paints are among the most original seen in the Corcoran galleries in years" she states. "They are the expression of the men of the north new born since the war and daring to paint their country as they see it instead of blindly following the lead of the Dutch and Barbizon painters formerly followed in Canada.

Nothing to Offend

"Surely there is nothing in this exhibition to offend even the most conservative unless they are wilfully turning their eyes to the past and refusing to see what the men of vision of to-day are seeing. These men of the north sing a saga of their land which has a strain of the cosmic forces untainted with the sterilization of a false civilization."

She refers particularly to the work of Lauren Harris of Toronto as representative of this feeling and goes on to commend R. S. Hewton for his nude and who "has succeeded so well with the portraits of the two children with their dog, which has been loaned by the Canadian Minister, Hon. Vincent Massey. There are other paints loaned by the Canadian Minister.

She refers also to the work of Houser, Jackson, Lismer, Torrance, Pepper, Gagnon, Thompson, Varley and others in complimentary terms. There is no adverse criticism contained in her writing.

GIRL WELL CARED FOR.

TORONTO, Ont., March 11.—(C.P.)—Every care and precaution had been exercised in the case of Margaret Purdy, aged five, who died in a hospital here Feb. 11 last following an operation for the removal of her tonsils, a coroner's jury investigating her death, found in their verdict returned last night.

Dullness Continues On Standard Market

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 11. (C.P.)—A peaceful somnolence marked trading on the mining market during the early session to-day, the list being without an interesting movement throughout the whole period. Turnover was light and activity confined in scope.

Base Metals and the Pacific Coast issues generally were softer, the former stock easing 30 to $3.40 in the face of some evident selling pressure. Premier, ex-dividend 6 cents to-day, was off 7 to $1.25, and Pend Oreille fell another 15 to 3.

International Nickel opening stronger at $41, weakened towards noon and was unchanged at $40.50. Noranda was slightly easier throughout, selling off 35 at $41.25. Hudson Bay was inactive and unchanged at $12.50.

Divorce Discussed

The Grand Master also had some reference to make in regard to the problem of marriage and divorce.

"Considerable attention," he noted, "is being given to the question of marriage ond divorce. Whether a Divorce Court in Ontario would be in the best interests of this Province is not a question for the hierarchy of another Province to decide.

"No one dislikes the idea of divorce more than I. Marriage is a serious question; the vows and pledges are tremendous, perhaps some of the trouble is in the case of getting married.

"Propinquity, congeniality, social relations, and the present freedom of action accorded to our young people all make the wedded relations easy of access. Once these sacred vows are taken and pledges given ,there ought to be a back door ajar through which an easier exit made be made.

"Were it a fact that the great majority of our citizens were of the faith of the Quebec heirarchy, it might be a natural thing for guidance to come from that source, but our population is preponderingly Protestant."

LIQUOR BILL'S HOPES BRIGHT

OTTAWA, Ont., March 11. (Canadian Press).— The bill introduced by the Government for the refusal of clearances to vessels carrying liquor to the United States was, it is understood, under consideration at to-day's caucus of Conservative members and Senators. A general discussion took place, it is rumored, on the provisions of the measure.

Indications are that the bill will be passed in the House of Commons. At the moment there does not appear to be any probability of an amendment to the bill being moved.

THOMAS QUERIED ON COAL ORDERS

Samuels Asks Whether Return Wheat Shipments From Canada Are Arranged.

DOMINION TRIP A SUCCESS.

LONDON, March 11 ((By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent). — The question of the shipment of 40,000 tons of coal for Canada was again raised in the House of Commons to-day. Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal, in reply to questions by A. M. Samuels, Conservative, Farnham, who sought information concerning Mr. Thomas' trip to Canada, said he thought the trip was successful.

Mr. Samuels asked Mr. Thomas whether in addition to the soft coal to be shipped as soon as the St. Lawrence re-opens for navigation, arrangements had been made with the Canadian Wheat Pool to send wheat to Great Britain regularly in vessels which would return with coal cargoes.

Has Nothing To Add.

Mr. Thomas referred the question to his reply in the House on March 4, when he said he had nothing to add to his former statement on the conversations with representatives of the Wheat Pool.

"Are we to infer, therefore, that the only thing we got out of this visit is the atmosphere the Lord Privy Seal created in Canada?" Mr. Samuels said.

"No, sir," Mr. Thomas replied. "The mining industry got a definite order in a new market for 40,000 tons of coal. The Lancashire cotton industry will, I hope, benefit by representations made in connection with that tonnage. A number of other benefits also accrued which, I think, are sufficient to justify the feeling it was a successful trip."

BRITISH POLICY LAUDED.

WASHINGTON, D.C.— Testimony regarding the colonial policies of Great Britain was given before the Senate Territories Committee to-day as it turned again to the consideration of proposals for Philippine independence. Charles P. Perin, appearing for the American Asiatic Association, said he had spent many years in India and thought that country "enormously benefited" by the British policy.

Annual Meetings of Various Mining Companies Scheduled For Latter Part of Month.

GRANADA CONSTRUCTION.

TORONTO, Mar. 11. (Special to Examiner.)—Speaking at a meeting of mining men recently, Premier Ferguson, in urging that every encouragement be given the public to continue investment in Canadian mining, stated that there is no speculation which provides the thrill and excitement which attends participation in mining ventures. Looking over the boards and their listless movements these days, some for the board room enthusiasts are a little doubtful regarding that thrill and excitement. Though developments at various properties are, in the main, favorable, chief interest is directed towards annual reports and meetings. Several gatherings are scheduled for the later part of the month, International Nickel and McVittie Graham, March 18; Sudbury Basin 20th; Goodfish at Kirkland Lake 22nd; Noranda Mines 28th; Waite Ackerman Montgomery 29th.

In view of the reorganization of the company last April, some speculation has been heard as to when the annual report of Pend Oreille Mines and Metals Company, Inc., would appear. It is understood the directors will present a complete review of operations in June, and that the annual meeting will be held shortly after the publication of this report. while nothing definite has been decided, it is believed notices of the annual meeting of shareholders of Dome mines are to be mailed before the end of the current month and that the meeting itself will be held some time in April. The street is anxiously awaiting an announcement regarding the probable date of mill construction and a resumption of milling operations.

After bailing Baltic for several hours, the well has been blowing mud and water from the hole by heads, according to field reports to-day. Until the hole has cleared itself no definite statement can be made regarding possible production. What future action may be taken has not been announced.

Granada officials have been advised that the Quebec government will help gravel the road to the mine. Meantime, machinery for the oil driven plant as well as the 100 ton mill is being transported as rapidly as possible over the snow roads. Construction will be completed in early June.

Columario, which has been developing the Keanza and Valhalla groups near Usk, B.C., is increasing its force to 30 men and will resume active development. The company had intended to continue development during the winter, but the condition of the road made it impossible.

BYRD SPEAKS TO CANADA AND U.S.

Sends Mesage From Dunedin, New Zealand, First Stopping Place.

STATIC INTERFERES.

(B. C. E. Brownfield, Associated Press Radio Editor)

NEW YORK, March 11.—From more than 10,000 miles away, Admiral Richard E. Byrd spoke by radio today to listeners in Canada and the United States. He spoke from Dunedin, New Zealand, his first port on his homeward journey from the South Polar region.

The explorer's Hello to America was in response to a wave sent back to civilization by Adolph S. Ochs publisher of the New York Times. His replies were barely distinguishable in a barrage of static and other forms of interference.

It was Wednesday morning in Dunedin, shortly after 12.30, when Byrd responded to Mr. Ochs' greetings. At the receiving end in the United States it was 7.30 Tuesday morning.

The voice of Admiral Byrd was brought to the United States over the most elaborate hook-up of radio circuits ever attempted for rebroadcasting purposes. Short wave channels, wire and broadcast links made possible this epochal two-way conversation, which was retransmitted over the National Broadcasting chain extending to the Pacific Coast.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

ST. JAMES UNITED CHURCH.

A rare treat was afforded all music lovers on Sunday at St. James United Church, by the Galt Maple Leaf Quartette and the two choirs of the church, while the Spiritual needs of the large congregation were ministered to by the pastor Rev. R. H. Dudgeon.

Of special interest to believers was the subject of the morning service, "Reflecting the Glory," taken from the two texts "II Corinthians 4 6" "For God commanded the light to shine out of darkness hath shined in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ and II Corinthians, 3 18 "But we all with open face beholding as in a glass the Glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from Glory to Glory even as by the Spirit of the Lord."

"Jesus of Nazareth did not come to teach the world that God exists" said the pastor "for this fact was already known. Nor did He come to show His holiness, righteousness and power. He did come to show the Spirit of Fatherhood in the heart of God and so that you and I might be children of God.

Not the galleries of America or of Europe but to the gallery of the Bible was the congregation taken to look upon the pictures of Christ as He revealed the Glory of God.

"The first picture depicted the face of a babe on the bosom of a virgin mother. We see a plain humble peasant woman and a child wrapped in the cheapest of swaddling clothes. This was a revelation of how low God can stoop to raise a fallen race.

"The next picture shows a beautiful spring morning. Flowers were springing up, birds singing and children shouting Hosanna, while the people spread garments afor the feet of Christ. Yet in this scene of rejoicing we see the Son of God weeping. Are these tears of gladness? No! they are tears of sorrow, for looking ahead thirty years Christ sees this same city a place of carnage. This picture represents a pitying, loving Father.

Sympathy is the keynote of the next picture, which is that of Jesus weeping, over the death of Lazarus. This typifies the attitude of God to all who are in sorrow.

"The fourth picture shows a face of steadfastness, for it is that of Christ on the way to Jerusalem. He knew Gethsemane was there, yet for your sake and mine, He endured the cross and shame. Behold in the face of Jesus the Glory of God, which is revealed not only as a picture but that we might be saved eternally.

There is a call to each one of us, too, to reveal the Glory of God. The call to come apart and rest in a quiet place is equally as binding as the call to service for it is in communion with Jesus that we grow like Him and reflect His Glory. This transformation is progressive for there are heights and depths we have not yet found. Let us not be discouraged but endure to the end.

"It is the Holy Spirit which can make us like Jesus. Are we thus reflecting the love of God so that people may see it in us?

Two beautiful numbers were contributed by the Quartette "When Mother Prays" and "My Father loves His Erring Child."

"O be Joyful" Price was the Anthem rendered by the senior choir, Mrs. McLaren taking the solo part.

REV. D. WREN SPEAKS.

An inspiring address "Can Great Britain ever pay her war debt," was delivered by the Rev. D. Wren, M.A., B.D., of Trinity United Church, to a large gathering of the Brotherhood of St. James, in the afternoon. The speaker was also assisted by the quartette who gave several fine numbers.

The Sunday School, which met at the same hour, reached the largest attendance in its whole history when 510 teachers and scholars were present.

Special Music.

In the evening the quartette led the congregation in a service of song, also singing several selections including "The Beautiful City of God" and a negro Spirituale "Were you There?"

The pastor's evening message "At the Forks of the Road" was directed particularly to the young men, in an unusually large congregation.

In introducing his subject, Rev. Mr. Dudgeon quoted the eighth verse of the first chapter of Daniel.

This next gives us a decisive moment in a great man's life. It takes years to build up a character, but only a moment to destroy it. Every life is made up of decisions as to right and wrong. To appreciate the stand Daniel took, we must understand the circumstances. Babylon was then in its glory of prosperity and wealth. Within this city was the magnificent palace of King Nebuchadnezzar.

Some miles away, nestling among the hills was the only city on earth, at that time where the true God was worshipped.

Nebuchadnezzar with his great army, beseiged the latter, Jerusalem, and bore away as prisoners to Babylon's fairest and brightest young men and women. Among this company was the hero of this text, whose future looked very dark. But soon a message is brought that he has been selected as a candidate for one of the King's officers, a position of high honor at the Royal table, Daniel meets the crisis of his life. He refuses to violate his religion at the risk of losing this wonderful opportunity. So what you are depends upon the step you took at the fork in the road.

Daniel met his first temptation as a stranger in a strange land. A man is never better at heart at home than he is away from home. Christian character is just as loyal in the dark as in the light.

His second temptation came through the high honor offered him as a substitute for his religion. We need statesmen to-day like Daniel, who will be strong enough to say "I will not defile myself for honor."

The third proposition made him was that it was customary to do this. Foolish social customs have wrecked many a character. We should break every law of common courtesy, if necessary, to obey God.

It is hard for any young man to turn from the multitude to break the circle, to stop when other go, but you can never climb where God wants you until you learn to go alone.

MORE THIS

Again, Daniel was tempted because of the money offered in this position. The man who is swallowed up in his bank account, and his business, puts his soul on the block and sells it for money. Men, who like Daniel, cannot be bought will make Canada a great and strong nation.

Perhaps, too, Daniel thought that God had forgotten him, but still, like Job, he remained true. God always takes care of the man who honors him and dares to do right. Daniel turned his back on everything for God but he was selected as a leading man and honored by many for years—and even from the den of lions God delivered Daniel.

God never asks man to give up any thing of a permanent nature to become a Christian. Sin is the only thing he asks you to give up.

You too, will face this fork in the road. The Holy Spirit will call you Will you, like Daniel, prove true and say:

"Come sorrow, come pain
Come losses, come gain."

I'll go every step of the way"

In closing the quartette sang "Nearer my God to Thee," and after the benediction the evening vespers.

"Hark, Hark, my soul," (Shelley) was the evening anthem by the choir with solo parts by Mesdames Kitney and McLaren. The junior choir sang "What if it Were To-day" (Morris) as an offertory number.

The Galt Maple Leaf Quartette are in the city under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. James and will be heard again on Monday evening in an unusual concert in this church.

FISHING SMACK SINKS IN STORM

Only One Man in Crew of Six Escapes Death From Drowning or Sharks.

ON RCCK 50 HOURS.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, March 11.—(Canadian Press).—One man, out of a crew of six, escaped death when the smack Dinamita foundered in a storm a few miles off this port.

Carlos Avila, the survivor, said that a giant wave overturned the craft, throwing the crew into the water in which sharks and barracuda were playing. Avila said he personally saw two of his struggling companions devoured by the fish.

He managed to reach a rock and clung there fifty hours until he was picked up by a boat. The captain of the ship, Jose Auis Merillo he said, as his craft capsized, shouted: "We are lost. But we will rejoin you in another world."

BURIED GUN MAY SOLVE MYSTERY

Detectives Unearth Revolver Under Snow in Goldberg Monument Yards.

THREE SHOTS FIRED.

TORONTO, Ont., March 11—(Canadian Press).—A revolver believed by police to be the one used to slay Samuel Goldberg, whose badly charred body was found by firemen in his burning office last Wednesday, was located by detectives hidden in a paper bag and buried beneath the snow in the Goldberg monument yards. Police are tracing down the last owner of the weapon, and are seeking a man who a few days previous to the killing of Goldberg secured a permit for a revolver.

Though only one bullet was found in the victim's body three had been discharged from the revolver found by the police. Police had expressed the theory that Goldberg may not have been shot in his office but was perhaps shot out in the yard and carried to his desk later.

RESTRICT FOX HUNTING

HUNTSVILLE, March 11 (C.P.) — That the season for fox hunting be confined to November and December; that the closed season for salmon trout be changed to the period between October 5 and November 5, were recommendations made at the annual meeting of the Huntsville District Game and Fish Protective Association here last night. A lengthy discussion took place on methods to combat the wolf nuisance, and as to whether dogs should be used in deer hunting. A motion to discontinue the use of dogs for two years, however, was voted down.

EMANCIPATION

THE first great step towards the lightening of household labour was the introduction of running water into the house. The second step was the installation of electricity. Countless comforts and conveniences are thus placed at the command of the women of our Dominion.

Merely the turn of a knob—and the modern electric washing machine pulsates with life and sets about its task. Merely the flick of a switch, and—smoothly, quickly, quietly—The many "wheels" of housekeeping begin to turn; ironing, cooking, cleaning. Merely the touch of a button and the rooms are flooded with light.

One of the many services performed by the Northern Electric Company is the distribution of dependable electrical "servants" for the home.

In some of the Old World countries the women still kneel to scour their clothes in the streams.

ROMANCE AND TRAGEDY LINKED IN LETTERS PRESERVED IN PARIS

Mary Stuart and Beautiful Madame La Pompadour Subjects of Ardent Missives.

REVIVE TRAGIC DAYS

PARIS, March 8 (By Josephine Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Two letters are now to be seen in the historical exhibition of the Carnavalet—frayed, yellow, in that fine hand characteristic of the French gentleman under the monarchy. Two young men in love, that is all, but there is about the letters such a fragrance of old romance that one is tempted to linger.

The first is to Mary Stuart.

Elizabeth had signed her death warrant.

Mary was walking in the dismal parks of the castle which was her prison. It had not been ordered that she should walk in the Autumn sun during the days before her death. Paulet, Amyas Paulet, her jailer had granted her the privilege.

She was thinking, Mary Stuart, of the sunny gardens of France where she had walked in the majesty of Spring, a queen. And Ronsard had sung her beauty. She thought of the day when she had left France forever, a widow of 18, of the young King Francis II, of her mother-in-law, Catherine de Medicis who, like the terrible witch of the fairy tale had banished her to the northern mists, there to govern or fall a victim in her fierce and sombre kingdom.

Suddenly a gun was fired right near her. Almost at the same instant, tufts of ivy detached from the wall, fell at her feet. Painfully and slowly, a young man disentangled himself from the ivy and stood before her.

He held out a letter. She took it. Then soldiers burst into the park, in pursuit of him. He clutched the hem of Mary's dress, kissed it, buried his head in the folds of her skirt. Then a soldier's dagger struck.

As the young man lay at Mary's feet, dead hands still crushed the violet silk of her dress.

The Letter

Mary Stuart was again in her room. From her corsage she took the letter and, with trembling hands, read it in the candlelight.

"I do not know, Madame, if these lines will ever reach you," so the letter ran. "Nevertheless, I write them and I will do my best to deliver them to you. Perhaps I shall succeed. He who is resolved to die can dare much and hope the impossible.

"My name is Bernard de Thielle and I am 18 years old. I am a French gentleman of good family. I am the son of that Renaud, baron of Thielle, who went with you to port when you set sail from Scotland on that unhappy day.

"He did not have the hon or to be chosen by you to follow you further because he had duties near the person of the young king, Charles. He stayed on the shore. When he saw the spreading sail which carried you away, he knelt and stayed there bareheaded until night enveloped your sail in darkness. He has told me that he wept. When he came back to court, his heart seemed empty. He has conceived for you, from the first moment he met you, the most respectful, the most tender attachment. His marriage did not change his sentiments. My mother had an exalted spirit. She understood and she sympathized.

"My father followed with poignant anxiety the succession of your misfortunes. He wore out his life trying to turn them aside. Without, no doubt, your ever knowing it, he was mixed up in many a plot for your deliverance. But his health gave way and his declining strength betrayed his hope. In dying, he made me swear to take his place. My mother no longer lives. I am free to give you my life.

"I have been almost two years in England. I live in the shadow of your sorrows. It is not fitting that I tell you what I have done. That does not matter since I have the bitterness of not having saved you. Alas, Madame, you are perhaps about to perish and I? I can do nothing but die at your feet, throwing to you, as a flower, the supreme memory of France.

"My death will tell you that you are not forgotten there. France will never forget you. So long as there are in French hearts, outraged by treason, sensible to injustice and touched with the majesty of sorrow —eternally they will speak of Mary Stuart.

"Perhaps, in return, Elizabeth will be remembered only because of your tears.

"Your name will remain on men's lips because you were beautiful, because you have suffered, because you were loved."

Secret Lover

The setting of the other letter is gayer. It is in the portrait salon of Versailles.

Madame la Pompadour is sitting to M. La Tour, court painter to Louis XV.

She poses well. Exigencies of court etiquette have accustomed her to long hours of smiling immobility.

The acute eye of the painter noted how fragile was the exquisite beauty of la Pompadour. Fatigues of the terrible life at court, constant constraint under hostile and envious eyes, the ceaseless struggle to retain her slippery hold on the summits of power, to remain favorite of a king without pity and without tenderness —these things had cast dark shadows under the deep blue of her eyes, had paled the cheek under the rouge.

The magnificent blue brocade that emphasized the blue of her eyes shimmered in a stray ray of sunlight.

Yes, she posed well. Eyes steady. Unerring smile.

But the uneasy hands !

How the uneasy hand trembles.

"Who is this?"

"——Oh, a friend, M. de Resliers, an

The unerring smile wavers, is gone.

The unerring smile waves, is gone. A strangely wistful look takes its place.

She sees a stone bench hidden under falling vines, water in a fountain, the color of roses where it reflects the dying sun. About the fountain stands a goddess drawing a veil over her marble shoulders. Those lovely roses of France in autumn, a little like le Pompadour in her splendor.

There he had dared to tell her of his love, this young man with the speaking eyes who had shadowed her for months.

So his name was De Resliers. She had not even known his name.

The dark eyes of La Tour looked at her keenly.

"Where is he now?" she asked with what nonchalance she could summon.

La Tour shrugged his shoulders. "Unlucky devil. He is in love with some Grande Dame so highly placed, it seems, his suit would ruin her and him.

The portrait painter fumbled among his papers.

"There is his letter," he said, with nonchalance to match her own. She read:

"I live nevertheless in this one hope to see her. I count days by the moments when I see her shadow pass."

"He has buried himself, God knows where in the country," the painter went on, ignoring the pain of her deep blue eyes. "The only thing is for him to go far away where he will forget. He speaks of Canada. But he will ask the King for nothing. She has no right to break his life."

The sitter put down the portrait.

So he would forget.

The King stands in the doorway.

"Sire," came the winning voice of la Pompadour. "M. La Tour mentions a young officer of the Royal Picardy. He wants an appointment in your forces destined to Canada."

"Granted," said the smiling King.

De Resliers went to Canada. What became of him there, no one knows. That will o' th' wisp, History, lights up his impassioned face for a moment. Then his tale is lost forever in that merciless, frivolous and tragic chaos which was France of the eighteenth century.

SECOND ARMOUR TROOP

The Second Armour Troop held their weekly meeting at St. Luke's church on Friday night. In the Patrol Corners, Morse Flag Training was taught. The games were played, the Beavers winning these. The meeting was closed with Scout Silence, and the Troop singing God Save the King.

The troop then went down stairs and had a pancake social, the pancakes being kindly cooked by Mrs. Groombridge. Wilfred Lee of the Wolves shined in this by eating the most pancakes.

MUSKRAT SEASON OPENS MARCH 15

Ice Still Remains in Creeks and Large Marshes—Season Probably Late.

NO PRICES QUOTED.

The same contrary predictions that have been current at this time of year for the past thirty-five years are again being made concerning the quality and quantity of muskrats to likely fall prey to the traps in the district during the season which opens here on March 15.

Some reports from the lake and river districts forebode a very small take while others promise a big harvest. Tom Brightman, head of long-established fur dealers here of the same name, told The Examiner that the rich quality and number of skins annually obtained in the local district has remained about the same during the past quarter century.

No prices are being quoted for rats as yet and it is not likely that a price will be established until around April.

A great deal of ice yet remains to melt away on the marshes before traps can be set out and it is doubtful if the season will really get underway until next month.

Sunshine Class of Hastings United Church Entertains Friends.

HASTINGS, March 11—(Examiner Correspondence).—A very enjoyable social evening was spent on Friday night in the basement of Trinity United church when the "Sunshine Class" of the Sunday school entertained a gathering of their friends interested in their work. Despite the inclement weather a fair number assembled. The following program was given, all numbers being capably rendered and exceptionally appropriate.

Chorus, "Glory to God For His Sunshine is Free"; reading, Dorothy Johnston; piano solo, Marjorie Scriver; solo, Helen Smith; recitation, Velma Oliver; solo, Mrs. Edwards; recitation, Jessie Kirk; duet, Helen Smith and Madeline Bonds; solo, Jessie Kirk; piano duet, Miss C. Doxsee and Marjorie Scriver; reading, Wilhelmina Russaw; solo, Madeline Bonds; sacred solo, Madeline Bonds; chorus, "Upward, Ever Upward to the Promised Land."

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Mrs. Fred Barnum in Charge of Interesting Program at Petherick's Corners.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, March 10.— (Examiner Correspondence). — Forty-three league members attended the Monday evening meeting at Zion Church, when Mrs. Fred Barnum, devotional convener, was in charge, with Laura Watson as leader. The business session was led by the president, Thomas Fry, followed by prayer by Mr. William Forde, scripture lesson by the leader and the devotional talk by Rev. F. G. MacTavish, who is starting a series of addresses on the meaning of church membership for the young people. Evelyn Barnum played the violin accompaniment for the musical numbers. Mrs. Lorne Barnum and Mr. Fred Barnum rendered a vocal duet and Miss Gladys Rabbie gave an interesting reading. Mrs. Fred Barnum gave the devotional topic with some discussion following.

A St. Patrick's social evening will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barnum in the interests of the league treasury.

Mrs. Lorne Barnum entertained the members of her Sunday school class, and friends to the number of twenty-five on Thursday evening and a most enjoyable time was spent in games and music. Miss Gladys Simpson assisted the hostess in serving a dainty lunch.

Petherick's Corners was well represented at the Stirling-Campbellford hockey final on Wednesday evening and needless to say enjoyed the game as no one expected the weakened Mill town team to hold the fast Stirling squad.

School Children Meet With Big Timber Wolf

(Examiner Correspondence)

APSLEY, Mar. 11.—Two children of Robert Tanner, of Chandos, while on their way to school on Friday morning, had the terrifying experience of encountering a huge timber wolf while crossing a field not far from their home. On seeing the animal, which was but a short distance from them, they turned and fled home as their legs could carry them. Their father went to the scene and verified the children's story by the animals tracks, which he declares to be the largest he has seen. Since then, its tracks have been seen where Charles Tanner has been lumbering. It is very seldom that wolves have been known to be in that locality which is on the shores of Loon Lake.

Cyclone Sally

CAVAN, March 11.—A play of unusual interest was presented in Cavan recently by the Mount Pleasant Dramatic Society entitled "Cyclone Sally" a comedy drama.

The program occupied two hours and was played before a crowded audience.

As the title suggests the chief character was "Cyclone Sally" which part was played with great success by Mrs. H. H. Lowes. Sally is the owner of a cabbage patch which lies in close proximity to the Webster estate, near the town of Cedar Point. This is a source of annoyance to Jack Webster who bought the place because of its fresh air, rolling meadows, wooded hills and now since Sally planted her cabbage patch he sees nothing but these vile vegetables.

The part of Webster was splendidly acted by Eric McLean.

The plot thickens as a scheme is planned to have Sally ejected and in order for Webster to facilitate his plans he enlists the service of Reggie Manners, a young Englishman, played admirably by Hubert Lowes, but the plans are upset by the carrying out of other plans by other participants of the play.

The first of these is Jenny Thatcher who is the object of Jim Jenkins love. This part was portrayed in a splendid way by Mrs. Norman Fee, whilst Jim Jenkins was represented by Aubrey Bland who as hired man and bandmaster carries out his duties in an efficient manner and finally gains courage to propose to Jenny.

Another interesting factor in the play is the appearance of Ruth Thatcher whose part was fittingly carried out by Miss Ruth Tully. Ruth teaches the neighboring school and enters into the scheme to deceive Webster in his efforts to court Sue Gascon, whom he believes to be an heiress. Unknown to Webster Sue and Sally are the same girl. Ruth is attractive and wins Reggie's attention immediately he sees her.

Another part which added equal interest was that of Effie Varden, played by Miss Loraine Best, she is a cute little neighbor whose quick repartee of speech and charming manner captivated the entire audience. The climax is brought about by Vivian Vernon, the belle of Cedar Point played by Greta Boyd, who is in love with Webster and enters into a scheme with him to have Sally arrested for selling her cabbage on a restricted street. The plan fails when the Constable arrests Jack and Reggie who have undertaken to sell the cabbages for her.

Vivian intensifies matters by exposing Sally who has been masquerading as Sue Bascom. She is ordered to get out, but another character Willie Clump in love with Sally reveals the fact that a later will has been made leaving the entire property to her. Harry Jamieson played the part of Willie Clump who in addition to being in love with Sally is possessed of a very poor memory which lands him in some difficult situations.

The concluding climax is reached when Jack and Sally become engaged and the cabbage is changed into a rose.

The play was greatly enjoyed by all and it was thought that the play might well be considered one of the most enjoyable and interesting ever presented in Cavan Community Hall.

In the course of the evening a vocal selection was given by H. H. Lowes. Visitors were present from Peterborough, and Port Hope, Millbrook and other points.

At the close of the play refreshments were served by the W. A. of Mount Pleasant.

Baby of Mrs. Kiernan Christened On Sunday

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Mar. 11.—The infant daughter of Mrs. and the late Harry Kiernan, was christened on Sunday morning at the church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. She was given the name of Frances Mary Evelyn, and the sponsors were Mary Carr and Francis Voyer.

It will be recalled that the baby's father, the late Harry Kiernan, a C.P.R. brakeman, was killed in Peterborough yard July 2 last near Park street when he was jammed between two freight cars while on duty on the Peterborough switch. He had been married only a month previously to Miss Myrtle Carr, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carr of Belmont. His funeral was held just one month after his marriage, in the R. C. church at Havelock. The bridesmaid and groomsman at his wedding were sponsors for the baby's christening.

Conducted by ANNE WILCOX

Dear Anne:

My there have been some interesting letters these last few nights. Nyrna's letter surely has caused some discussion among the friends. I wonder that some of Nyrnas sort don't come forward and defend her if parties such as she describes are so very popular.

I don't understand Ad Nauseam not caring to be different. I think it would be a privilege to be considered different. There are so many people now who seem the same that one who really is different is always more desirable for a friend—at least to me they are.

Pardon me for troubling you again but have you had a reply to the letter you wrote concerning the pattern I sent for on Jan. 11 and which you ordered on the 14th? It is rather annoying to have to wait so long but I'm sure it is not your fault I don't see why anyone should snub you because your dress was home made! I often think they fit much better don't you. I must run along now as dinner time is drawing near.

Blue Eyes

I am very sorry about your pattern Blue Eyes I have ordered it again for you and if you don't receive it within a few days let me know again.

Dear Anne:

Just this line to ask if I may have the helps I have marked. I am sorry I have been such a slacker, I haven't sent a letter in to the page since Marion left although I have written two or three but they haven't got any farther than the fire. But I am going to get up courage enough to send this one along. I missed Marion very much but I think she she has a perfect successor, and I have received a lot of valuable help from your many talks through the page Anne and I hope you have a long stay as we neighbors do need the help of such a person as you Anne.

But we are very thankful that not many of us take after Nyrna or we would not be very good citizens. Here's hoping she will have a different view on life by this time. I read Lucinda's letter in the paper tonight and I want to thank her for it. I have a little girl 1½ years old last February and it just seemed as though that letter was written for me. As I am only young myself and I am always pondering as to the best way to bring her up right and not deprive her of a good time. There are so many helpful letters in the page and I want to say a big thank you for them all. Many good wishes for success, Anne. I remain.

Doreen

We are glad to welcome you back Doreen to the page and I don't think it should take so much courage as you indicate when writing. We will be glad to hear from you any time, I'm glad you enjoyed Lucinda's letter on Saturday.

Dear Anne:

Could you find room for me on your page? I have long been a silent admirer also when Marion was amongst us but I never got as far as writing. Would I be asking too much of you for my first letter if I asked you a problem which always got me mixed. I am a widow not very old and I wanted to know if it is correct for me in business matters to still use my late husband's initials or to use my own. Should it be such as Margaret Payne or should I include Mrs. M. Payne, bracketing the Mrs? Kindly advise me if you will and maybe I should ring off now for my first letter. I will call myself.

Darky

In business affairs your official name would be Margaret Payne as always, and if you wish you may add Mrs. John Payne in brackets. For social affairs your title would be Mrs. John Payne, even after your husband dies.

Dear Anne:

This is my first letter to your page. I have been a regular reader and have not missed many of the letters. In fact I believe I know all the names off by heart and I must say you are a brick and a real sensible head. It must be wonderful to control your anger the way you do. It would be impossible for me, if I received some of the letters you do and this is just were I disagree with Highflyer. Yes, some of us are different, very much so I imagine there is as much difference between her and Ad Nauseam as between days and night, but apart from all that this is only my opinion and I may be very much off the track.

Poor Nyrna I don't think the neighbors should be so hard on her. For I am sure when you hear from her again you will get a great surprise. I wish you the best of luck with your page Anne and that you hear from Nyrna again soon and feel sure you will hear from the real girl herself.

Joy

I have been anxiously waiting for a letter from Nyrna, Joy, but as yet I haven't received any. Maybe she doesn't want to reply to the neighbors, however, I hope she will some time soon. Thank you for all the nice things you say about the page and come again Joy.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

CAUSE OF GAS ATTACKS.

Perhaps you wonder why you are sometimes bothered with a good deal of gas on the stomach a little while after eating and at other times, although you have actually eaten more food, you feel no gas distension whatever.

Now what is usually the cause of the gas formation?

The eating of starchy foods.

As a matter of fact, starch is the most important of the foods. You think of starchy foods as potatoes, bread, sugar, vegetables and so forth, and these indeed do carry the most starch, but meat eggs and milk have more than half of their contents turned into starch in the body, and fats yield about ten per cent of starch.

Now the digestion of starches, that is turning them into sugar, begins right in the mouth, whereas the proteins (meat and eggs) are not acted upon until they reach the stomach where they are so changed that they can be absorbed into the blood. The fats are not broken up until they pass through the stomach and are acted upon by the bile from the liver, and the juice from the pancreas.

This Nature intended that you should get a good start on the digestion of starches right in the mouth. You were meant to chew and chew these starchy foods and so break them up that the saliva or digestive juice of the mouth could get at them and convert a certain proportion into sugar before they went down to the stomach.

In fact if you have chewed these starchy foods well the mouth juice will continue to act on them for some time after they reach the stomach, the stomach or gastric juice just busying itself with the proteids—meat, eggs, cereals, and so forth.

Now the starchy foods should really become fluid but if enough work has not been done on them by the mouth juice, then the solid particles begin to ferment, gases form, and you have that heavy distressed feeling of which I spoke above.

Of course a little later when the starches get out of the stomach, the pancreatic juice works on them again, and helps turn them into sugar.

But often so much starchy food has remained solid—not chewed or broken up sufficiently—and goes down to large intestine where the organisms there attack them and gas is formed again.

Now the whole point is that if you eat when you are in a hurry and pile is too much starch without breaking it up in the mouth, you need not be surprised if you have gas attacks.

Now you, too, can have

Floors Your Friends Will Admire

WOULD you like to have lovely waxed floors—just like those in the most modern homes—in a few minutes—for a few cents? It is now possible with this new magic polish—Old English Wax.

Old floors look like new and new floors stay like new, whether they are waxed, varnished, shellaced or painted. Because Old English Wax gives double wear as well as double lustre. COMMON KNOWLEDGE.

I do not know why the delightful things, the pleasant common-places of life, should be bundled together under the head common knowledge. They are not, as a matter of fact, common knowledge at all.

Children see what they have been trained to see. The commonplaces of life are all about them but they do not see them and cannot know them unless we show them how to look at the world.

Grass is everywhere. Everybody knows grass. But did you ever stop to look at it? Ever consider the magic of its color, the uncanny power it has in surviving any and all events however catastrophic? Do you know blue-eyed grass, yellow-eyes grass? Have you walked on grass that is fine and soft as moss? And sword grass? And flowering grasses tall as one's self? There is beauty in grass by children must be shown it so that in days to come they will find in it solace and joy.

Have you mentioned the power and majesty, the gentleness and the cruelty of the wind to your questioning child? Have you ever talked to him about the frost pictures, and the fairy snowflakes? There is a world of beauty and mystery there. Can you recite Stevenson's Wind Song, and his other one, "All night long in the wind and rain a man came riding by—". Go over them again with the children and thrill to the beauty of wind and storm.

And about the little animals. Have you pointed out their beauty? Have you dwelt upon the fitness of each detail of their dress—their teeth, their dainty paws,—the cunning hands of the much abused skunk—the dainty tracks of a bird in the snow?

The odors of earth are revelation. How long is it since you knew the smell of damp moss? Can you tell the difference between a whiff of pine's breath and one of hemlock as they come across the sun-flooded hillside? The scent of white violets so faint and so daintily assertive; the perfume of sweet fern or white clover? Can you scent the sea far off?

In this common knowledge lies the beauty of living. Here are secrets well worth a kingly ransom and to be had for the asking. You who possess this treasure must know it a sacred duty to pass it along to the children who are to succeed you in its enjoyment. Remember that children see only what you point out to them. They hear what is familiar to their ears and they will remain deaf to the bird songs unless you halt to harken. They can smell only what their noses are trained to detect. They must miss the sweet savour of life unless you poke their noses down into it.

Much of all this commonplaceness has been sung by immortal poets. Tie poetry to experience and you have rare knowledge, the knowledge of the spirit that is beyond wisdom.

The many friends in this city of Miss Katherine Wallis, who has achieved much distinction as a sculptress, will be interested in the following extract from Toronto Saturday Night, in which also appears a reproduction of Miss Wallis' wood carving, "The Struggle for Life," exhibited last year at the Societe Nationale des Beaux Arts in Paris, where Miss Wallis now resides. The local society of the Women's Art Association of which Miss Wallis is a charter member, is much pleased by her recent successes. The article reads as follows: "Something of the pioneer ruggedness of the country in which her father farmed near Peterborough seems to have got into the work of Katherine Wallis, the Canadian sculptress, who exhibited last year at the Societe Nationale des Beaux Arts in Paris a notable piece of wood carving and has recently been admitted as member of the Societe Nationale des Beaux Arts. This exhibition piece, which has aroused critical comment, is called 'The Struggle for Life.' It is a group of mother and child fencing off the attack of a wolf. The work is in mahogany, nearly four feet high, modern in treatment, with fine lines and rhythms. It won her full membership in the Societe.

"Miss Wallis, who has done all of her work abroad, over a period of many years, is still known as a Canadian artist, and is so designated by the art critic of the New York Herald in Paris. He writes in the Art Supplement of a few months ago that 'we have nothing but praise for the large carved group labelled A Struggle for Life, representing a mother defending her child from the attacks of a wolf. The group is both spirited and well balanced. It has attracted considerable attention.'

"The critic singled her out of thousands of artists of all nationalities exhibiting in the spring salons.

"Miss Willis is a sincere and unassuming artist whose gifts were discovered almost by accident. When her home near Peterborough was broken up she took a trip to England and there joined her sister at a South Kensington art school, taking a course in modelling with the object in view of helping her sister in her work as an artist. A competition was opened for beginners and Miss Wallis went to work upon the model of a head as her entry. The director of the school was so struck by it that he asked her if there was any reason why she should not make sculpture her life work. One of the first pieces, "Mercury under the Influence of his Invention" has stood for many years in the Peterborough public library where she sent it as a gift.

"Her chief interest seemed to be in the study of animals and in order to model them from life she was forced to make her home in Paris where she could work at the Jardin des Plantes. One day she was saved by a stranger from an unpleasant encounter with a lion who reached out through his cage and clawed at her furs. Her rescuer turned out to be Oscar Waldman, a great Swiss animal sculptor. She began studying with him shortly afterwards and he helped to direct her to the proper expression of her gifts.

"Two of her low reliefs now hang in the Petit Palace which has been the Palais des Beaux Arts, the Municipal Gallery of Paris, for thirty years, and to which she was invited to contribute, a signal distinction for a Parisian artist. Miss Wallis is particularly happy in her baby scupture and it was the portrait of a Canadian child which was one of the pieces selected by the Commissioner to hang in the Petit Palais.

"Several pieces of the work of Miss Wallis are in Canadian art collections and some few years ago she had her first Canadian show, an exhibition which travelled to Montreal and Peterborough.

"During the war Miss Wallis was in Paris under its bombardment by Big Bertha. She left the city with only what she could carry in a handbag. In England she joined the V.A.D. and later on returned to France for service in a hospital supported by French-Canadians. For her war services she was decorated by both French and British Governments. Unfortunately, while her work keeps her in Paris, Miss Wallis is lost to the ranks of native creative art."

THE COLOR SCHEME for decorations and refreshments at the St. Patrick Day party are green and white. The table bears a white cover, upon which are laid leaves of fern. Green candles are lighted, and a vase of bowl on the center of the table contains a few white carnations amongst which are occasional red ones for contrast and character.

• • • • • • •

The guests upon entering the dining room may well believe they have been given sudden transportation to the Emerald Isle so many are the ways found to accent the note of green.

• • • • • • •

Some households contain green glass table ware, which is effective to use at this time, although not essential. The foods themselves furnish the color.

• • • • • • •

The menu consisted of:

Erin Salad
Salted Almonds — Shilalah Bread Sticks
Patrick's Punch
Shamrock Ices
Coffee

• • • • • • •

The first item 'Erin Salad' is made by stuffing celery with cream cheese colored green and dressing with white mayonnaise. The addition of a beaten egg white in an ordinary mayonnaise makes it the right color.

• • • • • • •

Salted almonds if one blanches them at home, can be given a "bath" in green solution of vegetable coloring before toasting and salting. Ordinary almonds will do though.

• • • • • • •

Shilalah bread sticks differ from ordinary bread sticks only in that they rest in a bed of parsley or of green crepe paper and are deliberately made to look a bit gnarled and twisted before baking.

• • • • • • •

Patrick's punch is a mint favored fruit lemonade. Gingerale and milk combine well as a beverage, which should be topped with whipped cream tinted green. If ices are to follow this is too rich a punch for the occasion. But if one should choose to omit the ices, this type of beverage is recommended.

• • • • • • •

For the Shamrock Ices employ a recipe for pistachio ice cream and with a potato scoop or a small ice cream scoop place three little balls of cream in the shape of a shamrock or clover on top of a layer of white cake. A strip of citron forms the stem.

• • • • • • •

There are many attractive ways of decorating a table for a St. Patrick tea and the menu can be just as attractive. I'm sure you have some original ideas regarding these and even if you haven't I'm sure you have attended some delightful St. Patrick teas or parties. Lets hear about them.

A delightful riding costume for country wear which is to be found in Mademoiselle Madeleine's collection.

UNIQUE RIDING COSTUME FOR COUNTRY WEAR.

For the woman who likes riding, the resort wardrobe is not complete without at least one costume for her promenade a cheval. This costume, is most successful for it gets away entirely from the formality of the city riding costume, and suggests the open fields and country highways. The entire ensemble is in a Rodier fabric, but the blouse is of lighter weight than trousers and coat. A skirt, buckled over and open at one side, makes this suit equally good for walking.

Tally in Third Period Breaks Tie With Niagara Falls Sextet.

TORONTO, Ont., March 11 (C.P.)—Windsor Bulldogs, 1929 champions of the International Hockey League, received a severe blow to their hopes of a championship this year, by bowing to the youthful Toronto Millionaires last night, four to two.

In the other scheduled fixture, London Panthers, holders of third place, overcame stubborn opposition from Niagara Falls, to win by two goals to one, and practically assure themselves of finishing in a play-off berth.

The Millionaires, who boast the youngest sextet playing professional hockey, took advantage of penalties incurred by their opponents, to gain a victory. The Bulldogs secured a two to one lead in the middle period after a scoreless opening session. Proudlock put his team in front seven minutes after the start, but the lead was short lived for Frank Carson deadlocked the count a minute later. Hap Emms and Arbor combined to put Windsor in front two minutes later. In the last 20 minutes the Bulldogs drew four penalties and it proved their undoing, for the Toronto team rapped in three goals while their opponents were playing short-handed.

London encountered unexpected opposition from the lonwly Cataracts. There was no scoring in the initial frame, but "Toots" Holway notched an unassisted marker in the second to put the Panthers in front. Russel Oatman knotted the count in the opening minutes of the last period following a solo rush, and it stayed tied until the last minutes of the fray when Pete Palangio scored the winning goal for the Forest City team.

Detroit Olympics, tied for fourth place with Windsor, meet the Buffalo Bisons, league leaders with Cleveland, in the only game tonight. Detroit have two games in hand over Windsor and a win tonight will give them a decided edge over the Bulldogs in the standing.

WOMEN ATHLETES CRITICIZED

Does competitive athletics endanger the health of the child of today, the man or woman, of tomorrow? This question, especially in the realm of women's sport, has aroused a great deal of discussion lately. Many medical men claim that the woman who enters into competitive sport is endangering her future, her married life, and the health of her children as well as her own; pointing out that women as the weaker sex are not designed to undergo the rigors of an active sport life. They also claim that women who take an active part in sport forfeit much of their feminine charm and so are much less attractive to man. Sporting trainers and women athletes laugh at these theories and steadfastly maintain that sports not only do not harm women, but are actually beneficial. Alonzo Stagg, famous football coach, points out that, at the University of Chicago, a vote among the women students was unfavorable to women competing in sport. At Montreal Dr. Jesse F. Williams, professor of physical education at Columbia University, told a meeting of the Quebec Physical Education Society that women are biologically unfit for competitive athletics. He believes that competition is dangerous to their health and that a great deal of harm will follow it, especially in so far as everything connected with the future generation is concerned. BENGAL CLUB OVERCOMES LEAD TO WIND ROUND BY GOAL MARGIN

Ambitious City Seniors Earn Right to Continue in Allan Cup Playdowns.

TRURO COPS TITLE.

TORONTO, Ont., March 11 (C.P.)—Hamilton Tigers and Truro Bearcats were the two teams in Eastern Canada to survive their Allan Cup elimination contests last night.

Hamilton defeated University of Toronto, two goals to nothing, in Hamilton to win the home and home series and the right to advance against Iroquois Falls, Northern Ontario Hockey Association champions, in the first round of the playdowns, by three to two on the round.

The first game at Toronto ended in a two to one triumph for Varsity.

In winning the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "B" championship, Hamilton were forced into three "sudden-death" matches, owing to being deadlocked on the round at the end of the home and home series. Last night it appeared as if the Goddess of Fortune would again force them into overtime at least, but Big "Beef" McKay came to their rescue by notching the winning goal with just 30 seconds to go.

Tigers will not meet Iroquois Falls at Toronto on March 12 and it will mark the first time since 1924 a team from Hamilton has represented the O.H.A. in the playdowns. Varsity won the honor in both 1928 and 1929.

Truro flashed a fine brand of hockey to win the championship of the Maritime Provinces. They defeated Bathurst, N.B., three to two, in the second game after winning the first contest at Bathurst, one to nothing. The Maritime representatives will now travel West to Montreal, where they engage the Quebec champions, either St. Francois Xavier, Intermediate titleholders, or Montreal Amateur Athletic Association's well-balanced hockey squad in the playdowns.

Five Eeastern Teams

Five Eastern Canada teams remain in the running for the Memorial Cup, emblematic of the Canadian Junior championship. Last night Ottawa Rideaus entered the playdowns by trouncing Pembroke, five to one, and winning the round, eight to three. They will not meet the Quebec champions, Montreal Amateur Athletic Association for the right to meet either Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, Niagara Falls or West Toronto, in the Eastern Canada final.

The O.H.A. Junior championship will be decided to-night, when West Toronto, with a two-goal lead secured in the first game, meet the Niagara Falls' youngsters in the return game at Niagara. West Toronto outplayed the confident Cataracts in Toronto last Saturday and earned a four to two victory. The second game is expected to be of the thrilling type with the ultimate victor in doubt until the final gong.

Soo Greyhounds and the O.H.A. champions will then meet in a two game series in Toronto, March 13 and 15, the winners meeting the M.A.A.A. vs. Rideau series victors.

MODERN SPEED RECORDS

Speed of modern communication is a constanty changing quantity in these days of radio, television and long distance telephone. The Bell Telephone Company's annual report is authority for the statement that the average time required for establishing long distance connection is now only 1.6 minutes. The report adds that 83 per cent of all telephone connections are made while the calling person "holds the line".

COUGHLIN'S RINK WINS CLUB TROPHY

Defeats W. M. Larmonth in Hard-fought Tussle Before Large Gallery.

HASTINGS, March 11—(Examiner Correspondence)—T. A. Coughlin's rink, winners of the second half and W. H. Learmouth's rink winners of the first half played off for the handsome cup donated by J. F. McCarthy, president of the curling club, on Friday night before a large gallery. These two rinks met to decide the winner of the first half and Learmouth defeated Coughlin but on Friday night Coughlin returned the defeat.

The game was hard fought right from the first end, though the ice was sticky and towards the end of the game water was on it.

YACHTS READY FOR CHALLENGE

Yankee, Whirlwind, Weetamoe and Enterprise Being Built to Defend American's Cup.

TRIM LOOKING CRAFTS.

NEWPORT, R.I., March 6.—If care and the unlimited expenditure of money mean anything, Sir Thomas Lipton and his Shamrock V., are assured of a warm welcome when they arrive in their search for the America's Cup next September.

At the present time no less than four America's Cup defenders are being built; two at George Lawley's yard at Neponset, near South Boston, and two at the Herreshoff yards in Bristol, R.I.

The two Lawley-built boats are the Yankee and the Whirlwind, while the two at Herreshoff's are the Weetamoe and the Enterprise. The Yankee, whose hull is built of Tobin bronze on steel frames, is designed by Frederic C. Paine, a son of the owner of the former cup defenders Puritan, Mayflower and Volunteer. It is owned by a Boston syndicate, headed by John H. Lawrence. This boat's hull is almost completely plated and she will be launched on or before April 1.

The Whirlwind which is being built in an adjoining shed is designed by L. Francis Herreshoff who has designed all of the successful America's Cup defenders since 1893. This boat is owned by a syndicate of New York yachtsmen, including G. N. Pynchon, a well-known broker; Paul Hammond and Langdon K. Thorne. This boat is of composite construction steel frame and mahogany planking.

Enterprise at Bristol

At Bristol there is the Enterprise designed by W. Starling Burgess, and owned by a syndicate of flag officers of the New York Yacht Club including Harold S. Vanderbilt, Commodore Vincent Astor and George F. Baker Jr.

Last but not least cames the Weetamoe designed by Clinton H. Crane. This boat is owned by a syndicate composed of J. P. Morgan, his son Junious Morgan, and son-in-law, George Nichols, Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Henry Walters, who has been identified with every America's Cup defended since 1893.

For about the first time in forty years the veil of secrecy that had surrounded the building of Cup defenders has been removed this year, and newspapermen and yachting reporters not only were allowed to look over the prospective cup candidates, but were given every opportunity to inspect them and were furnished with any information they desired.

As a result a party of newspapermen were taken through both the Lawley and Herreshoff yards this week and gathered what information they could on the progress of the work.

Heavier, More Seaworthy

Briefly, all four boats, which are built under Lloyd's scantling rules, are far heavier and more seaworthy type of boats than any of the previous defenders since the Puritan.

While about the same size as the Resolute and Vanitie of 1914 vintage, they are of far stronger and heavier construction. They all have Tobin bronze hulls except the Whirlwind, which is planked with mahogany, and is also the only out and out keel boat of the lot, as all the others have centreboards.

They measure from 80 to 86 feet on the water line and their over-all length is from 120 to 127 feet. As against a 75-foot water line and 109 over-all, the measurement of the Resolute. Incidentally, they will draw about 14½ to 15½ feet and will carry a couple of hundred square feet more canvas than the Resolute and the Vanitie.

Despite this, the two last named boats can probably give the new boats an allowance and beat them. Briefly the new boats are in a way exaggerated knockabouts as they will carry no bowsprits and their booms will swing inboard.

They will have double head rigs and their masts will tower 160 feet or more in the air. Their masts which are of composit construction will cost about $10,000 each and their booms, which are also hollow, will cost about $6,000 each. Each boat will have an extra mast ready in case of accidents.

Marconi Masts

These masts are of the so-called Marconi type, all in one piece without top masts and will be held in place by shrouds and forward and after backstays running to the bow and taffrail, but whether they will hold up under the tremendous strain is an open question.

All of the boats are having several suits of sails made at a cost of $40,000 each so the canvas trousseau of one of these cup candidates runs up to $150,000 or $160,000 each and the total cost of building and operating them for the season will total between two and three million dollars.

The Enterprise, designed by Burgess, is furthest advanced and will be ready for launching about April 1. The Yankee, too, is all plated but her deck remains to be laid and she, too, should take her initial dip early in April.

The planking of the Whirlwind will take more time and work and has only just begun on the Weetamoe.

All have huge lead keels weighing from 60 odd to nearly 90 tons each, and the Enterprise, which is really the smallest boat, will, strange to say, carry the greatest sail spread. Of course no one knows which will prove the fastest when it comes to racing, but take it all in all the Weetamoe seems to have the sweetest line.

Kansas City Pla-mors Stand Good Chance Of Winning American Association Honors

Hockey got away to a bad start in Kansas City. The first game to be played there, was widely heralded, and opening night saw a curious crowd of fans, many of whom came in evening dress, eager to get a look at the fastest game in the world. The rink wasn't quite completed, and one end was open to the elements. It was a cold night, and the spectators shivered in their flimsy attire and many of them left before the game was over, while others had their feet and ears slightly frost-bitten. The newspapers failed to "warm-up" to the game, and Grant was finally forced to resort to some novel methods to get publicity. large blocks of ice with advertising cards frozen in the centre of them were placed on the sidewalks of busy streets, a stunt that created interest until the city officials got busy and ordered the street cleaning department to remove them, and notified Grant not to repeat the stunt. A motor truck with a big placard on and an organ to provide music was paraded through the streets, but this, too, was frowned on by the civic authorities. Then Grant hit upon the novel idea of getting out his own publication, and a little four-page pamphlet containing news of hockey and the things of the Kansas City players and other teams in the circuit was issued under the name of "The Hockeyist", and widely circulated in barber shops, restaurants, hotels and other public places. This publication made its first appearance last month under the editorship of Jack Burnett, a former Toronto sports writer. It contains illustrations and is nicely printed and breezily presented. Grant has a good team this season and one that is now leading the association. Garnet Campbell, formerly of the Sault Greyhounds; Wilf. Ranger and Bert McLeod, former Peterborough seniors; Joe Mc Cormack, Paddy Bryne, and other well-known Canadian players are having a great season in the Missouri city and they stand an excellent chance to win the American Association title.—(Toronto Globe).

Goaltender Gardiner, One of National League's Outstanding Players.

VERSATILE HOCKEYISTS.

TORONTO, March 11—The Chicago Black Hawks have been the mystery team of the National Hockey League all through the season, despite their consistently high standing. At the start the "experts" and fans did not know what to expect of an entirely rebuilt team, carrying few veterans, and most of them do not know yet.

The Hawks started off well, slipped a bit in mid-season, went through a few more changes, including the shifting of the managerial reins from Tom Shaughnessy to Bill Tobin and Dick Irvin, called in a few more recruits and remained in the fight. They are in second place now, with a fair chance of holding it to the end of the season.

Inconsistent

The Chicago youngsters have gone by streaks, winning three or four games then losing as many. If they hit one of their winning spells during the Stanley Cup play-offs they may go right through to a victory, or they may be trounced in the opening series by either the Montreal Canadiens or Ottawa Senators.

During the season, Chicago's White Indians have hung four defeats on the Montreal Maroons and have broken even in four games with the champion Boston Bruins, being the only team to beat Boston twice. They have another pair with Boston this week. On the other hand, the Canadiens, their prospective play-off opponents, and the Rangers hold the edge over them in the season's play.

Only one of Chicago's players is rated as an outstanding star, but most of them are speedy as well as husky. Chuck Gardiner, their acrobatic little goaler, has been giving Roy Worters a hard struggle for the year's goaltending honors, and is the principal reason why the Black Hawks have held second or third place while barely outscoring their opponents. Of the other 15 men on the squad, seven never saw major league service before this season. Three came up in January, while several others are last year's recruits, but not one of the youngsters has failed to make the grade.

Versatile Players

Chicago has no fixed combinations of forwards or defense men and several can play either the front or back line positions. Captain Ty Arbour is the veteran among the forwards, while Vic Ripley, Muah March, Lorne Couture, Earl Miller and Johnny Gottselig were with the Hawks last year. Tommy Cook and Art Somers, two of the youngsters, are the team's leading scorers, while Frank Ingram and Stew Adams are doing almost as well. Big "Duke" Dutkowski has been dividing his time between centre and defense.

Taffy Abel is the only big league veteran on the Hawk defense line, but Marvin (Cyclone) Wentworth is a holdover from last year, and Helge Bostrum has seen a good many years of service in the minors, coming up from the American Association in January. Teddy Graham, bought at the same time, also is a capable holster.

ROSENBLOOM WINS ON FOUL IN SIXTH

Bout Ends When Johnson Lands Accidental Blow Low.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Maxey Rosenbloom, play boy of Harlem, won from Larry Johnson, stiff punching Chicago negro, on a foul last night in the sixth round of their ten-round feature match in Madison Square Garden. A swinging left, deep in the groin, stretched Rosenbloom writhing on the canvas after 29 seconds of the sixth. Rosenbloom weighed 173½ pounds and Johnson 174½.

It was an unsatisfactory ending to a vicious battle that was fought on fairly even terms through the first five rounds. The thumping negro, swinging into action with solid left hooks to the body and an occasional right to the head, annoyed Rosenbloom considerably, but could not spike the Harlem Harlequin's whirlwind attack.

A crowd of 15,000 thoroughly enjoying one of the best bouts of the season, howled at the anti-climax, but there seemed no question that the blow, entirely accidental, was palpably a foul. Rosenbloom was badly hurt and was unable to leave the ring for several minutes.

WESTCLOX COPS 7 TO 6 VICTORY

Connie Mason and Leon Kingdon Play Stellar Game For Winners.

SMART BASKETBALL.

WESTCLOX.

In one of the closest contests of the season, the Westclox entry in the Peterborough Ladies' Basketball League defeated the DeLavals by a 7-6 score at the Y.W.C.A. last night. The game was one of the scheduled play-offs in the senior section of the league.

The clockmakers started off the game in their usual swift style and it looked as though they had things in the bag until within a couple of minutes of the end of the first session. They had only nicked two points but were offering a strong defence. Then the dairymaids broke loose and ran in three baskets in quick succession, before the whistle, due to the fast work of Edna Forster and Dorothy Worboy. At half time the score stood at 6-2 in favor of the DeLavals.

But the DeLaval success ended there. Hec McLeod's watchmaking squad came out prepared for battle, and Connie Mason and Leon Kingdon brought the ante up to 5. Then Florence Fever bagged the goal that put them in the lead, 7-6.

The teams:

Westclox: Forwards, L. Kingdon, F. Fever; centre, B. Scott; guards, D. Webb, S. Keown, M. Mortimer, C. Mason.

DeLaval: Forwards, E. Forster, M. Irons; centre, D. Irons; guards, K. Buckley, M. Archambault.

In the second game on the bill, a Junior play-off, the "Y" Intermediates triumphed over the "Y" Elementary by a 4-point margin. The tally was 12—8.

This clash was fast and interesting. The Elementaries took the lead for the first period but fell in the last period under a heavy barrage staged by Violet Davidson and Lahring Parsons. The offensives of both squads were well planned and defense organization was good.

For the victors Lahring Parsons nabbed 4 points, Violet Davidson 6, and Marjorie Lang and Myrtle Burns got one point each on free throws. Sybil Ecobichon and Dorothy Foster scored for the losers. The teams:

"Y" Intermediates—Forwards, L. Parsons, M. Burns; centre, V. Davidson; guards, C. Mason, M. Lang.

"Y" Elementary—Forwards, E. Ecobichon, A. Janeway; centre, D. Foster; guards, D. Roberts, D. Deannard, L. Ellis.

RECRUITING IN BRITAIN SHOWS 2,000 DECREASE

One of Causes Claimed to be Organized Migration Overseas

LONDON, March 11. (Canadian Press Cable)—Recruiting for the British army last year fell off by more than 2 000 men according to figures made public to-day. Only 28,131 recruits joined the army in 1929, as compared with 30,185 in 1928, and at the present time there are no indications of an early return to normal.

Several causes are attributed for the decrease, among them organized migration overseas, the uncertainty regarding the future of the army owing to the publicity given to disarmament, and the replacement in industry of older by younger men.

Dr. Harrington, professor of physics at the University of Saskatchewan, recently made a statement to the effect that sweeping did not influence the distance travelled by a stone in curling.

The statement caused considerable controversy, and members of the Granite Club, Toronto, decided to give his theory a test, and their experiments showed that the learned western man was wrong.

Dr. Winnet, who was one of the men present when the tests were made, writes as follows:

"An incline was iced, from which a stone was propelled by its own momentum on newly pebbled ice, 94 feet, while sweeping carried it 112 feet. Recently, in similar experiments, but using a waxed and polished slide, when the stone went unaided 58 feet, sweeping carried it 63 feet. Continuous sweeping of each stone up to the 22nd added 11 feet (i.e.) 69 feet, after which no increase was noticed, although 32 stones were tried.

"I was disposed to infer the increased distance was due to a vacuum created by sweeping till I found sweeping well in advance of the stone and beyond the influence was just as effectual. Moreover, a balloon suspended close to the ice was influenced by the sweeping.

"The experts go to prove the advantage of polishing newly-pebbled ice, but once attaining perfection further sweeping is merely a psychological relief and good exercise.

"We hope to make further experiments to find the influence of temperature and humidity, and whether the formation of frost and walking on the polished surface necessitates constant sweeping."

FRANK SELKE CALLS OTTAWAS BEST BET IN N.H.L. PLAY-OFFS

Capital City Club Has Been Playing Brilliant Hockey For Past Month.

Good Chance For Maroons.

(By Frank J. Selke, Assistant Manager and Acting Coach of Toronto Maple Leafs)

With the Maple Leafs out of the play-offs it might be of interest to some to compare the leading Canadian clubs with their United States rivals. Maroons are almost certain to meet Boston first in the best three out of five games. Boston's remarkable playing throughout the current season will naturally make them favorites.

Many of the Maple Leaf players like myself can see no reason why Maroons, given good goal keeping, should not have more than an even chance of defeating the Bruins. The Montreal club, lacks the polish of the Boston entry but if the series goes to five games the Maroons punch should have even a greater effect than the Bruins' dazzling attack.

Dit Clapper looks strong enough to trade slams with Babe Seibert but I think that the Babe is a little less particular in his methods in a free-hitting contest. Dutch Gainor is another who is sturdy enough to trade jabs and butt-ends with Hooley Smith and finish no worse than even. Cooney Weiland is too small to revel in the heavy going, but he is so slippery that Stewart or Merlyn "Bill" Phillips, his probable checks will scarcely be able to touch him.

Great Money Player

Nels Stewart in a money series, such as a battle between first place clubs is sure to be, will likely be the standout performer of either club. The only man on the Boston club to measure up to the Beach boy is Lionel Hitchman and the ex-Aura Lee Mountie will be giving away too much weight to Stewart to come through a bruising five-game series on top.

Red Dutton on the Maroon defence is another who revels in the hard going. Dutton's style reminds me of the rough and tumble antics of a couple of black bear cubs I used to watch some years ago. I happened to know quite a bit about Dutton's war record and if space would permit I could tell a few tales which would explain some of the red-head's actions on the ice.

He was known as one of the most daring fighters in his brigade, showing absolute disregard to any personal danger. Taking them as two clubs the Maroons really seem too tough for the Boston champions but goals and not bruises decide hockey games and there is no use denying that the Boston club knows how to score goals with a minimum display of effort.

Canadiens have the class to compare with any team in the league, but their play-off efforts in the past make it appear that they have not the temperament to do themselves justice in a crucial series. I have been told that as some of them drop off in efficiency, Morenz, Mantha and a few of the others put so much extra pressure into their own efforts that they too begin to show the effects of the strain.

Ottawa, many National League followers will tell you, carries the best chance of winning the coveted trophy of any Canadian club. For over a month they have been playing brilliantly and winning in any kind of going. They recently beat Maroons in a rough and ready game. They then went to Chicago where their great speed enabled them to win a wide-open game by six goals to two. Returning to Toronto the Senators scored a flukey goal and then laid down a perfect checking barrage which kept the Maple Leafs off the score sheet in this game and the return encounter at Bytown a few days later.

Are For Senators

For years there has been no love lost between the Maple Leafs and the Senators but after the Ottawa club defeated the Leafs at Ottawa the Maple Leaf players showed themselves real sportsmen by trooping into the Senators' dressing room and extending the best wishes for play-off luck to the victorious team. I know this was not a shallow sporting gesture, but a wish that came straight from the hearts of the Toronto boys. Danny Cox's presence on the Senators has acted as a sort of bonne-entente between the two Ontario representatives of the National League.

UNEMPLOYMENT CRISIS NO LONGER IN YANKEE TRAINING SPRING CAMP

(So many conflicting stories have come over the wires as to what actually occurred at the great diamond parley to prevent the disarmanent of the Rupper rifle-that the sports department of the New York American, at great expense and stealth has obtained an exlusive first hand account of what really happened when the irresistible Ruth met the Immovable Ruppert. For obvious reasons the identity of the investigator cannot be designated merely by number.)

By Operative No. 77.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11.—Pursuant to orders, I approached this place in the dead of night—which is any time after 9 o'clock here—and on Saturday evening surreptitiously entered the suite of Colonel Ruppert disguised as a drink of water. Tuhs undisturbed I eaves-dropped the following conversation on my dictatp' one.

THE COLONEL—Hello, Herman.

THE BABE—Wie gehts, Kernel.

THE COLONEL—How is it by you, Herman?

THE BABE—Aces up, and I call.

THE COLONEL—What kind of business is this, Herman? Are we dealing already?

THE BABE—(poking the Colonel in the ribs playfully)Everything is jake with me.

THE COLONEL (gasping)—Ouch. Herman, cut out the kidding. I'm a little out of condition. Such a man.

THE BABE—I thought I seen you at the fight in Miami last week.

THE COLONEL—I resent that remark.

THE BABE—I withdraw it.

THE COLONEL (nonchalantly)—How's your golf?

THE BABE—Well, I'm going around in eighty-five and I—

THE COLONEL—Sure it isn't eighty?

THE BABE—No; eighty-five.

THE COLONEL (testily)—Now, why can't we get together?

THE BABE—Honest, Kernel, I can't take five grand strokes off my score.

THE COLONEL—After a man gets eighty he should be careful. I know I wouldn't want to live that long.

THE BABE (grinning)—Well, I hope to be eighty-five this year.

THE COLONEL—You will have your little joke, Herman. But, seriously, do you realize the condition of the country's finances?

THE BABE—I always said short engagements were too risky. A fiancee and a contract should run for two years.

THE COLONEL—Sez yYOU.

THE BABE—I'LL have the same.

THE COLONEL—Remember that fly ball you dropped in 1923, Herman?

THE BABE—O, yeah?

THE COLONEL—Have a heart, Herman. I can't keep our secret any longer. The newspaper boys are swinging at me and I don't know how much longer I can take it. Take me, or leave me.

THE BABE—I guess I got to quit you, Jake. Think what my caddies would say to me on the putting green with the Yankees sliding into second division.

THE COLONEL—And George Perry biting nails.

THE COLONEL (bursting into tears)—And think of those empty seats back of right field. THINK of that!

THE BABE (weeping copiously)—Honest Jake, I never thought of THAT.

THE COLONEL—And ME, down to my last twenty million.

THE BABE—(breaking down completely)Stop. You are breaking my heart. Where's that fountain pen?

RUPERT CALLS RUTH'S BLUFF

Babe Ruth's bluff that he would retire from baseball unless he was given a three-year contract at $85,000 per annum has been called by President Ruppert, who offered him $80,000 and a two-year contract, which the home run slugger accepted. The tip-off is that Ruth came to terms on the advice of some newspapermen who pointed out that he was not doing himself any good by holding out considering that times are not any too good and that the Yankees are experimenting with a new manager.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SAILING HAT.

When Jingle and Jangle, two of Uncle Wiggily's little rabbit girls, had been playing slide on the ice quite a long time with Sallie, the squirrel sister of Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, all of a sudden Jingle said:

"I'm hungry!"

"So am I!" said Jangle.

"Well, if I had a nice piece of nut bread I could eat it!" chattered the little girl squirrel.

"Come on, let's go in our kitchen and if Nurse Jane is there maybe she'll give us a 'ettuce cookie!" whispered Jingle.

Soon the three little animal girls left their ice slide and popped into the hollow stump bungalow kitchen

"What's the matter?" asked Nurse Jane, who was making a carrot pie.

"If you please," spoke Jingle, politely, "we're hungry!"

"Bless your little pink noses!" squeaked the kind, muskrat lady housekeeper, "and bless your big tail, Sister Sallie, I'll give you something to eat. Cuddle up by the fire and get warm."

"Oh, thank you, we aren't so cold," said Sister Sallie, for she, like the rabbit girls, had on a warm fur coat. Soon they were all nibbling some lettuce cookies Nurse Jane had given them and after a while, Sister Sallie wandered away, and when she came back she walked on her tiptoes and whispered to Jingle and Jangle:

"What's your father doing in his room? I just looked in and he's standing there doing something."

"Maybe he's twinkling his pink nose," suggested Jingle.

"No, he was doing something like rubbing a piece of black stove pipe," answered Sister Sallie. "He was rubbing it with a rag."

Her father's silk hat was sailing in the bath tub.

"Oh, that must be Daddicums's tall silk hat!" exclaimed Jangle. "I heard him say he was going to a party over at the house of Mr. Twistytail, the pig gentleman. So I guess Daddicums is just making his tall, silk hat nice and shiny."

"It looks like a piece of black stovepipe!" chattered Sister Sallie.

"So it does!" agreed Jangle. "But come on, let's go up in the bath room and play sail paper boats. It's getting too cold to go out on the ice and slide any more."

So the three little animal girls, after eating the lettuce cookies down to the last crumb, went up in the bath room and filled the tub with water. Then they made paper boats and sailed them about, blowing on them to make believe the wind was sending the tiny ships out over the bath-tub ocean.

All this time Uncle Wiggily was getting ready to go to the party that Mr. Twistytail, the pig gentleman, was going to give. The rabbit gentleman polished his tall silk hat, which really looked like a piece of stovepipe, until he could see his pink nose shining in it as in a looking glass.

"I must be very stylish at this party!" said Uncle Wiggily.

Then he put his tall hat carefully down on a table and started to get ready the rest of the things he was going to wear.

All this time Jingle and Jangle, with Sister Sallie, were having fun in the bath room. The only trouble was the paper boats wet through very soon and sank, so the animal girls had to make new ones.

"I wish we had something bigger and better for a boat," said Jingle.

"I'll go see if I can't find something," offered Jangle, so she went down stairs and pretty soon she came up again, squealing with delight. "Here's something grand for a bath-tub boat!" she cried.

"Oh, how wonderful!" cried her sister.

"What will your father say?" asked Sister Sallie.

"He won't care—I guess," answered Jangle. So the three little girls played some more at sailing boats in the bath-tub until, Buster, a boy rabbit, happened to look in. And when he saw what was going on he gave a yell and cried:

"Oh, Daddy!"

"What's the matter?" cried Uncle Wiggily, hopping out of his room where he had finished dressing for the party. "Where's my tall, silk hat? I must hurry to Mr. Twistytail's; Where's my hat?"

"Your hat has gone sailing!" cried Buster.

"Sailing! My hat sailing! Impossible!" shouted Mr. Longears.

"Look!" yelled Buster, jumping up and down. "They got your hat for a boat!" And, surely enough, Jingle had taken her father's tall, silk hat and was sailing it in the bath-tub like a paper boat.

"I didn't think it would hurt it, Daddicums," she said.

"Well, I guess maybe it won't!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "But please don't do it again! My, how wet it is!" But he dried the hat and hopped to the party and had a fine time after all.

DRIVE AGAINST REDS.

NEW YORK, March 10. -- The Chamber of Commerce of New York City to-day announced plans for a militant drive against Communism, with the avowed purpose of bringing about the deportation of "shiploads of alien agitators."

The announcement came on the heels of a statement by Police Commissioner Grover A. Whale that Reds were boring into business, schools and city bureaus.

GALT QUARTETTE PROVIDE CONCERT

Splendid Programme is Given in St. James' United Church.

WORK APPLAUDED.

Seldom has such music held the rapt attention of its listeners as did the singing of the Galt Maple Leaf Quartet at St. James' United Church last night.

The only advance notice of their concert necessary was their own previous appearance in this church. The concert was quite unusual and beautiful in the way of men's voices heard in solo, duet and quartet.

L. C. Fleming, conductor of the group, expressed their delight at returning to the city, and introduced their first number, "Hail Us Ye Free," a stirring martial song which gave full scope to the range of voices.

Individuality of style, tone and manner characterized their singing throughout.

In their ensemble work the singers gave part songs and choruses with fine effect. Each of the four men is a soloist and interpreted their numbers with indescribable beauty. Their first recall was a catchy hit, entitled "Call John."

Two other humorous selections were "Dat Watermillion" and "Close Harmony."

Howard Henselwood, tenor, sang "Angel Land," and "My Prayer" for e[illegible]

In duet, Charles McGregor and Howard Henselwood gave "Two Friends," with an encore in the well-known "Wandering Home."

In his interpretation of Drummond's "Habitant," L. C. Fleming showed fine dramatic art and bespoke his French-Canadian blood. This number depicts the average life of a French-Canadian farmer throughout the recurring seasons.

Another of Drummond's poems, "Le Vieux Temps" was presented with the same wonderful artistic skill. Here we see the old Frenchman in a reminiscent mood as he gathers up the experiences of his past from boyhood to early manhood, through the long stretch of wedded life, down to the last lonely lap of his old age. Expressing strong patriotic sentiment was his recall number, "John Bull," which elicited the warm applause of his hearers.

In a class by themselves were the Scottish songs by Charles McGregor, whose Highland costume added greatly to their effectiveness. Among these were "Bella, the Belle o' Dunoon," with the companion number, "Down in the Quarry." In fine Harry Lauder style were "When I Get Back to Bonnie Scotland," and "It's a Fine Thing to Sing."

E. Hetherington, baritone, sang, "Duna," portraying with sympathetic voice the heart-hunger of a sailor for his home, with a humorous encore in "Sweet Little Woman of Mine."

Returning in quartet the singers gave two airy Spring songs, "Away, Away" and "In the Spring."

The program closed with a rendition of a spirited part song, "The Fowl Quartet—the Owl, Crow, Parrot and Duck—and a most appropriate chorus, "Good Night."

Before the singing of the National Anthem, hearty appreciation for the splendid work of the pianist of the evening, Miss Olive Prest, A.T.C.M., was expressed by the conductor, L. C. Fleming, as well as the large and attentive audiences, both on Sunday and at this concert.

The music lovers who enjoyed this program by the Maple Leaf Quartet are indebted to the Botherhood of St. James' who sponsored their appearance here.

At the opening of the concert the Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, teacher of the Brotherhood, introduced the singers, welcoming them to his church on behalf of the class.

MRS. ELDRED HEADS SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Central Home and School Association Elects Officers For Year.

The annual business meeting and election of officers for the ensuing year of Central Home and School Association was held last evening in the kindergarten room of Central School. A large attendance of members were present.

Mrs. W. Flannery, the retiring president, occupied the chair at the opening of the proceedings, but vacated the chair to Mrs. C. H. Edwards, who was present to assist with the election.

Mrs. D. J. Eidred was unanimously elected President for the year.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. W. R. Morris, honorary president; Mrs. W. Flannery, 1st vice-president; K. S. Wightman, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. W. Skitch, 3rd vice-president; Mrs. W. H. Lacey, 4th vice-president; Mrs. A. G. Metheral, secretary; Mrs. P. W. Gray, treasurer; Mrs. W. Skitch, program committee; Mrs. G. Buller, flower committee; Mesdames Lush and Weir, membership convenors; Mesdames W. Flannery and A. Vass, relief convenors; Mrs. J. Kingsbury, convenor paper collection; Social committee: Mrs. S. Gibbs (convenor), Mesdames Burnham, A. Vass, G. Buller, and J. Stanger.

Pianists for opening and closing exercises were Misses Olive Rowe and Margaret Wyllie.

Representatives to the Local Council of Women will be Mrs. J. Stanger, and to the Home and School Council, Mesdames A. G. Metheral and D. J. Eldred.

Mrs. W. Flannery suitably thanked the retiring officers and members for their splendid support and cooperation which she had received from them during her term of office as president of the Association.

The secretary, Mrs. J. Boorman, and the treasurer, Mrs. A. Vass, presented their reports for the past year. The financial report showed a balance of $91.00 in the bank, and the secretary's report reviewed the activities of the year, and recorded donations to various causes.

Mrs. J. Stanger gave a report of the splendid relief work done by the Society, showing that $70.00 had been spent in relief.

Mrs. C. H. Edwards received a hearty vote of thanks for her most helpful presence, also to Mrs. Flannery.

The banner for the month for the most mothers present was a tie between Miss Armstrong and Mr. Steer, who will have it for two weeks each.

The rooms of Mr. Frost and Miss Armstrong had the largest paper collection, so the Society will present a picture to each of them.

The meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem, and the service of dainty refreshments.

Uncommon Sense
By John Blake

TOO MUCH COMFORT.

The old merry-go-round, "to do more work to get more money to buy more food to get more strength to do more work," is still at the ancient stand.

The trouble is that now and then one of the riders reaches up and gets the brass ring, which means another ride for nothing. If he gets enough brass rings he can keep riding indefinitely. And then is when whatever capacity he has for usefulness begins to wither and he becomes a mere encumbrance on the merry-go-round.

We see luxury on all sides, and covet it, being human.

There are few of us who would not like to have three or four cars in the garage, with as many chauffeurs to drive them and keep them in condition, a big house with plenty of servants in it.

It would be hard to convince us that we are lucky that we haven't all these things—especially those who are young—but it is never-the-less true.

Too much luxury is far more dangerous than too much hardship, and for that reason it is fortunate that so few people have it.

I know three or four—perhaps a dozen—men who have managed to earn a great deal of money in their youth.

The fact that they could earn it proved to some extent their capacity. Most of them were in my own trade—that of writing.

As soon as they felt independent there was no more incentive to work hard at their writing, and the result is that they are now getting a little fat-witted and soggy.

If there is any real danger to the race just now it is the craving for luxury—the craving for others to work for us, to have plenty of time that is free, and never to feel that every now and then we must do some hard, soul-racking work.

But the hard, soul-racking work is, or ought to be, its own reward, and the ability to do it ought to be the real luxury of life.

I know that many of my readers will say, "I'd like to try luxury for a while just to see what would happen to me."

Be assured if you try too much of it you will get in the situation of the spoiled child who can get whatever he wants merely by whining for it, and who, as a result, whines and is unhappy most of the time.

I think that people born with fortunes, who still go out and work hard and try to do something worth while, are far more entitled to credit than those who work merely for money and what it will bring, or what they think it will bring.

As a matter of fact, comfort and freedom from debt is the healthiest state of life, and next to that is real need. Luxury is pretty certain to be fatal to any useful production.

BETHANY

A very successful pancake social was held on Shrove Tuesday in the Town Hall under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's church.

The new tables built for such occassions as suppers and garden parties were used for the first time, and were abundantly laden with smoking hot pancakes, syrup, bread and butter and pies of all kinds and coffee. After all were sufficiently satisfied the remainder of the evening was spent in games of cards, contests, etc. This concludes all social activities in connection with the Anglican church until after the Lenten season.

The first Lenten service was held in St. Paul's church on Wednesday and they will continue on each Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock until Easter.

Mrs. Dave Cairns has returned home from Toronto where she has been making an extended visit.

CONFERENCE BILL IS BEING CONSIDERED

Hon. G. H. Thomas is Unable to Give Definte Date For Economic Conference.

LONDON, March 11 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—The agenda of the Imperial Economic Conference is now under consideration, and trade will be included, Right Hon. J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal, stated in the House of Commons to-day. He said he hoped the result would be of mutual benefit to the trade and employment of Great Britain and the Dominions.

Mr. Thomas was replying to D. G. Somerville, Conservative, Willesden, who had asked whether in view of the reported intention to hold an Imperial Economic Conference in 1930, Mr. Thomas was preparing to submit to the conference specific proposals calculated to relieve unemployment in Great Britain.

Mr. Thomas said he was unable to give the definite date for the meeting of the conference. The proposals to be submitted to the conference, he said, would not be first submitted to the House of Commons. It was not the practice to submit to the Commons the agenda for either Imperial or Economic Conferences, and he said he saw no reason to believe any departure would be made on this occasion.

OBITUARY

JAMES H. LANG.
Much sympathy will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. James Lang, of 135 Dublin Street, in the loss of their youngest child, James Hopwood, who died this morning, suddenly, at the age of two and a half months.

Their little daughter, Barbara, has been ill for the past week with influenza, whilst the boy, who was apparently well, was stricken with convulsions.

Mr. Lang telephoned to the Fire Department for the pulmotor, which was used for about one minute in an unsuccessful endeavor to induce respiration, after which Schaeffer's method was resorted to for another three minutes without success. Dr. J. H. Eastwood was in attendance.

The funeral will be held to-morrow at 2 o'clock from the family residence to Little Lake Cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev. Wm. McDonald of Knox Church.

PRINCIPAL SYNNES IS ILL SCHOOL ROOM IS CLOSED

HASTINGS, March 11 (Examiner Correspondence).— The Senior Room of Hastings Public School is closed, owing to the illness of Principal Synnes. Mr. Synnes motored to his home in Frankford on Friday night, and telephoned on Monday morning that blood poisoning had set in in his arm.

WHITBY, Ont.—More than one hundred men in the district of Whitevale searched in vain over the week-end for the body of William Smith, 71, who was drowned in Duffin's Creek while opening sluice gates at the dam on Saturday.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

338 CRIMINALS IDENTIFIED.
Be sure your finger-prints will find you. That's the modern version of the Biblical promise.

Last year thirty-eight criminals were identified by the local police by the simple finger-print system. And this despite aliases and other subterfuges by which criminals strive to conceal their identity. It doesn't now do for a criminal to cringe and say 'It's just my first offence." His record, if he has a record, is in the archives of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Ottawa and it can be obtained by sending his finger-prints there. Back comes the record by the next mail stating the man's whole criminal past; when, where and why he was arrested and when he got out. These files at Ottawa are kept right up to date too, as soon as the man is sent down the R.C.M.P. officials are informed. The system has now become international.

A scarry look comes over the "suspect" when he is taken in to be finger-printed. He knows that he is being 'ticketed" and the game of "mistaken identity" is up.

BECOME NATURALIZED.
Certificates of naturalization under the Naturalization Act were granted by the Secretary of State of Canada recently to several Peterborough residents, who have all consequently taken the oath of allegiance, thus giving them the full status of British subjects. The list of names includes Mr. and Mrs. Emile Baumer, Mr. and Mrs. I. Botnick and daughter Rosie, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rahkonen and child Helvia Rauha, Nicholas Tsaggaris, and Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Weiss.

JUST COWBOY-LIKE
The Examiner is a versatile and all-round paper. And just to prove to the world that it is quite different from most small city newspapers, it has a driver who sports a real sombrero hat. He hops in and out of The Examiner truck in a cowboy-like manner, and one can almost hear the spurs jingling when he starts the motor. This large and expansive hat serves as excellent protection from the rain and snow, and promises to be a fine substitute for a sun parasol in hot weather days.

THREE ROBINS SEEN
They were "Singing in the Rain," or trying to, this morning—the three robins who perched themselves on the lawn in front of Mrs. J. Sullivan's house at 280 Edinburgh street. Coming north to find the summer sun, they ran into the mixture of slush and rain and sleet that encountered feathered, as well as human, wayfarers this morning. But were they downhearted? Not this trio of robin redbreasts.

BUS AND TRUCK MEET
At noon hour to-day the Lindsay bus and a heavy truck came in contact at the corner of Reid and McDonell streets. The damage was not serious and a police constable endeavored to determine who was to blame.

CHAMBER COMMERE ELECTION
The 41st annual election of the Chamber of Commerce executive council will be held on Wednesday. Polling will commence at 12 noon till 2 p.m. and from 5 o'clock till 8.30 p.m. in the Council Rooms of the Chamber, 358 George street.

There are twenty four candidates in the field and sixteen to be elected.

All voting will be by ballot, and sixteen candidates must be voted for, no more and no less.

The election judges will be Lt.-Colonel C. H. Ackerman chairman, J. D. Fanning, James Juby Chas. Quinlan and A. S. Zavitz.

FIND ANCIENT CARRIAGE
BELGRADE—A carriage, thought to be a relic of the bronze age, has been unearthed near the village of Dupljava in Vojvodina. It is a three-wheeled affair and bears an effigy of a bird-headed deity. It is made of baked clay.

In K.K.K. Garb

The photographs here show the typical garb of Ku Klux Klansmen when engaged upon their "mission." A few days ago a white girl, Alice Jones, was forcibly taken by such Klansmen from Ira Johnson of Oakville, Ont., her fiance, who states he is of Indian, not negro blood.

In Police Court

"I had the shot gun all right, and I fired one shot, but I shot at a stump and not at any ducks," said Edward Vinnette, Jr., in Police Court this morning, in trying to explain why he was carrying a gun in a canoe on the canal early last Fall when the ducks were frequenting the shores.

R. N. Carson, game and fish inspector, and J. W. Gravestock, president of the local Fish and Game Protective Association, had watched Vinnette while he scouted the canal near the Golf Club, apparently bent on bagging some ducks. It was on September 7 and 9 last year, several days before the season opened.

Their evidence was sufficient for Magistrate Langley and he fined the man $10 and costs for carrying a gun in places where game frequented during the closed season.

Mr. Gravestock, the fish and game inspector, and Provincial police intimated that a close watch will be maintained this season on the lakes and river to prevent the flagrant breaking of the game laws.

INCREASE IN DUTY OPENS STAMPEDE

Australian Merchants Rush to Clear Goods From Ships Before Raise is Effective.

Boost of 10 to 15 Per Cent.

MELBOURNE, March 11. (C. P. Cable, via Reuters). — Faced with a possible all-round increase of from 10 to 15 per cent. in the duties of all items of the tariff schedule, which it is understood the Scullin Labor Government is at present considering with a view to reducing the adverse trade balance, merchants and traders at Melbourne, Sydney and Brisbane yesterday and to-day rushed to the customs offices to clear goods from ships and in bond.

Petrol was extensively cleared at Sydney yesterday and to-day's clearances were more general, ranging from general merchandise to machinery. The duty paid on goods imported at Sydney yesterday totalled $377,565—a considerable increase over the amount generally handled.

Melbourne importers stampeded to clear their goods from bond and when the impending tariff becomes effective it is expected hardly a pound's worth of goods will be left in bond. Melbourne manufacturers fear the new duties may include raw material, thus increasing the price of many locally manufactured materials.

The tax is expected to result in a large decrease of imports but overseas shippers state it is unlikely to cause a rise in freight charges for at least a year.

The rush of importers at Brisbane to withdraw goods from bond is unprecedented.

URBAN TRUSTEES IN CONVENTION

Favor Separate Matric Courses For Technical and Commercial Classes.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 11 (C.P.)—With 125 delegates present the eleventh annual convention of the Urban School Trustees' Association started business sessions here to-day. Interesting papers were given by experts on various subjects and resolutions were passed. The most important was as follows:

"The Trestees' Association favors the formation of separate and distinct matriculation courses for technical and commercial classes in high schools."

Strongly favoring the establishment of first form work in public schools, F. J. Carmichael, Kitchener, believed it would have a good effect upon education generally and be beneficial to public and high schools alike.

The sessions are being presided over by W. E. Gowling, Vice-President, acting in the absence of the President, E. J. Carter, North Bay.

This afternoon addresses were given by George E. Will, Principal of the Niagara Falls Collegiate on "Home Work"; by V. K. Graer, Chief Inspector of Public Schools on "Higher Standards of Urban Elementary School." W. J. Salter, St. Catherines, discussed the "One Year Special Course in the Vocational Schools" and a paper on "Maintenance of Schools," was given by C. J. Doughty, Superintendent of Maintenance, Toronto.

NEW GERMAN FIGHTER WILL TACKLE ANYTHING BUT AN AMERICAN GUNMAN

PARIS, March 11.—Even the old time cyclone fighters who could lick their weight in wild cats would be no match for "Heinie" Kley, boy fighter from Germany.

"Heinie," who styles himself a professor of self-defence, modestly admits he can lick anybody, wrestler or boxer, in less time than it takes to tell the tale.

Not only that, against "Heinie," according to himself, you can use anything, hands or feet. No holds are barred, and blackjacks, sandbags and brass knuckles will be considered very Queensberry for the occasion. Heinie will get you just the same, he promises, anything but a gun.

PROVES HE IS GOOD.

Kley has just given a demonstration of his art in Paris. The biggest available bruisers were sent up against the wonder boy from Berlin and he threw them in nothing flat. He successfully stood off formidable assaults from wrestlers and strong arm experts, and disposed of night stick attacks just as quickly.

The system employed by Kley is a combination of Japanese jiu-jitsu and other methods of tripping up stronger opponents. Most of it is Kley's own, developed while he worked as physical instructor of the Berlin police.

CAN'T TIP HIM.

While working in that capacity, Kley earned the nickname, "Stresemann of German Athletics." So far nobody has succeeded in knocking him off his balance.

"I'll take on Carners any time," Kley said when intreviewed locally. "I bar nobody but an American gunman."

Here is shown the latest photograph of Edda Mussolini, nineteen-year-old daughter of the Italian dictator, and Count Galleazzo Ciano, to whom she is engaged to marry. The wedding, Italy's second great social event in a short time, is to take place soon.

BRITISH ARMY 10,000 UNDER STRENGTH

ARMY ESTIMATES SHOW $3,000,000 CUT BELOW 1929

Provide For Excess Cost of Additional Troops in China.

10,000 Men Under Strength.

LONDON, March 12 (C.P.).—The Army estimates released to-day, showing a decrease of $3,000,000 provided for the excess cost of the employment of additional troops in China, which in former years had been met in the supplementary estimates, states Right Hon. Thomas Shaw, War Minister, in an explanatory memorandum.

Other new features of the estimates, which total $200,000,000, are the loss of receipts in connection with the occupation of the Rhine, amounting to $4,750,000, and the omission of a contribution of $750,000 from the Government of Egypt towards the cost of maintaining British troops in Egypt, owing to the initiation of negotiations for a new Anglo-Egyptian treaty.

10,000 Under Strength.

Beginning the current financial year, the strength of the British Army, including British troops in India, will be approximately 10,000 below the established strength. The shortage is almost entirely taken up in the infantry at home, due to the abnormal outflow in the past two years and the small intake of recruits, who numbered only 26,000 in 1929, compared with 30,000 the year before. It is estimated 28,500 recruits will be taken in during 1930, but even this number would not be sufficient to make up the full established strength. The position, therefore, from the army standpoint, is somewhat disquieting, for the lowering of dental and height standards cannot be carried any further.

The strength of the army reserve will be approximately 125,000, rising to 132,000 during the year, but declining to 129,000 next year.

LEGION SEEKS MORE AID FOR DISEASED MEN

Veterans With Tuberculosis Forced to Pay Higher Rentals.

NEED EXTRA ALLOWANCE.

Less Stringent Financial Arrangements For Settlers in Manitoba Sought.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 12. (Canadian Press).—Finding that veterans suffering from tuberculosis are handicapped by being charged higher rentals for homes than other tenants, or being banned altogether by landlords, the Canadian Legion, in its legislative programme is asking that special consideration be given such men when they are living with their families, and not in a sanatorium.

There are two phases of this request, which has the support also of the army and navy veterans of Canada, the Amputations Association, the Canadian Pensioners Association and the Sir Thomas Pearson Club. One is that tubercular veterans, on discharge from sanatoriams are required to live in the better type of homes, with sleeping porches and hygienic conveniences, this being considered by specialists as absolutely essential to their remaining in good health. Such houses are rare, and as a result the tubercular veterans have to pay rents higher than the average for them.

Landlords Dislike to Rent Houses

The other phases is the alleged objection of landlords to renting houses to tubercular sufferers whose disease is clinically active and it is on behalf of these that this request is put forward. Even where a landlord does consent to rent a house to such a tenant, it is claimed, he demands extra rent as compensation. Cases of this type are on record at Legion headquarters in Ottawa. And, in order to overcome this handicap, the veterans' organizations are asking that these men be given an extra housing allowance of $20 a month.

Manitoba Makes Plea.

WINNIPEG, Man.—Less stringent financial arrangements for soldier settlers in the Province was requested of the Dominion Government in a resolution passed by the Manitoba Legislature yesterday. The resolution, moved by J. W. Pratt, Independent, Birtle, asked the Dominion Government to appoint a board to reduce consolidated loans to soldier farm settlers to the actual present realizable value of each quarter section, to re-instate settlers compelled through uncontrollable circumstances to discontinue operations, to substantially reduce interest rates on contracts, and to extend the time for payment over a further period of at least 35 years.

Members of all parties in the House spoke in favor of the resolution.

Col. Barker V.C. Hero And Great War Pilot Dies in Plane Crash

Canada's Second Ranking Air Ace of the Great War, Who Brought Down Fifty-two Enemy Planes, is Killed in Ottawa When the Plane He Was Testing Falters and Falls to Earth.

WAS A WAR-TIME COMRADE OF COL. W. A. BISHOP, V.C. ONLY CANADIAN WAR PILOT TO SURPASS HIM IN FAME

Had Been Flying at an Unusually Low Level When Machine Appeared Suddenly to Stall as the Pilot Apparently Tried to Drive It Into a Steep Climb—President of Fairchild Aviation Corporation.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 12 (Canadian Press). — Colonel W. G. Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., who brought down 52 enemy airplanes and was Canada's second ranking air ace of the Great War, met death here to-day when the airplane which he was putting through a demonstration crashed to earth. The tragedy occurred before the horrified eyes of a number of air officials of the Department of National Defence who were viewing the demonstration of the machine, taken aloft for the first time.

Col. Barker had been up in the air for scarcely ten minutes, and was flying at an unusually low altitude when the machine appeared suddenly to stall as the pilot apparently tried to drive the machine into a steep climb. At the top of an upward swoop it faltered, remained suspended momentarily, and then, like a gigantic wounded bird, plunged headlong to earth, a twisted mass of wreckage.

Demonstrating Airplane

The machine was a new Fairchild two-seater biplane and was here for inspection by Government officials of the Civil Aviation Branch of the National Defence Department. Col. Baker, President of the Fairchild Aviation Corporation of Canada, had been here a few days in connection with company business.

Shortly before one o'clock he appeared at the aviation field of the R.C.A.F. at Rockliffe Park, a few miles east of the Capital. After viewing the new machine he said he would like to take it aloft "for a flip." Ten minutes later his body was extricated from the tangled wreckage of the 'plane.

The machine was in good condition and responded perfectly to all controls on the trip from New York yesterday, according to Test Pilot Sloan, who brought it here. It was the first time Col. Barker had flown a machine of the type. Fairchild officials expressed the opinion he might have miscalculated the power of the motor to drive the machine from the ground.

Went Overseas in 1914

Like many of Canada's war fliers, Col. Barker joined the Royal Flying Corps after he had already seen service in France. He went ... with the Canadian Mounted Rifles and transferred to the flying unit in

MADRIGAL SINGERS SCORE TRIUMPH IN MOST WELL BALANCED PROGRAM

Over 600 People in Attendance at Concert in Collegiate Assembly Hall.

ARTISTS MAKE BIG HIT.

The Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Dorothy Allan Park, scored another triumph last night when they appeared in concert in the Assembly hall of the Collegiate Institute and gave a superb program of vocal music, assisted by Senor Alberto Guerrero, pianist, and Leo Smith, 'cellist. Over six hundred people were in attendance, almost filling the big hall to capacity.

It was a thoroughly satisfying and artistic program, from start to finish, and it carried with it the touch of finesse in small details that adds so much to the success and interest of any affair of this sort. The whole entertainment seemed to be in tune, one portion with another. The two masculine musicians made perfect foils for the glimmering ladies in soft satin gowns who provided the vocal numbers of the evening and who supplied a colorful background for the soloists. for the Madrigal Singers grouped themselves in pleasing balance as Mr. Guerrero and Mr. Smith played.

The setting of the stage made a splendid frame for the singers and their gowns. A dark green

Only Two Members From This District Cast Their Vote on Divorce Court Bill

The voice of this section of the province was not expressed in the House of Commons last night when the Bill for the establishing of a divorce court in Ontario was defeated by the narrow margin of one vote.

Only two of the six representatives of this the centre portion of Eastern Ontario voted on the Bill. One, Alexander T. Embury, Conservative for Hastings, voted against the Bill, and the other, Milton E. Maybee, Conservative for Northumberland, voted for it.

The other four representatives of this section were either absent when the vote was taken or were paired with some Liberal members who were absent and therefore could not vote.

All four representatives are Conservatives. They are: Thomas H. Stinson, Victoria; Fred W. Bowen, Durham; E. A. Peck, Peterborough, and William E. Tummon, Hastings South.

Of the 82 Ontario members of the House, only 51 cast their votes in the division on the Divorce Court Bill. Twenty-seven voted against the measure and 23 for it. In many cases the non-voting members were paired.

Thirteen Ontario Conservatives voted against the Bill and 21 for it, and fourteen Liberals voted against and only 2 for it. One Progressive, W. R. Fansher, of Lambton East, voted for the Bill.

DIVORCE BILL IS BEATEN IN HOUSE BY SINGLE VOTE

Government and Conservative Party Lines Are Broken When Vote is Taken.

VOTE 78 TO 79.

Casting of Speaker Lemieux's Deciding Vote Was Found Not to be Necessary.

OTTAWA, Ont, March 12 (Canadian Press). — By one vote only, the Bill for establishing a divorce court in Ontario was defeated in the House of Commons last night. The division stood 78 for and 79 against.

At first, it was announced that there had been a tie vote of 78 to 78. Casting the deciding vote immediately following this count, Mr. Speaker Lemieux voted against the Bill. A recount of the division, however, showed that the measure had been defeated without the vote of Mr. Speaker.

Government and Conservative party lines broke. On either side of the Chamber, front benchers in the two major parties in the Commons were divided in opinion. But on the other hand, all Labor, Progressive, and U.F.A. members present voted solidly for the establishment of a divorce court. The majority of Liberal-Progressives likewise supported the Bill.

Premier Was Absent.

Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, who was not in the House at the time of the division, and Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative Leader, were paired. Mr. Bennett, in announcing that he was paired, stated that if he had voted he would have voted for the Bill.

On the front bench of the Government side, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, and Hon. J. H. King, Minister of National Health and Pensions, voted for the measure. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Public Works, Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. Fernand Rinefret, Secretary of State, Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicitor General, voted against.

Among the front benchers on the Conservative side, General A. D. McRae, chief Opposition whip, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Hon. J. D. Chaplin and Hon. W. A. Black, voted for the measure. Hon. R. J. Manion, R. S. White (Mount Royal), and Colonel J. A. Arthurs (Parry Sound), voted against.

Second Defeat of Bill.

Last night's division marked the second defeat of the bill in the House of Commons. Last session it was defeated also on second reading by 99 to 68.

The stategy of those for the measure was reversed this year. Sponsored in the Senate last session by Hon. Mr. Willoughy, the bill was passed in the upper chamber only to meet defeat subsequently in the Commons. This year the measure was initiated in the House by J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre.)

Salvaged at Fire; Stolen by Thieves

Household effects salvaged from the flames which consumed the Belle Ranto House in the small hours of Monday morning and which had been stored in the old [illegible] property, were discovered by Mrs. Simmons, the victim of the calamity, to have been ransacked.

Included amongst the few articles which were thrown hurriedly from the blazing building, was a dresser, in the drawer of which was $10 contained in an envelope and placed there by Mrs. Simmons, who had intended mailing it the following day.

Having occasion to go to the schoolhouse to look over the remnants, Mr. Simmons found that all the drawers in the dresser had been ransacked. The money was missing and his war medals were strewn over the floor. He has reported the outrageous incident to the Provincial Police.

KENNEDY BILL IS LAID OVER

Middlesex Opposition Holds Up Scheme to Reduce Number of County Councillors.

TO BE REDRAFTED.

TORONTO, Ont., March 12 (Canadian Press). — Opposition emanating mostly from Middlesex County this morning succeeded in shelving for the time being a Bill which would reduce the number of county councillors. When the Bill, sponsored by T. L. Kennedy (Cons., Peel) came before the Municipal Law Committee, it was discussed for over an hour and a half. On the motion of F. J. Mahoney (Cons., Wentworth South) seconded by C. A. Robertson (Lib., Huron North), a sub-committee of five was named which will redraft the Bill and bring it before the committee again a week from to-day. Other members are Col. Kennedy Dr. Paul Poisson (Cons., North Essex), and Frank Wilson (Cons., East Windsor).

As the Bill originally stood it would reduce the number of councillors, eliminating the second and third deputy reeves. Mr. Kennedy suggested an amendment which would give greater representation and would also give the reeve an extra vote for every 1,000 of population.

As the law stands at present, a municipality is entitled to a first deputy when it has 1,000 and not more than 2,000 electors; to a first and second deputy reeve when it has from 2,000 to 3,000 voters, and when more than 3,000 electors, a first, second and third deputy.

NAVAL EXPERTS STUDY SOLUTION OF FRENCH CASE

Britain and U. S. Refuse to Entertain Security Pact Suggestion.

BRIAND ON PLEASURE TRIP.

Next Move Up To Japan Spokesman For U. S. States Regarding Ratio.

LONDON, March 12 (C.P.) — The naval experts of the United States, Great Britain and France met at St. James' Palace to-day and tackled the task of trying to find some contribution for solution of the grave crisis which exists in the disarmament conference growing out of the French tonnage demands.

The delegations to-day were facing what was described in well informed quarters as close to an impasse because both the United States and Great Britain have indicated they cannot concede France's demand that she be given a security pact in exchange for reduction in her navy program. This, however, did not deter the experts from trying to find some way out of the dilemma.

Spend Day on Figures

It was expected that the entire day would be devoted to an analysis of the French figures involved in her claim for a 724,000 ton navy. Among those engaged in this work were Rt. Hon. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty; Rene Massigli and Jacques Louis Dumesnil, French Minister of Marine; Dwight W. Morrow, United States delegate; J. Theodore Marringer, Diplomatic Adviser to the United States' delegation, and Commodore Harold C. Train were present as observers.

LAUDS NEW ZEALANDERS.

DUNEDIN, N.Z., March 12. — (C.P.) — The possibility that Rear Admiral Richard Byrd will take another expedition into the Antarctic, was foreseen here to-day.

Admiral Byrd in an interview said "If I were to say what I am going to do next, my remarks would cause a sensation."

Although the explorer, who returned Monday after more than a year at the bottom of the world during which he flew over the South Pole, declined to commit himself further, the trend of events here and feeling among his party indicate that he hopes to return to the Antarctic to make further explorations east of the Ross Sea.

The Government to-day granted Byrd and his party free travel over railroads and the Premier's lounge car has been placed at the Admiral's disposal. In a radio broadcast Byrd said his party would hold everlasting gratitude toward the people of New Zealand.

"In no other country," he said, "could more lavish hospitality have been accorded our expedition."

Dr. Lawrence Gould, the geologist of the expedition, said that the discovery of coal on Mount Nansen, had convinced him that the Antarctic until comparatively recent years, has either had a tropical or sub-tropical climate. Dr. Gould said he determined further that the Great Barrier was a floating sea of ice anchored to islands and mountains, that the Ross Sea extended many more miles eastward than first supposed, and that the Queen Maude Range of

VOL. II. | MARCH 12th, 1930. | No. 4

Sickness and poverty are twin enemies to be fought, and the battle is right here in Peterboro. For years this combat against the two has been waged by the Peterboro Health Association and the victory is not yet won, in fact it never will be completely won because the twin enemies are ever cropping up in some new place to precipitate a fresh engagement. We like to think there is but little suffering in Peterboro; we like to think so because it is our City, a City of Homes. It is only those who go below the surface who really know of the amount of sickness existing in less fortunate homes, and the number of broken bodies to be cared for.

What would have been your re-action if you had accompanied the Association nurse and she had visited a certain home where two little youngsters had been severely burned because they had no one to care for them; their mother was out working by the day and the father lying upstairs with a fractured shoulder. Do they need your help? How can their little bodies be healed without the administration of a nurse, and who is going to furnish one unless it be the Health Association? This work has been going on for years quietly, continually, but very effectually. It is paving the way to health for hundreds of Peterboro's citizens, and its continuance depends upon you.

Labor Government Beaten by 8 Votes

MACDONALD REFUSES TO RESIGN AS LIBERALS AND CONSERVATIVES UNITE TO BEAT COAL MINES BILL

Baldwin's Amendment Carried in Commons By Eight Votes.

LABOR CARRIED FIRST VOTE.

Premier States Gov't Will Accept Decision on Vote of Censure Thursday.

LONDON, March 12. (C.P.) — The Labor Government of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald met defeat in the House of Commons yesterday when a Liberal-Conservative coalition carried a Conservative amendment to the coal mines bill by a majority of eight votes. The government did not resign, however, and the Prime Minister explained he did not consider the defeat equivalent to a vote of no-confidence. The poll of the House was 282 to 274 against a proposed levy on coal output and came after the government had been sustained on the first amendment by 272 to 242, owing to the abstentation of certain members from the balloting.

When the second amendment count was announced and the government's reverse made plain, the Righ Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, arose in his seat, to the accompaniment of his followers' cheers, and asked the Prime Minister if he proposed to proceed with the bill?

Premier Amazed.

"I am amazed at the question of the Right Honorable gentleman," replied Mr. MacDonald, and the Labor members set up loud applause.

"He will have the opportunity two days hence to move a vote of censure on this Government," continued the Prime Minister, "and I shall be glad to accommodate him in bringing the matter to a vote. Should the Right Honorable Gentleman see fit to make his vote of censure general then the Government will accept the decision of this House. So far as this division is concerned, however, it was an optional provision, and no essential change has been made thereby in the clause of the coal mines bill under consideration.

"The Government," Mr. MacDonald added, "proposes to ask the committee to continue its task."

LUNG CONDITION CAUSE OF DEATH

Experts Decide Unanimously Ether Not to Blame in Mrs. Rodger's Case.

PROBE TO CONTINUE.

TORONTO, Ont., March 12 (Canadian Press). — Testimony of four expert witnesses to the effect that Mrs. Myrtle Rodgers, 40, died in a local hospital on February 21 from the effect of anaesthetics on an unusual pathological condition in her lungs, marked the opening session here last night of the inquest into her death before Chief Coroner Dr M. M. Crawford. The experts were unanimous in their opinion the condition in her lungs would be difficult if not impossible for anaesthist or examining physician to determine beforehand.

Much public agitation has been aroused in this city during recent months on account of the number of deaths of persons while under anaesthetics, and in view of this the scope of the inquiry has been broadened to probe fully the question of anaesthetics in general.

Eight witnesses were heard last night, but many more, most of whom are prominent in the community's medical and scientific fields, will give evidence at the resumption of the inquiry to-night.

Mrs. Rodgers died on the operating table after having had her appendix removed. The operation was practically completed when she expired.

The "hidden pathological condition" was referred to as largely responsible for the woman's death by Dr. Oscar Klotz, Professor of Pathology, University of Toronto, Dr. V. G. Henderson, Professor of Pharmacology, Prof. J. L. Rogers, Provincial Analyst and Dr. V. E. Killoran, chief anaesthetist at St. Michael's Hospital.

QUEBEC ACTION RAISES STORMS

TOO MUCH INTERFERENCE.

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 12.—(Canadian Press).—Commenting on the defeat last night of the Ontario divorce court bill in the House of Commons, W. J. Carson, newly-elected Grand Master of the Royal Black Chapter, Loyal Orange Lodge said:

"We don't agree with the principle of the action—that French-Canadians of Quebec Province should be in a position to say that Ontario shall or shall not have a divorce court—to dictate the policies of a sister Province when the British North America Act provides that responsible machinery of the courts shall be under the control of the Province in which those courts are located.

"Ontario does not interfere with Quebec courts or her code."

Bar Shows Resentment.

TORONTO, Ont.—General dissatisfaction was voiced here respecting the fate of the Ontario divorce court bill on its second reading in the House of Commons last night, by those who had shown interest in its passage.

G. McLaughlin, secretary of the County of York Law Association, said it was "much to be regretted" that the vote had resulted as it did, but added he had expected far stronger opposition.

"It is unfortunate that Quebec is so solidly against a matter which Ontario seems to favor, and unfortunate that Quebec can determine whether or not Ontario will have divorce courts," said W. J. McCallum, president of the Association.

WITNESS CLAIMS ALL PROPERTY IN PORT HOPE ASSESSED TOO LOW

Justice Garrow Reserves His Decision in Port Hope Civil Action.

TO CALL WITNESS.

COBOURG, March 12 (By Staff Correspondent).—Herewith two items for the attention of the special board of valuators for the Counties of Northumberland and Durham who reached Cobourg this week in their appraisal of the urban municipalities.

Memorandum One—"All property in Port Hope is assessed too low. The gas stations are only 25 to 30 per cent of their real value. The British American Oil Company is generally valued at $40,000, but it is assessed at only $10,000."—J. A. R. Elliott.

Memorandum Two—"The British American station is set at a fixed value of $40,000 and is assessed for $10,000."—William D. Stephens, Port Hope assessor.

"That's how it comes that their equalized assessment for county purposes is always on the under side," said Hon. G. N. Gordon.

T. N. Phelan—"There is always an oath to be taken by every assessor that he has assessed the property at its true value."

These extracts from the concluding evidence in the civic action of Peter Walker & Son against J. A. R. Elliott of Port Hope is singled out for the special interest of Reeve George Hooton, of Cavan Township, that he may say "I told you so."

Mr. Justice Garrow reserved decision in the case on Tuesday afternoon to hear in Toronto Mr. Gordon, defendant's solicitor, as to definite prices of properties sold in the vicinity of the Tourist Garage, which the Walkers bought from Elliott. They sought recisson of the agreement in this suit.

Alex Walker, 31, son of Peter Walker and co-plaintiff with him was the first witness Tuesday morning. He recalled his father's replying to Elliott's advertisement offering the garage for sale. Witness and his father went to Port Hope to see the garage. Elliott told them that the father and two sons should make a success of the business if they worked together. He said that Scott, an employee of the garage was kept busy selling gasoline, and mentioned the long profit to be made in greasing cars. A job of that kind could be done in ten minutes and four cents worth of grease would bring in $1.50. Elliott told them he had made $25,000 clear in a year, and another $2,500 was stolen.

Mr. Elliott told us the Canadian Oil Company wanted to buy the place for $25,000," witness continued. "We asked them why he hadn't taken it, and he said they wanted only the property and not the building. He said that rather than go to the trouble of removing the buildings he paid them back their deposit. When we were talking about the price Elliott wanted $15,000, and when he came down to $13,000 he said he wouldn't take a cent less because if it was worth $25,000 to the Canadian Oil Company it should be worth half that to us. We talked about the assessed value of the property. It was only $2,000 and we said that seemed very low for the price Elliott was asking. He said it was low because he had pull with the town council, but it would not always be that low."

Father A Mechanic.

To Mr. Gordon witness said his father was a mechanic and the younger brother could repair any make of car. With two mechanics, Mr. Elliott had said, the family should make good, earn more than on the farm, and would need additional help in the summer.

"Work Or Starve."

Walker said he had worked only two weeks in the garage. He then had "to get out and work or starve."

Mr. Gordon—Did Elliott tell you he had Harcourt in the garage as mechanic and Scott to look after the gasoline sales?—Yes.

Did he tell you to go through the books and see the business that had been done?—No.

What did Elliott say?—He said the books were there for us to see.

Mr. Justice Garrow—How long did you spend looking over them?—About 15 minutes.

Witness told Mr. Gordon that Harcourt, the mechanic working for Elliott prior to the sale, had inform-

Soo Dogs May Roam Kind Judge Decides

SAULT STE. MARIE, ONT., March 12.—(C.P.)— Judge Fred Stone of the Sault is favorably disposed toward the small boy and his dog. When the number of tagless dogs on the streets came up for discussion at a meeting of the Police Commission, the Judge asked the members if they had attended the recent dog derby. They said they had, and the Judge remarked: "After all, gentlemen, the boy who has been brought up without a dog has missed a great deal, and I, for one, would not like to see any boy and his dog parted." The 300 tagless tykes will roam the street undisturbed.

$20,000 SUIT IS BEING HEARD COBOURG COURT

Kingston Woman is Claiming $20,000 Damages as Result of Fatality.

MAN WAS KILLED.

Eminent Array of Counsel Conducting the Case Beefore Justice Garrow.

COBOURG, March 12 (By Staff Correspondent).—The preface of just another story of a traffic fatality on the King's Highway, four miles west of here last August was sketched to a jury in the Spring Assizes before Mr. Justice Garrow late Tuesday afternoon in the preliminary statement of facts in the action brought by Mrs. Clifford Thompson, who resides on a farm near the scene of the accident, between Cobourg and Port Hope, against Mrs. Beatrice L. Grant of Kingston for $20,000 damages.

The two women are the principals in the case; the one a slim, fair young widow and mother; the other a middle-aged woman of reputed social position in Kingston. The prestige of the opposing counsel suggests the importance of the suit. T. N. Phelan, K.C., of Toronto is the chief solicitor for the plaintiff, and is assisted by A. R. Willmott of Cobourg; and Thomas Agar, K.C., of Toronto is conducting the defense, assisted by the Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., who represented the defendent at a previous criminal enquiry.

It is understood that the actual defendant is a casualty insurance company, for which Mr. Agar is counsel.

Turning Off Road

In the morning of Thursday, August 15, 1929, Clifford Thompson was driving a horse-drawn cultivator along the Toronto-Kingston highway. He was going from one field to another, and as he was turning off the road toward the farm, the cultivator was struck by Mrs. Grant's car, which she was driving. Thompson was catapulted from his seat, fell some distance away on the shoulder of the road and died three days later, on Sunday, in the Cobourg Hospital, of a fractured skull.

Mrs. Grant was on her way from Kingston accompanied by another woman, and her daughter and two sons.

Only One Case for Jurors

The jury in this action was empaneled as follows after seven were challenged: Frank Flindall, Murray township; J. E. Allen, Millbrook; Roy Morrow, Brighton township; Kenneth Philip, Hope township; Charles Bellamy, Cramahe; John W. Kemp, Brighton township; Roy Merriam, Haldimand; William Scott, Hope; J. McMullen, Manvers; Fred G. Tufford, Hope; Gordon Flynn, Murray; Fred Kernaghan, Haldimand.

In his prefatory address to the jury, Mr. Phelan said Mrs. Thompson had brought suit for herself, her baby daughter, and also her father-in-law, all of whom had suffered financial loss by reason of Clifford Thompson's death. It would be shown that he was driving a team of horses in an easterly direction. He was seated on a spring tooth cultivator.

HOPE FOR CURE

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A new hope in the cure of tuberculosis has been given by Dr. William C. White of the Public Health Service. It is a fine dusty-white sugar produced by tuberculosis germs. This sugar may be a chemical bond between the germ and a human cell. If the germ can be divorced from the cell a cure is practical, according to White.

GANDHI STARTS HIS REVOLT OF DISOBEDIENCE

Great Throngs Witness Beginning of Leader's March to Gulf of Bombay.

BAND LEAVES AT 6.30 A.M.

Uneasy Feeling in Crowds Owing to Rumors That Gandhi's Arrest Was Near.

AHMADABAD, India, March 12.—(C.P.) — Mahatma Gandhi, Indian leader and mystic, led his pioneer band of volunteers out of his quarters here at 6.30 a.m. to-day and started his march to the Gulf of Bombay, opening his campaign of civil disobedience to the Indian Government.

Great crowds lined both sides of the route that the little procession was following. As Gandhi, with a firm step despite his 61 years, emerged from his "Ashram," or college of devotees, at the head of his volunteers a great shiver of excitement ran through the throng.

Almost the whole population of Ahmadabad nearly 150,000 normally, and swollen by visitors that have been flocking here for days to see Gandhi depart, was present. The city was virtually deserted all through the night.

Gandhi will address the villagers at Asrali, through which he will pass at about 2 p.m.

Followers Fear Arrest.

LONDON, March 12.—(C.P.)—The correspondent of the London Daily Express, telegraphing last night, said that about 20,000 persons had gathered about the headquarters of Mahatma Gandhi, near Ahmadabad, India, early Tuesday evening.

He said that an uneasy feeling was visible in the crowds owing to scores of rumors that Gandhi's arrest was near at hand.

ONTARIO WINES REQUIRE PERMIT IN NEW SYSTEM

Attorney General Price Introduces Amendment to Liquor Control Act.

NEW RESTRICTIONS.

Offenses Against Wine Regulations Are 6 Months to Year in Jail Without Fine.

TORONTO, March 12. — Amendments to the Ontario Liquor Control Act placing the sale of native wines on a permit basis, and, generally, imposing new restrictions along the lines of those forecast by Premier Ferguson during the last election campaign, were introduced to the Legislature yesterday by Attorney-General William H. Price.

The new section which deals with wines states: "Except as expressly provided by this act and by the regulations, no person shall have or keep any liquor within Ontario which has not been purchased from a Government vendor or from a physician as provided by Section 56." The old section said, "except native wine." These words are now omitted, thus making the wine sale subject to regulations which the Liquor Board, under the direction of Sir Henry Drayton, may from time to time impose. It is intended that these regulations will be passed by the board in the near future.

In Unlawful Place

Further strengthening is given in the act to the section as to where liquor may be consumed, namely, only in a private residence. Some Magistrates, Colonel Price said, have held that, in order to constitute an offense under the section, the consuming must take place with the keeping, having or giving. The ammendment changes the conjunction "and" to "or", to put the matter beyond doubt, so that a person may be committing an offense against the section if he has or consumes liquor in an unlawful place.

Another section deals with preventing the sale of any compound, mixture or preparation, in solid or liquid form, to which the addition of water, or any other liquid or any substance will produce intoxicating liquor. Attempts have been made by merchants in foreign countries to introduce for sale in Ontario substances in solid form to which the addition of water produces an intoxicating beverage. Most of these appear to come from Germany. The section prevents them.

Stronger regulations are placed upon employees in vendors' stores, making it prohibitory to sell or furnish liquor in any other place than authorized. The amendments also place responsibility upon permit issuers in issuing permits to disqualified persons, or those furnishing false or fictitious particulars.

Permits Returned to Board.

False or fictitious permits are prohibited, as well as a permit of which the holder is not the owner. A duty is placed upon hotel proprietors to turn into the board any permits which they find on their premises after guests have checked out. Abuses

AUGER GETS TWO YEARS IN PRISON

Judge Daly Makes Very Scathing Address to Former Legislator After Hearing.

APPEAL TO BE ENTERED.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 12 (Canadian Press). — Found guilty of seducing 17-year-old Laurence Martel, of Hawkesbury, Ont., Louis M. Auger, formerly the youngest member of the Canadian House of Commons, was sentenced yesterday to two years' imprisonment in Portsmouth Penitentiary by Judge E. J. Daly. His counsel immediately announced an appeal would be entered.

Judge Daly's verdict came at the concusion of a hearing that lasted two days and which was marked by spent in jail shall not affect his the scathing address of His Honor to the former legislator. The accused deserved no consideration, he stated. He had not only ravished the daughter of one of the men who has helped to make him a member of Parliament, but had put disreputable witnesses in the box in an attempt to blacken the character of a girl whom he had outraged.

Judge Daly added that Auger had not been man enough to go into the box himself. He specified that the period of almost a year Auger has sentence.

AT MILLBROOK

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Mar. 12.—"What is wrong with the church?" was the theme of the sermon preached by Rev. W. W. Jones, B. D., on Sunday morning, introducing the observance of the Lenten season at Saint Andrew's United church before a large congregation.

The texts were chosen from I Corinthians I.: 10, "I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, that there be no divisions among you; and that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment"; and from Revelation 2:2, and following verses: "I know thy works . . . . nevertheless I have somewhat against thee." With the church itself, the body of Christ, the speaker showed in his opening remarks, there is nothing wrong; to offer a substitute would be like offering a man a candle for guidance when he was walking in the full blaze of the noonday sun; neither is there anything wrong with the Divine Saviour and Lord of the Church, or with the Eternal Spirit, the Advocate, Comforter, and Companion of every pure soul.

The choir sang the anthem, "God So Loved the World", Mrs. H. W. Johnson taking the solo part, and Mrs. McDowell and Mrs. Johnston the duet.

TWEED COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

South Victoria Street Waterworks Resolution Laid Over Until Next Meeting.

W.M.S. MEETS.

TWEED, March 12.—(Examiner Correspondence).—At a meeting of the Tweed Council held recently when all members were present, a communication from the Rail-Railway Board was read and ordered filed and a deputation of Edward Fitchett and other residents of South Victoria street asked for waterworks and sewerage system on said street. On motion, it was decided to lay the matter over until the next meeting and that the deputation present another petition.

Messrs. Frost and Minogon presented the auditor's report which was very satisfactory. The report was received and ordered printed. A communication was received from the Workmen's Compensation Board in which the sum of $12.50 was ordered paid to Mrs. Hannah Sedore for F. McKay, for an injury received while working for the corporation.

Messrs. Ryan and Beatty interviewed the council re part rebate of taxes on skating rink, but this matter was left over. On motion of Councillors Sayers and Quinn, that having received the best legal advice and owing to the fact that the sidewalks passing the property of D. H. Morrison and S. G. Dafoe were not constructed as local improvement or according to legal practice in such cases, the amounts assessed for such sidewalks be rebated.

The question of a water supply was again discussed at length but nothing definite arrived at.

W.M.S. Meets

Mrs. Way presented her Presbyterial report at a meeting of the United Church W.M.S. held on Thursday afternoon in the church parlors when the president, Mrs. Foster, was in the chair.

Arrangements were completed regarding the Union Prayer Service to be held on the seventh of March in the United church. Mrs. A. McGuire read the scriptural reading and Mrs. Tummon favored the gathering with a solo. A hearty vote of thanks was moved to Mrs. Way by Mrs. Donnely and Mrs. McGee, for her splendid report.

At this meeting, Mrs. Moffatt gave a very interesting explanation of the third chapter of the Study Book.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, March 12—Cattle trade at the Union Stock yards yesterday morning continued slow, with bids steady on all class of killers. Fresh receipts were light and there were only 100 heads from Mondays offerings in addition. Close to a load of heavy steers sold at 10.10 a pound and handy butchers at 9 1-4 to 9 1-2. Good choice butcher cows are steady at 7 1-2 to 8c. Very few of the poorer killers moved up to 11 o'clock but a clean up at steady prices is expected in view of the light offering. Store cattle and milkers and springers are a light supply and a dull trade. The prices are unchanged.

Calf market is steady with good to choice veals selling at 13 to 14 cents a pound with commons downward to 9. Good ewe and wether lambs are bringing 12½c a pound with culls downward to 9c. Sheep are scarce, but in good demand with best light butcher types selling up 8½c and medium and heavy sheep from 6 to 7 cents. Dealing in hogs is stronger than Monday, salesmen are asking 12¼ to 12½ f.o.b. and 13½ to 13 3-4 weighed off cars for bacon. There are no settlements up to 11 o'clock, but prospects are that the bulk will sell at the trend.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, March 12. — Wheat neared the dollar-a-bushel point yesterday. New low levels for the year brought all these futures within striking distances of the dread "dollar wheat" mark, as the market broke 3c shortly after mid-season. Closing 2¾c to 3⅛ lower than Monday's finish, prices had moved up only fractionally from the day's lows.

At $1.05¼, the May future was priced lower than at any time since last May. It closed at $1.05⅝. Stocks were hurled into the pit in large quantities, Eastern Canada interests and local houses joining in the unloading movement, while marginal accounts were swept into liquidation with the decline. It is believed that few margin-holders survived.

Resting orders, met on the trend to lower levels, failed to even momentarily halt the drive.

Cash wheat continued in good demand with few offerings, and spreads were unchanged. Coarse grains were freely liquidated.

Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.02¾; No. 1 Northern, $1.02¾; No. 2 Northern, 99¾c; No. 3 Northern, 95⅝c; No. 4, 91⅝; No. 5, 84⅝; No. 6, 64⅝c; feed, 53⅝c; track, $1.03⅛; screenings, per ton, $5.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, March 12.—With yesterday's prices to country egg shippers, and to retailers, unchanged from Monday's quotations, there was a feeling on the local produce market that the price slump had ended. Great quantities of Ontario eggs were reported in Toronto, but very few had been put into storage as the continued cool weather might have resulted in chilling. Brokers stated that the market was weaker, and quoted 30c for extras, 28c for firsts, and 25c for seconds, to dealers, free cases. The prices to country shippers, for ungraded eggs, delivered cases returned, remained unchanged at 28c for extras, 26c for firsts, and 22c for seconds. To retailers the prices were 36c to 37c for extras in cartons; 34c to 35c for extras, loose; 32c for firsts, loose, and 28c to 29c for seconds, loose. The Chicago market remained firm at 24c to 24½c, but Ontario buyers could not be interested at those prices.

Butter

Once again the butter market was referred to as "draggy." Very few sales were reported, for a city of this size, and it appeared that the wholesalers still had plenty of stock in storage. Brokers left the prices unchanged to shippers at 33¾c to 34¼c for No. 1 creamery, pasteurized; 33¼c to 33½c for 38 scoring seconds, and 32¾c to 33c for 37 scoring seconds. The prices to the retail trade were 38c to 39c for No. 1, and 37c to 38c for No. 2. Churning cream was steady at 38c to 39c for special; 37c to 38c for No. 1, and 34c to 35c for No. 2, f.o.b., country points.

Cheese

The cheese market was firm, with a good demand reported and supplies steady. Shippers were quoted 20½c for new, large, and 20¾c for twins; Government graded, parafinned, colored.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

Montreal, March 12. — Heavy arrivals of New Zealand butter continued to be laid down here yesterday with a consequent decrease in prices. Quotations ranged from 33½c to 34c a pound for New Zealand finest car lots here. Retail prices were 37c for solids and 38c for prints.

Offerings from nearby points continued on the local egg market, with Ontario eggs selling 1 cent a dozen lower than the previous day's prices. Quotations range from 33c for extras to 28c for seconds. Prices to retailers now range from 39c for fresh specials to 30c a dozen for storage seconds.

Cheese receipts continued light, amounting to 39 boxes. Prices remained the same as those of yesterday at 18½c to 18 3-4c for Easterns, and 19c to 19¼c for Westerns, current receipts.

Potatoes were steady at $1.50 to $1.55 for New Brunswick Green Mountains, and $1.45 for Quebecs, per 90-pounds in bulk in car lots ex-track here.

Middlings were reduced $2 a ton to-day on the wholesale market and rolled oats 25c a bag. Prices on the cash grain market were also generally lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 12. — Absence of crop scare reports yesterday did much to tumble wheat down to new bottom prices for the current season.

July and September contracts, representing wheat yet to be harvested, were much more depressed than March and May, which stand for what is ready to be milled at once. Dust storms in Nebraska and persistent dry weather in Kansas aroused more or less anxiety among traders, but no actual serious crop damage to wheat was heard from.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy 3-8c to ¼c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1c off to 1c up, with oats varying from 1-8c decline up to 1-8c to ¼c advance and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12 cents.

Wins Wife as First Prize!

IF you don't think your whole life can be changed by chance, read this. It is the story of a young man who was pretty well down and out, but he figured he might win a prize if he took some advice.

"As far back as I can remember I had been a weakling," says Mr. Calvin L. Floyd of Orlando, Florida. "A headache, it seemed, was to be my life companion. I was always dizzy in the mornings. Nothing I ate seemed good for me. Then I attended a health lecture in a sanatorium and the physician talked on 'faulty elimination.' That was certainly my trouble. One of the patients asked him about Nujol. He recommended it highly. I decided to try one bottle to see if there was anything in what he said about natural lubrication for the human body.

Many a life changed by a message like this one.

"Long before I had finished the first bottle my 'companion-headache' was gone. No more tired out feeling. I get a real kick out of life now. By the way, I almost forgot to tell you I found a new life companion, too!"

Perfectly simple, wasn't it? Mr. Floyd just learned the normal natural way to get rid of bodily poisons (we all have them) and nature did the rest. Why shouldn't you be well?

Nujol is not a medicine. It contains no drugs. It is effective, so you will be "regular as clock-work." You can buy it at all good drug stores in sealed packages for less than the price of a couple of good cigars.

Begin today. Millions have found that Nujol makes all the difference in the world. Nujol will make you feel fine and you can prove it.

FIND ANCIENT TOMB

CAIRO—Street workers excavating near the supposed burial place of Alexander the Great have unearthed a huge granite pillar. This pillar, still standing upright, is thought to be an indication of the royal burial ground in which Alexander was interred.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES.

With the amalgamation of the two Belleville newspapers there is not a small city in Ontario in which more than one newspaper exists.

Only Toronto, Hamilton, London and Ottawa have two or more daily papers. Windsor, the next largest city in the Province, being content with one.

A decade ago practically every centre in Ontario boasted at least two dailies, usually fighting each in the political arena and engaged in frequent controversies over many other matters, a condition that did not lead to the development of a community spirit and that created discord rather than harmony.

Gradually this condition has changed, with here and there an amalgamation until no Ontario city under 40,000 population is served by more than one newspaper.

Yet these cities have gained in the process; their one daily is better than they could expect to have were the field divided; it is not tied to the strings of any political party, and in politics as well as in the news field generally there is a fairer, more accurate and more comprehensive service that would have been possible under the old competitive conditions.

WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

United States officials, discussing the unemployment situation, have thrown out a suggestion that might well be considered north as well as south of the international line.

They point out that many citizens each spring have a certain amount of repair work to be done round their premises, and suggest that wherever this work can be done now instead of a month or so later it should be undertaken and this provide work for some of the unemployed, helping to tide them over until the opening of the outdoor working season.

There is a good deal of common sense in the suggestion.

In Peterborough, for example, if several hundred families with odd jobs usually associated with the coming of spring waiting to be done were to have the work carried out at the present time instead of deferring it until later on in the season, many of the city's unemployed would materially benefit.

While this city has not been as hard hit as many other centres, there are enough men out of work here to give point to the proposal that citizens who are in a position to help, as suggested above, should do what they can to provide jobs for the unemployed.

ON THE MATTER OF SPEED.

Mr. Justice Raney, in addressing the Grand Jury at the Whitby Assizes, criticized as ridiculous the suggestion of George King, president of the Ontario Motor League, that the automobile speed limit on Ontario's highways be increased to 70 miles an hour.

Justice Raney declared that such a limit, if put into effect, would result in greater loss of life.

However that may be, there would certainly be a fantastic touch to a speed limit of more than a mile a minute.

If automobiles are to be permitted by law to travel at that speed, why bother with a limit at all?

It would be much more logical to follow the example of many other countries and abolish the speed limit, placing on motorists strict responsibility for any accidents resulting from reckless driving.

Safe speed is a relative matter.

There are occasions when 60 miles an hour would be less dangerous than 10 miles under different circumstances.

The motorist who drives fast on a straight piece of highway on which there is little or no traffic is far less a menace than the idiot who drives over city intersections at 20 miles an hour.

If high speed is to be legalized the sensible course would be to abolish and not to raise the speed limit.

A QUESTION OF RESPONSIBILITY.

In introducing its old age pensions system the Federal Government insisted that the legislation should only apply to those Provinces whose Governments were willing to assume half the cost of the scheme, thereby making old age pensions a provincial responsibility, to the financing of which the Dominion makes a grant.

The Dominion, however, refuses to follow the same principle in other matters; several years ago it abandoned grants to the Provinces for technical education, and this week the Government followers voted down a resolution proposing that the Federal Government should render financial assistance to the road-building plans of the Provinces.

This question of responsibility is looming up more prominently with each session, and it becomes increasingly difficult to differentiate between the duty of the Dominion and the duty of the Province.

Is there not a national angle to road-building that looks to a trans-continental highway, or to the question of unemployment?

Is not the control of immigration really more a Federal than a provincial responsibility?

Should not old age pensions and unemployment insurance be established on the same basis throughout the whole Dominion?

These and a dozen similar questions suggest themselves as important issues which are pressing for consideration and about which there seems to be a great deal of uncertainty in the minds of our legislators as well as in the minds of the people.

HYDRO FOR THE FARMER'S WIFE.

Some opposition members do not take kindly to the Ontario Government's proposed assistance to farmers in order that they may install Hydro-Electric power in their houses and barns. In the Legislature, Mr. Newman, Liberal member for North Victoria, has said that the Ontario agriculturist should not be encouraged to indulge in luxuries, because "when you get away from tallow candles to electric lights you have to produce more to meet the necessary payments." Mr. Roberts, the Liberal member for North Huron, objected that fifty per cent. of the farmers enjoying Hydro-Electric service used it only for the luxury of lighting and not for productive purposes. Mr. Taylor, the Progressive from North Grey, felt that the farmer should not be backed up in the acquisition of luxuries. Other Liberals and Progressives spoke along similar lines.

If these men think that they represent the attitude of farmers, they infer that the farmers are suffering from an acute inferiority complex.

In reply Premier Ferguson contended that agriculture is entitled to the best—in short, to such facilities as will lighten labor and brighten life on the farm. The Prime Minister had farm women especially in mind, for he said that he was just as much concerned with the problem of helping them as he was with that of enabling the husbandman to grind his corn or pump water for the farm with the aid of electricity. "The days of slavery," he said, "for farm women are over. Just think what it will mean to farm women to have an electric washer, an electric sweeper, and other devices which help to make life on the land endurable and attractive."

Mr. Ferguson went on to say there was no need to fear that the farmer could not be trusted to be as shrewd in his business dealings as any other class of man. The agriculturist did not go into things recklessly. When he needed a machine and saw that he could save money by purchasing it, he did so. Therefore, this talk about encouraging the farmer to overload himself with luxuries was all nonsense. With this manly view of the situation, the country will agree whole-heartedly.—Ottawa Journal.

ORDERLY AND DISORDERLY MARKETING.

In recent weeks it has become quite the proper thing to criticize the heads of the Canadian Wheat Pool for their action in holding back their grain from the world's markets last fall when at least a portion of their stocks could have been sold for prices considerably above those prevailing to-day. Hindsight, of course, is a valuable gift which most of us have, but foresight is less common, and while critics of the holding policy are numerous to-day, after prices have suffered a sharp decline, they were not nearly so numerous six months ago. Much is being said these days about what might have been done and a great deal of the talk is uninformed. Statistics which have been relied on all winter are now being abandoned in favor of others which may or may not prove to be reliable. Such is human nature.

The situation as it affects world supplies and demand seems to have been influenced by two or three factors which were not seen some months ago. One of these is that the European root crops appear to have been sufficiently heavy to have made the normal purchase of foreign wheat or flour so far unnecessary, while the purchasing power of some of the countries of that continent and certain nations in the Orient has been seriously curtailed. It is stated, however, in this regard that while the purchasing power of the European countries is smaller than it was a year ago, it is still considerably better than it was five or six years ago. In the Orient, however, the situation is different. There the decline in silver has hit the buying power of the Chinese very severely. The seriousness of this has been aggravated by the fact that this year there is comparatively little of the low grade wheat and flour which the Orient usually buys. In the 1928 crop, the proportion of lower grades was very large; in the crop of 1929 the reverse is true, the proportion of low grades being very small. Accordingly there is not much of the 1929 crop of the grade which normally is bought by the Orient. A large part of the carryover of which we heard so much last year, however, was low grade wheat, and it would appear that much of this is contained in the general exports which have gone out so far.

In one or two respects, however, it would appear that the pool has been at fault. One is in not adhering to the policy enunciated previously in this and similar movements that the main idea was to facilitate orderly marketing of the farmers' grain. This was taken to mean that the pool system would prevent the flooding of the market with large quantities of grain immediately after the harvest. This year the method pursued has carried restraint too far, very little of the grain having been sold to date, leaving the bulk of it to be marketed in a comparatively short space of time if it is to be cleared before the new crop comes on. It may be, of course, that the pool has already sold considerable wheat for delivery abroad on the opening of navigation. The outsider does not know. Barring this, however, it would appear that this year the glut at the beginning of the crop year has been changed to a large supply at the close of the crop year.

In the second place, the intimation made by the pool last fall that they were sure of getting a higher price for their wheat was a mistake. The policy of holding back from the market may even yet be justified on business grounds, but the veiled threat contained in the statement that the pool was holding was, to say the least, unwise in that it could not help but stir up resentment among the prospective buyers.

The situation, however, is not as bad as some would have it appear. Psychology has possibly had as much to do with the recent decline as bearish figures, and a rapid change in the situation might easily take place once the viewpoint of the importer was altered. One thing which must not be forgotten is the high quality of the 1929 Canadian crop which makes the grain still unsold highly desirable for blending purposes. There are still practically five months of the crop year to run, and it is evident that a large part of the imports of the world during that time must come from Canada.—Monetary Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Alas, with the spring comes the income tax warnings.

Mr. Justice Raney says that a speed limit of 70 miles an hour would be ridiculous. And most people will agree with him.

A Chicago man who flourished a revolver in a Toronto hotel has been arrested. He probably looked upon the weapon as an essential part of "What the well-dressed man is wearing."

Tommy Church wanted to know early in the session if the Government, for the sake of promoting world peace, would sink Canada's navy. And recent reports look as if the navy will answer the question by sinking itself.

There has been a small-pox outbreak in the Gandhi forces, so that the Nationalists should be easily spotted from now on.

The vote against Federal grants for road-making registered in the Federal House on Monday means that when better roads are built the Provinces will build them.

THE GREENE MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE

CHAPTER 21.

(Tuesday, November 30; 12:30 p.m.)

When Snitkin and Burke had gone, Vance turned from the window and strolled to where the doctor was sitting.

"I think it might be well," he said quietly, "if the exact whereabouts of every one in the house preceding and during the shooting was determined.—We know, doctor, that you arrived here at about a quarter past 10. How long were you with Mrs. Greene?"

Von Blon drew himself up and gave Vance a resentful stare. But quickly his manner changed and he answered courteously:

"I sat with her for perhaps half an hour; then I went to Sibella's room—a little before 11, I should say—and remained there until Sproot called me."

"And was Miss Sibella with you in the room all the time?"

"Yes—the entire time."

"Thank you."

Vance returned to the window, and Heath, who had been watching the doctor belligerently, took his cigar from his mouth and cocked his head at Markham.

"You know, sir, I was just thinking over the inspector's suggestion about planting some one in the house to keep an eye on things. How would it be if we got rid of this nurse, that's here now, and put in one of our own women from headquarters?"

Von Blon looked up with eager approval.

"An excellent plan!" he exclaimed.

"Very well, sergeant agreed Markham, "You attend to it."

"Your woman can begin to-night," Von Blon told Heath. "I'll meet you here whenever you say, and give her instructions. There's nothing very technical for her to do."

Heath made a notation in a battered notebook.

"I'll meet you here, say, at 6 o'clock. How's that?"

"That will suit me perfectly." Von Blon rose. "And now, if I can be of no more service * * *"

"That's quite all right, doctor," said Markham. "Go right ahead."

But instead of immediately leaving the house Von Blon went upstairs, and we heard him knock on Sibella's door. A few minutes later he came down again and passed on to the front door without a glance in our direction.

In the meantime Snitkin had come in, and informed the sergeant that Captain Jerym was leaving police headquarters at once and would arrive within half an hour. He had then gone outside to make his measurements of the footprints on the balcony steps.

"And now," suggested Markham, "I think we might see Mrs. Greene. It's possible she heard something * * *"

Vance roused himself from apparent lethargy.

"By all means. But first let us get a few facts in hand. I long to hear where the nurse was during the half hour preceding Rex's demise. And I could bear to know if the old lady was alone immediately following the firing of the revolver.—Why not have our Miss Nightingale on the tapis before we brave the invalid's imprecations?"

Markham concurred, and Heath sent Sproot to summon her.

The nurse came in with an air of professional detachment; but her roseate cheeks had paled perceptibly since we last saw her.

"Miss Craven"—Vance's manner was easy and businesslike—"will you please tell us exactly what you were doing between half past 10 and half past 11 this morning?"

"I was in my room on the third floor," she answered. "I went there when the doctor arrived a little after 10 and remained until he called me to bring Mrs. Greene's bouillon. Then I returned to my room and stayed until the doctor again summoned me to sit with Mrs. Greene while he was with you gentlemen."

What To-day Means To You

"PISCES."

If March 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from noon to 2 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Astrological influences on this date are apt to instil a spirit of distrust which will hinder progress and destroy happiness of spirit. Many a sorrowful word will be spoken, and friendships may be severed. A deaf ear is a lucky ear.

The child born on this March 12 will be fond of travel and adventure. The call of the wild will be its only calling, and it will not be fitted for any kind of sedentary life. It will have considerable grit and determination and will not have any fear complexes.

You have a nature which is forceful and positive, but it needs wise control. You need to apply the brakes to your temper—it needs governing. When things go wrong you snap—as a result an answering snarl takes all the glory from the day. Your tongue is your own worst enemy. It makes both you and others unhappy. Cannot you learn to suppress your unkind and unpleasant thoughts? You talk yourself out instead of in to things. You are apt to let your emotions and desires run riot—you cannot curb your feelings. It can be said, however, that you do everything openly and above-board. There is no deception about you. What you are, what you do, and what you think are no secrets. You are neither diplomatic nor artful.

You are naturally of an unkindly disposition, but you are domineering and you are very brusque in your manner. It is very hard for you to take commands from another—it is hard for you to do and not to reason why. You have a very frugal nature, and you never spend five cents if a penny will do. You are far more generous with others than you are with yourself. You are a very hard worker, but you need to learn how to play. You take life a little too seriously for your own good. You are rather inclined to scoff at "fun." When real love enters your life, you will become a sweeter and happier being.

THOUSANDS SEE TRENT EXHIBIT AT CLEVELAND

People Appeared to Take Keen Interest in Kawartha District.

MANY COMPETITIONS

Jack Dempsey Engineered Big Event for Full Week at Cost of $10,000.

One of the biggest attractions of the Ohio Sportsman's Show which was held in Cleveland, Ohio, last week in connection with Ohio's Conservation Week, was the Trent Waterway section of the Ontario Government exhibit, reports Fred Roy who represented the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and the Trent Waterway Association at the show. Mr. Roy estimates that between 75,000 and 100,000 people attended the show during the week and states that a very large percentage visited the Ontario exhibit and viewed the Trent Waterway film which was displayed all week.

"What struck me most forcibly," Mr. Roy said, "was the intense interest shown by Cleveland people in Ontario with regard to its summer playground aspects. They were particularly interested in the Kawartha Lakes. At times the demands for information were so heavy that they could not be handled without delay.

"I think the reasons for this interest were the advertising that has been done in the past and the fact that those who have visited Ontario in summer return with glowing recommendations of Ontario as a summer playground for their friends."

The show was held in the large Cleveland Public Hall which has a capacity of about 12,000 persons. It commenced on Monday last week and was concluded last Sunday evening. One of the features of the show was the employment of Jack Dempsey for the week to engineer the entertainment. Mr. Roy reports. That cost $10,000, Mr. Roy commented.

The large area in the center of the hall had been converted into a miniature forest and woodland with a winding stream a quarter of a mile long meandering through hundreds of trees, stumps, logs and ferns. In this wilds many of the exhibits were arranged.

Entertainment was provided on a stage at one end of the hall. The entertainment numbers were announced by Jack Dempsey. Sporting competitions such as bait casting, archery, pistol shooting and badminton were provided.

The Ontario government exhibit consisted of transparencies depicting scenes in Ontario and attractively mounted fish and deer heads. The exhibit had a 50 foot frontage. The Trent Waterway film was shown continuously each afternoon and evening from Monday to Saturday.

During the show 10,000 Ontario road maps were given out and a large quantity of Kawartha Lake literature. Two men, Mr. Roy reports, said that they had come 200 miles to view the exhibit and gather information concerning the vacation possibilities of the Province.

Visitors to the exhibit included numerous old Peterborough girls and boys and also a number of the proprietors of summer resorts in this region who live in Cleveland.

A Thought

CRITICISM

The exercise of criticism always destroys, for a time, our sensibility to beauty by leading us to regard the work in relation to certain laws of creation. The eye turns from the charms of nature to fix itself upon the servile dexterity of art.

"COMING TO TERMS WITH THE UNIVERSE."
Wednesday.
"A Hero's World."

SCRIPTURE

Memory Verse: "Be strong and of good courage" (Joshua 1:9).

Read: Joshua 1:1-9.

MEDITATION

The promise of "good success" is made only to the strong. Only the courageous can come to terms with life. Brave people only can feel at home in this world and rejoice in life, for this is a hero's world. It is not amiable or indulgent; it coddles no one. The timid and those who are afraid of struggle and wounds find life difficult. It is these who are the pessimists. The end of creation seems to be the making of great souls. This world is fitted to make souls of that sort. It is to the courageous heart that God promises His strength.

PRAYER

Grant, O Father, that this day we may take our full share in the world's work and hazards. Help us to be faithful in those useful things that are difficult and trying, and accept them as a challenge to our souls. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Big Reduction In Nickle Production

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 12. (C.P.)—The Ottawa Journal to-day says:

"Exports of all grades of nickel by International company for the month of February did not come up to the mark established in the preceding month, but was a gain in value, according to figures just obtained from the government, but this is not regarded as any indication of lessening output. It was explained, it was probably due to a late shipment not being included in the February returns, and also to the fact that it was a short month.

"Exports of nickel ore of all grades for the month totalled 6,654,100 pounds having a total value of $1,810,201 as compared with 11,638,300 pounds, having a total value of $2,592,588 in the month of January.

"February returns also show a considerable reduction when compared with the month of February a year ago, figures for that month showing 9,736,000 pounds exported, having a value of $2,129,156."

Mining Issues Drop In Forced Selling

TORONTO, Ont., March 12 (C.P.)—Believed to be the direct result of the renewed liquidation of the accounts of clients of mining brokerage houses who are unable or adverse to taking up their stocks outright, today's early session on the mining market saw some poorly absorbed selling which carried the list almost as a whole into new territory.

International Nickel and Noranda failed to withstand the general influence, the former selling off 35 to $39.75, while the latter dropped 85 to $40.25. The Lindsleys were also comparatively soft, Falconbridge sustaining a loss of 25, Sherritt Gordon 14, Sudbury Basin 12, and Ventures 4.

HUGE BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT IN DOMINION DURING YEAR

Canada Leads World in Production of Newsprint, Nickel, Asbesto and Cobalt.

NATION-WIDE REVIEW.

TORONTO, Mar. 12. (Special to Examiner.)—If the phenomenal progress made by Canada in the last few years may be taken as an indication of her future, then her position as one of the world's foremost manufacturing countries is safely assured, states the March monthly review of the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is pointed out that from the east to the west, a review of present day conditions indicates almost astounding development. The port of Halifax has increased its tonnage by 40 percent in the space of twelve months. Saint John has the largest dry dock in the world and is first among Canadian winter ports. Montreal is the second port on the continent, ranking behind New York only. The canals at Sault Ste Marie handle more traffic than the Suez, Panama and Manchester ship canals combined. The development of the west, the position occupied by Winnipeg, the progress in the Turner valley field are stressed. Most important of all, however, is position Canada occupies in world trade. Canada holds fifth place in aggregate important export trade and first place in total trade per capital in the production of new print nickel, asbestos and Cobalt, Canada leads the world ranks second in the production of wheat and automobiles and third in the output of lead and gold. Ore reserves have been slumping new milling ores are a pressing necessity, it is said, present ore bodies being below commercial grade in many cases.

Increases Predicted.

That a number of February indexes of production in the United States will show further increases is the optimistic outlook predicted by the February Reserve Bank of New York. The bank in its March bulletin states operations in the steel industry were at a higher average level then in January, although there was some decline in the final week of the month. On the whole, February output of pig iron should show more than the usual season increase of about 3 per cent, there were reports of an increase in automobile production, but specifications for shipments of automobile steel declined towards the end of the month. Production on petroleum increased the first part of February and output of coal showed a small gain, after seasonal allowance, the outlook in the building industry is not so promising, however.

The fiscal year of photo engravers and electrotypers ended in February and the financial statement is expected to make an appearance some time in April. While the actual earning results for the year are not known as yet, sales for the twelve months are said to have shown an increase over the previous year with the improvement continuing into the final quarter. In the year ended February 28, 1929, sales amounted to $830,592 from which there was derived gross profit of $319,789 after provision for depreciation. Following all deductions there was available for distribution on the ordinary shares assume of $94,691 or $3.16 per share against dividends paid at the rate of $2 per share.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Mar. 12. (C.P.)—Foreign exchange irregular, demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents). Great Britain 4.85 15-16, Canadian dollar 3-8 of one per cent discount.

"I wish to enter emphatic denial to newspaper reports that I am negotiating sale or merger between the Famous Players Canadian Corporation and the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation. any such negotiations or discussions would be carried on between Adolph Zukor and J. W. Killam, who are a majority of the voting trustees of the Canadian company. The matter of a sale or merger has never been discussed with me by either of the other two voting trustees."

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Shareholders of Granby Consolidated have approved the appropriation of $4,000,000 from current assets to reserve fund for depletion and depreciation, and have authorized the distribution of this amount from time to time as return of capital in whatever amount and at whatever time the directors see fit.

The annual statement of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan for the year 1929 shows net profits of $2,329,046 after depreciation and federal taxes, equivalent after payment of 6% preferred dividends to $6.92 a share on the 327,000 shares of $10 par value common outstanding. This compares with $2,255,749, or $6.71 a share on common in 1928.

A despatch from Rouyn states that the new mill at the Amulet is expected to be completed within the next thirty days. The company's initial output will be at the rate of around 300 tons daily. The management intends first to treat the ore which runs high in copper, leaving the zinc until some time in the future when it is hoped the market for this metal will show improvement.

Information from the north is to the effect that satisfactory progress is being made in developing the Blacksmith Rapids coal deposits. Weather conditions at present are favorable to any extensive work but camps have been built and an active program will be started next Spring. Diamond drilling is being continued. Nine tons of lignite were shipped out recently for testing purposes and it is understood this will be followed by additional shipments from time to time. With a railway now going into the field, the deposit will have every facility for commercial developments.

Several wells in the Turner Valley are now close to production. Wellington is drilling in the limestone formation, Freeman-Lundy, is now 90 feet in the lime, the Homestead well is now 100 feet in the lime while Calmont No. 2 is due to resume operations in the lime within the next few days. Associated has now been brought back into full production. This well was choked off recently but was cleaned out by diamond drilling.

NEW YORK EXCHANGE RUNS INTO STORM OF SELLING IN ACTIVE TRADING SESSION

Reaction Checked at Mid-day By Brisk Recovery in Some Issues.

TAPE BEHIND TIME.

Total Sales Cross 2,000,000 Share Mark Before End of Second Hour.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil—Associated Press Financial Editor).

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 12.—The stock market ran into a stor mof selling to-day on what appeared to be a record-breaking volume of business for the year. Scores of issues were carried down 1 to 10 points, half a dozen or so to their lowest prices of the year, before the re-action was checked at midday by a brisk recovery which materially reduced the early declines. Total sales crossed the 2,000,000 share mark before the end of the second hour, with the tape averaging nearly half an hour late.

Iron Age reported that operations for the steel industry had declined from 78 to 75 per cent, with little prospect that the rate would again exceed 80 per cent. in the first half of the year, an increase of 20,719 tons was reported in the sotcks of refined copper during March and freight car loadings for the week end.d March1 were 79,102 cars bflelow the same week of last year, and were the lowest of any corresponding week since 1922. One of the few bright spots in the situation was a decline of nearly 90,000 barrels in the daily average of crude oil production last week.

Grain List Drops To New Low Marks

CHICAGO, Ill., Mar. 12. (C.P.)—Under pressure of General selling wheat, corn and rye all smashed down here early to-day to new low price records for the current season. Demoralized market conditions at Liverpool, where wheat showed an overnight drop of 4 5-8 pence a bushel, was largely responsible together with reduced estimates of world import news as well as official announcement that for sixty days yet there was not likelihood of relief from congestion at domestic grain terminals. Opening 5-8 A 3¼ down, Chicago wheat futures later showed transient rallies. Corn, rye, oats and provisions weakened with wheat, corn starting 1 5-8 A 3 3-8 off and subsequently declining further.

COPPER BUYING CONTINUES FAIR

Statistics For February Expected to Show Considerable Increase in Refined Stocks.

PRODUCTION IN QUEBEC.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 12. (Special to Examiner.)—According to New York advices, copper having continues fair there and aboard but volume of sales is moderate. Statistics for February which should be out during the next few days, and possibly to-day, will show a considerable increase in refined stocks that may be up as much as 50,000,000 pounds, it is understood. This is because of the delayed spring buying, lowered shipments and insufficient curtailment of production. Mining circles are expecting something new in the way of an announcement regarding plans for the development of the Sudbury Basin Vermilion Lake property at the company's meeting next week. General opinion is that the previous announcement that a Sudbury operating company be formed will be followed out, but delay in taking this step is believed to have back of it the idea that a merger with Treadwell Yukon might be effected.

During year 1929, mineral production of Quebec was $40,814,000 which was $7,500,000 above the previous year. This year Noranda will have its two smelter furnaces on full production for the twelve months, and with the added output of Waite Ackerman, with Amulet producing for nine months and Abana for possibly six months, the total should be considerable higher this year.

Gossip around the street to-day is that the site for the zinc refinery to be erected in Eastern Canada by Smelters and Ventures has been changed owing to unforeseen developments. Some trouble is believed to have developed with health authorities in the province with regard to the Ile Perrot site, and it is also reported that the channel in the St. Lawrence west of Montreal is not deep enough to permit ocean going vessels to reach location originally decided upon.

HUNGARIAN LOST 70 YEARS AGO

Two Hundred and Five Were Drowned When Allan Line Went Down.

ONLY 3 BODIES FOUND.

HALIFAX, March 12—Seventy years ago the new Allan Line mail steamer Hungarian went down on the ledges of Cape Sable Island, Shelburne County, Nova Scotia, with every passenger, officer and member of the crew aboard. Two hundred and five in all perished when the ship, bound for Portland from Liverpool, was driven ashore in a blinding snowstorm.

A belief that this wreck occurred at Sable Island, the bane of countless ships, has been held by many persons, and even some shipping records have been in error on this point, but the actual scene was Cape Sable Island, the southeasterly tip of Nova Scotia and nearly three hundred miles from Sable Island.

According to the February, 1860, editions of The Morning Chronicle of Halifax, one Thomas Nickerson saw the lights of the Hungarian at 3 a.m. Monday, and thought she had struck at what was known as the Horse Race, two miles off Cape Sable. Then the light moved a short distance. At daylight the steamer was seen to be ashore with only one mast standing. Nickerson thought he saw men moving aboard the ship when it was battered to pieces shortly after daylight. At that time only the single spar remained in its place, and this fell at 10 a.m. With seas breaking mast high over the ship, it was not long before she crumbled completely. Communication with shore was impossible, and owing to the heavy surf and nature of the shore, those aboard the Hungarian had not a chance for their lives.

Only Three Bodies Found

Only three bodies were recovered, a man, thought to have been a stoker, a woman, and a child about two years old.

Wreckage and cargo were strewn along the coast for miles, much of the latter, including a number of mail bags, being salvaged.

In the hope of rescuing any persons who might have escaped in small boats, the Government ordered the steamer Daring to sail for the vicinity as soon as possible. It was a forlorn hope, and of the Hungarian's complement, only the three bodies were ever found.

The reason why the wreck occurred at Cape Sable Island has been the subject of dispute. James Croll, in his work, "Steam Navigation," published at Montreal in 1898, said the lighthouse keeper was sick on the night of February 19, and the light was not in operation then or in the dark hourse of the following morning. The lightkeeper on his death bed, it was said, confirmed this explanation. Croll pointed out that the captain of the Hungarian was one of the best navigators of the Allan Line.

COL. BARKER, V.C. KILLED IN CRASH

December, 1916. His long list of decorations capped by the enviable Victoria Cross included The Distinguished Service Order, the Military Cross (two bars), Medalgia Al Valore d'Argenta, Italiano and Croix de Guerre. He was three times mentioned in despatches. In 1926 he was appointed honorary aide-de-camp to Lord Byng, then Governor-General of Canada. The next year he became Acting Director of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The action for which Barker was awarded the Victoria Cross was one of the epics of the war. Not long before the Armistice he was attacking an enemy plane when he ran into a flying "circus" of German machines.

Barker succeeded in bringing down six of the planes and though wounded himself succeeded in bringing his own machine safely to earth.

In this and many other "dog fights" during the war Col. Barker must have often experienced stalled engines such as caused his death today. The low altitude at which he was flying when the stalling took place, however, gave him no opportunity to save himself.

Col. Barker's flying record was only exceeded among the Canadian war aviators by Col. W. C. Bishop, V.C. But these two made Canada's name known throughout the fighting forces of all the warnning nations and rank high in the list of the war's great fighters of the air.

D. Campbell Shaw, test pilot for the Fairchild Aviation Company, was an eye-witness of the crash. He ascribed it to "an error of judgement while flying low." He said there was nothing wrong with the plane. Col. Barker has been president of the Fairchild Company since it was organized.

Officials of the Civil Aviation Branch of the Department of National Defence will conduct an inquiry into the crash. As yet the members of the investigating board have not been selected. Meantime an inquest was opened this afternoon.

Wing Commander William George Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., D.R.C., A.D.C., was approached in fame by only one other Canadian war ace, his war-time comrade Col. W. A. Bishop, V.C.

Born at Dauphin, Manitoba, 36 years ago, Barker was only 20 years of age when he proceeded overseas with the First Canadian Mounted Rifles. He served in France until December 1915, then transferring to the Royal Flying Corps. He served in the flying corps and the Royal Air Force continuously until 10 days before the armistice.

Wounded Twice

Barker was twice wounded during the war, severely on October 27, 1918. He was experienced in many special forms of aerial warfare, including artillery observation, day and night bombing, reconnaissane, photography, contact patrol spy dropping and just plain fighting.

He was officially given credit for the destruction of 52 enemy planes and it has always been understood he acounted for more than this number. He holds a number of foreign decorations.

MADRIGAL SINGERS SCORE TRIUMPH IN MOST WELL BALANCED PROGRAM

curtain hid the stark whiteness of the rear wall and had its highlights in a central bit of gleaming mirror over a mantel, with simulated fire; large gleaming brass trays and slender orange candles in brass candelabra. Palms and ferns completed a very pleasing setting.

Beautiful Gowns

Colored 'foots' glimmered over the lovely satin gowns of the singers. In pale pink, gold, rose, orchid, blue and green, the Madrigalists were gowned, with long, full skirts, elbow sleeves and fichus of dotted net. They wore little gold slippers, floral breastknots and silvery wigs with side ringlets. Their director, Mrs. Park, was in soft grey satin of a similar type.

Manifestly quite at one with Mrs. Park in their strict attention to every shade of emphasis in her directing, the Singers perform with all their interest centered on their work and the result is very near perfection. They have a marvellous control in shading and their pianissimo work especially is extraordinary in its fine, sweet tone.

Their attack and release is instantaneous and they have the power to execute sostenuto intervals with an effect that is very noticeable in long drawn-out finals of lingering, soft melody. Applause, prolonged and sincere, followed every group of songs.

Program Varied

Their program was varied and very satisfying, emphasizing in the main songs of a gay, light calibre. In contrast to these airy numbers, with their delicate shading and pianissimo handling, was the sacred melody, "The Lord is my Shepherd" from Psalm 23, with music by Franz Schubert. It was done with extraordinary facility and reverent interpretation.

The lightly touched emphasis of the singers' voices was exemplified beautifully in the appropriate rendition of "The Lass with the Delicate Air", which had a dainty, smooth handling that was delightful in the extreme. Its gay portamento cadences were like an echoing bit of sweetness as the musicians sang of the far-away lady with her squeamish tendencies.

"My Johnny was a Shoemaker" had a quality of rather mischievous interpretation that gave a jolly shading to the stanzas of the old Cornish air, all about the land-abiding laddie who suddenly went to sail the salt blue sea.

Quite unique in its phrasing and the fine piano tone of the choral voices, was the oddly charming composition of Healy Willan to ancient words. Entitled "Tyrle, Tyrlow, Tyrle, Tyrlow" (So Merrily the Shepherds began to Blow) it demonstrated, possibly better than any other number, the extreme finesse and delicacy that has been imparted to their voices by the teacher of this choral group.

The vocal program opened with a dainty trio of old English numbers, "Drink to me only with Thine Eyes"; "Kind Fortune Smiles" (Purcell) and Arne's "Lass with the Delicate Air." The second group included two old English compositions: "Nymphs and Shepherds" (Purcell) a)nd "How Should I Your True Love Know?," arranged by Balfour Gardiner. The loveliness of "The Lord is My Shepherd" completed this group with its soaring volume of sweet melody and its fine pianissimo.

Haunting Phrase.

Again came a Purcell number, "In These Delightful, Pleasant Groves" as an introduction to the quartette of songs which made the third appearance of the ladies. A Belgian Folk Song, "The Faithless Lover," had a gorgeous phrase, lingering in the memory, in the sustained cadences of the line, "Dry the tears that blind me.' The composition of Leo Smith, dedicated to Dorothy Allan Park and the Peterborough Madrigalists, followed, a lightsome, enchanting bit of verse that held the attention with its light, high melody. It was entitled "Fresh from the Dewy Hill" and was a very attractive composition. The Cornish folk song, "My Johnny was a Shoemaker," concluded this group, illustrating another bit of expert musicianship on the part of the singers and their director, in the gay, bright crescendo with which the voices climbed and swelled along the staccato lines.

Healy Willan's oddly mystical composition, "Tyrle, Tyrlow," with its haunting fascination of tone like that of a muted violin, and quick, light tempo, formed the opening of another. It was sung in the half voice and had a reiterated refrain that softly rose and fell like the misty, musical songs of the Hebridean Isles. Its finale was a bit of sustained beauty in tone.

An Armenian Folk song, "By the Cradle," was included in this group, also a lovely rendition of the old favorite number "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," with soprano overtones.

As two concluding numbers, the Madrigalists sang "Rimsky-Korsakov's composition, from the Fairy Opera, "Snegourotchka," entitled "Song of the Shepherd Lehl" and the Spinning Chorus from Wagner's "Flying Dutchman." This was a dainty bit of descriptive, swift music with Mrs. Park taking minute solo lines as "Dame Mary."

Many of the numbers were sung "a capella," or in the unaccompanied manner, the severest test for singer's voices, and the ladies stood the test admirably. The accompaniments throughout were of the lightly-touched type that makes a satisfying background, and Miss Gwen Donley, accompanist for the Madrigal Singers, excelled in her work in this regard. Miss Donley received a pretty bouquet from the Madrigalists, while Mrs. Park was accorded several floral tributes, among them a large basket filled with crimson tulips the gift of the choristers to their directress.

Solo Performers

As for the assisting soloists of the evening, they added the final touch of interest to a satisfying program. Both are headliners, Senor Alberto Guerro, the South American pianist, being heralded by reports of his ability, and Leo Smith having already achieved a reputation which makes his every appearance on the concert platform received with delight. An ovation was accorded Mr. Smith on his first entry last night.

Senor Guerrero possesses the expert musical technique which gives the impression of playing the most difficult compositions with extraordinary ease. Intellectual in essence, his hands, held rather rigidly above the keyboard, appear to draw from the instrument just what he wishes, whether in tone of a dreamy, smooth, soft sweetness, as examplified in the calmness and repose of the "Pastoral Varie" by Mozart which formed his opening number, or in the glorious, rhythmic swing of the "Blue Danube Waltz". It is a form of playing that is colored by a seemingly intense, emotional realization of the variations in musical composition and it holds the attention enthralled.

The "Blue Danube Waltz" was a glorious, unforgettable thing of entrancing melody. Vital, smooth, masterful in tone, the facile fingers drew from the instrument that compelling music. In the gay, rhythmic beat of the swinging dance, with its undertone like plashing, silvery water, the vagrant melody appeared again and again through an embroidery of swift, brilliant fireworks of tone.

A Brahms "Capriccio" phrased like its name, capricious and attractive, and a Loelly-Godowski "Gigue" swift and staccato in mode, formed opening numbers by Senor Guerrero, who played also Albeniz' "El Puerto" with the melody carried mainly in the bass and an atmosphere of unsatisfied brilliance to the whole composition that held the attention. As a response to the insistent and repeated applause for the "Blue Danube" number, he played a poetic and dreamy Chopin Waltz.

Favorite 'Cellist

As for Leo Smith, who is one of the premier 'cellists of the Dominion, his music, as always, was delightful and compelling. The lights were partially lowered to please Mr. Smith, who prefers a twilight stage, and he gave, as always, his favorite encore, "Le Cygne" (The Swan) in reply to the prolonged and enthusiastic applause for his concluding trio.

Max Bruch's "Kol Nidrei" was Mr. Smith's first contribution on the 'cello. This is "talking" music, the type that seems to tell a story—the story of an outcast and sombre race who recite in Hebrew the tale of their ancient glories and call on Jehovah to help those people who were chosen ones so long ago. Admirably suited to the deep notes of the violoncello, the music had a reiterated and pathetic refrain drawn from the deep-toned bow.

Again, in the trio that formed Mr. Smith's closing contributions, came a conversational bit of music, this time in merry mood. Recurrent like the phrase of a Handel aria was the jolly theme of Haydn's "Minuet and Variations."

An Irish Melody, "The Willow Tree", was the second number and the last was Davidoff's "The Fountain", calling into play the expert musicianship of the performer. In presto time, with flying passages that sent the dancing bow skipping lightly over the strings, with slurs of wailing sweetness, softly-touched harmonics, those fairy notes of stringed instruments, with swift staccato interludes and a final quartette of broadly-swept pizzicato strings, it was a bravura composition, showy, brilliant, decorative, and formed a splendid closing to Mr. Smith's program, with its acompanying encore, the lovely dreamy music of "The Swan."

The personnel of the Madrigal Singers' group is as follows: Directress, Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park; honorary president, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan; President, Mrs. G. D. McMcClelland; vice president, Miss Emma Meiklejohn of Campbellford; secretary, Mrs. Albert Barton; treasurer, Miss Helen Lytle; librarian, Mrs. T. H. Gillespie; acompanist, Miss Gwen Donley; Social convenor, Miss Geraldine Collins; executive, Miss Marion Rannie, Mrs. L. Spriggs, Miss Bertha Hill, Miss Elva McIntyre. Members: Mrs. A. The possibility of establishing weather conditions in the Antarctic to make forecasts, was not believed practical by Meteorologist Haines of the expedition, who said too many stations would be necessary, making the expense too great for practical purposes. Forecasts from the Antarctic, however, he said, would be useful to South America, and man could live there indefinitely with the proper food and clothing.

15 MEN SEIZED AS KIDNAP RING

Police Claim Thousands of Dollars Have Been Extorted From Cook County Victims.

BIG RANSOMS.

CHICAGO, March 11. — (C.P.)— Capture of fifteen men, said by police to be members of a ring which extorted thousands of dollars from Cook county victims through kidnapping and torture, was revealed to-day by the State's attorney's office.

Members of the ring also are suspected in the slaying of a woman whose burned torso was found near Antioch Friday night.

One of the men was seized as he walked into a Michigan Boulevard gown shop, allegedly to collect $25,000 ransom from Theodore Kopelman, an official of the Chicago National Life Insurance Company. Five others were caught as they waited outside in a car.

Kopelman had reported he had been kidnapped February 26 and taken to a cottage, near Antioch, where the kidnappers demanded $25,000 ransom and heated irons in his presence, while they discussed means of torturing him if he did not comply. He finally negotiated, he said, for payment of $4,000, with a promise to pay the balance later.

COURSE IS LAID AT CLEAR LAKE

Peterborough Will Play Prominent Part in Sea Flea Racing This Year.

IS POPULAR SPORT.

Peterborough and district is once again to take a prominent place in the outboard motor racing world in the coming season.

One of the first accurate water race courses in Canada was laid out this winter on Clear Lake. During the last week of January, Lorne Ardiel, of Oshawa, vice-commodore of the National Yacht Club, who gained prominence last year through his activities in sea flea racing, engineered the expedition for this purpose to his summer home, Leidra Lodge, at the foot of Clear Lake.

Braving the bitter January weather and overcoming many difficulties, Mr. Ardiel, accompanied by W. George McFarland, Robert Ardiel, Nick Neville, Tommy McLure and Bill Brooks, other well-known figures in sea flea racing in Ontario, pushed through snow-bound roads to the lodge on Clear Lake. By actual chain measurement they laid out a two and a half mile course on the lower part of Clear Lake. The course has two one-mile straightaways on the side and semicircular ends measuring 440 yards.

Holes were cut in the ice and buoys anchored to the bottom of the lake. When the ice goes out the buoys will remain unmoved.

Commodore Ardiel claims that for speed boat racing Clear Lake is the equal of Lake Elsinore, California's famous racing water. "The Kawartha Lakes are among Canada's most outstanding play grounds both for natural scenic setting and real racing ground for the little speed bugs," he contends.

Before setting out to lay the Clear Lake race course it was first ascertained by Mr. Ardiel that racers on the Kawartha will be eligible to compete for the Lang Cup this year. The cup was presented by J. Harry Lang and is for the one-mile Class "C" championship among the sea fleas.

ed him and his father that the repair business was good, and Scott, another employee, said the gasoline sale was good.

Mr. Gordon—Did you believe Elliott when he told you he had been offered $25,000 by the Canadian Oil Company?—Yes sir.

Have you and your father been talking this over since yesterday?—No, sir.

Witness told Mr. Gordon that it took him half an hour to grease his own car. He didn't know whether Elliott's statement was true that a car could be greased in ten minutes.

Mr. Gordon—Did you protest to your father that he shouldn't leave the business for five months to the younger brother and Harcourt.—No.

Course In Mechanics.

Witness said his father was then taking a course as a motor mechanic with the Ontario Motors Company and received no remuneration while with them.

Witness repeated that he believed Elliott's statement of the $25,000 from the Canadian Oil Company.

Mr. Gordon—If I were to show you a diamond ring and tell you I had been offered $1,000 cash but had refused it but was willing to sell it to you for $500 on time would you believe me, a stranger to you?"

After a long pause witness answered "Yes."

Peter Walker, the father, was recalled by Mr. Phelan.

"When did you finally make up your mind to go through with this deal, to close the bargain."—"On my last visit into Port Hope."

Had you made up your mind before that—Not particularly.

To Mr. Gordon plaintiff said he had learned from the Canadian Oil Company that Elliott's title to the garage property was defective.

Was that a reason you decided to abandon the business?

Walker—It was one reason.

The Defense.

J. A. R. Elliott, defendant, examined by Mr. Gordon said he bought the garage property in 1919 for $2,200. Prior to the agreement with Walker and his son the Canadian Oil Company offered $7,200 for the land. He declined this price because property values in the vicinity were rising, and he considered the price too low.

Mr. Gordon—Did you tell Walker and his sons when you saw them first that you had made $2,500 a year in the garage and another $2,500 had been stolen?

Mr. Elliott—No.

Mr. Justice Garrow—Did you tell them that on any occasion.

Mr. Elliott—No, sir.

Defendant declared that he had never told the Walkers what they could make.

"I didn't know what they could make. I told them there was plenty of work.

Mr. Gordon—Did you falsify the day books?—No sir.

You heard Harcourt say you had padded them; is that true?—No, sir.

How much does Harcourt owe you?—About $5,000.

Were you satisfied with Harcourt's management?—There were times when I was not satisfied.

Mr. Gordon read an abstract of the day book of the business while Harcourt was manager for Elliott, showing that from January to September, 1928, the cash receipts were $9,271.91; and for the period from May, 1927, until September, 1928, the total was $19,244.48 with $384.18 bills receivable.

An inventory of the garage made by Elliott was the basis of his estimate of $2,500 to $3,000 as the value of the contents, oil, gas, equipment.

Mr. Gordon—Did you notice how they carried on business?—I noticed that they were displaying Orange Crush signs instead of oil and gas.

Elliott denied that he had ever told the Walkers he had been offered $25,000 by the Canadion Oil Company.

What do you say as to the price you offered it at?—I think it was worth $13,000.

Defendant said he had made a profit out of it.

Did Not Set the Stage.

"Were any of the entries in the day book falsified under your instructions?"—No sir.

Did you tell Harcourt you wanted the books to make the business look good in case anyone wanted to buy it?—No, sir.

Did you tell him to look busy and be busy?—No, sir.

Mr. Justice Garrow—Are you and Harcourt friends?—No, sir.

Because of the debt he owes you?—Yes, sir.

Have you been pressing him?—No sir.

Mr. Gordon—Why don't you press him for the debt?—Because I don't think I can collect it.

Mr. Justice Garrow—Did you tell Harcourt to get in a number of bogus repair jobs?—No. sir.

Replying to the Court, defendant said he was now renting the garage for $60 a month, and would sell it for $10,000. The property was reduced in value by the big new service stations built around it.

Did you ever say to Walkers that you had made $2,500 a year from the business?—No, sir.

Mr. Justice Garrow—Can you give any explanation of how the two Walkers come to say you told them the Canadian Oil Company had offered you $25,000 for the property?—No, sir.

Unless they were mistaken?—Yes, sir.

To Mr. Phelan, defendant recalled that the highest bid he had ever received for the garage was from Hall for $8,000. He carried on for two years under an agreement of purchase and then abandoned it. In 1919 the property had cost Elliott $2,000.

Mr. Phelan—So, from the time you bought this garage in 1919 until you made the agreement with the Walkers you had just two offers to sell it. One was by Hall, and he was unable to carry it out; and one was from the Canadian Oil Co., who didn't carry it out.

Mr. Phelan tried to elicit from Elliott an admission that the British American Oil Company's arrival nearby prompted a sudden desire to dispose of the garage.

"Did you ever tell Walker the British American Oil Company's station might have an important bearing on the Tourist Garage business?"

"I didn't tell him", Elliott replied. He did not acquaint Walker of the coming of the British American Oil Company.

Mr. Phelan attacked the defendant's credibility with a sheaf of copies of letters to prospective purchasers who replied to Elliott's advertisements offering the garage for sale.

In one letter Elliott said "the garage is paying its way under hired help." To another "the location can't be beaten." In another he said "I have been offered a good price for this stand."

"And that price from an oil company was $7,200," Mr. Phelan said. "So you considered that a good price before you sold to Walkers?"

Elliott—The oil company's price was just for the land and not the equipment and stock.

Referring to Harcourt's allegation that the day books were padded Mr. Phelan asked: "The records are far from complete as to moneys you paid out?"

Mr. Elliott—They might be.

Mr. Phelan—The auditors had to go to you about moneys you paid out to run the business because he couldn't find any record of them in the books.

Defendant replied with a hesitant "it might be."

"Don't answer that way", Mr. Justice Garrow insisted.

Elliott finally answered, "He did."

Mr. Phelan—And Mr. Cameron's (the auditor) statement was correct?—Yes.

After allowing 4 cents a gallon profit on all gasoline sold, also $65 a month for outgoing rents, also wages, the auditor's statement showed that the net profits from the garage for seventeen months was $1,858.

Elliott swore in re-examination by Mr. Gordon that he never told the Walkers that he had made $2,500 a year from the business and that another $2,500 had been misappropriated from it.

Wm. J. Scott was employed by Elliott as salesman of gasoline in the Tourist Garage. When Harcourt had the lease there were four employees.

"We had a very fair business in gasoline." Scott said.

Fred Soulthorpe, garage owner, said the Tourist Garage site 'is the best in town" as a service station to obtain transient trade.

UNDER THE FLEUR-DE-LYS

Before commencing my jottings this week, I wish to thank the District Commissioner, Mr. John T. Hornsby, for ringing me up during the week. I was really surprised at anyone discovering my identity so soon, as I only remember leaving one trail; but Mr. Hornsby got hold of that one clue and followed it up, that's real Scoutcraft.

Last year was the occasion of the greatest gathering of young people the world has ever known. The whole world was roused by the clarion call which rang out to Scouts of every country to foregather with their great Chief, the Piper of Pax, at Arrowe Park.

Looking on at this great gathering the world wondered and marvelled at this man and his wonderful, indefinable "something," this strange power he had launched, that was knitting the rising generation together in a great universal brotherhood that would be, in its fullest sense, a league of the youth of nations. To-day the world acknowledges and appreciates the Scout movement and its value to the community and to the race.

But the movement has its opponents; men and women who can see nothing in Scouting but an embryo militarism that is really non-existent. If these people really knew what Scouting stands for; if they only realized the magnificent ideal of service behind it, they would willingly, even eagerly, become its staunchest adherents. Yes, all opposition to Scouting it due solely to misunderstanding.

SERVICE

All this world's greatest men were its servants. There is no need to mention them; turn a few names over in your mind; names great in art, in literature, music, politics, any sphere of life, and you will find that the world's greatest men were its greatest servants. The Scouts' movement has realized this and has made service its guiding star. All truly great movements that have existed since the world began have existed to one end, and one end only—service.

Service to your fellow men is essential if you would gain or develop a soul and an individuality. We get no reward for service, but that makes us free men and women. There are:

"So many Gods, so many creeds
When just the art of being kind
Is all this sad world needs."

A great decision such as these young men have made, made early in life, helps one tremendously in later years. Troubles that would crush but for the remembrance of a vow once made, disappear. The great and eternal power of God that has carried them through the years of youth will still bear them faithfully and on wings of comfort through darker years.

FORTY YEARS TOO SOON

I had been on a county walk and, returning to the more populated streets on the edge of the town, when I came in touch with him. Giving him the usual time of day greeting, I paused to make further remark, and as he replied, there came the rumble of a trek cart mingled with happy voices. Both of us turned to see where the sound came from.

Soon a number of Scouts and Leader with cart and camping equipment were passing us, their faces beaming, tongues chaffing each other good-natuiredly, and eyes lit with the delight they had found in the country communing with nature.

So they tramped homeward in the gathering dusk. My new-found acquaintance turned to me with a sigh and explaimed, "What a glorious time for some people." I looked at my inquirer who said, with emphasis, "I was born 40 years too soon." He appeared to be about 50 years of age, and he went on with emotion, "I do wish I could be a boy again, when I see the Boy Scouts and think of facilities for enjoyment, training, and education; I feel I have missed the happiest part of life." I agreed the present time offered greater opportunities than formerly.

He replied, "Look at me, compared with them. I had no boyhood days. What use am I? Education, I have none; what knowledge I possess was obtained at the wrong times and in the wrong places, much good it has done me. Now I am faded and spent."

His words brought to my mind, Burn's verse:

"My life is in the sere and yellow leaf,
The flowers and fruits are gone;
The worm, the canker and the grief,
Are mine alone."

In a passionate outburst he said, "If only I had had the chances they have; they are having grand times; I do wish I was a boy again." He looked longingly up the road, after the Scouts, but they had disappeared in the deepening dusk.

As if he had said too much, he seemed suddenly to pull himself up and abruptly bade me "Good night." [illegible] me wondering as to what other memories and regrets the camping Scouts had awakened in the life of the man who was "born 40 years too soon."

THE UNRELIABLE CUB

The boy who greets the idea of a Saturday's outing with enthusiasm, and then doesn't turn up.

The boy who had "nearly" passed his Second Star for the past two years, and who will never get through it if he lives to be ninety.

The boy who had been in the Peck quite long enough for an armlet, but you daren't give it him because there are younger Cubs who will do the job better.

The boy who had been in the Pack throwing out, and yet for that very reason needs the help of the movement even more than his keener brother Cubs.

What would you do with him?

Cheerio, and Good Scouting is the wish of—OLD WOLF.

OMEMEE, March 12.—The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church was held at the home of Mrs. W. L. Moncrief on Thursday afternoon, with an attendance of twenty-nine members. After the opening exercises conducted by the president, Mrs. J. T. E. Blanchard, a short business session followed. A letter regarding the allocation laid on the society for the ensuing year, was read by Mrs. H. Lamb. After hearing the opinion of the meeting regarding the annual Easter thank-offering, it was decided to hold it on the regular day and invite Miss Dunoon of Lindsay, the superintendent of the Lindsay Presbyterial, to address the gathering.

Mrs. William Brandon kindly consented to be responsible for the next missionary talk in the Sunday school.

Mrs. R. H. Williamson and Mrs. C. L. Morcombe, were appointed a programme committee for the next three months.

A short program followed. The devotional leaflet entitled "Miracles Then and Now," was read by Mrs. J. Eggleston, after which Mrs. R. Bradley read a fitting poem, "He is Counting on You." Mrs. William Brandon Closed the meeting with prayer after which the remainder of the time was devoted to sewing for the bale.

Mrs. W. L. Moncrief, Mrs. J. Shield and Mrs. A. Stinson were the hostesses for the day.

UNION QUESTION BITTER SUBJECT

Confederation With Canada the Issue in Newfoundland Election of 1869.

DOMINION PAINTED BLACK

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland. — "Politicians announced from the platform that if we voted for Confederation and became a part of the Canadian Dominion, every pane of glass in our windows would be subject to a yearly tax; that in the event of war the Newfoundland babies would be used as wads for the big guns, and the fathers' bones be left to bleach on Canadian soil."

Thus writes a correspondent in the St. John's Evening Telegram, reminiscing on the Confederation election of 1869, which he says, "outrivalled all others for bitterness, and finally buried the political issue of Confederation which raged so fiercely between the Antis and Confederates of that time."

"With her back turned to Britain,
Her back to the Gulf,
Come near at your peril,
Canadian Wolf!"

In these words the local muse of Bonavista Bay summed up his case on the eve of the election and wrote one of the final pages in the record output of campaign literature.

Sir F. B. T. Carter and Sir Ambrose Shea were prominent leaders of the Confederate party, which suffered a two to one defeat at the hands of the Anti-Confederates, whose leader was Charles Fox Bennett. The Confederate leaders had represented Newfoundland in the proceedings which led to the birth of the Dominion, and on the Canadian jubilee stamp appear in a standing position.

In some districts throughout the Island, election excitement ran so high that soldiers garrisoned in St. John's were sent around Conception Bay to protest property. At Brigus, Sir Robert Pinsent was not allowed to speak on behalf of his candidature.

Two days before the election Walter Grieve brought his new sealing steamer, the Lion, into Trinity, flying a large white flag, with "No Confederation" in red letters thereon. He was carried through the town in a great chair fitted with long poles, preceded by standard bearers, and followed by cheering crowds.

Rhymed broadsides played no small part in the campaign publicity, and were turned out in steadily increasing volume until Confederation was "Buried up at Stoneman's wharf

Beneath the flowing tide."

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells of Pleasant Home Treatment to Bring Swift Relief.

So-called Stomach Troubles—indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, sourness, etc., are, in probably nine cases out of ten, evidence of "too much acid in the stomach" souring the food causing the formation of gas and starting acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes a full, oppressive burning feeling known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining. Get rid of Gas and Acidity, and you get rid of Indigestion.

To stop or prevent the sourness and gas, to neutralize the stomach acids and keep the stomach sweet and free from Indigestion, a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia should be taken in a little water after eating or whenever gas, sourness, pain or acidity is felt. This quickly sweetens the stomach, neutralizes the acidity, stops the pain and is harmless and inexpensive to use.

Bisurated Magnesia, powder or tablets only, can be obtained from any drug store and its daily use keeps the stomach in fine condition, enabling it to do its work without the aid of artificial digestants

"Apparently it was his intention to turn into a farm on the north side of the road. The farm is owned by Aubrey John.

Crossed Centre Line

He had made the turn and the horses had crossed the centre line and the north edge of the pavement, and the teeth of the cultivator were just at the centre line.

"We traced the path of the cultivator along the south side of the road," Mr. Phelan continued, "until the right hand wheel was three feet north of the centre line.

It was a clear morning about 9.30 o'clock, and the view was unobstructed along the straight, level road for at least half a mile.

Mrs. Thompson Called.

The plaintiff was the first witness. Mrs. Thompson said her husband was 31 years old at his death. He is survived by his widow and their two-year-old daughter, also his father, mother and sister of fifteen years. years. The entire family had lived at St. John's, Newfoundland, where the senior Thompson had been a grocer and farm implement agent. He also owned a farm on which he had lived and which the son operated. Late in 1926 they decided to come to Canada. Mr. Thompson and his son finally selected the 200 hundred acre farm about four miles west of Cobourg, and they had been working it nearly two years at the time of the accident.

Received $900 a Year.

Questioned by Mr. Agar, Mrs. Thompson estimated the allowance she had received from her husband to be $900 a year. From that sum she paid the living expenses of the house. The two families kept separate menages.

Mrs. Thompson said her husband had $1,000 when they left Newfoundland. After the expenses of their trip and the purchase of furniture, she had $100 left which she deposited in the Bank of Nova Scotia in a joint account with her husband.

Miss Verna Taylor, nurse at the Cobourg General Hospital, testified that Thompson had been received there at 10 a.m. on Thursday, August 15th, and Dr. W. G. Jamieson described the fatal injury as a fracture of the right side of the skull from the ear to the eye.

The hearing was adjourned until his morning.

ONTARIO WINES REQUIRE PERMIT

have been made of tourists' permits left in hotels.

Penalties for obstructing the police under the Act are increased. For first offence a fine of from $100 to $1,000, or three months, and for a second or subsequent offence imprisonment for three months. Formerly the fine was $10 to $100.

For offences against the wine regulations the penalty is placed at from six months to a year in jail, without a fine.

Another section deals with hotel owners who have been found to have fictitious leases prepared in the name of some individual who will take the responsibility for the breach of the Act in the event of conviction. In cases, the real owner has been allowed to go unpunished by reason of the fact that the Crown's case was cut short by the production of the fictitious lease. The amendment provides that the Judge may draw inferences of the fact from the surrounding circumstances and impose penalties of from $1,000 to $2,000, or three to six months.

There are further amendments to govern certificate of cancellation of permits, and making it compulsory for Judges to dismiss appeals with costs if the appointment is not taken out within the prescribed thirty days.

WHAT causes decay? Germs. Germs, with tartar, are also held to be a chief cause of pyorrhea.

Germs on the teeth — and there are millions—are difficult to reach. A dingy, glue-like film holds them in contact with the tooth's enamel.

This film coat gets into crevices and stays. It clings so stubbornly that only a special film-removing tooth paste can remove it satisfactorily. That tooth paste is the scientific formula called Pepsodent. Utterly different from every other, as you notice instantly when it touches your teeth.

Woman Kills Self; Slashes Children

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn., Mar. 12.—(Canadian Press). — Mrs. Lillian Masengill, 32, yesterday slashed the throats of her three small children with a razor and then committed suicide with the same weapon. One of the children died and no hope was held for the other two.

Mrs. Masengills husband, Clyde, was working in the fields a short distance from the house when one of the children ran to the porch and screamed, attracting his attention. He rushed to the house and found his wife and five-year-old son, Fred, dead in the bedroom. In the living room were the other two, Blanche, 9, and Fay, 6 months old, both with their throats cut.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dawson Honored By Friends at Social Gathering.

BAILIEBORO, March 12.—(Examiner Correspondence).—On the eve of their departure from the community, the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dawson gathered at their home and presented an electric floor lamp and wicker fern stand to Mr. and Mrs. Dawson, and an umbrella and amber clock to the Misses Irene and Vina.

An appropriate address was read by Hadril Dawson and the presentations made by Harry Barnard. Regrets were expressed by many friends at losing Mr. and Mrs. Dawson, Irene and Vina from the community, and asked them to accept the gifts as a token of the high esteem in which they were held in the community. Mr. H. Dawson also wished them the best of prosperity and happiness in their new home.

Mr. Dawson replied appropriately, thanking his friends on behalf of himself and family and asked everyone to make himself at home. A short program followed for which Fred Barnard acted as chairman. This consisted of readings by Harold Chambers and Miss Helen Houston and community singing in which everyone took part.

Lunch was then served by the ladies and the remainder of the evening spent in dancing and cards.

Personal.

Miss Dorothy Falls, of Toronto, was the week end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thompson, of Peterborough, were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnard.

Doubled Protection When You Need it Most!

AN innovation by The London Life solves the problem of insurance protection for the type of man who formerly could afford to buy only part of the insurance he needed.

The New Enhanced Protection Policy provides double the amount of insurance through the years when the need for protection is greatest.

Additional insurance equal to the face amount of the original policy is granted by means of a special dividend option, whereby a portion of the dividend is used for this purpose. In later life the additional insurance gradually decreases until at age 65, when family responsibilities have lessened, it terminates, leaving the original policy as provision for one's own later years—thus serving the great two-fold purpose of insurance, protection of home and provision for self.

The New Enhanced Protection Series embraces four main plans carrying all modern privileges in addition to the Double Protection feature.

Be sure to ask one of our representatives for particulars fitting your individual case.

INSTITUTE MEETS AT MILLBROOK

Mrs. Robert Brown Hostess to Members at Regular March Meeting.

MILLBROOK, March 12.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. Robert Brown, King street, was hostess for the March meeting of the Women's Institute, the gathering being at her home on Saturday, March 8, at 2.30 p.m., and attended by over thirty members. The president, Mrs. T. G. Harkness, occupied the chair.

The greater part of the business period was spent in appointing committees and arranging details for the social gathering which the Institute annually sponsors on Saint Patrick's Day, the Town Hall being engaged for the evening. Invitations will be issued as usual and a good program prepared, after which contests suitable for the Saint Patrick occasion and dancing with the service of refreshments, will complete the evening.

It was decided to send flowers to sick members, the visiting committee having this matter in charge.

A quilting bee will shortly be in order, as so many tops were brought in at the January meeting, more than one quilt will be the outcome. These may be sold or sent to some needy point in northern Ontario, as circumstances may demand.

Homemade candy was served at the close, the hostess being assisted by the committee in charge, Mrs. C. C. Garside, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, and Mrs. Margaret Carnegie.

That Body of Yours

REDUCTION OF WEIGHT AND THE HEART.

For years health writers have been advising readers that overweight is a serious matter.

Insurance physicians and statisticians have likewise been pointing out that overweight individuals were not as good insurance risks as those of normal weight, and they were also poor surgical risks.

Just why overweight folk were not as good risks is because of the extra work put upon the organs by this surplus weight.

Dr. W. Scharpff reports the result of the X ray study and examination of the heart in fifty-one overweight persons before and after a reducing cure.

He found that in those who were normal as to heart and blood vessels that the heart actually decreased in size after the loss of weight.

In those whose heart muscle was not normal although the blood pressure was normal, there was no decrease in the size of the heart by loss of weight, whereas in those with the heart muscle affected and the blood pressure high, there was a decrease in the size of the heart with the loss in weight.

Dr. Scharff is of the opinion that the decrease in the size of the heart after the reducing of the weight is due not so much to the loss of fat in and about the heart itself, but because the heart muscle fibres get back to their normal size. This might be likened to a piece of elastic that is on a slight stretch all the time instead of being in its natural condition with no stretch on it.

This stretching or dilatation of the heart in overweight adults is not found in overweight children, in whom the heart seems to remain of normal size despite their weight.

Now what is my thought?

That reducing the weight gradually is a good idea for adults, not only because they can get around more readily, can take more exercise, do not overload the system, liver, intestine, kidneys and so forth with unnecessary food to be cared for, but because they get the heart back, or near to its normal size, and it can do its work more efficiently.

And after all the heart is what you depend on in health, and even more in illness. A strong muscular heart will carry you through where a dilated deficient heart might not be able to do so.

But remember the reducing must be done gradually. Many cases of collapse and death are now definitely caused by unsupervised reduction in weight.

FASHION SERVICE

A charming morning frock of rayon crepe in green and white tones that is tubable. It takes its inspiration from the afternoon mode and is suggestive of wrapped treatment which gives the figure length.

It's a one-piece type. The bodice closes in surplice effect and favors the one-sided collar. It has short kimono sleeves. At the left side of the skirt, there is a cascading drape which provides lovely fluttering fulness each time wearer moves. This drape is stitched along edge of the right side of the skirt. It is plaited at upper edge and stitched beneath the extension of the right front.

Style No. 3299 is designed in sizes 15, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It's so entirely youthful in red and white printed pique with white pique collar and trimming piece at end of surplice bodice, cotton broadcloth in geometric print in yellow and brown tones and nile green linen with yellow trim, and inexpensive too.

Striped radium silk in sailor blue and white, shantung in peach shade with tiny blue dots and orchid silk pique are lovely combinations for home wear.

NEWEST FASHIONS REMINISCENT OF OTHER DAYS

COFFEE BEAN SHADES FOR TEA TIME FROCKS

NEW YORK, March 12. (U.P.)—With every color in addition to black white and neutrals climbing into favor and receiving approval for spring exploitation, as a token of the season of seasons for color this year, it must come as something of a surprise to hear that brown is now specially picked for high fashion consideration. As a matter of fact it would be a bad guess to say that it came forward because it was one of the few that had not been prominently set forth in the long list of spring colors.

But this new stir in its behalf can be traced to a sounder origin— for one thing as a sequel to the interest shown last year when brown came into favor as a spring complementary color—that is, accenting white or pastel costumes in the form of a jacket, accessory, hat, or the like. It serves in a similar capacity this year.

Also, that project of Molyneux' of a season or two ago, to make brown a formal evening shade, may be recognized in this application of it to formal styles.

One of the principal ways in which it is presented now is in dresses described as "Sunday night" or "tea-time" types, which, of course, qualifies them for wear at informal dinner, theater and formal afternoon. Doing brown in sheer silks like chiffon, marquisette, or Elizabeth, injects a particularly new flavor to that color, since it has been more popularly associated with woolen cloths and equivalent silks.

There is no single shade that has the new monopoly, but the feeling is definitely shaped for very deep browns of the tete de negre and coffee bean range.

That footwear, bags and sometimes belts and gloves are brownish in hue is something to be remembered in assembling spring costume. Hosiery is to become browner in tone, all of which seems appropriate enough with tweed mixtures still in smart usage.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

WE DO NOT OWN OUR CHILDREN.

It is very sad to be a parent's child. A child should belong rather more to himself. In fact, nobody owns anybody, especially children. Each child is an experiment of nature and unless he is freed of the personal dominance of individuals he cannot fulfill his purpose on earth.

Not long ago, I felt very sorry for a nice girl. She is a healthy girl, about able to get through high school with the aid of friendly chums and devoted teachers. Her mother was very much aggrieved because this young lady had no special gift with which to dazzle the world. "Can't you find some way to put a little ambition into her? All she wants to do is to go to parties and go out with a boy. Then she is happy."

The girl was not to go to work because there was money enough in the family. She could not go to school any more because she had no power in that direction. She was tending toward the one field for which she was well fitted, marriage and motherhood. She wanted to be married and have children.

"Doesn't know what she's talking about," said her mother impatiently. "I want her to do something distinctive, something beautiful. Isn't there a school or a course, or something that will make her do something worth while?"

Not a school in the world. Children bring out of a school very much of what they take to it. If they had a gift that the school could help develop, well and good. If they had none, then none could be developed. Certainly genius cannot be instilled, nor can it be bought with money.

Why not let boys and girls who have no special gifts follow their course in the natural way? They will be much better, much happier than if you torment them by trying to make them produce what they have not, and never will have. Why not let them develop as they are? Why not let the girl who has taken all the book education she can take, and who shows no interest in anything outside of the parties and games of her own set, go her normal happy way? Why not let her get ready for marriage?

"Not a bit of it," said the mother. "She is my daughter and she must do as I say as long as she lives in my house. She is going to do something a little more out of the ordinary than all that. What is the use of having money and position if one's children are never to be heard from?"

In other words, the children are to be used to glorify their people, to bring honor and applause, to bring the worship of the multitude that the parents never achieved. Rather hard on the children.

It is better to recognize the truth in the beginning. We do not own our children. They must fulfill their own destiny. We can help but we may not claim. Any attempt to do so ends in failure before it is well begun. That girl will be married. And why not?

BANQUET CLOSES SOCIETY CONTEST

Good Program Provided at Millbrook A.Y.P.A. Gathering.

MILLBROOK, March 12.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The A.Y.P.A. of Saint Thomas' church closed its attendance and membership contest, with a banquet, followed by a program and dance, held in the Parish Hall on Thursday evening, the supper being provided by the losing side, "Live Comrades All", captained by George Gray, while the "On Time Always" group, captained by George Harkness, was responsible for the program.

About forty guests, including a car-load from the A.Y.P.A. of All Saints' church, Peterborough, were seated about the banqueting tables shortly after 7 p.m., when a substantial meal was served, and a delightful social time enjoyed. The decorations of the room, and of the tables, were in the A.Y.P.A. colors of blue and white.

Rev. P. W. A. Roberts, rector in charge of the parish, was chairman for the program hour, and made an appropriate address, and among others assisting were the District A.Y.P.A. President, Miss Dorothy Worboy, of Peterborough, who related activities of the District Council during the winter months, and mentioned particularly the Lenten Rally of all the Anglican Young People's Associations of the district, to be held in one of the Peterborough churches in the near future; to this gathering the local Association was urged to send a large delegation.

A selection by the quartette from the choir of Saint Thomas' church, Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mrs. E. G. Britton, Rev. Mr. Roberts, and R. Stone, with Miss M. Collins as accompanist; solos by Mr. Linley of Peterborough, with Miss Foster accompanying; a darky dialogue, "Fine Black Sketch" by Messrs. Hope and Lonley, of Peterborough (in costume); a chorus by Mary Nattress, K. Donnelly, Cameron Vance, and George Harkness, for which Mary Burnham presided at the piano; a reading by Cameron Vance; piano solos by Miss Foster, of Peterborough, and Lynden Russell of the local Branch; a song by two of the boys, with Miss M. Lang and L. Russell accompanying with piano and flute; were among the numbers that made up a most entertaining program. The National Anthem was sung in opening, and "Auld Lang Syne" a sa closing number.

The formal votes of thanks were sponsored by Cameron Vance and Lynden Russell, and Miss Marcella Lang and Mrs. G. Raper. Miss Margaret Whyte was convenor in charge of the arrangements for the supper, and Miss Grandy for the program.

A short time was spent in dancing before the gathering broke up, and the A.Y.P.A. will resume its regular meetings after Easter, joining with the members of the congregation for the weekly Lenten services.

Madoc Couple Celebrates 47th Wedding Anniversary

Embury, Sr. met at their home on Thursday evening, Feb. 28, to celebrate the 47th anniversary of their marriage, and to offer best wishes on the occasion of this happy event. Among the gifts received by Mr. and Mrs. Embury, was a pretty tea set, silverware and linen.

DAY OF PRAYER

NORHAM, March 12 (Examiner Correspondence). The Norham W.M.S. combined their monthly meeting and the World's Day of Prayer at a meeting held at the Parsonage on Friday afternoon, March 7.

Mrs. Clare, the president, took charge of the meeting. After the reading adoption of the minutes; a report of the committee regarding the St. Patrick's social was given. Further details were left to the committee, which met at the close of the regular meeting.

It was decided to combine the April meeting and the special Easter meeting.

Mrs. H. C. Curtis, leader of Group C, presided for the remainder of the meeting. Mrs. W. Campbell sang very effectively, "Jesus, He Is Mine." Chapter III, "The Winning of Europe," in the study book "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem," was divided among four ladies, Mrs. S. Brenton, Mrs. David Evans, Mrs. Richard Knight and Miss Edna Evans, who dealt with the progress of the growth of Christianity in different parts of Europe. A duet, "Somebody's Praying for You" was sung by Miss Edna Evens and Miss Lucille Lean.

Mrs. Clare spoke on the subject of "The World's Day of Prayer," and the program provided for the day was taken up with Mrs. Curtis as leader. Mrs. Harry Wilson presided at the piano.

AT OMEMEE

OMEMEE, March 12 (Examiner Correspondence).—The World's Day of Prayer was fittingly observed in Christ Church, Omemee on Friday afternoon by a joint service of the three local Women's Missionary Societies. Mrs. A. T. Weir, president of the Anglican W. A., was the leader of the program of prayer and praise, "That Jesus be lifted up."

The service opened with silent meditation and prayer, remembering that this year of our Lord marks the 1900th anniversary of Pentecost, followed by the Call to Prayer, read by the leader. Responsive services were led by Mrs. Weir, including, "Jesus Answers Every Need" and "Let Us Confess." Two hymns, "Crown Him With Many Crowns," and "Art Thou Weary" interspersed the responsive readings, and the period of Silent Prayer entitled, "Let Us Confess, guided by the suggested questions under the heads: (1) In My Own Life; (2) In My Family Life; (3) In My Neighborly Life. The prayer hymn, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," was sung without accompaniment.

Prayer for "National and International Life" was offered by Mrs. J. T. E. Blanchard, followed by prayer for the "Church Life" by Mrs. S. D. Vaughan.

"Let Us Give Thanks" was the subject of prayer taken by Mrs. S. J. Mackey. The short responsive service, "Let Us Pray," was led by Mrs. Weir, after which Mrs. N. P. Clarke offered a prayer for "Our King, Our Empire, Our Country," for "A Revival of the Spirit of Witnessing," "For This Anniversary Year of Pentecost," "For Young Men and Women of Canada to Give Their Lives to the Service of Christ," and "That Christ's Kingdom May Come on Earth."

After reading, "He Must Be Lifted Higher," the dedication was repeated in unison.

The closing hymn, "O Love That Will Not Let Me God," was taken as a solo and sung very sweetly by Miss Lila Parsons.

The Benediction, pronounced in unison, brought the impressive service to a close.

Old Masters' Works Taken from Frames

LONDON, March 12 (C.P.) — One of the most sensational robberies in recent years became known last night when it was announced that 18 paintings by many old masters, valued roughly at $750,000, had been ripped from their frames in the Carlton House Galleries on Regent Street, in the West end. The stolen paintings included canvases by Rembrandt and Gainsborough.

The police believed the robbery was committed by a large and expertly-directed gang of thieves, who invaded the galleries during the night. The paintings were cut down from their frames to expedite and facilitate their removal.

It is believed the thieves rolled them up and slipped them under their coats on their way out of the building.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

DOUBTLESS MANY Peterborough housewives, and those who live in surround districts, too, are wondering just where they are going to put certain garments and articles which will not be needed in the summer, in order to make room for the summer wardrobe.

• • • • • • •

Oftentimes this is a very perplexing problem and one which must be solved, at some time or another—it can't be left unsolved.

• • • • • • •

Perhaps you think your clothes closet is so full that nothing more can be put in it, but it is amazing how much waste space there can be and is, in a closet that is full.

• • • • • • •

Of course you think this is rather a broad statement, but if you will go deep into thought, you will begin to see just how reasonable it is, and before putting the statement aside, start to take a mental inventory of what is in the closet, any closet will do just for this experiment.

• • • • • • •

Let me suggest the clothes press, for an example. It is very likely there are frocks hanging in it that you never wear more than once a year. Well, then, the room they take up in the closet is simply wasted!

• • • • • • •

And doubtless too, there are some there you have not worn for years and which you do not intend to wear again. Perhaps you have decided to cut them up and use them for something else, or you may be thinking of giving them away.

• • • • • • •

You can see that the space that is being taken up with these is just wasted. If you intend to give the frocks away, do it now and if you intend to make them over into something else, do it now and put the pieces in the sewing room where they belong.

• • • • • • •

With that above as an illustration, you can see how much space you could really save and the time it takes to do it would be very little, indeed.

• • • • • • •

Consider shoes and even hats with this same idea in mind. Probably you have three or four pairs of shoes which you do not intend to don again until next fall and winter.

• • • • • • •

Or you may think they are too shabby to wear again and so you intend to discard them sometime, you decide there is no need to hurry. Probably you will leave them lying around half the summer.

• • • • • • •

The extra space that shoes and hats which have served their purpose to you, take up, is wasted and it is up to you to recover that space.

• • • • • • •

I think you will find the most waste space in closets off the kitchen, if you happen to have one here. Another one which comes close behind the kitchen closet is the medicine closet.

• • • • • • •

I have seen these so cluttered with bottles, half full of medicine which would never be used again, that there was barely room for one more bottle.

• • • • • • •

Certainly there is no sense in keeping bottles which have a little medicine in them, probably left over from some prescription. You know you will never use it again, but you just hate to throw it away because good money went to pay for it. There you are then!

• • • • • • •

Now is the time to start to clear your closets. If you wait until you feel more like doing it, you will be sorry, for delay means inaction and discomfort of over-crowded closets.

Parisian Foibles

Fine tan wool, bound in brown, is used for this Schiaparelli model for sports wear. The skirt is in a diagonal weave, and is trimmed with brown buttons.

Paris relies on intricacy or cut to give character to the newest sports models. Indeed, this is the real motif which runs through all sports costumes, as they appear at the various mondaine resorts. The general air is simple as ever but the means of arriving at that simplicity is complex. This costume illustrates what I mean. It is of a very fine tan wool, the blouse bound in brown, and the skirt of a diagonal weave, cut in such a way as to bring all fullness to one side.

MENNONITES TELL HORRIBLE TALE OF SUFFERING IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Thousands Robbed of Farms Attempt to Flee Country—Passports Cost $150 Each.

100,000 REMAIN.

PARIS, France, March 11. (By Josephine Hambleton, Staff Correspondent, The Canadian Press)—One hundred thousand Mennonites remain in Russia, awaiting escape from the Paradise of the Red. The last days of December and the early days of the New Year saw nearly 7,000 Mennonite refugees arrive in East Prussia. Model camps were set up. Old prison camps were transformed.

Children, swept with an epidemic of measles, are receiving attention. And there, in those East Prussian camps, the 7,000 halt for the time being. Some talk of going to Canada. Others look to Brazil and the Argentine and the stories they tell are epics of tragedy and despair.

Take this as told by one Mennonite leader now in East Prussia:

"The Soviet Republic having defeated the White Russians turned with fury upon all internal enemies and 'class insurgents' within its borders. But we escaped the worst of the persecution until the regime of Stalin and the beginning of the economic offensive against the well-to-do peasants. Most of our people had prosperous farms of 50 to 60 hectares. Our neighbors had seldom more than 5 hectares each.

"The agrarian reform began in earnest.

"The Guepeou was pitiless toward us.

"We are migrating:

(1) To preserve the religion of our fathers who, 150 years ago, settled under Elizabeth and Catherine in Russia.

(2) Because the misery was each day more terrible and was decimating the population.

(3) Because spirit of our children was being turned from us by the Soviet gospel taught in the schools. This gospel seeks, at all costs, to overthrow family authority and to turn children against their parents.

(4) Because our pastors who, despite Soviet injunctions held services on Sunday, were exiled to Siberia.

"I had the misfortune," added a Mennonite teacher, "to possess large lands, many horses and cattle and servants. The Guepeou proceeded with its policy of class levelling.

"I received an order to supply 500 pounds of wheat. I could supply only 440. Eight days later I was sold out by the State. My 18 horses went at $5 each. My cows as $2 each. I was turned out almost penniless to be an agrarian slave to the government with my family or to go I knew not wither."

From the Volga, the Ukraine, the Crimea, the Caucasus, even from Siberia, the great movement began. Fourteen thousand Mennonites appeared before Moscow to demand passports.

Terrible months followed.

"For three months" says another Mennonite exile "we lived like beasts on the confines of Moscow. We sought bread in neighboring villages. We delegated those whom we could trust to get us passports. The demand for 14,000 passports called down on our heads and the revenge of the Guepeou. Six hundred arrests were made. "Then" continued the haggard refugee, "frightful scenes passed before our eyes. Grey nights in the forest. Men loading their few belongings and children on wagons to escape being taken from their families and sent into exile. Women, hundreds of them, sent to the Polish frontier. Children running into the forest in terror and never found.

"Many women went mad. Some threw themselves under trains. Some ended their lives in the river. Children were born in the forest with nothing to cover them but leaves.

"In December the passports began to arrive. For every one over 16 years of age, they cost $150 each."

CLUB APPROVES SCHOOL NURSE

Rotarians Pass Resolution to Present Before Campbellford Board of Education.

WILL AID CHILDREN.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 12 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — A special meeting of the Rotary Club executive was held Monday night at the home of E. C. Dolman, secretary of the club; the president, N. A. MacColl, in the chair. Those present were Vice-President Dr. H. B. Longmore, H. M. Carr and Elie Brunelle.

The question of the work of the club was put before the meeting.

Rotary had always specialized in work among children, and it was thought that there were children in the Campbellford Public School, whose progress was being retarded by reason of some physical defects. With this idea in mind, it was considered a right course of action for the directors of the club to approach the Board of Health to consider the appointment of a school nurse for a certain period necessary to inspect the children, and report on those who needed medical treatment for their defects. It was the object and decision of the club to co-operate with the board in the treatment of some of these children whose parents were unable to have the defects remedied.

Preparations were also made for the coming nomination and election of officers. Nominations take place the last meeting in March, and the vote is taken at the last April meeting.

A Wave of the Hand

A wave of the hand—a kiss blown on the breeze—from the sweetest little pal in all the world.

I stood for some moments watching her, a chubby little figure in blue and white, an extremely important little person on her way to school.

And she turned the corner.

It must have been about four o'clock —my mind has been sort of deadened since— that the boss sent for me.

"Bob," said he laying his hand on my shoulder, "there's been an accident and you'd better hurry up to the house."

Well, there isn't much more to tell. That little pal of mine—she wasn't at the window watching for me as usual. For an instant I faltered and I had to fight for breath.

In a little time I went out to the gate, just as I had that very morning. And I looked down the street as best I could. Right over there, a short block away, was where she turned the corner—and passed out of my life forever.

To-day, it was my little girl. Tomorrow, or next day, it will be some other little pal quite as dear. And so on, and so on, until the conscience of men shall cry a halt to this passion for fast driving in localities where danger, obvious danger, stares drivers plumb in the eye.

STIRLING AGAIN TIES CAMPBELLFORD SEXTET

STIRLING SQUAD STAGES RALLY IN THIRD PERIOD TO ENTER 2-2 DEADLOCK WITH MILLERS

Tie Decision Makes Third Game For T.V.L. Championship Necessary.

DISPUTED GOAL.

Third Game Will Be Played in Belleville on Thurday Night.

(Special to The Examiner)

BELLEVILLE, March 12.—In a game that scintillated with excitement, the Stirling team of the Trent Valley Hockey League came through with a brilliant third period rally last night to tie Campbellford and force another game in the series for the championship. Last night's game was saturated with keen hockey and the crowd of almost three thousand fans left the rink in a dilemma. It was decided that the third and deciding game will be played in Belleville on Thursday night of this week.

The score was 2-2 and as the same teams played a scoreless tie in Campbellford last week, they are still deadlocked. The rink will likely be jammed to the rafters again, as the seating capacity was taxed last night. It was a tense battle as the Campbellford team went into lead four minutes after the first period opened and then the two clubs fought away until the opening of the third period when the Millers increased their lead to two goals. With the exception of those from Stirling, almost everyone conceded Campbellford the victory. But the Red and Whites with a tenacity of purpose that would not be denied took desperate chances, flung their whole squad upon the firing line and by dint of dogged determination, managed to score one goal, which put them within an ace of a deadlock.

Disputed Goal

They swept in repeatedly on the Campbellford net and hurled everything but the kitchen sink at Irwin in the Millers' goal. The latter was more than equal to the occasion and their efforts were nullified for some minutes. The harried Campbellford team fought back bravely, but the Whitty coached team with two championships under their belt saw their chances of retaining the trophy glimmering and as the arena rocked with excitment, they were awarded another goal in a melee around the net. There was a marked dispute over this goal, the Campbellford supporters claimed that the rubber did not cross the blue line.

The goal judge, a Stirling man, flashed the red light and when Referee Bellringer of Kingston separated the players, he found the disc skirting the line on the inside. The Stirling supporters set up a din while the Campbellford team desperately pleaded with the official that it was an illegal goal and had been shoved into the net. It was allowed, and proved the tying goal. The teams elected to play the third game here on Thursday, with Joe Smith of Kingston in charge.

Wallace Stars

Earl Wallace was easily the star in the eyes of the Stirling team, as it was his inspired leadership that pulled the game out of the fire, with the Campbellford team holding a two goal lead and fighting frantically to protect it. Wallace pirouetted down the wing, weaved his way into centre and let fly a terrific drive which nestled up in the corner of the net well out of Irwin's reach. Again it was Wallace who led the attack which resulted in the tying goal as it was on his rebound that the Stirling team scored their second disputed goal. The game was within Campbellford's reach many times, but Lady Luck smiled indulgently on the Red shirts in the last period, which neutralized the Millers' efforts in the opening spasm.

Pandemonium broke loose time and again as the Stirling team, inspired by the plaudits of the home supporters conducted a spirited attack on the Campbellford net.

Third Game Thursday

The game ended in a great demonstration, particularly on the part of the Stirling fans, who had witnessed their pets stage the most dogged and perservering rally seen yet in the new arena here.

Confusion reigned for a few minutes after the last bell as the patrons did not know whether overtime would be played. After a short conference between the club officials, arrangements were completed to settle the issue here on Thursday. There appears to be little to choose between the two teams, although the Campbellford team had a slight edge on the play. They were complete masters of the situation in the first period, faded slightly in the second and succumbed under the persistent offensive of the Stirling team in the third.

Wallace played the hero role, although he was only on the ice for a short time, the right winger pitted his brawn against the cleverness of Campbellford's forward line, and he won. Campbellford exhibited the better combination and Horkins and Whitton with their combined thrusts, were a constant menace around the Stirling goal. The latter was especially effective throughout and spread-eagled the centre ice area with his poke checking. He and Davis had a great duel at centre, and the honors were about even. "T. B." Horkins also occupied the calcium glare. It was he who circled the defence to score the first goal four minutes after the face-off.

Holds Margin on Play

The second period was scoreless with Campbellford having a margin on the play. McKay wafted through to drive a hard waist-high shot into the net four minutes after the third period opened and from all appearances it was all over but the shouting. Wallace scored for Stirling and a few minutes later the same player shot and the scramble occurred with the disputed goal awarded to Stirling.

Both goalies played stellar games and Morton, the 17-year-old Stirling kid, was bombarded from every angle but turned the Campbellford invaders back time and again. Irwin, at the opposite end, was not kept so busy, but turned in a good game and neither of the goals scored against him could be attributed to his inefficiency.

The Millers skated out on the ice, reinforced by the presence of Cowell and McKay, were considered to have the edge. Practically the whole team played sixty-minute hockey with Horkins and Whitton monopolizing the honors, although Bill Blue showed flashes of form and lent some valuable assistance. Cowell strengthened the defence, while McKay on the forward line led some dangerous sorties.

Harry Ingram, with his long sporadic rushes, played brilliant hockey for Stirling, although he was benched several times for alleged rough work and carried off the doubtful honors in this regard. Jack Ackers chased Ingram for the honors, while Davis, at centre, worked himself almost into exhaustion, particularly in the last period when the Red Shirts threw everyone up into the attack. Ibey engineered some dangerous sorties into the Campbellford territory. Ingram was given the first penalty a few minutes after the opening for tripping Whitton. The latter took Horkins' pass, raced in and shot high over the net. Whitton brought the Campbellford supporters to their feet when he went in, pivotted and banged home a goal with Ingram in the penalty box. Whitton took McKay's pass and was wild in his shooting. Whitton picked up a loose puck and in trying to shift himself into scoring position, he lost the disc. Play centered at the Stirling end and Blue rushed through and was robbed of a goal. Ingram dumped Whitton with a perfect bodycheck, but the stocky centre came in again a minute later and drifted the rubber over Irwin's head. Ingram caught the Campbellford defence napping and slipped through and almost knotted the count.

Second Period

The second period opened with McKay in the penalty box, Ibey was camped in front of the net when Davis passed from the corner but he missed it.

Horkins brought Morten to his knees with a dead-on shot from centre ice. Whitton went to the box for mixing it with Jack Ackers. The crowd was in a turmoil as play centered at the Stirling net and McArthur and Whitton both missed made-to-order chances to score. Horkins shifted in and Morten saved nicely on a close-in. Whitton fell after he had left the defence in the wake, and Ingram was handed a penalty. Jack Ackers conducted a dangerous rush and nearly scored in a scramble. Whitton went through and passed to an empty wing.

Third Period

The third period opened fast and Davis carried it in, but was halted by Horkins. McKay took Horkins' pass to whip it past Morten shortly after play started. Ingram, on a lone assault, went down, but shot high over the net and Horkins went to the penalty box for mixing it with J. Ackers. Wallace scored on a pretty wing shot. Play was fast and then Stirling scored their disputed goal and the game was held up for some time until the pandemonium ceased. Both teams were tired at this stage and they ragged the play, Ingram being given two penalties in succession.

Campbellford drove long shots on Morten, but he turned them aside with ease. Horkins and McKay got through, but they met a stone-wall in Ingram. The game ended in wild excitement. Line-ups:—

Stirling—Goal, Morten; Ingram and J. Ackers, defence; Davis, centre; Ibey and H. Ackers, wings; Wallace, McGee and Fraser, subs.

Campbellford.—Irwin, goal; Cowell and McArthur, defence; Whitton, centre; Horkins and McKay, wings; Blue, Brant and McPherson, subs.

Referee—Frank Bellringer, Kingston.

BISONS GAIN LEAGUE LEAD

Buffalo Club Improves Standing By Holding Indians to One-All Draw.

ONE GAME TO-NIGHT.

TORONTO, Ont., March 1. (Canadian Press).—Buffalo Bisons, after a long uphill struggle, regained first place in the International Hockey League standing last night by holding their nearest rivals, Cleveland Indians, to a one-all draw.

Buffalo led the league early in the season but midway through the schedule were ousted from the leadership by the Indians. Over the week-end the Bisons tied the Indians for the top and the single point scored in the game last night put them in front.

The game was evenly contested throughout. Rolly-Huard put the Bisons in front early in the middle frame, but 14 minutes later Mike Brophy tied the score. Each goal was notched while the teams were playing a man short.

A game which will have no bearing on the standing will be played at Hamilton to-night where the Tigers entertain the last place Niagara Falls sextette. It is the only game scheduled.

Play-off rules announced by President King have been changed from those in vogue when the league operated as the Canadian league. The team finishing first will play the team finishing third, in the best two out of three games, and the team finishing second will play the team finishing fourth in the same manner.

The winners in the semi-finals will then meet in a series of games which will terminate when one of the teams has won three games. The first four games, if necessary, will be home-and-home games.

FALLS WINS SECOND GAME TO TIE WEST TORONTO ON ROUND

Last Minute Tally On Long Shot Necessitates Third Game.

ALLAN CUP PLAYDOWNS.

TORONTO, Ont., March 11.—(C. P.)— Two Allan Cup elimination games will be played in Eastern Canada to-night. In Montreal, St. Francis Xavier, intermediate champions of Quebec, face the senior titleholders, Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, for the right to represent that province in the playdowns. At Toronto, Hamilton Tigers, the Ontario Hockey Association senior representatives, play the first of their two game series with Iroquois Falls, Northern Ontario Hockey Association champions.

In the first game between the St Francis Xavier and M.A.A.A., the former took the senior champions by surprise with their clever all around play. The contest ended in a scoreless draw, but it is expected the greater experience of M.A.A.A. will prove a decided advantage to them in the second game.

Hamilton Tigers are slight favorites to eliminate the Northern champions at Toronto. The Tigers defeated four of the best senior teams in the province to reach the eliminations and in three of their play-off series the Hamiltonians were forced to play extra games.

The Northern Eskimos in their first two games in the south defeated Paris, Ontario Hockey Association intermediate champions, quite handily on the round, but whether they will show to such good advantage against a team of Hamilton's calibre remains to be seen.

TIED ON ROUND.

In the only junior playoff fixture in the east, Niagara Falls trounced West Toronto, four gaols to two, in the second of their home and home series for the O.H.A. junior championship. The losers won the first game at Toronto, four to two, therefore the round is deadlocked at six-all, requiring a "sudden death" game to be played at Toronto, March 13, to decide the title and who will meet Sault Ste. Marie, Northern champions.

It was a typical junior play-off, blinding speed, tricky stick-handling and displays of remarkable youthful courage, tended to cause intense excitement amongst the large crowd of fans. Twice West Toronto gained a three-goal lead on the round, but each time the dauntless Cataracts fought back to reduce the margin and ultimately gain a victory in the final period, the goal dead-locking the round being scored with less than a minute to go.

TORONTO LEAFS BEAT PIRATES ON HOME ICE

Jackson and Bailey Are Scorers in 3 to 2 Victory—Pirates Stage Rally.

BRUINS HOLD HAWK RALLY.

Frank Boucher Suffers Broken Collar Bone as Rangers Tie Canadiens.

TORONTO, March 12.—An enthusiastic crowd of fans, but the smallest that has attended an N.H.L. fixture in this city during the past season, witnessed the farewell home performance of the Maple Leafs' present campaign at the Arena Gardens last night. It was a winning display by the Leafs. They defeated the lowly Pittsburg Pirates by 3 to 2 in a game that lacked brilliance, to keep the spectators interested.

The Leafs were short three players, Harold Cotton, Charlie Conacher and "Red" Horner. Cotton was suspended a game following his major penalty received at Detroit on Sunday night, when he and "Rusty" Hughes traded punches. It was Harold's third major penalty of the season, and his suspension was automatic under the rules. Charlie Conacher is is hospital threatened with what is believed to be diptheria. He has been bothered with a sore throat for the past two or three weeks, and it grew worse yesterday. He was taken to the hospital for examination. "Red" Horner was on the injured list. He was given a rough ride by the Cougars and "Rusty" Hughes opened up a gash on his face with his stick when "Red" stopped him with a bodycheck.

WITHSTAND HAWK ATTACK.

Boston, Mass., March 12. — The Boston Bruins had to overcome a terrific third period drive here last night to defeat the Chicago Black Hawks, the only National League hockey club that has proved troublesome to them by a 4 to 3 score. This game was the Stanley Cup champions eleventh straight victory and the seventeenth conflict without a set-back.

When the teams went on for the third session the Boston Club had a 3 to 1 lead. After less than three minutes Artie Somers caged a brilliant score, and later Earl Miller hooked a long forward from Tommy Cook for another. The Hawks had ten minutes to square the game. They put on a vicious four-man attack, but the Bruins, aided greatly by George Owens timely stick checking about the net, held them off.

BOUCHER INJURED

NEW YORK, March 12.—The New York Rangers partly atoned for the 6-0 shutout they received from the Montreal Canadiens Saturday by holding the Flying Frenchmen to a 3-3 tie in a furiously contested overtime National Hockey League game last night, but they lost the services of their star centre, Frank Boucher.

Boucher received a broken collarbon in a collision with Marty Burke, Canadien defense man, in the second period, and his loss put a serious crimp in the Stanley Cup play-offs.

SENATORS DEFEAT MONTREAL MAROONS

"Flat" Walsh Plays Exceptional Game in Goal for the Losers.

MONTREAL, March 12. — In spite of stellar goal tending by "Flat" Walsh in the Maroon net, the Ottawa Senators defeated the Montreal team 4 to 2 before a crowd of 13,000 people here last night. Walsh was called upon to perform sensationally during the whole game, and although he held off the Ottawa onslaught for almost half the game, he was unable to beat the whole Ottawa team by himsef and let in four counters.

The Senators outchecked and outskated their opponents at every turn. Time after time the Maroons drove down the ice only to have their play broken up by the Ottawa defence line, while all the Bytowners had trouble to beat was the Maroon goaler.

Hec Kilrea, flashy wing man of the Ottawa squad, was one of the best men on the ice and scored two of the Ottawa goals. King Clancy accounted for another of the Ottawa tallies a minute after the start of the second period, and Danny Cox got the fourth a few minutes after the beginning of the third. Dave Trottier and Hooley Smith got the Maroon goals, both of them coming in the third period.

BASEBALL GOSSIP

BRADENTON, Fla., March 12. — Connie Mack's world champions turned the fourth game of their series with the Cardinals into a batting practice yesterday afternoon, bombarding Bill Hallahan and Bill Sherdel for a 14 to 3 victory. Rain halted the game after the sixth inning. Carmen Hill was ready to take the mound for the Cards when umpires called off the game.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 12.—Pounding four Detroit hurlers for 17 hits, the Brooklyn Dodgers won their opening exhibition game yesterday, defeating the Tigers, 11 to 3.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 12.—Sixteen well-timed hits gave the New York Yankees an 8 to 5 victory over the Boston Braves in the third meeting of the Spring exhibition series yesterday.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 12.—The New York Giants and Chicago White Sox battled 11 innings yesterday without coming to a decision, the final score being 5 to 5. The game was called on account of darkness and players of both teams were worn out.

BROWNS MAKE FINAL OFFER.

The St. Louis Browns have made their final offer to three holdouts, Heinie Manush, Ralph Kress and Geo. Blaeholder, Business Manager Bill Friel declared.

Friel said Kress is demanding a salar "all out of reason" while Blaeholder wants only a little more than he was offered. Manush, however, will not be given an increase, according to Friel.

PICTORIAL GOLF

STYMIE SIMPLE TO NEGOTIATE.

When Joe Kirkwood places five balls on the green and proceeds to jump one over the other into the hole it is not such a difficult feat as one might think. This is the fundamental shot in golf. Taking a mashie, or sometimes a mashie niblick, he follows the ball along the ground after it is hit and the loft of the club throws it over the object ball that is blocking the way.

This teaches one that it is important to let the clubhead go on through, not only with a mashie, but with every club that we use in playing the game from the driver on down to the putter. The stymie jump is comparatively simple if one practices it for ten minutes.

STAR GOLFER IS FORMER CHAMP

Much Surprise When Cyril Tolley Fails to Receive Appointment.

COMMENT ON SELECTION.

LONDON, March 12.—Cyril Tolley's long visit in the United States has cost him the captaincy of Great Britain's Walker Cup golf team.

The Royal and Ancient Club announced seven of the ten men who will oppose Bobby Jones' American team on the sands of Sandwich May 15 and 16, and their leadership is in the hands of Roger Wethered, brother of the famous Joyce and himself British amateur champion in 1923.

Britain's finest amateur player of iron shots, Wethered on occasion can be one of the wildest with his woods. Not so this spring, however, for early season tryouts have showed him at top form. He has won no major golf titles since his victory in the amateur.

Named with him were Rex Hartley, Sir E. W. E. Holderness, J. N. Smitie, J. A. Stout, Tolley and T. A. Torrence.

Three more names will soon be drawn from the Royal and Ancient hat to complete the list of ten from whom Wethered's fighting line of eight and two reservists will finally be selected for the Walker Cup battle.

Comment on Selection.

Comment on yesterday's selection mainly centres on why Wethered has been named captain instead of Tolley, who is Great Britain's amateur titleholder and is by many considered one of the very few figures of British amateur golf who treads the fairways in the grand manner of a real champion.

The explanation in Tolley's case appears to be his present absence in the United States, coupled with the fact that he already has had his chance of captaining the British Walker Cup team.

Wethered never has led the Britons against the United States, but has competed in most of the international battles.

Of the seven named yesterday, five are Englishmen and two are Scotsmen. The remaining three members of the team will be chosen from among T. A. Bourn, William Campbell, Robert Harris, C. O. Hezlet, J. A. Land, S. L. Mackinlay and B. H. Oppenheimer. The chances are that the Scotsmen, Land and Mackinlay, will get two of the berths.

Of the seven men thus far selected for the British Walker Cup team, four have played on other British cup teams, these being Holderness, Tolley, Torrance and Wethered. Tolley is the present British amateur champion while Holderness and Wethered have both held the title.

The United States Walker Cup team, which is captained by Bobby Jones, will leave the United States on April 20, for the cup match.

John Nelson Smith, a newcomer on the British team, last year played in the amateur championship and was runner-up to Tolley. Stout won the English closed amateur golf championship by defeating T. P. Perkins 3 and 2 in 1928. Rex Hartley has been well up in big matches, and in 1926 led the British golfers in the open at St. Andrew's at the end of the first day's play.

Scotty Martin Freed On Manslaughter Charge

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 12.—(C.P.)—Vernon "Scotty" Martin, formerly prominent in local amateur sports, was freed on a charge of manslaughter yesterday.

The charge arose in connection with the death of Harry Silversmith, who died from injuries received diring a lacrosse match on the Six Nations Indian Reserve last fall.

Before discharging Martin, who is a member of the Toronto team of the International Hockey League, Mr. Justice McEvoy said he thought the jury had taken a very lenient view of his actions. His Lordship said Martin knew whether he had checked Silversmith in the stomach during the game. If he had he would probably receive greater punishment. If not, then the jury had done the right thing in acquitting him.

ATHLETES FAVORING GYMNASIUM TRAINING.

Reports from other cities indicate that many of the ball teams are wise to the fact that some early training in gymnasiums proves most valuable in loosening up throwing-arms and melting away waistlines. It builds for more co-operation and better team spirit, too. The suggestion is tossed out that gym. training would be useful to the intermediate teams here. It is between seasons and the boys lacking for other athletic pursuits, would take it up eagerly. Convenient hours would likely be made at the Y.M.C.A.

THE SHIFT PLAY IN BASEBALL.

There's nothing strange in that. Few left-handed batters hit left-handed pitching as well as they hit right-handed pitching. Andy High and one or two others were exceptions. But right or left-handed, a real player will hit well enough to hold a regular job, no matter what style of pitching the opposing manager serves up.

The shift play in baseball—switching the line-up according to the opposing pitching—is a confession of weakness, and even John McGraw hasn't made much progress with it in late years. He used a reversible outfield, but the pennants still remained out of reach. If McGraw can't make it work, the other managers might as well cross it off their books.

One season at Detroit Ty Cobb carried the shift play into the infield and switched his second baseman and third baseman for left-handed and right-handed pitching. The only noteworthy result was that Detroit infielding was remarkably ragged all year. Above all other departments the infield must play together day after day and week after week to function smoothly.

It was supposed that Melvin Ott couldn't hit left-handed pitching for the reason that he was a left-handed hitter, but when he was left in the game regularly, he proved that he could get his hits no matter from which direction the ball came up to the plate. Lefty O'Doul proved that he could hit left-handers, but he had to leave town to get the chance to give his demonstration. Perhaps Dusty Cooke will prove it, too, if Bob Shawkey gives time and opportunity.

STUDENT BODY OF COLLEGIATE HEARS ADDRESS BY J. R. NELSON

Wide Field is Open to Young Men With Agricultural Training.

SERIES OF ADDRESSES.

At present there is a shortage of men qualified to fill the practical and technical positions in the field of agriculture, claimed J. B. Nelson, County representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, addressing the students of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and Vocational School this morning. There are wide fields for the man qualified to enter agricultural teaching work and technical work, he said.

Mr. Nelson's talk was one of a series of weekly addresses on the vocations which are being given to the Collegiate students. They are sponsored by the Vocational Guidance Committee of the Kiwanis Club. Mr. Nelson spoke of agriculture as a vocation, the preparation necessary, the branches of the work and the rewards.

Graduates in agriculture are spread throughout the Province, the speaker said, and are occupying many different types of positions. He mentioned agricultural jouralism, agricultural teaching, agricultural advising in commercial firms, direction of sales and technical advisors. Such firms as the DeLaval offer opportunities for agricultural graduates as technical advisors, it was pointed out.

Teachers Are Needed

Agricultural teachers are needed for service throughout the Province, Mr. Nelson continued, as well as for lecture work at the agricultural institutions. Many graduates find places in research work being carried out at the agricultural college and in the industries of Ontario.

Graduation from a university of recognized standing is required for most of the technical fields of agricultural work, the students were told. The degrees given to graduates of Guelph Agricultural College are considered equal to other college degrees in standard. In general, the requirements for entrance to agricultural courses in Ontario are a junior matriculation and one complete year spent on a farm, Mr. Nelson said. The year of farm life is required for the practical experience to be gained from it. "The colleges teach the science of farming, not the art."

Courses Vary

"The courses in the agricultural college vary. A course may be chosen to suit those interested in practical farming and also one for those interested more in the scientific aspect of the work. A Bachelor of Arts degree will fit a boy for most of the positions in the field but post graduate work is generally necessary for those going into research or experimentation work.

"The financial rewards depend mostly on the individual. Many graduates of the Ontario Agricultural College are to be found in high positions and some are yet in laborers' jobs. Most of the positions offered in agriculture offer salaries comparable with those of high school teachers.

"In seeking a vocation, the boy who has a foundation and an interest in agriculture may well turn to agriculture," Mr. Nelson concluded.

MAPLE LEAFS ENJOY SNAPPY WORKOUT

Fred Bedore and Nick Harrison Arrive in Training Quarters.

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 11.—Among the arrivals late Monday night and yesterday at the Toronto baseball camp were Bonk, an outfielder, and McKenzie, a shortstop from London; Nick Harrison, Fred Bedore and Nolan Richardson.

Manager Steve O'Neill had his players working out under a glorious Florida sun here yesterday, and everybody was on the move. It was the best practice that the players have had, and Steve was well satisfied with the day's work. All the pitchers took a turn on the mound, with Cantrell and Gibson showing midseason form.

There are a few recruits in the camp who will bear watching, and the manager, assisted by his brother Jim, is busy giving the youngsters plenty of encouragement and advice.

President Lawrence Solman and Vice-President Jim Dunn of the Leafs are expected here at the end of the week, probably in time for Sunday's game with Detroit. There are 30 players in camp.

LINDSTROM IN CAMP TO DISCUSS TERMS

Giants' Chief Hold-out Arrives in San Antonio and Will See McGraw To-day.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 12—Bronzed like a beach lifeguard, smiling and debonair as usual and seemingly not at all disturbed by the fact that his absence from camp up to now has been seriously interfering with the Giants' training plans, Freddy Lindstrom, distinguished third baseman and holdout of the McGraw forces, arrived yesterday.

Lindstrom, who has been wintering at Miami since Jan. 1, following an operation for the removal of his tonsils, pronounced himself in fine trim, either to play ball or fight to a finish for what he deems his contractual rights. He made it clear, and with considerable emphasis, that under no circumstances would he sign for any terms less than what he received last year. He probably will come to grips with Manager McGraw on the subject to-day.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BEANPOLE TENT.

Not far from Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow was a pile of beanpoles. They were large poles and in the summer had stood in the garden of a farmer. On the poles a bean vine climbed. But when the beans had been picked the poles were pulled up and stacked in a pile that was shaped like an ice-cream cone turned upside down.

Also the pile of beanpoles looked like an Indian tent, or tepee, as they are called. Uncle Wiggily, hopping past the ice cream scone shaped pile of beanpoles one day saw how much like a tent they looked and the rabbit gentleman said to himself:

"That will be a good place for my rabbit children to play when it isn't too cold. Those poles will make the frame work of a tent, and if I put a blanket, or bed quilt around the poles, on the outside, the inside of the tent will be as warm and cozy, almost as my bungalow. I'll do it. I'll make a tent of the pile of beanpoles."

No sooner had Uncle Wiggily thought of this than he began to work. He hopped to his bungalow and asked his wife and Nurse Jane for an old quilt, or spread, to put over the poles.

"Here is one," said the muskrat lady housekeeper, handing the rabbit gentleman a quilt which was a little ragged and torn, and which would not look stylish on a bed. But it was quite good enough for a play tent, and Uncle Wiggily was glad to get it.

Now while Mr. Longears was getting ready to make the beanpole tent for his little rabbits to play in, it happened that the Fox came down the hill out of his den, and the Fox was hungry.

"Nothing would taste better than a nice, fat rabbit" growled the Fox to himself as he went slinking along in the snow. And as he came nearer to Uncle Wiggily's stump bungalow the Fox went on: "And I think I smell a rabbit now. Yes, there's been a rabbit around here!"

Wrapping the quilt around him

The Fox, just then, was close to the pile of beanpoles, and, looking at the snow the Fox saw where Uncle Wiggily had left his paw marks in it.

"Oh ho!" chuckled the Fox. "There's been a rabbit around here. And it was Uncle Wiggily, I'm sure. I thought I smelled him. I wonder if he is in that pile of poles"

But Uncle Wiggily wasn't there, having gone to the bungalow to get the quilt to make the tent. But seeing what a good hiding place there was in the tent of poles, even without any outer covering over them, the Fox said to himself:

"I'll slip in among these poles and hide. Uncle Wiggily has been here once and he'll be back again, I'm sure. When he comes I'll jump out and grab him, carry him off to my den and my wife and I will have a rabbit potpie."

So the Fox curled himself up inside the pile of beanpoles and waited and waited and waited. He didn't mind how cold and snowy it was.

Meanwhile, Uncle Wiggily, having found the quilt he wanted, was on his way back to the pile of poles over on the farmer's land. But as he drew near, Mr. Longears looked at the snow and he saw other paw marks than his. And, being a wise rabbit, Uncle Wiggily knew that the marks were made by the paws of the Fox.

"Oh ho! I see what has happened!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily as he looked. "The paw marks go into the pile of poles but they don't come out. That means the Fox is in there yet. And he must be hiding in there waiting for me. If I go too close he'll jump out at me. Well, I'll not go too close. I'll fool that Fox!"

So, wrapping the bed quilt around him, that the Fox might not see him so close to the pile of poles, Uncle Wiggily hurried back to his bungalow. The Fox had fallen asleep when the rabbit was near the poles and had not seen him.

"But he'll be here soon!" thought the Fox when he awakened, not knowing Uncle Wiggily had found out all that was going on. "He'll be back soon and I'll get him."

Back at his bungalow Uncle Wiggily found his forty sixteen little bunny boys and girls just coming home from school. Quickly he told them about going to make a beanpole tent with a bed quilt.

"But now a Fox is hidden in the poles." said Mr. Longears. "So I want you all to come with me, make a ring around the poles and, when I say 'Ready!' each of you rush up, grab a pole and pull it away with you."

"Won't the Fox get us" asked Baby Bunty.

"We'll take the Police Dog with us!" said Uncle Wiggily. So with the brave Police Dog, the bunny children and Uncle Wiggily went to the pile of bean poles. all of a sudden they made a rush and pulled the pile apart, showing the Fox hiding there. And the Fox was so surprised and ashamed that he tucked his tail between his legs and ran away, with the Police Dog chasing him all the way back to his den. So the Fox didn't get a rabbit potpie and when the poles were piled up again they made a fine tent for the bunny children to play in.

Had To Sleep Propped Up In Bed

Mrs. Norman Bishop, Salisbury, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with faint and dizzy spells and when I would lie down I would suffer terribly with smothering spells. I got so bad I had to sleep propped up in bed.

Needless Pain!

Nowadays, people take Aspirin for many little aches and pains, and as often as they encounter any pain.

Why not? It is a proven antidote for pain. It works!

And Aspirin tablets are absolutely harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; they do not depress the heart.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regard neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism as something you must endure. Only a physician can cope with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to an Aspirin tablet for relief.

Aspirin is always available, and it never fails to help. Familiarize yourself with its many uses, and avoid a lot of needless suffering.

WITHDRAWAL OF BRITISH TROOPS FROM INDIA WOULD BE FOLLOWED BY CIVIL WAR SAYS COL. HENSHAW

Noted Authoritiy of Far East Problems Addresses Local Officers.

DISCUSSES INDIA.

Imperial Policy of Great Britain in Maintenance of World Peace.

"The Imperial policy of Great Britain is definitely the maintenance of world peace, and the only way to maintain peace in the Middle East is for Great Britain to remain in control of India. The withdrawal of British troops from India would be followed by chaos and civil wars and some other Power would take over the country. In this event, Australia and the British Far Eastern possessions would be isolated, since India flanks the trade routes from the Suez Canal to the Far East."

These were the opening words in an address on the subject of the north-west frontier of India delivered at the Armouries last night by Major F. R. Henshaw, M.C., engineering officer for Military District No. 3. He addressed a gathering of officers of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, both active and reserve, and officers of the various units of the city. The meeting was sponsored by the Peterborough Rangers.

Having attended the Staff College at Quetta, India, Major Henshaw was well informed on his subject. He outlined the importance of India to the Empire, the geographical aspect of the situation and the human aspect, and gave a brief resume of the history of the country. Numerous lantern slides thoroughly illustrated his talk as he progressed.

The speaker was formerly Assistant Director of Military Intelligence at Ottawa, and has served as editor of the Canadian Defence Quarterly.

Important to Empire.

Pointing out the importance of India to the Empire, Major Henshaw spoke of its central position in the Eastern Hemisphere and its great population. Further, India is one of the largest markets for British manufactured goods and there is a large amount of British capital invested in the country, he said.

The land frontiers of India are divided into the north-east frontier, and the north-west frontier, the speaker continued. On account of geographical features, the north-west frontier contains the only routes into India which would be practicable for a modern army. It is inhabited by the most warlike tribes, he related.

"The total extent from Gilgit to Mekran is 1,400 miles. It is divided into the northern, centre, and southern sectors. The northern sector is 400 miles long and is protected by immense mountain ranges. The southern sector, being practically desert, causes little anxiety. But the centre sector is 600 miles long, and is by far the most important from a military point of view. The main features are the Indus River, the hills, and the Derajat, a dry tract of land between the Indus and the hills.

Four Passes.

Speaking of the passes, Major Henshaw said the Khyber Pass is the most famous, and has been used by most of the invaders of India in the past. From Jamrud to the Afghan frontier it is 25 miles long with a railway and two roads through it. He named the Bolan Pass through which Lord Roberts' column passed in 1881 as another of importance, and the Kurram and Tochi as of lesser importance.

The inhabitants in what is known as the Tribal Territory which lies between the administrative boundary which marks the end of the control of the Government of India, and the Durand Line which marks the Afghan frontier, offer the gravest danger, Major Henshaw said: "In order to secure India from invasion it is necessary to control the tribesmen who live astride the passes. It is also necessary to control them in order to keep them from indulging in raids on the plains of India."

Some of the tribes are made up of quiet, peace-loving people friendly to the British, and many are fierce, warlike natives, he continued. From some of the tribes a large number have enlisted in the Indian Army, and make first-rate soldiers when under good officers who understand them.

Many Invasions.

Outlining the history of the north-west frontier from the time of Alexander the Great's invasion in 326 B.C., the speaker showed proof of the vulnerability of the section on account of its geographical natures. History of the frontier down through the centuries to the present tells of numerous invasions of the Afghans, Persians, Huns, and Chinese.

One of the principal features of the present policy of the British on the north-west frontier, Major Henshaw said, is the maintenance of good motor roads through tribal territory so that troops can be brought into the country with great rapidity.

"The most forward posts in tribal territory are held by regular troops. Intermediate posts are held by corps know nas "Scouts," officered by British men. The Scouts are a civil police force trained as soldiers to deal with local troubles which are not important enough to justify the employment of regular troops. The guarding of the roads is allotted to the Khassadars, also a civil native force.

Natives Peaceful.

Concluding, Major Henshaw said: "In this way the authorities have a firm grip. The tribesmen have come to realize that raiding is no longer profitable and have turned their hands to peaceful pursuits. Many of them obtain employment at road-making and small irrigation schemes have enabled them to grow crops. They appreciate the economic value of new roads and several of them have purcased Ford cars."

NEW ZEALAND TRADE TREATY IS UNDER FIRE

Conservative Amendment to Govt's Supply Motion Again Considered.

DEBATE TO CONTINUE.

Dunning and Bennett Engage in Verbal Duel Over Sub-Amendment.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 12 (CP).—Canada's trade agreement with New Zealand was the subject of a fierce bombardment in the House of Commons yesterday. The Conservative amendment to a Government supply motion was again under consideration. This amendment, which was moved on March 7th, asks the House to declare that the Order-in-Council "respecting certain trade arrangements with the Dominion of New Zealand should be rescinded forthwith, and immediate steps taken to negotiate a treaty with that Dominion on a fair and equitable basis."

Liberals Move Subamendment.

To this amendment, the Liberals subsequently moved another amendment declaring that the Order-in-Council mentioned by the Conservatives "should be superseded as soon as possible by a treaty with New Zealand, and that immediate steps should be taken to negotiate such a treaty."

The debate was still in progress when eleven o'clock adjournment took place. Mitchell Repburn, Liberal member for West Elgin, had the floor.

At the sub-amendment, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, directed strong criticism during the debate. The sub-amendment, he argued, was a confession on the part of the Government that the trade treaty with New Zealand was a bad one. There were some warm exchanges between the Opposition Leader and Hon. C. A. Dunning, minister of finance.

"The question before the House is: Is this treaty good or not?" declared Mr. Bennett in the course of his remarks.

"It is good," came the retort from a member on the Liberal side of the House.

"I am glad to see that there is one man of courage, because the minister of finance says it is not," was the quick response of the Conservative leader.

Dunning Asks Withdrawal.

Mr. Dunning was on his feet with a demand for the withdrawal of the remark. I never made any such statement," he asserted in support of his demand.

"Then what does the sub-amendment mean?" queried Mr. Bennett.

"Exactly what it says," was the concise reply of Mr. Dunning.

"Why supersede a good thing by another?" pursued Mr. Bennett.

"It is not impossible to supersede a good thing by a better thing," replied the Minister of Finance.

In the evening, Hon. James Malcolm, minister of trade and commerce, gave the House exhaustive information respecting the progress of trade between Canada and the antipodes and its effect on the Dominion. Statistics showed that there was an increase in butter consumption in Canada. The Canadian farmer preferred to sell his milk for purposes other than the manufacture of butter. Consequently, Canada turned to New Zealand to supply the deficiency.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Conservative member for Vancouver Centre, replied to Mr. Malcolm by declaring that the Conservatives were not opposing treaties negotiated by the Government if they were fair and equitable. But when a prominent Canadian industry, like the dairy industry, was made to suffer, he felt it was time to protest. He informed the House that there was a serious decrease in the number of milch cows in Canada.

SYSTEM BASED ON ONE THEORY

Principal of Bowmanville Boys' School Addresses Young Men's Club.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

"Our whole system is based on the theory, 'It pays to play the game'," said Dr. Reaman, in addressing the Men of George Street United Church and Murray Street Baptist Church, at their supper on Monday evening, March 10. The merit system is used at the school and marks are given for college behaviour, for work, play, school work, etc. The school is built up on tradition. No boy who receives the privilege of going home and does not play the game while there, is allowed to go on vacation again until he has satisfied the school that he is ready to do as he should. The aim is to help the boy to help himself. The boy first enters a school where his ability as a student is ascertained. Then he is given what is called casual labor, which he must do well and cheerfully. This is for the purpose of stiffening his backbone, so that when he gets a job after graduating he will stick at it until a better position is in sight.

The boy is then allowed to enter into the various activities of the school, such as wood-working, metal working, agriculture and horticulture.

150 Graduates

The school has already turned out about 150 boys, who as yet have not committed any serious crimes. The boys are kept long enough only to give them the rudiments of the activities which they have chosen. Pupils may be admitted to the school on request after a medical examination. It is not a dumping ground for the mentally deficient of the province.

L. M. Richardson, president of the George Street Men's Organization, introduced the speaker of the evening. A musical program consisted of two vocal solos by George Coleman, and community singing led by A. Lillow and J. Wearing.

A welcome was extended to the Men of Murray Street Church by J. E. Smith, and was replied to by H. Graham. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

GANDHI'S MARCH MAINTAINED IN PERFECT ORDER

was reached after a four hours' march. There were about 125 in the group which reached the village. Here about 100 townsmen with flags, garlands and music received the marchers.

Two places have been set aside in the village for the party, one a rest house and the other a place for meals.

Gandhi plans to remain in Asali to-day making one public address when a purse will be presented to him on behalf of the villagers.

Leaving Asali to-morrow morning a halt will be made at Bareja and then at Navagaon where the procession will halt for the night.

Several film companies including one German acompanied the party taking films.

Unforgettable Scenes

The secretary of the Gujaret Provincial Congress committee in a message to Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the all-India congress said that Gandhi began his civil disobedience march this morning amidst unforgettable scenes unprecedented in the history of Gandhi's seminary.

Millionaires and laborers, he said, vied with each other in wishing godspeed to the marching column. Thousands of men, women and children followed the procession for miles in orderly array while thousands lined the route and showered coins, currency notes, flowers and saffron on the Mahatma.

Recruiting Speeded Up.

BOMBAY, India, March 12 (C.P.). — The all-India National Congress organizations to-day speeded up recruiting of new members in view of initiation of the campaign for independence at Ahmadabad.

The Bombay Provincial Congress Committee's "War Council" called for men and money and exhorted Bombay to take the lead "in this fight to the finish."

Volunteers are divided into three classes: "Ironsides," including those prepared for immediate civil resistance; "Reserves," who are ready to take the places of "Ironsides" when the latter are removed from the scene of action, and "Irregular Territorials," who will participate in the "War Council's" program of demonstrations.

Viceroy's Reply No Surprise.

Gandhi, writing in his own paper, Young India, to-day said he was not surprised at the Viceroy's reply to his "ultimatum." Lord Irwin, he declared, represents the nation which does not give in easily and does not repent easily but very readily listens to physical force.

Whitney's Sir Lindsay First in National Race

CHELTENHAM, England, Mar. 12 (Canadian Press), — J. H. Whitney's steeplechaser Sir Lindsay, ridden by Lord Fingall, amateur hockey, won the National Hunt chase over a four mile long course to-day.

Sir J. Grey's Possible was second, and O. Mosley's Austrian Star was third.

The race had a value of £1,000 with extras.

Sir Lindsay won by five lengths while there were ten between second and third. The betting was 5 to 4, 100 to 7, and 50 to 1 against first, second, and third respectively. Twenty-eight ran.

FRANK DAWSON RE-ELECTED HEAD OF POULTRY MEN

Walter Lloyd and George Blowers Are Elected Vice-Presidents of Association.

SECRETARY RESIGNS.

W. J. Nesbitt Has Served For Seven Years as Secretary of Poultry Organization.

Frank H. Dawson will remain for a third term as president of the Peterborough Poultry Association as a result of his re-election at the annual meeting held last night. He will be supported by a strong executive.

Walter Lloyd was elected to the position of first vice-president and George Blowers, second vice-president. They succeed Earl Moncrief and Morgan Brown. On the retirement of W. J. Nesbitt from the secretaryship after seven years of service, Fred Robson was appointed to the position last night. George Paxman was chosen treasurer and Fred Holmes and V. J. Tully re-appointed auditors.

Mr. Dawson expressed gratification with the affairs of the association, commenting on the good financial surplus reported at the meeting. He opined that the 1929 executive was one of the best the Association has had, and that the Poultry Show was an outstanding success.

Both the professional and the business men of the city co-operated with the Association in the past year and made success possible through such favors as the donation of prizes and cups for the show, he said. As a mark of appreciation of 18 years' service by Fred Holmes, Mr. Dawson presented a smoking set to him on behalf of the organization.

The board of directors chosen at the meeting consists of: E. H. White, S. H. Long, H. T. Lush, B. Law, E. Bartley, S. E. Moncrief, F. Fisher, H. Kennedy, W. J. Nesbitt, C. Armstrong, E. Peters, W. J. Outram, R. M. Brown, A. E. Pavey.

The meeting decided to stage the 1931 Poultry Show on January 6, 7, and 8.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

FIRST MAPLE SYRUP

Another sign of the approach of Spring is contained in the intelligence that the maple trees are commencing to give forth their sap. A resident of Smith street informs The Examiner that a tree on their lawn was tapped yesterday and yielded a quantity of the sweet fluid, which was forthwith boiled down. Meanwhile flapjacks were prepared, and the family sat down to a piping hot meal—typically Canadian and reminding one of the annual maple sugar gatherings of former years, where the whole community meet to gather the sap, boil it down in the open and partake of the maple sugar candy which is the finished product.

CAR ON FIRE

Slight damage was caused to the wiring of Dr. Yelland's car this morning, when a fire broke oue due to a backfire from the carburettor.

The fire brigade were in attendance and extinguished the outbreak before any considerable damage was caused.

TRUCK TURNS OVER

A delivery truck belonging to Gilgour and Sons, bakers, was somewhat damaged last night when it turned over on the Norwood road.. It was being towed into Peterborough when the accident occurred. No persons were injured.

OLD TIMERS—AND COPS!

Three former school chums, now travellers for commercial houses, met here yesterday on the street. They convened to the office of one, who is temporarily located here, cracked several bottles and prepared to talk old times over flowing cups. Several constables broke in on the party, and this morning the three school-fellows were chastened for their celebration to the tune of $100 and $10 in fines for having liquor in an illegal place and for consuming.

FIRST OF YEAR.

The familiar hum of the sea flea has been heard already this year by Peterborough people who live near Little Lake. In the space in the centre of the lake where the ice has disappeared an outboard motor boat buzzed about for some time the other day. It was in the hands of employees of the Johnson Motor Company testing out the first new 4 horsepower model motor off their assembly line in the Peterborough plant.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE PREPARING PLAY

The Young People's Dramatic Society of Trinity Church are hard at work in preparation for a new play, entitled "The Colonel's Maid." Recent rehearsals have demonstrated that this play will be just as interesting, if not more so, than the very successful effort of this club last year when they presented "The Bride Breezes In."

"The Colonel's Maid" is a hilarious comedy that bubbles over with amusing scenes and laughter. It will be presented during the latter part of the month.

ST. JOHN'S CHOIR GIVES PROGRAM

Very Ambitious Concert is Presented By Choir Under Leadership of F. G. Mann.

PLAIN SONG REVIVED.

A demonstration of a type of music that is unique and quite out of the ordinary, and that represents a revival in church music of the plainsong of many centuries back, was given in St. John's church under the direction of F. G. Mann, L. Mus., organist and choirleader. It was an ambitious program that demonstrated admirably the excellent training given by Mr. Mann to his choristers and the manner in which the young boys respond to tuition in difficult and exacting music. The casual listener finds it hard to realize just how much hard work and insistent endeavor is required on the part of conductor and pupils alike, to achieve such a degree of choral facility and ease in the rendition of exacing music. The Plainsong, which was a feature of church music centuries ago, has been revived with great success during recent years, and is making a popular re-entry into choral work.

Allied with the Faux Bourdon, it demonstrates a peculiar type of music. Separate melodies for alto, bass and soprano voices are used by the young choristers, and the tenors, while the adult choir carries the solid tune. These medolies, which serve as embroidery for the main theme, are known as "descent" from the ancient term, "descantus" or "organum." In the sixteenth century, choristers read such foreground themes, as they might be termed, at sight, but modern musicians have not that facility. However, the choir of St. John's Church, and especially the youthful boy choristers, demonstrated just how well they could perform when they rendered several exacting compositions of this type, and there was plenty of commendatory comment at the close of the program.

Included in the Faux Bourdon renditions were two compositions by Mr. Mann, "Eventide" and "St. Ann." "O Praise the Lord" was splendidly rendered, as was the five-part composition, "Lord, How Long," with the boys' voices acting as first soprano, and the ladies as second soprano parts. Two very fine "a capella" or unaccompanied numbers were "Lord, for Thy Tender Mercy's Sake," and "Through the Day Thy Love has spared us.

The program included an organ solo by Mr. Mann, "Among the Pines," also organ selections by three of Mr. Mann's pupils; "Allegro Pomposo," played by Miss J. Anderson, of St. John's church, Havelock; Handel's Gavotte in B flat, by Arthur Collison, of the Murray street Baptist church, and "Adagio de Mozart" by Miss Lily Bacon.

The choir was assisted by a fine string orchestra, which added much to the interest of the program, the personnel including Mrs. J. Foster, Mrs. P. Hooper, Stanley Northrop, A.T.C.M., and R. J. Wyllie, violins; C. J. Seymour and T. Smith, 'cellos.

The other choral numbers on the program were as follows: "Send out Thy Light," "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," (Bach), and "Iste Confessor" (Rouen Melody), arranged by Dr. Healy Willan.

Why Do Chiropractors Claim Spinal Nerve Pressure to be a Cause of Disease?

Because we know that the spine is the keyboard of vitality to all organs and parts of the body.

Because it is a scientifically proven fact that nerve force or vital energy passing over the nerves to the organs regulates their function—and when the nerves are severed all function in the organs they supply ceases. Also when nerves are pinched function of the organs is diminished in degree to the constriction of the nerves.

Because by examination of the spine the Chiropractor can detect nerve interference and he knows that disordered function in any organ is the first symptom of disease and that organic disease sets in after functional disorder has been established.

The Chiropractor knows that spinal manipulative treatments remove nerve pressure and restore normal energy to weakened tissues.

Baldwin Moves Vote of Censure on Gov't.

PROPHESIES FALL OF LABORITES ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Scores Attitude in Safeguarding Duties in Relation to Providing Work.

PRESS GETS RAP.

Snowden Claims There is Conspiracy in Force to Discredit Gov't.

LONDON, March 13.—(Canadian Press).—Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, former Premier and present Conservative leader, opening a critical debate in the House of Commons late to-day, moved a vote of censure on the Labor Government for its attitude on safeguarding duties in relation to unemployment.

Mr. Baldwin arose amid loud cheers to make his attack and said he had just learned that to-day was the silver wedding anniversary of Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

"I hope," said Mr. Baldwin, "that Mr. Snowden will find it convenient to go home for dinner to-night and I wish him, from all sections of the House, many years of happiness.

Gov't Even To-night

After lengthy arguments urging the position of some safeguarding duties as a stimulus to depressed industry, the Conservative Leader concluded by declaring that the Government would win on the vote to-night by that nevertheless unemployment would eventually wash the Government away."

"I hope" said the former Premier, "that the Chancellor of the Exchequer will make quite clear to the house for himself and his party whether or not he intends at any time in combatting the evils of unemployment to have recourse either to any single duty or a general duty as a remedy for unemployment."

Snowden Charges Conspiracy.

Right Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who acted on behalf of Premier MacDonald, in reply to Mr. Baldwin's criticism, said:

"It is a fact that ever since this Government came into office there has been an organized conspiracy. It has been the deliberate policy of certain interests to prevent employment in order to discredit the Government."

He declared that British newspapers had been chiefly responsible for spreading a feeling of pessimism, daily printing stories about the closing of factories and the laying off of men, attributing the whole increase of unemployment to the actions and policy of the Labor Government.

Mr. Snowden attributed the uncertainty existing to-day to the late Conservative Government in leading industries to believe they could get protection and thus preventing them from re-organizing themselves.

CANCER DISCOVERY SUCCESS.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 13 (Canadian Press).—Walter B. Coffey, San Francisco surgeon, to-day told a Senate Committee and leaders of the medical profession from throughout the country that he and his associate, Dr. John D. Humber, had caused a breakdown of cancerous tissues in 1,300 patients by administering an extract they had discovered.

PLAN TO HONOR FLIERS.

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 13.—Thirteen Polish military fliers will be awarded the insignia of the "Gold Caterpillar" by the Irving Air Chute Company, according to an official announcement issued by Col. Rayski, Chief of the Department of Aviation, Ministry of Military Affairs.

Special Jails for Youthful Convicts

OTTAWA, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press). — Penitentiaries for "the preferred class of convicts" are to be maintained in Canada. Construction of two such bastiles in which will be incarcerated young men offending for the first time and who show indications that regeneration is possible in their case was announced to-day by the Dominion Penitentiaries Branch. One will be erected near Portsmouth Penitentiary at Kingston, Ont., and the other close by St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, Montreal.

The institutions will be built by convict labor and completion is expected within a year.

First offenders held at present in the country's six penitentiaries will be removed to the new bastiles on recommendation of the wardens.

Election Rumored Following Budget

LONDON, Mar. 13 (C.P.). — The opinion is generally expressed in the newspapers to-day that the probable result of the Ramsay MacDonald Labor Government's defeat of a Liberal amendment to the coal bill in the House of Commons yesterday, will be a general election immediately the budget is disposed of, because the Government and its supporters are getting tired of the growing tendency of the Conservative and Liberal parties to combine against its legislation.

NAVAL PARLEY IS DEADLOCKED CRISIS LOOMING

MacDonald as Mediator Receives Japanese, French and Italians in Turn.

IMPASSE REACHED.

British Officials Admit Situation is "Difficult"—Hope Still Held.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, March 13. — Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, to-day assumed the role of mediator. At No. 10 Downing street, that famous weather-beaten home of many political secrets, he is receiving the Japanese, Italian and French naval delegates in turn.

To permit these separate conversations, the meeting of heads of delegations scheduled for this afternoon was cancelled, and the conversations mark strenuous efforts to save the naval conference. It has reached an impasse. Even in British official circles the situation is admitted to be "difficult," but there is still hope of finding a way out.

Press Pessimistic.

Under the caption "deadlock in the conference," the London Times today editorially expressed the opinion that the negotiations had reached a crisis which easily might prove fatal.

The article, while declaring that the French position was understood and appreciated, thought the French view very short-sighted and unfortunate.

The United States' refusal to enter into any political pact, even a consultative one, is, the paper declared, equally understood and appreciated in Great Britain, and the contention is made that with the United States standing aloof it would be impossible for Great Britain to give France the support she desires.

The paper expressed the faint hope, which, however, it thought extremely unlikely to be realized, that the situation might be eased at the last moment by direct understanding between France and Italy, whose rivalry in the Mediterranean has been the crux of the whole difficulty.

Preparation Lacking.

The trouble which the Conference faces now has been caused, the Times contended, by lack of preparation on the political side, sufficient care not having been given to pave the way for reconciliation between the desire of France for political guarantees, Great Britain's determination not to

11 DOG OWNERS ARE SUMMONED

Six Animals Have Been Destroyed in Past Few Days For Running at Large.

NORTH WORST OFFENDERS.

In something less than five days twenty-three wandering canines have fallen into the net of Mark Pengilley, the city's industrious dog marshall. Mr. Pengilley was interviewed this morning while he rested for a moments from his efforts of patrolling the city's dogways.

Six mongrel dogs, for whom owners could not be found, have been destroyed, he said, and two more await execution. Eleven persons will appear in the police court shortly to answer to the charge of allowing their pets to run at large, contrary to the city's bylaw.

Mr. Pengilley has found that the north end requires more than its share of his services, since the dogs are many and are allowed to run loose in that district.

W. H. COTTINGHAM DIES IN ENGLAND

Old Peterborough Boy Dies at His Home in Berkshire, England.

BORN IN OMEMEE.

Walter H. Cottingham, chairman of the Sherwin-Williams Company of Canada, Limited, and of the Sherwin Williams Company of America, died yesterday at his home in Maidenhead, Berkshire, England.

Mr. Cottingham was born in Omemee, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Cottingham, a pioneer family. His father was affectionately known as the "Squire" and his mother was before her marriage Miss Jellett of Cobourg.

The old family home was on the site now occupied by Christ church, Omemee, and whilst a mere boy, Mr. Cottingham's parents moved to Peterborough where they took up residence at Moira Hall and he commenced his business career in a hardware store. In 1887 he moved to Montreal and became interested in the making of paints and varnishes, advancing step by step in the industry.

He retired from business nine years ago on accountof ill health and lived in his palatial home in Maidenhead, England.

During the Great War he loaned this home for war work and this generous act reflected his interest in all affairs for the benefit of his fellow beings. He was always keenly interested in church affairs and regularly sent contributions to his home church.

Mr. Cottingham is survived by two sons, W. Sherwin of London and William C. of Montreal; and two daughters, Mrs. Frank B. Dangler and Mrs. Kenneth Allan, both of Cleveland, Ohio; three sisters in Toronto, Mrs. D. Edwards, Mrs. George Cluxton, and Mrs. J. Morris and a sister in Montreal, Mrs. A. Stevenson, and one brother, Herbert of B.C.

Mr. Cottingham was also chairman of the firm of Lewis Berger and Sons, Limited, of London, England.

More than a million dollars a week is said to be spent in the United States for chewing gum.

FIRE DELAYS LINER.

COLOMBO, Ceylon, March 13 (Canadian Press). — Fire broke out on the 15,000-ton liner Comorin, en route from Great Britain to Australia, here to-day, and it was more than 18 hours before it could be overcome.

Water was being pumped from the first-class quarters, which was the part of the ship most damaged, and it was hoped to resume the voyage on Sunday with the second-class passengers.

LEGION SEEKS AID IN SPECIAL CASES

Ask Pensions For Widows of Veterans Killed in Accidents Due to Disabilities.

PRESENT RESOLUTION.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 13 (C.P.)—In the case of a war veteran suffering from a heart attack and falling in front of an automobile and being killed, should his widow be entitled to pension? If a man who lost his right eye on service were struck by an automobile on the right side, should the widow be pensioned? Or, should a man who lost a leg on service be caught in a traffic jam on account of his inability to step lively, and killed, ought his widow to receive recognition by the Pension Act?

These are questions which are to be presented to the Parliamentary committee of veterans' affairs under the direction of Lt.-Col. L. R. Lafleche, Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, representing also the Army and Navy Veterans, the Amputations Association of Canada, the Sir Arthur Pearson Club and the Canadian Pensioners' Association.

It is possible, under the present regulations, to award pensions in such cases, but experience has shown it is extremely difficult, under the regulations to secure decisions favorable to the widows. The veterans' organizations are therefore putting forward the following request:

"That entitlement to pension be more freely admitted in respect of disability or death due to accidents or injuries which are the result of disablement of service origin."

INQUIRY WILL BE HELD INTO DEATH OF COL. BARKER

Funeral Will Take Place at 3.30 in Toronto on Saturday.

EPIC BATTLE RETOLD.

Col. Bishop, V.C., and Captain Rickenbacker Both Pay Tribute to Their Old Comrade.

OTTAWA, March 13.—(Canadian Press).—The body of Lieut.-Col. William George Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., lies in an Ottawa undertaking parlor. That which enemy fliers attempted to accomplish during the Great War, when, as a member of the Royal Air Force, Barker harassed them with his daring exploits, came yesterday afternoon when a new commercial biplane he had taken "up for a flip" crashed to earth.

It was announced last night that Lieut.-Col. Barker's funeral will take place at 3.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon from is home, 355 St. Clair Avenue West, Toronto.

Board of Inquiry

An official board of inquiry, composed of three members of the civil aviation branch, has been set up to investivate the accident and attempt to determine its cause. To some among the many persons who were witnessing from the ground the Colonel's last flight it appeared the engine stalled as he pulled the machine into a steep climb. Colonel Barker was flying at an altitude of 200 feet, when the engine gave off a tremendous roar as the pilot pulled the throttle wide open and swooped upward. After a climb of 150 feet, the plane faltered, hung suspended momentarily and then, like a wounded bird, plunged headlong to earth.

Life was extinct when horror-striken eye-witnesses reached the wreckage. The man who came through scores and scores of hectic war combats with his life, although twice wounded, had apparently been killed instantly.

His Epic Battle.

Following is the official record of the epic battle of the air which won the Victoria Cross for Colonel W. G. Barker, and in which he fought off more than 60 enemy planes:

"On the morning of October 27, 1918, this officer observed an enemy two-seater over the Forest De Mormal. He attacked this machine and after a short burst it broke up in the air. At the same time a Fokker biplane attacked him, and he was wounded in the right thigh, but managed despite this to shoot down the enemy airplane in flames.

"He then found himself in the middle of a large formation of Fokkers, which attacked him from all directions, and was again severely wounded in the left thigh, but succeeded in driving two of the enemy down in a spin. He lost lost consciousness after

PLAN IS SIGNED BY HINDENBURG

Vote on Young Plan Results in Victory of 42 to 5 in Reichstrat.

EFFECTIVE AT ONCE.

BERLIN, March 13. (C.P.) — President Von Hindenburg to-day signed the Young Plan within a few minutes of the time that it had been approved by the Reichsrat with an urgency clause, making it immediately effective as far as Germany is concerned.

The associated liquidation agreements have not yet been signed as the president is formally obliged to investigate whether any of these agreements are in conflict with the constitution.

The President's delay on the associated measures was directed solely against the Polish agreement concerning which he desires to satisfy himself that it is not tantamount to a constitutional amendment.

The vote on the Young plan in the Reichsrat was 42 to 5 and on the Polish liquidation agreement 35 to 10. The urgency motion was carried also 42 to 5.

There were three abstentions in the Reichsrat on the Young Plan laws and five abstentions on the Polish agreement. There were three abstentions on the urgency clause.

CANADA'S CHAMPION SCULLER TO WED GREAT AMERICAN SWIMMER; WEDDING IS SET FOR SATURDAY

Once Victor at Henley and Three Times in the Finals Wright's Record.

OUT OF BIG SWIMS.

Martha Norelius Won the C.N.E. Ladies' Swimming Race Last Year.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (C.P.)—Joe Wright, Jr., who, it is reported, will be married to Martha Norelius, famous swimmer, on Saturday, is one of Canada's outstanding athletes. For many years he has figured in the rowing world, but it was not until 1927 that "Big Joe" made his first bid for world fame. In that year, he went to Henley, England, for the famous sculling classic there. After winning his preliminary events in convincing style, Wright entered the final against R. T. Lee, of Oxford. Wright took an early lead, and was "walking away" from his opponent when he had the misfortunte to swing from the course and one of his sculls became caught in the boom which marked the lane. Lee came up to win by a yard before the unfortunate Canadian could get his oar free.

Won the Next Year

The following year, however, Joe made no mistakes. He practiced on the icy waters of Lake Ontario from early Spring until he again embarked for the Old Country. Revenge was sweet. He again met Lee in the finals of the historic event, and won by a length in the fastest time of the year's race after rowing Lee into exhaustion. When Wright returned to Canada, he received one of the greatest ovations ever accorded a Canadian athlete.

He again crossed the ocean in 1928, and put up a gallant attempt to do what no man in history had ever done—win the historic "Sculls" twice in a row. Gunther of Holland, however, defeated him by a yard, and it was claimed at that time that had Joe spurted a trifle sooner he would have repeated his great victory of the previous year.

Won in Field of 44

Martha Norelius, already a famous swimmer, won the greatest race of her life when she defeated 44 others in the 10-mile women's championship swim here on August 23 last year. She covered the distance in the fast time of five hours, 24 minutes, 22 seconds.

She announced then there would be no more marathon swims for her. On September 7, however, she entered with four other women in a three-mile invitation race for a prize of $1,500 and won easily.

In an interview after winning the swim, she said she would not get married. Statements a short time later that she was already married were denied by her manager, Martin Stearn of New York.

Miss Norelius trained on Ward's Island, in Toronto Bay, and was an outstanding figure in local social circles during her stay in Toronto. After the marathon, she remained here for some time.

Several months ago, it was reported that she and Wright had been married in Detroit, Michigan.

Telegraph wires hummed with statements and denials from both the principals in the reported marriage.

Long Record of Victories.

While the crowning achievement of Joe Wright, Jr., was his victory in the Diamond Sculls on July 7, 1928, the Canadian has a long record of wins in sculling events in Canada

Jail Could Stand Change in Washers

STRATFORD, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press). — Reports submitted by Grand Juries here would be lacking in detail if there was no recommendation to have a new washing machine installed at the County Jail. Grand Jurymen for a long time back have made a habit of asking that the old one be replaced.

In submitting their report at this Assizes the jurymen not only again recommend a new one, but they go further to suggest "that the historical society of the county might make use of the old one as an antique.

WOMAN INJURED IN FALL FROM BUS

Mrs. Mary O'Connell of Perry Street, is Taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

ON CHARITY ERRAND.

An accident necessitating her removal to St. Joseph's Hospital befell Mrs. Mary O'Connell of Perry street this morning, shortly after she had alighted from a bus at Benson avenue.

She was on her way to assist Mrs. John E. Dickenson of Wolseley street, who was also the victim of an accident about three weeks ago, when she sustained a fractured ankle. The incident is certainly a strange coincidence, having caused almost the same injuries in both cases and having occurred in the same vicinity.

The present victim is in the hands of Dr. F. P. McNulty, who X-rayed the injured limb this morning.

COLONEL BARKER WAS KNOWN HERE

Canada's War Ace Spent Summer Months in Cottage at Stoney Lake.

Colonel W. G. Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., Canadian war ace who met a tragic death in an airplane accident at Ottawa yesterday, was well known to a number of Peterborough men as a sportsman. Last summer he visited here and then went to Sandy Lake, where he had secured a cottage. He has a number of times in the past couple of years done some trap shooting at the Peterborough Gun Club with local men, and has hunted and fished in this district.

The deceased aviator sometimes visited relations in Peterborough with whom he was on intimate terms. As far as was known to-day, none of the wartime aviators in this district acted in Col. Barker's division at the front.

Peterboro Health Association Bulletin

VOL. II. | MARCH 13th, 1930. | No. 5

Someone asked what the Peterboro Health Association really did and who was behind it. Perhaps after all it was a perfectly natural question, because its work is done so quietly that few people outside of those whom it aids are aware of it. It employs a trained nurse by the year and furnishes her a car in which to make her calls. Many doctors give freely of their professional skill in these needy cases. In addition to bandages, dressings and needed drugs, the Association last year furnished milk by the thousands of quarts and eggs by the hundreds of dozens as well as other nourishments, to build up weak and maimed bodies of those whom the nurse was attending. This work goes on the year around; it has been going on for more than a decade.

Once each year the Association calls upon Peterboro citizens, asking them to help pay part of the work it is doing in relieving distress in our own city and building up men, women and children that they may take up the burden of life in our own community. The President this year is Mr. J. J. Turner of J. J. Turner & Sons, Ltd.; the Vice-President is Mr. J. John. Some of the ladies behind it and who are active in its work are: Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. Aylmer, Mrs. G. S. Cameron, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. F. P. McNulty, Mrs. A. W. Turner, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. H. A. Morrow, Miss Archer, and many others. The officers and members freely give of their time, money and efforts in this great community work, but they cannot do all. The current expenses for the year amount to about $3,000.00; $1,800.00 is provided for, leaving only the small amount of $1,200.00 to be subscribed. Surely the people in Peterboro will respond.

Please send your subscription to The Examiner or to Mr. C. P. Borland, Bank of Toronto. Payment need not be made until June 1st if so desired. Thanks is sincerely given to those who have already subscribed.

LIQUOR BOARD'S PROFITS N 1929 ARE $9,661,448

Native Wines Show Increase of 106 Per Cent. Over 1928.

YEAR'S SALES, $55,360,569.

So-called "Regional Purchase" Plan to be Adopted at Once.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (C.P.)—With sales totalling $55,360,569, the Liquor Control Commission reported a profit for 1929 of $9,661,448, it was revealed in the annual statement for the year tabled in the Legislature yesterday by the Government.

There will be certain changes made in the regulations governing the sale of liquors to persons who abuse that privilege, it was disclosed. The so-called "regional purchase" plan will be adopted at once, Sir Henry Drayton, the chairman, said in the report. This will mean that when a person lives beyond his means or uses a permit to aid bootlegging and otherwise needs supervision from the Commission, the permit will be stamped with the address of the store nearest his residence. No other store in the Province will be allowed to serve him which will mean that the vendor at one store will be able to maintain a close scrutiny on his purchases.

All Sales Increase

Comparing the years 1928 and 1929, the report showed an increase in sales amounting to $6,364,976. Domestic spirits showed an increase in sales of $1,127,201, imported spirits of $1,247,-86; native wines of $1,085,268; imported wines, $1,447; domestic beers, $2[illegible] and imported beers, $57,413.

Native wines showed an increased sale of 106 per cent over 1928 figures. It was pointed out that whereas beers have an average alcohol content of 9 degrees proof spirits, wines contained 27 degrees. The report continued: "The fact that it is necessary to have a permit before the purchase of beer can be made while the purchase of wine is allowed without the restriction of a permit, in the opinion of the Commission, constitutes an anomaly which ought not to exist."

The report, which contained many adelights on the control system and the sale and regulation of liquor in general, said quite candidly: "Evils resulting from the abuse of liquor have ever been present. The sin of drunkenness is still with us and probably will remain with the host of other sins." The Commission told of the many means adopted to curb excessive drinking in Ontario.

The total sales of $55,360,569 represent sales through the 123 stores throughout the Province, the 105 brewery warehouses, breweries. Of this sum, $1,733,790 was sold by the breweries and the brewery warehouses and $37,626,779 by the stores.

543,044 Permits Sold

There was a total of 543,044 permits sold during the year. Of these, 416,185 were sold to residents of the Province and 107,164 to temporary residents. The balance was made up of special permits to druggists, physicians, hospital and duplicates issued.

Six new stores were opened during the year. They were in Scarboro Bluffs, Merrickville, Pelee Island, Ottawa, Hearst and Lancaster. Five new brewery warehouses were opened. These were at Hamilton, Windsor, Kamuskasmir, Ottawa and Fort William. In this connection the report went on to say: "Applications for new stores have been largely refused by the board. In its opinion, new stores ought to be confined as much as possible to points where they may be found necessary to check petty bootlegging and to better social conditions. Further stores may be necessary in large centres where the existing stores are overcrowded."

In a general discussion on the Liquor Control Act, it was contended by the commission that the day of the large bootlegger was ended. "He is regarded to-day as a public enemy" it was stated.

The report showed that the per capita consumption of alcohol in Canada, irrespective of changes in sales laws, had fluctuated from .703 gallons in 1917 to a low of .395 in 1919, to a high of .723 gallons in 1923. In 1928, the consumption was .425 gallons per person.

Moderation and total abstinence were the aims of the commission, it was set forth in the report. Educational methods were being adopted to bring this about, close supervision on individual purchases was being maintained and an appeal was made to social service workers to enlist the commission's aid in dealing with any person who was abusing his privileges under the act. In this connection it was related that in some cases, permits had been transferred to the mothers and wives of the holders because to cancel them does no good in certain cases because it only adds to the market of the illegal operator and the use of dangerous substitutes. The report declared that the universal adoption of the "regional control"

Witness Claims There Was Ample Room on Pavement For Automobile to Pass.

COBOURG, March 13 (Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Hearing of the evidence in Mrs. Clifford Thompson's action for $20,000 damages against Mrs. Beatrice Grant of Kingston was concluded at 6.30 p.m. yesterday in the Spring Assizes before a jury and Mr. Justice Garrow, and the case was adjourned until Thursday morning at 9.30, when after hearing argument by the opposing solicitors and the judge's summation, it will be given to the jury.

Mrs. Thompson's husband was fatally injured on the Kingston highway near his home, four miles west of here, on August 15 last, when Mrs. Grant's car collided with his spring-tooth cultivator which he was driving from one farm to the next one, and was about to turn off the road into a lane. T. N. Phelan, K.C., of Toronto, and A. R. Willmott of Cobourg are plaintiff's solicitors, and Mrs. Grant is represented by Thos. Agar, K.C., of Toronto and Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., of Kingston.

Mrs. Grant, accompanied by her niece, Miss Constance Grant, of Halifax, and her three children, were motoring to Peterborough. Clifford Thompson was driving his cultivator in an easterly direction.

George Armour, C.E., Cobourg, identified a plan of the highway where the crash occurred. It traced a deep scratch on the pavement that was made by a sharp edge on the right hand wheel of the cultivator. This mark was four feet from the south edge of the pavement. The left wheel was thirty inches to the north.

Time To Make Turn.

According to a subsequent test made with an identical cultivator and the same horses, Mr. Armour estimated the time which elapsed from the moment Thompson started to turn across and off the pavement until the moment the cultivator was struck to have been about six seconds. The horses in this test proceeded at an ordinary walk, and were timed with stop watches from the marks that were recorded by Mr. Armour shortly after the accident.

Mr. Armour said there was ample room on the pavement for a car to pass the cultivator. Mr. Agar suggested that the marks and the time mentioned indicated that Thompson had made a sharp turn toward the lane entrance. Mr. Armour replied that the wheel mark on the pavement showed a rather long, square turn.

"Like Scraping Iron"

George Vansickle, farmer, lives east of the Aubrey John farm. He was on a sideroad seventy rods north of the Kingston highway.

"I was walking south. I heard a noise like the scraping of iron on the pavement. Sixty yards further on I saw Thompson's team coming through the gate of the lane."

Several hours after the accident Vansickle examined the pavement, followed the mark of the cultivator down to the entrance to the lane.

Mr. Phelan—"Did you see any skidmarks of the automobile?—No. The road did not show any.

Witness said a tooth had been broken off the cultivator eight or ten inches in front of the right wheel, and the wheel itself was bent under the machine. The team was the slowest Thompson owned.

To Mr. Agar witness said he conveyed Thompson to the hospital at 1 o'clock. From the time of the accident until the hospital was reached was about half an hour.

Two scraped marks toward the north edge of the pavement that were made when the cultivator was struck seemed to Vansickle to have been made by the wheels as if they had been pushed eight inches by the defendant's car.

Mr. Phelan's questioning on this point suggested the idea that these marks were made by the right wheel only and showed that the cultivator had bumped three feet along the

OBJECTION TAKEN TO PHRASING OF NEW FRAUD ACT

Liberal Leader Offers Strenuous Opposition to Way Clauses Are Worded.

SIX BILLS INTRODUCED.

Unlawful For More Than Two to Ride in Front Seat of Automobile.

TORONTO, March 13 (C.P.).—For over two hours yesterday the Legislature grappled with the provisions of the proposed amendments to the Security Frauds Prevention Act and, because of strenuous opposition from W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., Liberal leader, to some of the terminology and inferences, they were allowed to stand over for redrafting.

The opposition was registered, in practically all instances, to the phrasing of the clauses and not the principles. Technical points of law and interpretation were raised and discussed across the floor. In allowing the bill to stand, Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, said that several of the clauses would be redrafted.

It was a general housecleaning day. Six bills were introduced by private members and 5 by the Government. Third readings were given to 22 bills and second readings to six others.

Sudbury Bill Passes.

Among the bills which received third reading were private bills relating to Sudbury, the village of Windermere, Township of East York and Saulte Ste. Marie.

Hon. John S. Martin introduced a bill which would remove milk and cream for human consumption from the exemptions under Dairy Products Act and would place them in the category to be paid for on a butter-fat basis. The bill also provided new regulations, dealing with inspections and buildings, to be observed by dairies and creameries in Ontario.

A bill sponsored by Leo Macaulay (Cons., South York), which would permit a municipality to exempt by law any or all incomes from assessment or taxation, was given second reading and sent to the Committee on Municipal Law.

E. J. Murphy (Cons., Toronto), introduced a bill which would make it an offence for agents of tourist homes to solicit business from tourists on the highway. He said that tourists were being annoyed constantly through this practice at the approaches to large cities such as Toronto.

Henry Has New Bill.

Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, introduced a Government bill which would make it an offence for more than two persons to ride in the front seat of a car. Such a practice, under the bill, would be classed as contributory negligence for which either a jail sentence or a fine is provided under the Highway Traffic Act.

W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., and Hon. H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, registered criticism of the Rural Power District Loans Act but it was passed by the House in Committee stage. Under it, a fund of $2,000,000 would be set aside to be loaned to farmers for the payment of installation costs of Hydro. Both Opposition leaders criticized the bill on the grounds that it would give the Government lien priority over any mortgage or encumberance on the property.

HYDRO WORKMAN INJURED IN FALL

Jack Ross of Madoc Taken to Toronto General Hospital.

MADOC, March 13.—(Examiner Corespondence).—News was received here yesterday that Jack Ross of Toronto, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross, of this village, had met with a serious accident on Sunday morning, and had been taken to Toronto General Hospital. Jack was at work for the Hydro Electric Power Co. and had the misfortune to fall from one of the towers, being badly bruised, and sustaining a fracture of the right arm, a broken nose, and having his mouth cut.

Word came today that he was resting quietly, but will be likely to be some weeks in hospital. Much sympathy is expressed, as this is a second serious accident, Jack having been injured, and shocked while at work during the latter part of last year.

DIVORCE ACTION TO BE RESUMED

Irvine, U.F.A., Proposes to Move His Motion in House on Monday.

BOURASSA COMMENTS.

OTTAWA, March 13. ((C.P.) — The divorce question looms on the parliamentary horizon as one which will be given serious consideration in the coming weeks. William Irvine (U.F.A., Wetaskiwin), stated last night that he proposed to move his motion in the House Monday of which notice was given this afternoon. His notice followed a speech by Henri Bourassa (Ind. Labelle) on a question of privilege. Mr. Bourassa took exception to published comment on the vote of Tuesday night when the Ontario Divorce Courts bill sponsored by J. S. Woodsworth (Ind. Winnipeg), was defeated.

Portsmouth Convict Is Demon for Speed

WHITBY, March 13 (C.P.)—More speed apparently means nothing to James Lattimer, a Portsmouth convict, who testified at the trial of Fred Plewes, charged with shopbreaking at Beaverton, before Mr. Justice Raney in the Supreme Court Assizes. Lattimer claimed to have committed the robbery with Plewes, and to have driven from Toronto to Beaverton, a distance of 70 miles, in very short time. "How fast did you travel?" asked the counsel for the defense.

"Seventy, seventy-five, eighty miles an hour," answered the witness, horrifying the court.

"How long did it take you to get there?" questioned the counsel.

"Oh, an hour or a little more; we were in no hurry," came the laconic reply.

BAN UPON FRENCH RAISES QUESTION

Orange Grand Master Doubtful Whether Public Would Back Abolition in Schools.

FORCE ENGLISH ON ALL.

BRANTFORD, March 13. (C.P.)—Doubt whether public opinion in Ontario would stand for total abolition of instruction in French in the public schools, was expressed by L. H. Saunders, of London, Grand Master, at the opening sesson here of the annul meeting of the Grand Lodge of Ontario West.

Referring to the periodic agitation for discontinuance of such instruction and to the bilingual education question in general, Mr. Saunders concluded that "for the moment" at least, Orangemen should concentrate on seeng that a knowledge of English should be imparted to every child regardless of race."

Orangemen should continue to be vigilant he said, and withstand any attempts to prevent English from being preminent as the spoken and taught language of Canada.

He also expressed keen opposition to the regulations requiring a knowledge of French for promotion in the permanent militia force, and for many promotions in the civil service. He charged that French was required of applicants for postmasterships in English-speaking centres, and remarked that in view of this and the printing of postal money orders in French, Orangemen might do well to patronize the Express Companies in future.

STEAMSHIP LINE HAS BAD SEASON

Canada Company's Report Shows Liabilities Nearly $1,000,000 Above Assets.

ISSUE $2,000,000 IN BONDS.

MONTREAL, Que., March 13 (C.P.) The financial statement of the Canada Steamship Lines, Limited, for the year ended December 31, 1929, reveals excess of current liabilities over current assets of nearly a million dollars, against net working capital of $2,624,805 in the preceding year. In this connection, the president, in a letter to shareholders, points to substantial expenditures made by the company, or a capital improvement in recent years, without increase in fixed liabilities. He goes on to state that for necessary financing and betterment of liquid position, the company proposes to issue $2,000,000 of bonds as a mortgage on the Manoir Richelieu and $1,500,000 of bonds on the Kingston Elevator Company.

The report for 1929 shows total revenue at $13,876,651, against $17,-661,985 in the preceding year.

600 ACRES SET ASIDE IN VICTORIA FOR REFORESTING

Half Million Trees Have Been Planted in Last Two Years.

ALL DOING WELL.

Private Individuals May Obtain Trees on Application to Forestry Branch.

LINDSAY, March 13.—Reeve L. A. Southam, chairman of the Reforestation Committee of the County Council, has furnished some interesting figures about the work of reforestation being carried on in the Province and in this county in particular. His summing up will be of interest and is as follows:

Three and a half million trees a year is the generous gift of the Ontario Forestry Branch to the farmers of Ontario.

This is about the number distributed to fill applications from farmers under the branch's free distribution policy.

They are utilized in planting farm wood lots, windbreaks and shelter belts. Up to 3,500 trees a year are given to any farmer who will use the trees for one of these purposes, and he can get further supplies at a cost of $4 per thousand. All the branch asks is that the farmer will follow their instructions in planting and caring for the trees so that they will not be wasted.

220 Acres in 1928

Victoria County entered into this scheme in 1928 with 200 acres to start with, and in 1929 added an additional 400 acres, making in all up to the present 600 acres at an average cost to the county of $4 per acre. Some of this land has valuable second growth natural timber growing on it at the present time, including cedar, spruce, and pine.

In 1928 there were 165,000 trees planted on the 200 acres owned by the county in Emily Township, mostly red pine, white pine and white spruce. In 1929 there were planted on private plantations in Victoria County trees of various kinds to the number of 51,150 and for windbreaks 3,110 trees.

On the county projects in Emily and Somerville Townships there were 362,500 trees planted in 1929, including the following varieties: White pine 130,000, red pine 110,500, Scotch pine 14,000, white spruce 102,000, elm 2,000, white ash 2,000, soft maples 2, total 362,50.

Gulls Try Liquor Then Stage Spree

BALTIMORE, Md., March 13.—A flock of sea gulls went on a spree when prohibition agents poured 1200 gallons of corn whisk. key into the harbor off old Fort McHenry, part of which is used for the storage of seized liquors until destroyed. The broad-winged topers were in such high spirits that they circled, nose dived and did tail spins above the fort.

LADY FOUND STRANGLED TO DEATH HUSBAND IS BELIEVED DROWNED

Mrs. Lottie Smith is Feared By Police to be Victim of Foul Play.

MAN IS SOUGHT.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 13 (C.P.)—Mrs. Lottie Smith, 45, was found strangled to death in her home last night. Police stated they believed she was the victim of foul play. Her husband, C. W. Smith, 42, is being sought, police said, but they expressed the opinion he took his life in the Desjardins Canal.

The woman was found dead lying fully clothed on a bed, a tightly-knotted handkerchief around the throat. Bruises covered the face.

Smith is believed to have jumped into the canal yesterday afternoon. His coat containing the house key was found last night, before the murder had been discovered, and footprints led to a hole in the ice on the canal. He was seen about the canal yesterday morning and afternoon both.

Police believe the crime was committed Tuesday. Roomers cared for the Smith's 7-year-old son Tuesday night when neither one of them put in appearance at the rooming house where they lived.

Arthur Donnelly's Case is Hushed Up

OTTAWA, Ont., March 13.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. Lucien Cannon, solicitor-general, expressed regret in the House of Commons yesterday that he must ask the House to refuse a request from Miss Agnes MacPhail, (Prog.), South East Grey) for the production of all papers dealing with the release of Arthur Donnelly from the Walkerton jail. Mr. Cannon explained that it was against the practice to produce papers in clemency cases. The communications were regarded as confidential. The motion was not pressed.

Mr. Cannon pointed out that a similar position had been taken by Ministers of Justice since Confederation and also in the United Kingdom. He mentioned Sir John Thompson, Sir Allen Aylesworth, Sir Lomer Gouin and Hon C J Doherty, as having assumed the same attitude as he was taking.

Dominion Official Estimates Total Horsepower Will Reach 10 Millions by 1940.

GREAT COAL SAVER

OTTAWA, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press). — Canada's water power developments should reach an installed capacity of over 10,000,000 horse-power by 1940, according to the estimate of Norman Marr, chief hydraulic engineer of the Dominion Water Power and Reclamation Service. This estimate was given in an address to the convention of the Engineering Institute of Canada. Mr. Marr stated that his estimate of future growth was based on current undertakings and the rate of progress in the last six years. During this period over 2,500,000 horse-power was added to the turbine installation to bring Canada's total to the present figure of 5,710,000 horse-power.

That the substantial growth of recent years will not only be maintained but will be increased is indicated by the number of large undertakings at present under construction and others in active prospect, stated Mr. Marr. The initial installations of only those new works actually under construction together with additions to existing developments will amount to 500,000 horse-power, and when they have been completed to their ultimate designed capacities they will add 2,500,000 horse-power to the total installation for the Dominion.

$1,250,000,000 Invested. ..

The capital invested in water-power development with transmission and distribution systems is estimated at $1,250,000,000, or an average per installed horse-powerr of $219. Applying this average to the estimate of future growth, it would appear that new funds to the extent of at least $92,000,000 per annum will be required to provide for new development during the next few years. Mr. Marr thought that in view of the steady earning power shown by the industry, even in times of industrial depression the capitalization was reasonable and that the new capital required for future expansion would be readily secured.

Another interesting observation related to the amount of coal which would be equivalent to the developed water-power. It was difficult to arrive at a precise figure, stated Mr. Marr, as certain assumptions must necessarily be made but it is reasonable to state that a saving of coal of six tons per annum is capable of being affected by each installed horse-power. This means that the total present water-power installation of 5,710,000 horse-power is capable of affecting a saving of about 34,000,000 tons of coal per annum. The actual saving in any year depends on the output in electrical units and for the 20,500,000,000 kilowatt hours estimated as generated in 1929 an approximate saving of 16,000,000 tons of coal is indicated.

Close figuring on the total extent of Canada's water-powers was not yet possible, Mr. Marr indicated, but as a result of the systematic inventory which has been under way for a number of years a fairly dependable estimate has been made. The available power is estimated to total 20,347,000 horse-power under conditions of ordinary minimum flow or 33,617,000 horse-power for ordinary six months flow. Mr. Marr added that on a commercial basis the available power resources would probably warrant a total installation of about 43,700,000 horse-power.

TWELVE ROOMS ADDED TO HOTEL

Well-Known Hostlery on Simcoe Street Has Many Improvements.

FINISHED MARCH 20

Extensive alterations, amounting to over $2,500 which have been under way at the King's Hotel, Simcoe street, for some weeks past are now nearing completion. It is expected that the contractors will vacate the premises on or about March 20th and when they do so they will have completed renovations which bring this old hostelry in line with other hotels in the city of more modern construction.

Ten to twelve new rooms have been added by the simple expedient of building dividing walls in the existing rooms which were of very spacious dimensions. All bedrooms have been tastefully re-decorated in light and artistic shades of the newest patterns in wallpaper, whilst the plumbing contractors, Messrs Adamson and Dobbin have installed individual hot and cold wash basins in each bedroom in place of the old communal bathroom.

"Dave" N. King the genial host, boasts that he can now offer first class accommodation and is catering specially to "commercials" and the farm trade. "I have altered everything", he declared proudly, "except the quality of the meals which I serve in the dining-room and which I cannot improve."

Mr. King has been landlord of the King Hotel for eight years, having come to this city from Norwood where he kept an hotel of the same name. He is a native of Mariposa township and his wife hails from Oshawa.

The King hotel an old established hostelry has been known by several different names during its long period of service to the community. It now has thirty rooms, not including a spacious dining-room, pool room, kitchens and rotunda.

The decorations were undertaken by Wm. M. Barrigan of Bolivar street and the carpenter work by Jas. Graham.

BOVRIL LIMITED SET NEW SALES RECORD

Credit Given to Advertising, Which Prevents "Sinking Feeling."

Presiding at the thirty-third Annual General Meeting of the Bovril Limited, held recently at River Plate House, London, the Chairman, Lord Luke, is reported in the London Times as saying that not only did the sales of Bovril in 1929 surpass all previous records, but the increase was at an accelerated pace. The year showed a larger increase over its predecesor than any previous year with the one exception of 1919, when conditions were abnormal.

Although advertising was considerably larger, their additional sales were many times the amount of the extra advertising, so they had no cause for complaint.

One of the problems with which the Company would be faced in the not far distant future would be that of securing adequate supplies of first quality beef. Serious steps, he felt, would have to be taken to increase the quantity and improve the quality of the beef the Dominions could in future spare for Great Britain.

With the United States about to enact very substantial increases in the rates of duty against Canadian cattle and beef, it is encouraging to note, from the above remarks of Lord Luke, that a market to replace the one from which Canadian stock raisers wil be shut out is beginning to open up.

GYPSIES HIT BY LAW

GAY SOCKS FOR SPORTS APPAREL

Gloves and Stockings Threaten to Match Costume Colors.

SUEDES IN FAVOR

NEW YORK, Mar. 13. (U.P.) — Coincident with the spring openings, Schiaparelli offered colored hosiery, the tones of course matching the costume with which they were worn. Going this idea one better, is the introduction of colored hosiery in fabric weaves, instead of plain.

Taking one consideration with another it is evident that stockings are undergoing a decided change not only in construction. One assumes that this effoffrt has been put forth to discourage the practice of omitting stockings. Gay socks are of course a sports factor and are reported as being chosen with the chic but daring shorts in which women now appear on the courts.

The tendency to match gloves to the costume with which they are worn is another new development worth watching. While some kids appear, the scales dip decidedly in favor of suedes in all lengths from 4 to 6 button and in pull-on models.

For evening, white, all white and delicate pinky beige suede are suggested as the newest notes but the habit of wearing gloves for evening has not become general either here or in Paris. The conservative element and some of the ultra younger set wear them however.

RAYFIELD FAMILY TO RESIDE IN TORONTO

Only Holder of Victoria Cross in This District is Giving Up Farming.

PONTYPOOL, March 13.—(Examiner Correspondence).—W. L. Rayfield, a holder of the V.C., who recently attended the Prince of Wales' dinner in London, is leaving this locality, it is learned with regret, to take up residence in Toronto.

Mr. Rayfield was bereaved recently by the loss of his father-in-law, who passed away shortly after his return from his recent visit overseas, and this necessitates the selling of the property to settle an estate.

The sale, recently conducted by James Roddy of Fraserville, with J. Payne as auctioneer's clerk, attracted a large gathering of farmers and the many high class implements brought some good prices.

Mr. Rayfield, his wife and family have always been considered hard workers, good neighbours and excellent citizens. Both Mr. and Mrs. Rayfield served in the Great War the latter being very active at that time in community work.

Mrs. Rayfield has been in Toronto for some time living with her mother and her husband is joining her there this week.

Anaemia comes on gradually, beginning with langour, indisposition to mental or bodily exertion, irritability and a feeling of fatigue. Later comes the palpitation of the heart, headaches, frequent backaches and often disturbed indigestion and an inability to obtain rest at night. Cases of this kind, if neglected, become more serious, but if taken in time there is no need to worry. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are free from any harmful or habit-forming drug, are just the tonic needed to remedy this wretched state of health. These pills actually make the rich, red blood that stimulates and strengthens every organ and nerve in the body. Thus strength and activity return, the appetite improves and restful sleep is had. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can and will do is shown by the case of Mrs. D. B. Fanning, Seal Harbor, N.S., who says:—"I was in a badly run-down condition. I was pale, my appetite was very poor, and the least exertion would leave me completely tired out. In fact I was hardly able to do much work about the house. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking a few boxes can truthfully say I had gained greatly in health and strength and was able to go about my work with no sign of the former weakness. I cheerfully recommend them to all others who may be in a run-down condition."

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EVERY latest fashion touch is embodied in the new 1930 Spring Coats, Dresses and Hats at Fair's. The new silhouette, higher waist line, flaring skirts, and hats showing extended brims and off-the-face models, are all now on display ready for inspection in their different departments.

FROCKS of Supreme Daintiness

Gracefulness of outline is strikingly marked in the new Spring Frocks. The higher waistline adds to the newness of the models, and the flaring skirts gives a most desirable fullness and freedom in walking

COATS that are Exclusive

Coats are shown in colorful tweed, with intricately cut gores, fitting at waistline and flaring at hem. Fox is a favorite fur trim this Spring, blending so nicely with the new tweeds. The plain Coats have mannish collars and novel pockets.

Lovely Scarves and Collars

Smartness is not merely a matter of being perfectly gowned. It requires smart accessories, not the least of which are the dainty new Scarfs and Collars, gaily patterned to give color and softness to the tailored suit or coat.

Hosiery

Spring fashions demand Hosiery to harmonize with each frock, and the many added new tints make this more generally possible than ever before. Some of the new shades are beige Claire, blonde Dora, rose nude, allure, rendezvous, illusion and spontan.

Gloves

Milady's New Spring Hats

Brims are very much in evidence, though mostly extending at the sides and back on an off-the-face model. The small Hat still remains popular and is shown in the handsome lace straws as well as the other new straws, Panamalac, Bakous and Sisols. Cute little bows on the side, under the brim or over the eyebrow are the favorite touches of individuality. Prices are very moderate

BEAUTIFYING THE HIGHWAYS.

Two items that indicated a pleasing trend in connection with Ontario's highways were noticed in the newspapers yesterday.

One referred to a resolution passed by the St. Thomas Horticultural Society calling upon the Ontario Department of Highways to do something to prevent the wanton destruction by motorists of wild flowers, trees and shrubs along the provincial highways.

The other announced a decision by the Rose Highway Association of Welland County to plant rose bushes along the sides of the highways in that county.

There is much that can be done to improve conditions along Ontario's main roads, and these interesting despatches deal with two important ways of going about it.

Nature has done a great deal for the people of Ontario, but, as the St. Thomas resolution points out, much of the natural beauty is destroyed through the thoughtlessness of our own people and the stranger within our gates, who are responsible for ruining not only the bountiful crop of wild flowers but many shrubs and trees as well.

The Welland association is to be commended for its plan to beautify the highways in its district.

Expense and labor are involved in the proposed extensive planting of rose bushes, but the results will justify both the cost and the work.

THE DIVORCE COURT BILL.

The very many people in Ontario who do not believe that there should be greater facilities for the obtaining of divorces in this Province must have read of the very close vote on the proposal to introduce a divorce court in Ontario with a good deal of misgiving.

There are, of course, some features of the present system that are open to attack, but the whole thing boils down to the simple question, "Do we in Ontario want to make divorces easier to obtain?"

Undoubtedly the setting up of legal machinery in this Province would bring about that condition, and at the same time bring Ontario very much closer to the situation that exists in the United States where the marriage tie is as easily broken as the Volstead Act.

It is a question of the greatest importance, striking as it does at the homes of this Province, and yet it is an issue that has never been before the people in an election campaign when they would have had an opportunity of expressing an opinion on the subject.

The measure came within a vote or two of being carried on Tuesday, and beyond a shadow of a doubt, it will be re-introduced at the next session of Parliament.

In the interval the people of Ontario should make their wishes known.

If they are opposed to the introduction of a divorce court in this Province they must let their representatives in Parliament know their views and give them a mandate to fight the proposal tooth and nail.

NATIVE WINE.

By far the most important of the amendments to the Liquor Control Act introduced by the Attorney-General is that which provides for the placing of the sale of native wine under a permit system, on the same footing as other intoxicating beverages.

The change is a necessary one in view of the fact that Ontario wine is held responsible for many breaches of the Liquor Control Act.

Despite its high alcoholic content, native wine, both under the Ontario Temperance Act and under the present system, has been under no real control and could be purchased in large quantities by anybody who had the money to pay for it.

It was always a mystery why such a thing should have been tolerated during the prohibition regime, or why when other beverages were placed under a permit system the present Government should have continued to permit this lax sale of wines which contained 30 per cent. or more alcohol.

The amendment now introduced will put an end to the old conditions, for when it comes into effect it will be impossible to purchase Ontario-made wine in any other way than by permit—a change that should do away with many of the abuses that have prevailed under the haphazard method of sale hitherto permitted in Ontario.

COLONEL BARKER'S DEATH.

The tragic death of Colonel W. G. Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., one of the world's greatest war flyers and one of Canada's outstanding war heroes, in an airplane accident at Ottawa yesterday has shocked the people of this country.

That this famous ace, who officially accounted for 52 enemy planes and risked his life in a score of "dog fights" in the Great War should have survived all the perils of war-time flying only to meet his death in a trial "flip" is a strange twist of fate.

Colonel Barker, who had been interested in flying ever since his return from overseas, was president of the Fairchild Aviation Company of Canada, and to take a new plane up for a trial as he did yesterday was as natural a thing to him as for an automobile salesman to drive a newly-arrived car round the block.

Yet the man who laughed at death through years of hectic aerial warfare had not been ten minutes in the air yesterday until his machine faltered and then plunged to earth, carrying Canada's great war flyer to death.

Colonel Barker's name will always be remembered as that of one of the greatest Canadian heroes of the war, a young Canadian—he was only twenty when he went overseas—who distinguished himself by skill, endurance and sheer valor that earned him world-wide fame.

AIR MAIL.

When the planes took wing yesterday on the western circuit, they rather more than doubled the area of Canada over which air mail service is now being regularly operated. From the Atlantic to the western peninsula of Ontario, and from Manitoba to the Mountains, the mail car has been supplemented by the more speedy overhead carrier. If there is added the Mackenzie basin, throughout which mail has been distributed at intervals during the past winter, very considerably more than half of the occupied portion of the Dominion is now provided with air mail service. There remain only two gaps to be bridged, across northern Ontario and across British Columbia, to make the service nation-wide in its scope. That this will be done within a year or so there is every reason to suppose.

As yet air mail has been tried in Canada only where it was least needed; in those Provinces where large centres are close together and train service fast and frequent. A vastly greater saving in time is possible between the more widely separated centres in the western half of the Dominion, where train service is less frequent and less rapid.

Air mail, like any other convenience, is only practicable if the revenue justifies the cost. Upon the amount of mail matter consigned to the planes will depend the permanency of the newly-established western service. That will also affect the question of when the gaps are to be filled in and a trans-Canada service instituted.

The enthusiasm with which the new venture has been received throughout the west indicates that the advantages of the faster service are very generally appreciated, and promises for it a correspondingly large patronage and generous financial support. Air mail, it is pretty safe to assume, has come to the west to stay, and to be extended as conditions require.—Edmonton Bulletin.

"FED UP."

According to the Christian Century, as quoted by the Literary Digest, thousands of people in this modern civilization of ours are inexpressibly bored. The question in many homes is, "What shall we do?" Weary of bridge, tired of the radio, surfeited of the movies, men and women do not know what to do with themselves. This is not the general attitude by any means, for the variety of entertainment enables one to escape from one to the other. Yet this rush from one activity to another is in itself productive of boredom to some people. They are like people in a motor car speeding over the highway. They go so fast they have no time to observe, the beauties of nature are presented only as a blur, and blurs are notoriously uninteresting.

The fact is that interest in life cannot be sustained without an aim, and when an aim is lacking leisure is undesirable. The negative attitude we adopt when we drift from pleasure to pleasure deadens our highest potentialities, and, unconscious sometimes of the reason, we grow discontented. But the reason, if we examine ourselves carefully, is that we have chosen to be lazy when our highest impulses urged us to purposeful activity. Leisure, indeed, like fire, is a good servant, but a bad master, but leisure can only be made the best of by deliberately resolving to concentrate attention upon a few things. Far better to be interested in one thing than bored by many, and the more attention is directed towards a thing the more interest in it grows, and with interest happiness. It is a sign of boredom, probably, that people are turning from novels to biography, travel and history. After a while they know all the plots, and get tired of reading of the same themes. So they take up biography and find that life itself has greater variety. But they would gain more out of literature if they were deliberately to seek to master one phase of it, instead of sipping like a butterfly at many literary blossoms, and, what is more, they would not get "fed up" so easily.—Hamilton Spectator.

THAT GARDEN.

The time is fast drawing near when the suburban householder will find himself musing, in the peace of the evening, about his back-yard garden.

The habit of keeping a garden on a suburban lot sometimes rises to the level of an art and sometimes sinks to the level of a vice; and every suburbanite is touched by it, in greater or lesser degree, at some time in his life.

All of this never does anyone any harm, and occasionally the vegetables that are raised in these back-yard gardens are quite edible—or if it's another kind of garden, the flowers that grow can actually be plucked, put in a vase and used to decorate a living-room table. One wonders, though, why it is that this annual gardening epidemic has never drawn the attention of learned students.

In the first place, keeping a back-yard garden is the hallmark of respectability, of placid and trustworthy domesticity. No man who putters about a nine-by-eleven plot of dirt, in the evenings, with a strained trowel and an aching pair of knees, would ever abscond with another's cash or with another's wife. To keep a garden on this modest scale is to assure your neighbors that you are a man whom the bitter winds of temptation do not ruffle. You are not, in a word, flighty. There must be solid stuff in you.

But that is not the whole of it. Keeping a garden is not simply an attempt to get fresh vegetables or flowers. It is a sort of mystic ritual; a method by which the victims of a hard, mechanical age can get in touch with the pungent earth once more.

For there are profound mysteries in this business of putting seeds in a black earthen furrow. Agriculture is the world's oldest miracle. The appearance of life in a spot of bare ground was surely the first intimation man had that his lonely ache for another life might not be simply a wild and hopeless dream. It is not without reason that orthodox religion is generally stronger in the farmland than in the city.

No suburban gardener ever stops to think all of this out, of course. The substance of it hangs with him, though, so that he draws an irrational kind of contentment out of his labors. He spades under a bit of sod, rakes it smooth, plants it, and raises radishes and weeds; and through it all he perceives, without exactly realizing that he perceives it, that his existence is somehow in tune with a great rhythm which pervades the whole universe. He goes on his hands and knees to grub in the dirt, and he finds there something that the ordinary jobs of life do not give him.

So, every spring, he does it again.—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The MacDonald Government may be down, but it is not yet out.

More coal has been discovered in Northern Ontario, and if the winters keep on getting longer we're going to need it all.

Mr. Elliott, member for North Bruce, says he would rather have a bucket shop in his town than a liquor store. Well, you don't have to do business with either if you don't want to, Mr. Elliott should remember.

Somebody in the Legislature the other day spoke about "bar-rooms on wheels." Didn't we hear a lot about that during the O.T.A. regime?

J. A. Sangster, member for Glengarry, is an optimist. He told the Ontario Government that he expects a decrease in optimism.

The Brockville hockey team deserves credit for carrying a name like Magedoma as far as the Eastern Ontario intermediate championship.

IN DAYS GONE BY.

TEN YEARS AGO
March 13, 1920.

Yesterday afternoon the Downie street creek went on its annual rampage and almost equalled its performances of others years. About two o'clock the creek overflowed in the vicinity of the William Hamilton works and soon McDonnel street was flooded, an avalanche of water flowing into the cellars of the residents on the south side of the street.

What To-day Means To You

"PISCES."

If March 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9:40 a.m., from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 6 a.m. to 7:30 a.m. and from 11 p.m. to midnight.

A hustling bustling day is augured for this date, but there will be more activity than accomplishment—haste will make waste in more ways than one. There will be extravagant expenditures, considerable travel, and exchange of properties.

The child born on this March 13 will have a brilliant mind, but not a practical one. It will be ambitious, but it will lack the plodding perseverance which is so essential to success. It will have a very proud and very generous nature.

It cannot be said that you possess a very strong nature, for a positive one, but you do possess many endearing qualities. You have a sweet, humble, charitable and kindly nature. You are looking for the flowers and not the weeds in your pathway, and you are finding them. You are looking for the good which you find in others, and you find it. You have a tremendous reserve of quiet strength which helps you through the bad days of your life. You have something within upon which to fail.

You have ability and some little talent, but you are so very modest about your own accomplishments. You shun any kind of publicity or "showing off" in any way. You are very secretive, and if anything you take too little, for one who can really say wise things. You are a philosopher, and you have learned to take the rough with the smooth and to meet every crisis courageously. You have a heart of gold, and are wonderfully just. In your quiet way you can weigh up a person with amazing speed, but your criticism is usually a charitable one—you are always ready to make excuses for those who err. Neither great wealth nor dire poverty are likely to enter your life—you will travel along the middle plane. You are too spiritually minded to care for many material things, although you do not hold yourself above them.

THE GREENE MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE

"When you were in your room, was the door open?"

"Oh, yes. I always leave it open in the daytime in case Mrs. Greene calls."

"And her door was open, too, I take it."

"Yes."

"Did you hear the shot?"

"No, I didn't."

"That will be all, Miss Craven," Vance accompanied her to the hall. "You'd better return to your room now, for we're going to pay a visit to your patient."

Mrs. Greene eyed us vindictively when we entered after having knocked and been imperiously ordered to come in.

"More trouble," she complained. "Am I never to have any peace in my house? The first day in weeks I've felt even moderately comfortable—and then all this had to happen to upset me!"

"We regret, madam—more than you do apparently—that your son is dead," said Markham. "And we are sorry for the annoyance the tragedy is causing you. But that does not relieve me from the necessity of investigating the affair. As you were awake at the time the shot was fired, it is essential that we seek what information you may be able to give us."

"What information can I give you—a helpless paralytic, lying here alone?" A smouldering anger flickered in her eyes. "It strikes me that you are the one to give me information."

Markham ignored her barbed retort.

"The nurse tells me your door was open this morning. * * *"

"And why shouldn't it have been? Am I expected to be entirely excommunicated from the rest of the household?"

"Certainly not. I'm merely trying to find out if, by any chance, you were in a position to hear anything that went on in the hall."

"Well, I heard nothing—if that's all you want to know."

Markham persisted patiently.

"You heard no one for, instance, cross Miss Ada's room or open Miss Ada's door?"

"I've already told you I heard nothing." The old lady's denial was viciously emphatic.

"Nor any one walking in the hall or descending the stairs?"

"No one but that incompetent doctor and the impossible Sproot. Were we supposed to have had visitors this morning?"

"Some one shot your son," Markham reminded her cooly.

"It was probably his own fault," she snapped. Then she seemed to relent a bit. "Still, Rex was not as hard and thoughtless as the rest of the children. But even he neglected me shamefully." She appeared to weight the matter. "Yes," she decided, "he received just punishment for the way he treated me."

Markham struggled with a hot resentment. At last he managed to ask, with apparent calmness:

"Did you hear the shot with which your son was punished?"

"I did not." Her tone was again irate. "I knew nothing of the disturbance until the doctor saw fit to tell me."

"And yet Mr. Rex's door, as well as yours, was open," said Markham. "I can hardly understand your not having heard the shot."

The old lady gave him a look of scathing irony.

"And I to sympathize with your lack of understanding?"

"Lest you be tempted to, madam, I shall leave you." Markham bowed stiffly and turned on his heel.

As we reached the lower hall Dr. Doremus arrived.

"Your friends are still at it, I hear, Sergeant," he greeted Heath, with his usual breezy manner. Handing his coat and hat to Sproot, he came forward and shook hands with all of us. "When you fellows don't spoil my breakfast you interfere with my lunch," he repined. "Where's the body?"

Heath led him upstairs, and after a few minutes returned to the drawing room. Taking out another cigar he bit the end of it savagely. "Well, sir, I guess you'll want to see this Miss Sibella next won't you?"

"We might as well," sighed Markham. "Then I'll tacke the servants and leave things to you. The reporters will be along pretty soon."

"Don't I know it! And what they're going to do to us in the paper'll be a—plenty!"

"And you can't even tell them 'It is confidently expected that an arrest will be made in the immediate future,' don't y' know," grinned Vance. "It's most distressin'."

Heath made an inarticulate noise of exasperation and, calling Sproot, sent him for Sibella.

A moment later she came in carrying a small Pomeranian. She was paler than I had ever seen her, and there was unmistakable fright in her eyes. When she greeted us it was without her habitual gayety.

"This thing is getting rather ghastly, isn't it?" she remarked when she had taken a seat.

"It is indeed dreadful," returned Markham soberly. "You have our very deepest sympathy. * * *"

"Oh thanks awf'ly." She accepted the cigarette Vance offered her. "But I'm beginning to wonder how long I'll be here to receive condolences." She spoke with forced lightness, but a strained quality in her voice told of her suppressed emotion.

Markham regarded her sympathetically.

"I do not think it would be a bad idea if you went away for a while—to some friend's house, let us say—preferably out of the city."

"Oh, no." She tossed her head with defiance. "I shant't run away. If there's any one really bent on killing me, he'll manage it somehow, wherever I am. Anyway, I'd have to come back sooner or later. I couldn't board with out-of-town friends indefinitely—could I?" She looked at Markham with a kind of anxious despair. "You haven't any idea, I suppose, who it is that's obsessed with the idea of exterminating us Greenes?"

Markham was reluctant to admit to her the utter hopelessness of the official outlook; and she turned appealingly to Vance.

"You needn't treat me like a child," she said spiritedly. "You at least, Mr. Vance, can tell me if there is any one under suspicion."

"No, dash it all, Miss Greene! there isn't," he answered promptly. "It's an amazin' confession to have to make; but it's true. That's why I think Mr. Markham suggested that you go away for a while."

"It's very thoughtful of him and all that," she returned. "But I think I'll stay and see it through."

"You're a very brave girl," said Markham, with troubled admiration. "And I assure you everything humanly possible will be done to safeguard you."

"Well ,so much for that."

"COMING TO TERMS WITH THE UNIVERSE."

Thursday.

"The Integrity of the Universe."

SCRIPTURE

Memory Verse: "The righteousness is like the mountains of God; thy judgments are a great deep" (Psalm 36:6).

Read: Psalm 36:5-10.

MEDITATION

God's ways are often as mysterious and unfathomable as the sea, into whose dark depths we cannot peer. But His righteousness, said the Psalmist, is "like the mountains." We can see the mountains. They do not change or pass away. They stand fast in all storms. To be on living terms with the world, we must believe that there is integrity at the heart of it. That alone makes life worth living and ideals worth striving for. Our righteousness is grounded in the righteousness of God. Whittier puts it:

"But nothing can be good in Him
Which evil is in me."

We can bravely trust the judgments of God, if His righteousness is like the mountains.

PRAYER

Lord, Thou art our light and our salvation. As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so Thou art round about Thy people. In thy surrounding righteousness we find comfort and security and peace. Amen.

NO DISGRACE TO STAND ASIDE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—Canada has a press of daily, weekly and magazine issue that intellectually and mechanically is equal if not superior (for its size) to everything in the world. This press is supremely patriotic, too, and as soon as the probability of an election for the Dominion loomed up it began calling for "better men" in the high councils of the nation. While political parties are necessary, so long as there are different policies in trade and civil government the old idea of crazy partisanship has gone by the board. It had to go if Canada was to do business in business world instead of devoting itself to a fight for political power and emoluments. The recent combination of Republicans and Democrats in the U. S. Congress is a plain example of the means by which that country keeps at the forefront of the world. No matter how bitterly partizan they may be over there, they do not sacrifice their country to party politics all the same, and we are beginning to feel that way here. We must send our best men and women to Parliament. It is no disgrace for us to stand aside because we are too small for the job.

The development of Canada, electrically and industrially as well as financially, has been simply colossal of late years. We talk in sums of figures now that make those of a few years ago look absurd. In a word the top-grade of Canadian development has grown enormously. We of the bottom grade must learn to look up to this immense development going on above us, because its success very largely depends upon what we do at the polls. We must shake ourselves together. We have possibilities of which I will give you an instance in a moment, which are so great that for us to send stuffed figures to sit on our back benches is without exaggeration a sin and a shame. Moreover our members must devote their whole time to the national business. To give but a little of it is nowadays quite plainly too grotesque to discuss. The instance I promised you is this: The Scientific American points out that at last the illimitable richness of Canada in minerals along its northern coast from Alaska to Labrador can be made use of. This marvellous fact depends upon a discovery recently made and so simple as to make us wonder that it was not made long ago. Salt or sea-water freezes at 5 degrees lower than fresh water. Energy developed from heat is developed on precisely the same principle as a water-power energy, viz: the flow from a higher temperature to a lower as from a higher level to a lower in the case of water. We can all see at a glance what this means to our transarctic coast and its fresh and salt water. It means hydro-energy from the different freezing points of each of any amount and at a low cost for the development of beds of all kinds of ore which The Scientific American says is twenty times greater along that coast than the total supply in the whole U.S.! Added to our previous expansion, this sort of thing must at once show us that it will take the very vest brains we have to keep up with it, and these we must secure.

It's a remedy that is astonishing the whole country, and it's just as good for gout, sciatica, lumbago and muscular aches and pains as for rheumatism.

It drives the poisonous waste from the joints and muscles—that's the secret of Rheuma's success.

But we don't ask you to take our word for it; go to McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store, or any good druggist and get a bottle, and if it doesn't do as we promised get your money back. It will be there waiting for you.

COMMENT ON MORNING STOCK MARKETS OVER BIGGAR & CRAWFORD WIRE

Ford of Canada was the feature of the Toronto market with a rise of $34. The majority of stocks were nervous with Int. Nickel and Walkers fractionally lower. Super-Test at $30 was off 2 points.

The New York market was featured by strength in the oils. No definite trend was developed in the general list and specialties were jumpy.

MACDONALD ENCOURAGED.

LONDON March 13.—(C.P.)—Premier MacDonald was stated in authoritative circles to-night to have been encouraged by to-day's developments at the Naval Conference.

While this was not amplified, observers assumed it to refer to the all-day conferences which have been in progres in an effort to reach a solution of the crisis growing out of the French demands.

CONVERT BUILDING INTO SHOW ROOMS

Wrecking Work Commences To-day on Simcoe Street Property.

Wrecking work commenced to-day on certain buildings on the north side of Simcoe street and west on the lane between Water and Queen streets, on the property recently purchased by A. Brown and Son, from W. J. Hopwood, 366 Water Street as well as the adjoining property on Water street from W. H. Meldrum, 52 McDonnell street.

The razing permit was taken out in the City Engineer's office yesterday, and the work is now proceeding apace under the direction of the contractor, J. B. Brown.

It is understood that the erection of a large garage and showrooms is contemplated, although the building permit for this work has not yet been taken out, and that the new structure will have a floor space of about 20,000 square feet.

The Water Street Bowling Alleys, which are part of the Brown property will, it is learned, be converted into showrooms but will not be razed.

ISSUE SUFFERS REACTION UNDER PROFIT-TAKING AT NOON HOUR

Toronto Stock Exchange Continues To-day's Trading in Unsettled State.

NICKEL SETTLES.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press). — Still unsettled and reactionary, the market on Toronto Stock Exchange declined this morning below the average of last night. Losses were for small fractions for the most part, the fact that volume of trading dried up on the decline serving to steady prices.

There was one stock, however, which stood out conspicuously as staging a strong advance in utter disregard for the general market sentiment. Ford of Canada not only added to yesterday's gain, but broke through 34 to set a new high for the year. Of course the price did not hold at that figure throughout the morning, profit-taking towards midday accounting for a reaction to as low as 33 at one time.

Nickel settled back slowly from the opening, touching 39 at its low, where it was off approximately ½ point from last night. Smelters dropped back 5 points and Noranda was lower. Liquor stocks were heavy and here and there individual issues settled back. Hamilton Bridge about midforenoon touched a new low for the year at 31.

Oil stocks were firmer than most, but there was very little buying even on the upturn and consequently any advance was necessarily slow and of limited extent.

FAVORABLE REPORTS SUDBURY PROPERTY

Deal Pending For Funds to Continue Ritchie Gold Development Program.

TORONTO, Mar. 13. (Special to Examiner.)—Sudbury offsets in their drilling campaign at the property on the Foy offset on the north nickel range at Sudbury continue to meet with encouraging results. Word just received is that the last diamond drill hole just completed passed through 97 feet of ore body, a large percentage of which is high grade nickel copper ore. Diamond drilling will be continued for another two or three weeks after which a plant will be installed and mining proceeding with. The company, it is stated, is assured of a market for its ore.

A deal whereby Ritchie gold, holding one of the more advanced properties in the Eastern Kirkland Lake district, will secure additional funds for the continuance of a development program, is understood to be under way at present. The company's annual meeting will be held soon and directors hope by that time to be in a position to give shareholders some important information.

Recent sensational developments in connection with mining stock speculation have no real effect on the major producers of minerals, although these events and low prices for some metals are responsible for the cessation of work on some small producers says the monthly letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Such unfavorable occurrences are overshadowed by record operations at other points, the prospect of production from several properties within the next few months and the headway being made in development work on many other properties.

Arrangements whereby a well known brokerage house was to have taken up some 540,000 shares of Central Patricia at 25 cents a share having fallen through, directors of the company are reported to be now supplying the funds necessary for the continuation of the underground development program decided upon some time ago. The company is understood to have had $125,000 before starting the present campaign, and the house which underwrote the stock paid in approximately $25,000 before cancelling the deal.

QUEER PACKAGE CONTAINS BOMB

Explodes While Police Are Testing it—Sent to Woman in Mail.

LETTERS DEMANDED MONEY

HAMILTON, Ont., March 13.—(C.P.)—Mrs. Palmiro Savelli, 50 Sherman avenue north, received a package in the mail yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. She was suspicious of the package as she had received two letters demanding that money be left at the Holy Sepulchre cemetery gates or her life would be taken.

The police were called and the box was placed in a pail of water. It was taken to the airport at noon to-day and was exploded. The explosion was estimated to be equal to that of three sticks of dynamite. A hole as large as a bathtub was caused by it.

One letter was sent to Mrs. Savelli before Christmas and another was received about a month ago. She is 42 years of age and has six children. Her husband is at home and she could give no explanation as to why the letters were addressed to her rather than to her husband.

OILS ACTIVE ON STANDARD

Resistance to Any Further Declines Only Evidence of Firmness.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press.)—Oils were about the only group to show any real effort at recovery on the mining market during the early session to-day. As far as a good portion of the mining list was concerned, yesterday's softness was still in evidence, and any firmness displayed took the form of mere resistence to any further declines.

Mayland, which touched a low of $1 yesterday after exhibiting strength for over a week, was one of the early oils to show buoyancy and at noon had regained 15 to $1.30. Alberta Pacific moved up 7 to $1.82, Baltac 3 to 50 and Home Oil 5 to $8.50. Southwest and Lowery Pete were still rather soft, the former easing another 6 to 80 and the latter 5 to $2.

MILITARY HONORS WILL BE GIVEN TO COL. W. G. BARKER

Remains of Great Canadian Ace Are Brought to Toronto.

INQUEST NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Probe Be Difficult Due to Condition of Wrecked Plane.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 13. (Canadian Press).—Full honors of the corps to which he brough valorous distinction during the Great War will be paid at Toronto Saturday to Lieut. Col. William G. Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., victim of an aeroplane crash here Wednesday.

The body of the ace who brought down 52 enemy 'planes in combats over war torn Europe during the three years he served overseas with the Royal Canadian Air Force from 1915 to 1918, was carried by train from here last night to the Ontario capital where he maintained a permanent residence. The body was accompanied by an official of the Fairchild Aviation Corporation of Canada, of which Col. Barker was himself president. It was a new Fairchild bi-plane the daring flyer took up over the Rockliffe aerodrome here yesterday "for a flip" that suddenly seemed to hang dizzily in mid air after a steep climb and then plung headlong to earth. The famed pilot was dead when eye witnesses of the accident reached the tangled wreckage.

Many Airmen to Attend

A large corps of senior officers of Air Service headquarters, Department of National Defence, including officers of the R.C.F.A., of which Col. Barker was once Acting Director, will attend the obsequies. It was decided to accord full military honors after the wishes of the Colonel's relatives had been ascertained by officials of the Defence Department.

Cause of the fatal accident has not been determined. An official board of inquiry, comprised of three members of the Government Civil Aviation Branch, has been named to investigate the crash and attempt to determine its cause. The aircraft is a complete wreck, damaged beyond reconstruction in its crash from a low altitude into the slush ice along the shore of the Ottawa river, and the probe is bound to be a difficult and lengthy procedure.

Resting in a dark oaken casket, the remains were brought from the private funeral parlor, where an inquest was opened yesterday afternoon, and placed aboard the 11 o'clock train for Toronto. After viewing the body the coroner adjourned the inquest until Wednesday next.

Friends Pay Homage

A sorrowing little group of men, prominent in the aero-world, who had been associated with Col. Barker in his many aeronautical enterprises, gathered at the station to pay homage to the departed hero. Among them were J. A. Wilson, Controller of Civil Aviation, Department of National Defence; Colonel R. H. Mulloch, General Manager of International Airways Co., Canada, Limited; Lieut. Col. R. F. Parkinson, D.S.O., former Officer Commanding the Governor General's Foot Guards; Captain D. C. Shaw, test pilot of the Fairchild Company, and Flight Lieutenant N. C. O. Forbes, representing the Royal Canadian Air Force.

OPERATORS FOR THE ADVANCE MAINTAIN STRONG UPPER HAND

Expectations of Cut in Rediscount Rate Provides Background For Rise.

ACTIVITY IN OIL.

(By Stanley W. Prenosil, Associated Press Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 13 - Expectations of a cut in the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate after the close of to-day's market provided the background for a brisk advance in prices in to-day's stock market. Flurries of selling swept through the market at intervals because of the disappointing nature of some of the recent trade news, but offerings were well absorbed, and operators for the advance succeeded in maintaining the upper hand.

Revival of speculative activity and strength in the oil shares, a dozen of which moved into new high ground for the year, featured the day's proceedings.

Houston was marked up nearly 5 points to a new top at 86¼. Skelly climbed more than 2 points to a new high at 23¼, and Standard Oil of New Jersey, General Asphalt and Indian Refining sold 2 points or more above yesterday's final quotations. Barnsdall, Sinclair, Standard Oil of New York, Atlantic Refining, Pure Oil and Independent Oil and Gas were among the stocks to attain new 1930 peaks.

A Special Service to the Examiner

CLAIMS ON WAY TO SETTLEMENT.

According to the latest advices, the claim of Canadian Car and Foundry Company against the German Government for war damages on the way to an early settlement, and in quarters close to the company, there is a confident feeling that a decision favorable to the company will be rendered by the claims board at Washington. Officials of Canadian Car are now at the Capitol where the board is scheduled to commence sittings on the 15th of this month.

It is stated that as a result of investigations made within the past several months, the company's case has been greatly strengthened. New evidence is understood to have been unearthed to substantiate some of the strong points in the case against Germany. An important new witness has also been located and if the Commission desires to hear him it is understood he will be available. As a result, the confidence expressed by the management at the annual meeting of a favorable outcome has been increased in recent weeks.

The award of the claim, which is estimated to amount to several millions, has special interest for Canadian Car shareholders. It is the general opinion that it would be distributed to holders of the common stock, in the form of compensation for the period during which no dividend was paid on the junior issue.

EXPERIENCE ACTIVE YEAR.

The fiscal year of Photo Engravers & Electrotypers Ltd., closed at the end of February and the annual statement is expected to appear in April.

While net profits will be a matter of surmise until the annual statement appears, the Financial News Bureau is informed that sales for the year showed an increase over the previous year and that monthly increases persisted into the final quaeter. If write-offs are not out of proportion, therefore, the amount brought down to profit and loss should show a fair gain.

Sales for the year ended February 28th, 1929, aggregated $830,592, compared with $358,873 for the six months period to August 31, 1927. A consistent increase has been shown in the past four or five years, the total in 1925 being $555,133; in 1926, $594,998; 1927, $826,045.

Gross profits in the year ended February 28, 1929, amounted to $319,789, after depreciation, representing in a substantial gain over previous records, while the amount available for the common stock, after all charges, was $94,691, equal to $3.16 per share. This compares with dividends of $2.00 per share per annum. Net working capital at the end of last year was $148,011, and the ratio of current assets to current liabilities was almost 5 to 1.

The shares are selling at around 26, at which the yield is 7.8%.

RADICAL CHANGES ARE PLANNED BY PETERBOROUGH GOLF CLUB

Work on New Eighteen-hole Course is Near Completion.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

Radical changes to be completed this year will bring Peterborough's golf course in line with some of the finest courses in Ontario, and an outstanding season is confidently looked forward to.

At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club Limited, held in the Chamber of Commerce council room last evening, with W. C. Ackerman presiding, it was reported that after making adequate provision for depreciation on property and outstanding accounts, last year's operations closed with a substantial profit.

Last year's officers were re-elected by acclamation, with the board of directors as follows: W. C. Ackerman, B. D. Hall, H. A. Morrow, G. A. Wood, and George A. Macdonald.

The history of golfing in this city extends back for many years, having been first introduced here when Peterborough was a town. The game was first played at Burnham's Point in the year 1901. A club was formed in 1905 and was sold out to the Limited Company on February 14th, 1929. The present membership is 340, made up of 136 ladies, 134 men, 50 juniors and 20 non-residents. The total ordinary revenue from all sources last season exceeded $10,000 and after paying all expenses the year closed with a substantial credit balance. Close on 1,000 tourists used the course last year and this number it is fully expected will be considerably increased along with the added facilities which will be offered this year.

18-Hole Course

The work of extending the course from nine holes to eighteen will be completed early this season, already 75 per cent. of the work is finished, having been commenced in September last to the specifications prepared by Stanley and Thompson, well-known golf architects of Toronto and put into effect by The Trans-Canada Cement Company Limited of Toronto. The addition of another nine holes has meant the purchase of another 70 acres of land which was secured from the Rogers' farm and a portion of the Scollard farm.

The course now extends along the banks of the Trent Valley Canal for a distance of almost one mile and is in the heart of some of the most delightful scenery in this district.

LIEUT.-COL. KER DIES IN LONDON

Noted Canadian Medical Authority Succumbs to Disabilities Received During Great War.

52 YEARS OF AGE.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press). — Lieut.-Colonel R. H. Ker, M.D., of Montreal and Vancouver, died suddenly in London, England, to-day as the outcome of disabilities received during the war. He was spending the winter abroad with his wife and two sons, who were with him at the time of his death.

Dr. Ker, who was in his 52nd year, was the eldest son of the late Archdeacon Ker, D.D., of Montreal. He had a distinguished career at McGill University, where he passed through the faculties of arts and medicine, with the highest rank and honors obtainable.

During the Great War, after two years of service in France he was raised to the rank of Lieut.-Colonel, and assigned to the work of re-organizing and administering the system under which wounded Canadians were returned to their home medical districts.

Beside his wife and two sons, John and Robert, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. F. L. Whitley, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, and two brothers, T. R. Ker, K.C., of Montreal, and F. I. Ker of the Hamilton Spectator.

SPRING COMES TO MAINE

PORTLAND, Me., March 13. (CP) Wintry winds may lash the Maine coast again but to all seafaring folks here the true harbinger of spring has arrived. On the morning of Feb. 24 the beam trawler Gale put into Portland Harbor with a cargo of 150,000 pounds of fish. She was the first beam trawler of the season to arrive at this port and her catch sets a record for 1930.

From this time out, the fish canning season is on and the Gale will be followed by many big trawlers of the Massachusetts fishing fleet.

be drawn into military alliances, and traditional aversion of the United States to committments on extra-United States affairs.

Notwithstanding everything, however, the paper expressed confidence that "the conference was not likely to separate in despair without accomplishing anything. Its main objects may prove unattainable for the present, but it has reached valuable agreements on a number of points and these results cannot be allowed to lapse."

The Daily Mail said the Conference was fast approaching a crisis and that the prospects for a successful issue were gloomy.

DIVIDEND DISBURSEMENTS WILL RUN INTO MILLIONS

Payments Aggregating $25,000,000 Will Be By Upwards of 75 Companies.

UNLUCKY 13TH ON MARKET.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 13. (Special to Examiner.)—To-day and Friday will see practically fifty securities added to the stock list quoted ex-dividend on the Toronto Stock Exchange in preparation for over the month-end dividends disbursements. March brings to a conclusion the first quarter of the new year and interest and dividend disbursements by Canadian governments, municipalities and corporations will run into millions of dollars. On the first day of the month, payments to shareholders by upwards of 75 companies will be made, aggregating $25,000,000 to which can be added many millions in bond and debenture interest. One or two of the older dividend paying stocks will disappear from the list at this time as directors found it advisable to defer payment but the loss here will be more than made up by the larger number who are making initial disbursements to their stockholders. The distribution of such a large amount of money has created a demand for high grade securities for reinvestment and in 1930 the bulk of this is finding its way into the bond market rather than the stock market. Bonds are in good demand with new offerings meeting a good reception and dealers bidding keenly.

Unlucky 13th.

Early trading on the stock markets to date gave promise the 13th would pass without creating the havoc the same day wrought on one or two occasions in 1929. The reaction, which set in Wednesday was checked at the opening to-day and stocks were no longer pressed for sale, although the list failed to make substantial recovery. Those interested in the market in 1929 learned to look out for the 13th. Friday, September 13th witnessed a drop in prices that is believed by many to have been the forerunner of the series of crashes that culminated in the collapse of security prices on November 13th, and brought to an end the bull market that had reigned for three or four years. Then came Friday, December 13th, when the recovery from the extreme lowest of the previous month was halted and to superstitious traders the 13th has since proven a trying day, particularly when it happens to fall on a Friday.

In a letter accompanying a dividend cheques Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, speaks of an increase in the number of shareholders from 71,000 to over 240,000 in the first fifteen months. and Mr. Sloan refers to the sale of 400,000 new and used cars in 1929 as a tremendous achievement and in concluding says: "We enter the new year with a most outstanding line of cars. Never before have I been as well satisfied with our competitive position and I am confident that if you, as a stockholder, will acquaint yourself with the current offerings, you can conscientiously recommend General Motors Products to your friends and acquaintances on the basis of merit. This, after all, is the only sound foundation upon which sales can be promoted."

Much interest has been centred in Ford of Canada lately in view of the fact that the financial statement for 1929 is believed practically completed and will be made available to shareholders within the next few weeks. The recent strength of the stock market wise and rise on Toronto Stock Exchange this morning to a new high price for 1930 has served to intensify interest and productions are being made regarding earnings per share. Despite the unfavorable situation in Western Canada last year, profits are said to be sufficient to warrant directors declaring a dividend on the stock. A dividend on the basis of $3 annually has been mentioned but more conservative quarters regard this as too high. The buying of the company's stock this week can be traced in substantial amounts to the continent and especially Amsterdam, where the shares were listed last year. Publication of a favorable statement by the German company turned attention to shares of Ford of Canada, but majority of business locally has been for arbitrating between Toronto and New York.

Winnipeg Grain Gains Fail to Hold on Market

WINNIPWG, Man., March 13.—(By the Canadian Press)—Opening advances of more than a cent from rock-bottom wheat prices on the Winnipeg grain market failed to hold to-day. Forecast of rain in the south-west United States, where Kansas crops are thirsting for moisture, occasioned loss of early gains May wheat was 1-8 cent down from yesterday's close, while the other two futures were unchanged.

COMPELLED TO ABANDON GRAIN SHIPMENT PLAN

Attitude on Part of "Coal People" in Canada Makes Action Necessary.

BRITISH PROPOSAL.

Old, Organized Grain Trade in Canada "Doomed" in Opinion of A. J. McPhail.

REGINA, Sask., March 13 (Canadian Press).—The attitude taken by "coal people" in Canada forced the abandonment of a British Government proposal which might have aided wheat shipments from Canada to Britain. This light on the conversations between Canadian wheat pool officials and Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal and Minister of Unemployment in the British Government, was contained in an address to-day by A. J. McPhail, president of the Canadian Wheat Pool.

"We were prepared to recommend, for serious consideration of our board, a certain proposal made by Mr. Thomas that I think would possibly have facilitated the desired developments," stated Mr. McPhail in speaking to a meeting of the Regina Board of Trade. "However, due to the very strong attitude taken by coal people on this side of the water, the whole idea, I think, has been dropped for the time being at least."

Mr. McPhail offered no further details of the "certain proposal," presumably considering as he has intimated heretofore, that reports of the conversations must come from British Government officials. It is recalled, however, that it was reported while the pool men were in Britain that suggestions had been made for shipments of British coal to Canada in tramp steamers, to be filled on their return trips with cargoes of Canadian wheat.

The old organized grain trade is "doomed," in Canada and elsewhere, in the opinion of Mr. McPhail.

THREE EYOUTHS ARRESTED

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (C.P.)—Three youths were arrested by police last night and charged with brutally assaulting and robbing R. L. Johnston, grocery store proprietor, last Saturday night. Search of the apartment where the youths were found revealed an automatic pistol, fully loaded and with the sides of the handle missing. Pieces of a revolver were found in Johnston's store after the robbery, the thugs having beaten him into insensibility with the gun and breaking it in doing so.

and the United States. He competed in the colors of the Argonaut Rowing Club of Toronto. His triumphs include a number of victories over the best scullers in the United States at Philadelphia in the American Henley, triumphs in Canadian events at St. Catharines and elsewhere.

In 1927 at Detroit he set a new world's record in winning the senior quarter-mile dash in the singles event of the National Amateur Rowing Association. His time was 1 minute 1 2-5 seconds.

He has also held several Canadian championships.

Another Record Holder.

Martha Norelius, New York City, first came into fame at the Paris Olympics in 1924. She has been smashing world records ever since, and has on occasions lowered as many as eight world marks at one meet.

She brought the United States its first Olympic swimming championship at Amsterdam, Holland, in 1928, when she set a mark for the 400-meter event at 5.42 4-5.

In July, 1929, she turned professional, and after winning the Wrigley event in Toronto, swam chiefly at exhibition meets.

EVIDENCE CLOSED $20,000 ACTION COBOURG COURT

pavement. As previously brought out the two wheels were thirty inches apart.

Mr. Agar continued the questioning and Vanskike said he believed the cultivator had been hurled about five feet by the automobile.

Witness said that the team of horses would tend to obscure Thompson's view of approaching traffic. The seat of the cultivator is lower than the shoulder of the horses, "but there are three feet between the horses that gives him a view of the road ahead. In turning into the lane Mr. Vanskike said, the right hand horse would obstruct for a moment or two Thompson's view of the road.

Robert Duffin, a neighbor of Thompson's, was attracted to the place of the accident by people gathering there. To him the marks on the pavement indicated that Thompson had made a "sharp turn."

The Damage to the Car

Harold Boundy, another neighbor, replaced the flat tire on the Grant car. The marks of the collision on the car were on the right hand side in front, the right tire was flat, the bumper and fender were crushed in against the flattened tire. The right light was broken off and the right corner of the sun shade was bent.

Proud of His Son

William Thompson, father of the late Clifford Thompson, said of his son: "I never knew him to do a thing I was ashamed of. He was devoted to his work. He loved farming and wouldn't hear of anything else. He was the farmer, not I. The main reason I came here from Newfoundland was on my boy's account."

Mr. Thompson said the price of the farm was $14,000, and he had spent $3,400 for stock and implements. He had a mortgage of $9,400 on the property. They had rented an adjoining 100 acres. Their revenues were more than $3,000 a year, and net income about $2,000.

Mr. Thompson said he would not be able to carry on. The death of his son had upset everything.

Expectation of Life

Ernest Gill, Toronto actuary, stated that the joint expectation of life for a man and wife of 31 is 25 3-10 years. For man alone it would be 29½ years. The loss to a wife of 31 years by the death of her husband who earned $100 a month would amount to $16,000 in twenty-five year.

Traffic Officer Halleck of Cobourg asserted that a car going 35 or 40 miles an hour and having four-wheel brakes would not skid unless the wheels locked. The brakes in Mrs. Grant's car were in good order.

Mrs. Grant Called.

Mrs. Grant was called next. On the front seat with her was her cousin, Miss Constance Grant. Her two sons and daughter were on the back seat.

Mrs. Grant said she had driven the car for a year prior to the accident.

Relating the incidents of her trip from Kingston on August 15 last, defendant said she was driving west of Cobourg at about 35 miles an hour.

"I first noticed the horses and cultivator after they had crossed the centre line of the road in turning. My car was about three car lengths away from the horses when I noticed that. I realized at once an accident was inevitable. I threw on the foot brake as hard as I could, put out the clutch, and turned the car to the left. I hoped I could get around the rear of the cultivator. If I had gone on straight I would have run right into the horses.

"What part of the cultivator did you come in contact with?" Mr. Agar asked.

"I thought I hit the rear end of the cultivator. The extreme right hand side of my car hit it."

"How far did your car continue after hitting the cultivator?"

"About a car length on the south side of the road. I then drove over to the north side of the road out of the way of traffic."

"Did you see what happened to Mr. Thompson?"—I did not.

Mr. Phelan took up the cross-examination of Mrs. Grant. She said her cousin had driven from Kingston to Colborne.

"Did you think of the farm entrances that are rather numerous along there?"—No, I didn't have that in my mind.

"You never saw this team of horses until almost on top of them?"

"No. They didn't make any impression on me."

"You didn't see them? We'll use a simple word."

"No, I suppose I didn't see them."

"And when you did, a situation of dangerous emergency rose up in front of you? You never saw it developing until you were right on it?"

Asked what explanation she could offer for failing to see them, Mrs. Grant said she could not offer one.

There was not sufficient room to pass on the north side of the road without taking a "foolish chance."

Reiterates Statement.

"When I saw the horses first they had crossed the centre line of the road," Mrs. Grant stated in answer to Mr. Phelan's question.

"Did you have in mind there was a five-foot shoulder?"—I didn't realize how good it was at the time.

The driver of the horses during the brief interval of her observation, made no effort to check or accelerate their pace, Mrs. Grant said.

The right side of the sun shield was bent, but defendant could not say what had struck it. There was 10 feet on south side of the road free of traffic, but Mrs. Grant said she could not make the turn out quickly enough. She admitted that the emergency was so sudden she did not sound the horn. Mrs. Grant also said that she was breaking the traffic law if she was travelling at more than 35 miles an hour. And her estimate of the car's speed was from 35 to 40 miles an hour.

Mr. Agar—Was there anything in the actions of Mr. Thompson driving the team that indicated he was aware of your approach?

Mrs. Grant—No, sir.

Defendant admitted that she caught a momentary glimpse of Mr. Thompson. The horses were then slightly to the left of the car.

Mr. Phelan—Why didn't you turn to the right of them?

Because they were walking toward me.

Three Car Lengths Away

Constance Grant of Halifax, N.S. cousin of the defendant, swore that she had looked at the speedometer of the car a short time before the collision. It then registered 32 miles. Her estimate of the speed at the moment of the accident was 35 miles an hour.

"I noticed the horses ahead of us on the south side of the road. When their heads crossed the centre line of the road they were about three car lengths away. I saw Mrs. Grant put on the brake and turn to the south side. The car stopped in a length on the south side of the road. Mrs. Grant then moved on 240 feet to the north side."

Miss Grant said to Mr. Phelan that the car might have been going from 35 to 40 miles an hour.

Expert Opinion

Clarence Hastings, automotive engineer, testified that even an alert persons allows half a second to pass from the time of his first perception of traffic danger until he takes action. In that circumstance, if the car's speed was 35 miles per hour and the brakes were efficient the car should be stopped in 70 to 75 feet after the brakes were applied. In Mrs. Grant's case there would be the 70 feet plus 26 feet the car would travel in half a second, at 35 miles an hour.

Mr. Hastings said it would have been impossible for her to stop in 90 feet. At 25 miles an hour a car could be stopped in three seconds or 47 feet.

To Mr. Phelan, witness said that in six seconds (a time mentioned by Mr. Armour) the car would travel 360 feet at 35 miles an hour and without any diminution of its speed.

Such a car could be stopped easily in 200 feet and might be stopped in 125 feet or less.

INQUIRY WILL BE HELD INTO DEATH OF COL. BARKER

this and his machine fell out of control.

"On recovery, he found himself being again attacked heavily by a large formation, and singling out one machine he deliberately charged and drove it down in flames. During this flight his left elbow was shattered, and he again fainted, and on regaining consciousness he found himself again being attacked, but notwithstanding that he was now severely wounded in both legs and his left arm shattered, he dived on the nearest machine and shot it down in flames.

Crashed on Landing.

"Being greatly exhausted he dived out of the fight to regain our lines, but was met by another formation, which attacked and endeavored to cut him off, but after a hard fight he succeeded in breaking up this formation, and reached our lines where he crashed on landing.

"This combat, in which Major Barker destroyed four enemy machines (three of them in flames) brought his total successes up to fifty enemy machines destroyed, and is a notable example of the exceptional bravery and disregard of danger which this very gallant officer has always displayed throughout his distinguished career."

Completely Overcome.

LONDON, March 13.—When Lieut.-Colonel W. A. Bishop, V.C., Canada's premier wartime ace, was told by the Canadian Press last night of the death of Lieut.-Col. W. G. Barker, V.C., who was killed in an air crash at Ottawa, he was completely overcome.

"It is a most terrible shock to me," said Colonel Bishop. "He was one of my dearest friends, and one of the finest men I have ever met. There has been no bigger man in the air business, either during the war or since. I really cannot express what I feel."

Through Colonel Bishop's grief for his comrade-in-arms left him almost speechless there are many here, their connection with aviation going back to the war period, who remember Barker and his exploits vividly, and spoke of them to-day. Six months after the war ended, Colonel Barker, who had just before disabled an arm, took the Prince of Wales on a flight over London, though few of the thousands who saw them knew the identity of the pilot or his passenger.

Flying with his disabled arm strapped to his breast, the airman carried his Royal companion into as many air hazards as any one, perhaps, had up to that time, experienced in peace time. At one point, the machine fell 500 feet in a series of jerking turns. The engine was shut off, but the shriek of the wind on the struts was clearly heard by the watchers.

Over the aerodrome Barker again "flattened out" and the machine landed light as a feather. The Prince's face, on alighting was a study. "I have enjoyed it immensely," he was heard to say to an officer. "But what a sensation it is when you go over backward!" There were many at the time who did not approve of the Royal heir taking so many risks.

Often Took up the Prince.

There is no harm in stating now that Colonel Barker told your correspondent how he had often taken the Prince up during the seven months when His Highness was with the Canadian forces, one one occasion, at least, travelling over the German lines.

"The Prince enjoyed it all," declared the Colonel. "He took it as an every-day occurrence."

The exploits of Colonel Barker during the war are chronicled in many pages of the London Gazette. The gallant airman, when you met him on leave in London, was, in one sense, often an exasperating character. He was always glad to meet you, even if you were a newsman, but the most patient efforts usually failed to get him to talk about his exploits. He could not be induced to say there was anything to talk about.

"It's all down in the Gazette," he would say, and he would speak of something else.

TRIBUTE FROM U. S. ACE

NEW YORK, March 13.—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, leading United States ace during the Great War, made the following comment yesterday on the tragic death at Ottawa of Colonel W. G. Barker.

"Colonel Barker was one of the most daring and courageous pilots developed during the Great War. In fact, he often risked his life and good judgment for the protection of his fellow-pilots, who were less efficient, by attacking, at great odds, without thought of his own welfare. Colonel Barker's success during his limited months of service over the Western front speaks for itself. The science of aviation and the citizens of Canada have lost a great soldier and patriot."

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

TORONTO PRODUCE.

Toronto, March 13. — Egg prices seemed to have definitely stopped their downward trend yesterday on the local produce market, and prices to both country shippers and retailers remained unchanged from Tuesday's prices. Country shippers were still quoted 28c for extras, 26c for firsts, and 22c for seconds, and retailers were asked 36c to 37c for extras in cartons, 34c to 35c for extras loose; 32c for firsts, loose, and 28c to 29c for seconds loose. Chicago eggs have ceased to play a prominent part on the local market and dealers seemed unconcerned about the spot market in that city. Ontario supplies have been plentiful in Toronto and consumption was reported as slightly better and likely to improve as the retailer lowers his prices.

Butter.

It was the same old story on the butter market here. Prices were unchanged and the demand was poor as far as the brokers were concerned. The quotation is shippers is 33 3-4 to 34½c for No. 1 creamery pasteurized and 33¾c to 33½c for 38-scoring seconds, and 32 3.4c to 33c for 37-scoring seconds. Churning cream prices were also firm.

Potatoes.

Potatoes took a drop yesterday on the local market, 5 cents on Ontarios, 10c on New Brunswck's and from 10c to 15c on Prince Edward Island's. Wholesalers quoted for Ontario No. 1, in bags, $1.60; in bulk, $1.50. New Brunswick's in bags, $1.65; in bulk, $1.55. Prince Edward Island Mountains, $1.85; cobblers, $1.60. No reason could be given for the weakening of the Maritime markets. There were very few Ontario potatoes arriving in the city. Farmers are evidently waiting for a better market. Consumption was also reported as being poor.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 13. — Wheat prices struggled up before the close from the lowest marks in more than six years, recorded during yesterday's session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. After a session where early trading was heavy, later to wane, quotations were down 1¼c to 1c for the day.

During the morning, No. 1 Northern sold for 98½c per bushel and the May future was within 1¼c of the dollar mark.

The statement by Chairman Alexander Legge of the United States Farm Board, that congestion would continue two months and that acreage reduction was needed to remedy the present situation, was coupled with Broomhall's reduction of estimated world requirements by 62,000,000 bushels to only 696,000,000 bushels. Liverpool was very weak and overnight business and demand were negligible.

Cash wheat trading was slow and little business was done. In sympathy with wheat, coarse grains went down.

Cash prices:

Wheat—No. 1 hard, $1.01⅝; No. 1 Northern, $1.01⅝; No. 2 Northern, 98c; No. 3 Northern, 94⅝c; No. 4, 90⅝c; No. 5, 83⅞c No. 6, 63⅞c; feed, 52⅞c; track, 62⅝c; screenings, $5.00 per ton.

Oats—No. 2 C.W., 50½c; No. 3 C.W., 41⅝c; extra No. 1 feed, 41⅝c; No. 1 feed, 39⅞c; No. 2 feed, 37⅝c; rejected, 34c; track, 45¼c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 13.—World wide turmoil in grain markets yesterday left each Chicago delivery of every cereal but May wheat last night at the lowest closing prices reached this season. The sole exception as to May wheat was due to big buying ascribed to agencies that are sponsored by the United States Government Farm Board. Complete demoralization of the wheat trade at Liverpool was reported, with prices there down 6⅛ cents a bushel, while maximum breaks in wheat prices at Chicago yesterday, 4⅝ cents a bushel, carried values here down to 11⅝ cents under quotation current last week.

Reduction of world's estimated import needs of wheat to nearly 300,000,000 bushels less than was actually shipped last year, whereas the United States and Canada both have a huge surplus, formed an outstanding feature yesterday, and despite late rallies the wheat market here closed feverish, 1 to 2⅝ cents a bushel lower than Tuesday's finish. Corn closed 1⅜c to 2¼c down; oats, ⅝c to 1⅜c off, and provisions showing 7 to 22 cents drop.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 12. —Butter, eggs and potatoes turned softer on the local produce market here yesterday, while cheese and dressed poultry remained steady.

Fresh eggs to retailers were reduced from 1c to 2c a dozen by wholesale houses. Milder weather which has opened up the country roads and stimulated production was given as the cause of the decrease. Prices now range from 38c for fresh specials to 30c a dozen for fresh seconds.

Wholesale butter prices were ¼c lower at 33¼c to 33¾c a pound for finest New Zealand product in carlots here.

Potatoes were 5c a bag lower, and some dealers offered them at 10c below yesterday's price. New Brunswick Green Mountains were quoted at $1.45 and Quebecs at $1.35 per 90 pounds in bulk in carlots, ex-track, here.

Cheese was steady at 18½c to 18¾c a pound for Easterns and 19c to 19¼c for Westerns.

Bran and shorts were reduced $2 a ton on the local wholesale markets yesterday, corresponding to the similar decrease in middlings made Tuesday. Other prices were unchanged.

system would work a hardship on a great many persons who travel about the province. It would apply only to those who abused the purchase privileges.

Efforts were being made, it was stated, to educate the people of Ontario into drinking light wines and beers, rather than spirits of higher alcoholic strength. The price of some wines had been reduced in price from 25 to 18 per cent.

Druggist Must Keep Check.

The Commission, in expressing the opinion that the use of rubbing alcohol and other substitutes was responsible for a large percentage of the drunkeness in some sections, said that all druggists selling it, were compelled to keep a register. This would enable an easier check-up to be made.

Ontario paid the Federal Government slightly over $15,500,000 in customs duties, excise rates, malt duties and gallonage in 1928. The report continued: "The net profits of the province, while large, are relatively small compared to the Dominion revenues (estimated at $58,430,955) received from the liquor traffic. The proportion is the more marked when it is realized that all the disabilities resulting from the traffic are visited upon the provinces and not the Dominion. The short-circuiting of liquors supposed to be exported and other abuses of the traffic requiring much police activity and expense are burdens borne by the provinces. The difficult question of sale rendering possible these large Dominion revenues, if looked after entirely by the provinces, should the question of a proper division of allocation be ever considered, it is manifest that the ratio of the present division of the profits of the traffic should be entirely reversed and the general proportion received by the province."

WEDDING SHOWER.

Mrs. Cecil Bertrand Honored By Friends at Social Gathering.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 13 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — An interesting event took place at the home of Mrs. Gordon Bertrand last Friday, when about 80 people gathered to do honor to Mrs. Cecil Bertrand (nee Eva Brady). The occasion was a miscellaneous shower, and the young bride received many pretty and useful gifts. In a short speech she thanked all her friends for their kindness. The bridegroom also thanked all present for their generous gifts. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, after which cards and dancing were indulged in for the rest of the evening.

HOW TO MAKE THOSE STIFF CREAKY JOINTS YOUNG AGAIN

Sandy walks slowly up the stairs—his knee joints creak—"getting along in years," he sighs, "and that last attack of rheumatism didn't do them any good—these auld knee joints need oiling up."

Millions of men and women are like Sandy—their creaky joints need oiling—need something to make them work with the smoothness of youth—how to oil them need no longer be a problem.

Right here in Canada to-day there is being made and sold thru druggstores a soothing, penetrating emollient called Joint-Ease that is made for just one purpose—to bring comfort to stiff, inflamed, creaky, ailing joints.

Just rub Joint-Ease to-night on that troublesome joint and swiftly it goes thru skin and flesh right down to the tendons and ligaments of the joints—right where all the pain and distress starts.

Joint-Ease works swiftly—its job is to limber up stiff, creaky joints, reduce the swelling and subdue the inflammation and it does the job quickly, thoroughly and well.

MRS. E. F. WHITE

SPRINGVILLE, March 13.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Mrs. C. T. White was held on Sunday, March 9, at the family residence in North Monaghan. The funeral services at the home and graveside were conducted by Rev. S. H. Moyer, pastor of Springville United church, of which the deceased was a faithful member. The large funeral gathering told of the high esteem in which she was held by her many friends. Her sudden death caused by a paralytic stroke was a great shock to her family and all who knew her. She was of an active nature and appeared to be in the best of health until the day of her death. Her loss will be keenly felt in the church and community.

Mrs. White prior to her marriage was Barbara Edith Henderson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson of Cavan. She was born in Cavan township, February 28, 1875. She was one of a family of three. One sister, Mrs. Ed. Fallis of Millbrook, predeceased her twenty years ago. She was married at Ebenezer in 1905 and lived in that community until nine years ago when they made their home on a farm in North Monaghan.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, and two sons, Earl and Ralph, both at home; also one brother, Robert W. Henderson, of Cavan. Her only daughter, Elvina, died in 1913.

The floral remembrances were beautiful. Tributes were given by the family, (brother) Robert Henderson and family, Fallis nieces and nephews, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Fallis of Buffalo, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Kennedy and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas McGuire Sprains His Ankle While on His Way to Work.

Your Teeth aren't Really Clean if you only Polish the Surfaces

ECONOMICAL

The 25c. tube of Colgate's contains more toothpaste than any other nationally advertised brand priced at a quarter.

HALF-CLEAN teeth invite decay. Why not have the extra protection of Colgate's, whose penetrating foam enters and cleanses the tiny pits and fissures where decay may start?

Some toothpastes merely perform the single duty of polishing the outer surfaces of the teeth.

Colgate's does that, of course ...and something else besides! When brushed, it breaks into a sparkling, bubbling foam which has a truly remarkable property. This active foam penetrates into the tiny pits and fissures of the teeth and gums, softening the impurities which become lodged in these hard-to-reach places and washing them away in a surging antiseptic bath.

Thus Colgate's cleans... giving your teeth double protection against the impurities which cause decay. Scientific tests prove that Colgate's has the highest penetrating power of any leading dentifrices . . . hence, Colgate's ability to clean teeth best.

Superiority and economy have made Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream the world's favorite dentifrice—used by more people, recommended by more dentists.

WARNING! Don't attempt to "doctor" your mouth with a dentifrice. A toothpaste cannot possibly cure pyorrhea, correct acid mouth, firm the gums. Its one and only function is to clean. Self medication is always dangerous . . . if you have any fears for the health of your teeth or gums, see your dentist at once!

COUNCIL TO STAGE HYDRO CAMPAIGN

Commission Representative Explains Contract to Ratepayers of Hastings.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, March 12.—Mr. S. P. Fuller of the Hydro Electric Commission is in town this week being called here by the council to help explain to the power users the rates as well as making out their contracts.

Reeve Dr. W. E. Wilson has placed two members of his council on each side of the river to call on each householder and explain thoroughly how the contracts are worked. The impression seems to have gathered around the village that the contract is something very much different from the rates that were supplied during the time the vote was taken on the by-law. In this contract the householder merely signs up for the use of power for one year at $3.33 per month with a deduction of 33c for prompt payment.

Councillors Fowlds and Doxsee are calling on the residents south of the bridge and Doxsee and Plant north of the bridge.

It is to be hoped every citizen will sign up at once as much valuable time is being wasted, when the lines could be under construction.

TWIN-IGNITION MEANS—

Greater Power, Greater Smoothness, Extraordinary Economy

BECAUSE two different motor cars are alike in price, it does not follow that they are also alike in quality, value or performance. ¶ There is always a best, and if you are looking for it, drive a Nash Twin-Ignition Eight or Six. They are the only cars in their price field which offer the superiority of Twin-Ignition performance. ¶ Twin-Ignition (two spark plugs, two simultaneous sparks, per cylinder, instead of one) produces smoother, more thorough combustion and consequently a smoother, more vigorous flow of power. You can feel the difference. You will know immediately what you have been missing, driving a car with single ignition. ¶ Other "400" features of superior performance and value are Bijur centralized chassis lubrication; lifetime-lubricated springs, encased in steel spring covers; built-in, automatic radiator shutters; and Duplate non-shatterable plate glass in all windows, doors and windshields (no extra cost in the Twin-Ignition Eight—optional at slight extra cost in the Twin-Ignition Six and Single Six)

HAT FOR MILADY SHOWS CHANGE; WIDE BRIM BACK

Gainsborough Silhouette Revives—Jewellery Must Harmonize With Gown.

GLOVES ARE LONGER

Both Afternoon and Evening Footwear Have Higher Heels.

After many, many seasons of the small close-fitting hat, we are going to have a few changes this year. What is described as going the limit in brims and colors is the idea for this summer, and individual preference in headgear maybe exercised once again, without fear of offending Fashion's dictates. The attempt to look pretty and appealing, rather than just smart and modish, is being made once more, in line with the new feminine vogue for picturesque treatment of wearing apparel.

One of the interesting notes is the revival of the Gainsborough Silhouette, not quite so wide as in former years, but an adaptation of the slanting, picturesque and flattering line, to be worn with the organdies and flowered chiffons of afternoon. In the close-fitting hat that still retains a large measure of popularity, there is a little upward slant slant over one eye that shortens the line and gives the impression of an "off the face" effect.

Spring Styles.

For spring, the silhouette that is being stressed is the short front hat with a back brim and long side backs, one longer than the other, with the opposite eyeline raised to give the slanted look to the front. Bows are very good for hats, to follow the vogue for bows on frocks. They are developed in velvet ribbon of medium width and narrow ribbons are also employed to a large extent, sometimes with three or four little bows posed along the side of the crown, or perhaps just one flat bow finishing the crown base at the back or the turn of the brim at the front.

Navy blue, linen blue, rose red and yellow red, as well as many light and bright greens, are good for spring millinery, that is stressing also the importance of straw as a fabric groundwork for the hat. Rough straw that resembles tweed, and fine, lacy, transparent straw for afternoon wear—these are the favorites. Baku and shiny panamalaque, both resembling panama weaves, are much liked for general use.

Jewellery Harmonizes.

Accessories are going in for the ornamental, picturesque note also. In costume jewellery, for instance, the color is expected to harmonize with the color of the gown, and antique settings are returning to favor, with a cameo quality that is in line with the romantic tendency of the mode. Long strings of brightly colored beads that harmonize with the light, bright colors for spring wear, are used for sports outfits.

Gloves are longer and are to be worn pulled up high over the cuff of the suit or frock. They all have decidedly longer wrists and have bow treatments or novel cuffs to soften the tailored effect.

The handbag for morning or sports wear matches the costume in color and in material. Hats and handbags, for instance, are being shown for purchase together. The spring bag is comfortably large and is trimmed with wood, crystal or metal. Antelope and pin seal are favored materials, while lame ornamented with rhinestones is good for evening wear.

Necklines are much closer to the throat than in previous years. The little demure, schoolgirl collar is much liked, there are scarf bows tied close to the hollow of the neck in front; lingerie frills and lingerie tabs, and there is a great liking on black frocks for the bateau, or boat, neckline, not very wide, and finished by a turnover of white satin.

In underwear, there are new nightgowns with Peter Pan collars; step-ins with circular flares; petticoat-bloomer combinations and uplift bandeaux that combine with the styles of outer clothes.

High Heels on Shoes.

Shoes show a tendency toward higher heels for daytime and evening, the former demanding 2½ inches in height and the latter 2¾ inches. The cutout and opera pump are most in demand and most of the models introduce some sort of trimming in an off shade. In sports wear, for instance, fabric shoes of white may be trimmed with blue, green, red or yellow to match the color of the ensemble, while green promises to be very popular with beige and green costumes. Brown is good for tweed and sports outfits, also shoes with brown and beige combinations.

For evening, favor continues to be showered on crepe, moire and brocade versions of the pump and narrow strap slipper.

LINES PRINT

A little frock for southern golfing days is made of tan, red and a tiny bit of orange printed linen. There are cap sleeves, no collar, and a pleated flounce around the bottom of the skirt.

SHORT SKIRTS ARE DEFENDED

Women's Liberal Federation Head and Swains Favor Present Vogue.

CUTS DOWN EXPENSES

LONDON, March 13. (U.P.)—Classifying long skirts as the bringer of the "curse of class distinction," Mrs. Corbett Ashby, President of the National Women's Liberal Federation, recently said in an address that it was not the desire of women who have tasted the joys of short skirts to go back to the long ones.

"At the present time," Mrs. Ashby said, "you cannot tell if the smart creation walking down the street in front of you has cost $100 or $15. But that is not true when long skirts are the fashion."

Another objection to long skirts comes from the young men-about-London, who realize that when they take their ladies to dances the longer the skirts the longer the taxicab bills. They cannot very well ask girls whose skirts touch the ground to walk to the dance, particularly in wet weather.

FORMALLY PRESENTING NEW STYLES FOR SPRING

THE Directoire period (1795 to 1815)—one of the most colorful and romantic in French history—provides the inspiration for modern fashion in evolving stately garments in the feminine manner. LOCOMOTIVE MODEL BEING DISPLAYED

Exact Replica of Engine Now in Use on Canadian National Lines.

A working model of the 6100 type C.N.R. locomotive now in use on the system is being displayed in the C.N.R. City ticket office window on George street.

It is an exact replica in miniature of the type of engine it represents and was built in Winnipeg from plans and specifications used in the original construction of its giant relative. It is built on a scale of one inch to a foot and the boiler is tested to 150 pounds pressure. The model weighs 600 pounds and is erected on a solid oak base.

While on display here it is being operated by electricity but can be run under steam. The 6100 class of engine can be operated 500 miles without changing and can be used in either passenger or freight service. The locomotive has the 4-8-4 wheel arangement.

The model is now being circulated for display throughout Canada and was brought here from Montreal to be exhibited for two weeks.

This is possibly the most impressive piece of railway advertising ever shown in this city and is daily viewed by scores of people.

PRESENT TO COFFEE KING.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, March 13. — Don Francisco San Roman, Uruguay's Coffee King and a great friend of Brazil, has received a present from a coffee-growing friend of his in the state of Sao Paulo, of an 18-carat gold ring. This ring bears the evolution of the coffee bean, in precious stones, from the flower, designed in gold, then the green berry, represented by an emerald, then the red ripened one in ruby, to the final toasted bean, cleverly imitated by onyx. It is the work of a skilful goldsmith of Monte Video.

GREAT POETS' WORST WORKS ARE PRINTED

English Satirist Collects Bad Verse From Masters of Poetry.

"GOOD BAD VERSE"

Book Contains Specimens of Wordsworth, Coleridge and Southey.

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, England. — "Bad Verse from Good Poets." D. B. Wyndham Lewis, the well known satirist might have chosen this for a title of the entertaining anthology which he has has compiled with Charles Lee, and which is just published here by Dent. The anthology which appears under the title, "The Stuffed Owl," opens with selections from Cowley, and concludes with Tennyson. Mr. Lewis gives specimens of Wordsworth, of Coleridge, and Southey, of Mrs. Hemans, and of half a hundred others, all at their worst.

He is careful to explain that bad verse has its canons, like good verse. "There is bad Bad Verse, and good Bad Verse. It has been the constant preoccupation of the compilers to inclue in this book chiefly good bad verse," and the authors claim credit for their production that it is sunny and optimistic, reveals the follies of our predecessors, and proves by implication what splendid fellows we are now.

The introductory notes to the poets under review are not the least entertaining feature of the book. "The nobly sonorous Muse of Lord Tennuson, when called upon officially to celebrate such a public event as the International Exhibition, the opening of a new railway, or the illness of an aunt by marriage once removed of the Royal Family, uttered no complaint, but stoically tucked up her sleeves and got on with the job. She occassionally gave expression of her own accord to another deep-rooted British trait. She would be a terrible snob." In proof whereof is quoted Tennyson's lines on the Lord of Burleigh, "which awake echoes of Putney rather than of Parnassus."

Of Edgar Allen Poe the authors say: "The instrument which could evoke such dooms was perfectly capable of producing notes from its upper register like the music of a tin whistle, the prattling of a Haynes Bayly, or the bleating of a Wordsworth.

The book "carries on" all through in the same lively strain. Some of the most entrancing verses appear as "Hors-D'Oeuvres."

From a hymnodist unknown:

"Earth from afar has heard Thy fame,
"And worms have learned to lisp Thy name."

From a housemaid poet:

"Oh Moon, when I gaze on thy beautiful face,
"Careering along thro' the boundaries of space,
"The thought has often come into my mind,
"If I ever shall see thy glorious behind."

SHEER SILK HOSE BEING FAVORED

Junior Girls Go in for Repetition of Mothers' Frocks.

TWEED COATS TO FORE

(By Jeanette)

Gossamer sheer stockings are much liked, many of them adorned with clocks. Dyed hose to match the color of the ensemble are the correct note. For evening wear, only the lightest pastel tints are permissible. In daytime outfits, often the colors of the trimmings are repeated in the shoes worn and where prints are worn, the hose are dyed to match the predominating shade. Deep suntan shades in stockings accompany the beige and dark brown footwear.

Junior girls are going in for a repetition of the frocks of their mothers and sisters. So their frocks have higher waistlines and flared skirts. The jacket dress, made with an abbreviated jacket, pleated skirt and blouse of white with frilled collar, is much in favor. Their dresses have the little cap sleeves and capes of the older types, and their little hats are copies of the off the face models worn by their seniors.

They are going in for prints also, while blue, green, beige, red and yellow tones are used in solid colors for their miniature frocks.

Coats of tweed are much favored for the younger set, and dresses in voiles, printed dimity, striped batiste, handkerchief linen and striped and figured silks.

Variations of the spring modes, in their bright new colors and picturesque modes, may be seen in the Peterborough stores, which are stocked with the various goods demanded by Miladi in her desire to be up to the minute in costuming and appointments.

C. P. R. PRESIDENT SEES NO CAUSE FOR PESSIMISM

Nothing Has Happened That Would Indicate Uncertainty in Future.

E. W. BEATTY'S ADDRESS.

At Annual Meeting of Good Roads Association in Toronto.

TORONTO, Mar. 13.—Mr. E. W. Beatty, addressing the Good Roads Association banquet, held recently, took occasion to point out the value of good roads in the encouragement of tourist traffic which, he said, on a conservative estimate, left annually in Canada of from 250 to 300 million dollars. It should be remembered that a man who lived in the United States and owned a motor and who possessed the time and money for a vacation had the whole of North America to choose from. The extension of good roads in his own country had been notable and he would go where he knew ease, speed and comfort in travel were open to him and his family; therefore, Canadian progress towards more hard surfaced mileage in highways should be definite and speedy. Mr. Beatty congratulated the good roads association on the good work it had done, and more particularly on its progression in the education of the public against hazardous and reckless driving which in the past had resulted in many crossing accidents.

The railways of Canada, he said, could point with some satisfaction to their own achievement in the matter of reduction of fatalities. The company with which he was associated, considered it not the least of its accomplishments that in a few years it had reduced fatal injuries to passengers carried from one in 500,000 to one in 3,400,000. While this had been achieved by the education of employees, the adoption of safety first principles, a striving for efficiency and the provision of better facilities and equipment, there was still a serious list of avoidable tragedies where motors and trains came into collision. With the assistance of legislatures the motor leagues and similar organizations, the idea was permeating that reckless chances should not be taken. It was a slow process because every year added hundreds and thousands of new drivers who had to learn the lesson of what was their duty to themselves and to other ons the highway.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Mr. Beatty then dealt with the economic situation in Canada. "As you know, he said, "the railways reflect in a very accurate way the business situation of the country. Analysis of their carryings shows in what businesses there is activity and where there is trade depression. Their earnings in the aggregate only indicate the total business of the country. These earnings during the latter part of 1929 dropped and the downward trend has continued during 1930. We are, however, in the position of being able to put our finger accurately on the cause of these decreases they being due to the unusual conditions surrounding the marketing of our wheat.

A private corporation, with credit to protect, must have regard to economy in its operations when business is slack. If it fails to follow the sound business principle that expenses must be in proportion to earnings, it fails in efficiency and invites troubles. The capital expenditures of approximately fifty million dollars recently announced by the directors of the Canadian Pacific represents a policy based upon two considerations: first, their faith in the country and, second, their conviction that the expenditure is wise and will improve the position of the property and increase its earning power—not increase it perhaps this year, but in subsequent years when the effect of the expenditure for extensions, betterments and improvements is felt. While, naturally, we may have the greatest confidence in our own judgment in respect of these expenditures, we still must keep before us the fact that we are not justified in spending in the conduct of our operations, money which we do not earn, that the balance must be maintained between revenues and disbursements if we are to maintain our net earnings and protect our credit.

There is nothing in the present situation which should cause discouragement. New conditions are apt to be temporarily disquieting, but nothing that has transpired, or is at present happening, should cause apprehension, as the future of this country is not menaced nor is there anything sinister in the present economic or financial situation. It would be a very unthinking optimist who could expect that there should be absolute uniformity in human or national affairs. Our satisfaction rests in the fact that the country's progress has been steadily forward and that nothing has happened which can give rise even to the suspicion that its future progress is uncertain.

HOPE TO UNCOVER FRANKLIN'S FATE

Department of Interior Secures Valuable Papers and Maps.

LOST OVER 75 YEARS

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 13. (By the Canadian Press)—For over three-quarters of a century the fate of Sir John Franklin, and of the 128 officers and men of his expedition, has been wrapped in mystery. Events of the past few months have given rise to the hope that additional light may be shed upon the details of that heroic adventure, by the aid of documents and sketches which Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, has acquired for the use of the Department after an investigation by O. S. Finnie, Director of the North West Territories and Yukon Branch.

Sir John Franklin's expedition sailed into the Arctic in 1845 in the two ships, Erebus and Terror. The ships were seen by a whaler near the entrance to Lancaster sound on July 26 in that year and from that time neither the ships nor any members of their crews were seen again by white men. In 1854 Dr. John Rae, an officer of the Hudson's Bay Company, found a band of Eskimos who said they had seen white men travelling southward along the shore of King William Island and that these men had all died. In 1859 Captain Leopold M'Clintock found in a cairn at Victory point, near the northwest angle of King William Island, a printed Admiralty form on the margin of which was written, over the signatures of Captains Crozier and Fitzjames, the commanders of the two ships, a few terse but very expressive sentences. These conveyed the information that Sir John Franklin had died on June 11, 1847, that eight other officers and 15 men had died, that the ships had been abandoned, and that the remainder of the expedition, 105 persons in all, would start the following morning (April 26, 1848) for Back river on the mainland. Although many other expeditions have sought for Franklin this is the only record that has been found of the ill-fated party.

It has always been held by authorities on exploration that important records of the expedition must have been deposited by the survivors before the effort to reach civilization by way of Back river was begun, and that the most proable place was in the grave of the leader. The Department of the Interior would not at this late date, be justified in equipping and sending out an expedition to search for the grave of Sir John Franklin but with the development of Canada's northland, departmental officers concerned with the care of the native population, are continually patrolling through that portion of the Arctic and it would be an inexpensive matter for them to devote a little time to searching for records which would be of the greatest value to Canada and to the Empire. Therefore, when a short time ago, Hon. Charles Stewart was appraised that documents were in existence which purported to give the location of Franklin's grave, he directed that the matter be carefully investigated, and as a result the papers and maps have been purchased for the Department.

The papers consist of a lengthy manuscript accompanied by maps prepared, many years ago, from the statements of a member of the expedition headed by the United States explorer, Charles F. Hall. The expedition spent the period from 1864 to 1869 in the north engaged in the search for Franklin. According to the statement Hall's expedition broke up in disorder owing to internal troubles and on that account this valuable information was lost to the head of the expedition.

WEDDING SCENES OFTEN AMUSING

Legal Rights of Minister Left for Attorney-General's Department to Decide.

LAST MINUTE DECISION

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 13. (By the Canadian Press)—"Let him speak now, or forever hold his peace!" The officiating minister generally waits perfunctorily for an answer to his request, but rarely indeed, in the experience of a local minister has it been answered. This matter of objections raised to marriages was brought up by Rev. D. T. McClintock at a meeting of the Toronto West Presbytery of the United Church. An objection had been made by a man to a certain marriage and the minister had dismissed the objection as not being valid, whereupon the man had threatened to interfere at the wedding. As a result of this the presbytery passed unanimously a motion asking the secretary to write to the Attorney-Generals department asking for a definite ruling on the legal rights of a minister in connection with a marriage ceremony.

Rev. Hiram Hull in an interview on the subject, remarked that a case might arise where parties, one of whom was under age, had secured a marriage license and at the wedding the mother of the girl might produce a birth certificate proving that she was under age. "I have refused to marry people, on occasion", said Mr. Hull.

A Vancouver writer tells of some "experiences" collected from parsons on the subject of queer behavior at weddings. On one case the bridegroom astonished the congregation by exclaiming at every answer he gave to the minister, "Amen, Praise the Lord. I will."

At a country wedding the banquet was held at a farmhouse, five miles from the church. The best man had been learning speeches from a book on social etiquette, and tried to recite from this book. He embarked upon the speech—and got stuck in the middle. He simply could not get the next word. Amid dead silence he crossed the room, looked up the speech again in the book of etiquette ,returned to his place, and sailed ahead from the very word which he had eluded.

A deaf man caused an awkward situation for one preacher till he discovered that the man had his responses typed out already. When the time came he read them out in good order—but he could not have had the slightest knowledge of what he was responding to.

A bride-elect changed her mind just before the last three questions were asked at her wedding at Prince George. To the writer she remarked afterwards about the situation.

"Just as the judge came to the final questions, I realized the seriousness of marrying a man nearly 30 years older than myself. Besides, I had only met him three times and did not know him well enough to marry him. When the judge said, "Do you promise to love, honor and cherish'? I cried out, "I won't! I won't!' I then turned and ran out of the building with all the crowd after me. I jumped into a taxicab and went home."

AGE IMPROVES DOUGLAS FIR

Experiments Show Timbers Gain in Strength After 55 Years' Service.

200 TESTS TAKEN

EUGENE, Oregon, March 13.—Douglas fir timbers gain in strength after 55 years of service, according to E.H. McAlister, Professor of Mechanics at the University of Oregon.

Professor McAlister has just completed an investigation of the timbers taken from the Hayden Bridge, a structure erected near Eugene in 1874, and has found them to be in an excellent state of preservation. The Hayden Bridge was of the old covered type, and it is the professor's conclusion that Douglas fir can be preserved in sound structural condition for at least half a century by the simple expedient of keeping it covered from the weather and providing a free circulation of air.

More than 200 tests on machines which exert from 30,000 to 200,000 pounds pressure were made on the old timbers. For basis of comparison, similar tests were made on both green and seasoned pieces of the same size. The average strength was found to be in excess of the average strength of new timber in green condition, while in most cases it was well above the average for unused timber that had been air-dried for two or three years.

Professor McAlister's report stated that the tests proved conclusively that age does not exaggerate the influence of knots or other defects in the wood, and that tests on small clear pieces proved that the quality of the wood fibre does not deteriorate with age.

One of the surprise features of the experiments was the high strength in compression parallel to the grain. This was found to be slightly more than double the corresponding strength of the new air-dried timber and about 2.4 times that of new green timber. Out of twelve old beams tested not one failed first in compression and only five of the 54 small beams broke after sustaining very high stress.

In the tests of other new bridge stringers made by the United States Forest Service, approximately three-fourths of the whole number failed in compression.

"If soap irritates your skin you are using the wrong kind"

says

EMILE MASSÉ

whose beauty shop, in Paris, is known throughout the continent

"Every complexion needs soap and water. But some soaps are harmful. They injure the texture of the skin. They contain too much free alkali . . . caustic soda . . . similar irritants. That is why I advise all my clients: "Never use any soap except Palmolive."'

E. Massé

16 Rue Daunou, Paris

Here is the celebrated Masse, himself, superintending a facial treatment given by one of the assistants in his salon.

Palmolive is pure. It it made of palm and olive oils, known for generations as nature's greatest beautifiers. Since the days of the lovely Cleopatra, nothing has ever supplanted these beauty oils.

"THE beauty specialist cannot work on an irritated skin," says Emile Massé, of Paris. "Every woman should aid her beauty expert by using Palmolive. Its vegetable oil content is safe, soothing, non-irritating." Monsieur Massé, famous Parisian beauty specialist, explains—in these words—why 19,800 of his celebrated colleagues recommend Palmolive Soap. They want their clients to use a soap that definitely helps the expert in keeping complexions lovely. And Palmolive is their universal choice.

Why the skin needs soap and water

The pores must be thoroughly yet gently cleansed twice every day, to keep the skin from looking drawn, muddy, coarse, uncared for.

Palm and olive oils, as combined in Palmolive Soap, provide a penetrating, healing cleanliness that is the very foundation of facial beauty. Since the days of Cleopatra, these two famous cosmetic oils have been used as beautifiers. Nothing has ever supplanted them. "This soap," says Massé, "combines deep cleansing with the well-known cosmetic effects of palm and olive oils."

Palmolive's color is the natural color of olive and palm oils. The natural odor of these oils makes unnecessary the addition of heavy perfumes. It contains no other fats . . . just nature's own cosmetic oils.

Consult your beauty expert

Visit your beauty expert regularly, to be well groomed in every beauty detail. And cooperate with your expert by using Palmolive Soap daily in this simple treatment advocated by more than 19,800 famous beauticians:

Massage a smooth lather of Palmolive gently into the skin for about 2 minutes. Then rinse it off with warm water, graduating to cold. That's all. But be sure you do it regularly night and morning — as Monsieur Massé and the other famous experts advise.

P. S.—And use Palmolive for the bath, too. It costs no more than ordinary soaps, you know.

19,813 of the world's best known experts specify Palmolive for all home facial treatments!

ENSEMBLE IDEA IS BIG FEATURE IN MEN'S CLOTHES

Whole Thought is to Combine Proper Styles With Right Colors.

STRIPES IN SHIRTS

Snap Brim Pearl Grey Hats Will Be Big Favorite This Spring.

Displays in the windows of the Peterborough stores carrying men's wear indicate that the ensemble idea in men's haberdashery will be pushed in this city during the spring and summer.

About two and a half years ago the ensemble idea in men's wear was inaugurated by leading manufacturers and retailers in most sections of the country. Today that idea has developed with amazing rapidity.

With the opening of the spring season this thought of combining the proper styles with the right color tones will be pushed stronger than ever. It is believed that this idea has taken a permanent hold on the public—at least it is emphatically reflected in the tastier dress of the average man.

There is a certain conviction among manufacturers as well as retailers that shirts with light grounds will be favored extensively this spring. This, of course, will replace the medium and dark effects which prevailed for the last year or more.

The trend toward lighter grounds was noted last fall. This was found true in the sale of demi-boson shirts, those being offered in the sales and [illegible] being of the darker hues, [illegible] shades were sold [illegible] during the regular season, [illegible] the [illegible] business also [illegible] lighter co- [illegible] the winter.

Permanent shirt concern have been [illegible] their efforts in the production [illegible] lines are vertical, [illegible] bosoms, generally [illegible] over the cross-stripe.

[illegible] stripes run from hairlines to [illegible] of an inch, the latter being [illegible] popular in England. These are [illegible] from a quarter of an inch to [illegible] to two inches apart. Colors [illegible] are red, green, [illegible] and tan.

Figures in Neckwear

With the striped shirt as the vogue, neckwear naturally will show figures. This is usually the trend. When stripes are used in neckwear, then figured effects are to be found in shirts.

Striped ties, of course, will get their best business during the early days of the spring season, but with the introduction of warmer weather figured effects will be in demand and as the summer approaches the old fashioned polka dot will come into its own.

Then there is the question of what the Peterborough man will wear in the way of hats this spring and summer.

In the race for popularity it appears as if the snap brim pearl gray hat will register with the majority of men this spring.

Of course, there will be many other shades and shapes, but these will be in the minority. The welt edge hat will have its strong following, while another class of dressers will regard the Homburg as one of the best styles.

It is said by a leading maker that at least sixty per cent of the sales will be for the snap brim model. This hat has a three dimension brim, short in front, wider at the cides and still a bit wider at the back.

In this hat you will note that the brim curls sharply at the rear and holds the contour of the hat when snapped down in front.

Welt Edge Hat

To insure a maximum of service the welt edge hat is offered with a triple row of stitching on its welted brim. In the Homburg the crown is tapered and the brim is finished with a very narrow binding. Another innovation is a rather high crown and narrow curled edge.

In other colors besides gray tan, which once had quite a play, will take a back seat. Browns will be a bit stronger, however, but these will have a reddish cast. Buff and mustard tints will be in lesser demand.

According to clothing manufacturers the blue-gray tones promise to forge in the front. To get the ensemble idea across a hat color, which does not match these powder blues, but harmonize well with them, has been introduced.

The brim which does not change its contour, especially in snap brim models, has long been sought by the average man and he will get it this season. In other words the new snap will stay put when once worn. This is due to the designing of the shape which has become permanent.

STYLES CHANGE FOR YOUNG MEN

Square Shoulders and Slim Waist Highlights for This Spring.

NARROWER TROUSERS

If Mr. Man isn't of the athletic type in physique clothes must be provided for him this spring and summer to give him the athletic appearance, it has been learned by Peterborough clothiers in laying in their 1930 stocks to cater to the whims of the local well-dressed young men. This was the decree laid down by the International Association of Clothing Designers at a meeting held in Chicago recently.

Accordingly, in choosing their lines of men's suits, Peterborough clothiers have looked for shoulders in their suits of broad, square appearance and slim waist and hip lines. They are also taking the advice of the Designers who says that the athletic suggestion is enhanced by a shortening of the coat which tends to promote an appearance of breadth. From the breadth of the shoulders there will be a gradual tapering of the silhouette, ending at the shoe, which means that there will be a gradual decrease in the sizes of the bottom of the trousers, the Designers claimed.

The report of the Designers' findings indicates that the two-button single-breasted peak will find increasing favor.

"In all probability the leader in the style parade for spring and summer of this year will be the two button, single-breasted model, featuring the peak lapels. Closely following will be the same model with the notch lapel.

"In sports clothes the designers have had almost a free hand. In fact, the variety will range all the way from the plan loose type to the plaited or belted type. If plaited the belt will be stitched down, whereas if the back is plain the belt should be loose.

"In topcoats the single-breasted, three-button model promises to have the greatest call. The shoulders will be slightly squared with the open notch lapel and straight easy lines in the back.

"The raglan topcoat, either plain or belted is suggested for motor wear. This style presents a maximum of freedom and also an opportunity to use rough textures in shades that do not soil easily.

"As for color, grays will come to the front stronger than ever in suit models. This shade also has been a popular spring color due to the fact that it offers a most pleasant change from the sombre tones worn during the fall and winter season."

BOYS' SUITS ARE IN LIGHT SHADES

Garments Offered in Two or Three-Button Models—Single-Breast Style Favored.

TWEEDS HEAD PRICE LIST

In boys' suits Peterborough mothers are looking for fabrics that will stand the gaff of wear and hold their shapes. Local merchants say that they have stocked their stores this spring with just this kind of suits. Suits for real boys to enjoy themselves in and yet remain presentable.

Imported tweeds are the answer. If you do not care to pay the top price that such material will demand you will get the same effect in the Canadian imitations of these sturdy fabrics. Most of these suits are offered in two or three-button models, with the former leading the van.

Most of the color tones will run in the lighter shades, with grays and tan in the foreground. There will also be shown some of the darker colors, with browns predominating, copying closely the shade of men's suits.

The double-breasted model will not be as strong, but it will still prove a suit in much demand.

Other fabrics, besides tweed, being shown are worsteds, cheviots and cassimeres in subdued patterns or in mixtures.

Extra Trousers.

In most instances—for the sake of economy — mothers will buy their youngster two-trouser suits. Some of these are offered with two pairs of knickers or one pair of knickers and one of long trousers. Topcoats for the older boys will show the three-button, box back effects. These are shown in a large variety of fabrics, with tweeds being featured.

And when days are warm and no outer coat is needed you will find the little fellows on the streets, the playgrounds and everywhere attired in wash suits. For them the merchants offer numerous novelties in both the short sleeves and sleeveless suits with the low neck. The latter garment will be in the biggest demand.

BROWN SHOES THIS SPRING

Shades of Brown in Use This Season More Pleasing to Eye.

CUSTOM LAST STAYS

Men, if you want to be properly in style this Spring you must have brown shoes. Sixty per cent. or more shoes of this popular color are being shown in the larger stores. The national shoe style committee reported in January that the custom last and browns would be the feature for Spring.

But the browns presented this spring possess greater appeal than ever. In other years, colored footwear ranged from light orange or even lemon to the deep reddish brown used with cordovan leather. To-day the shades of brown are more pleasing and do not range so extensively. Furthermore, the present browns are easily cleaned and retain their lustre for a greater length of time.

Custom Last Is It.

The custom last, first brought to this country from England has been universally adopted. The Canadian makers have taken kindly to this last and so has the public. Through its use the average man gets the style he desires, at the same time also is given the coveted comfort, particularly from new shoes.

The jazz models are gone. Some toes are a bit more blunt than the present custom last, built for the man who considers foot comfort the first consideration.

Blacks, Also.

Black shoes, of course, will get their proper reception, being worn alternately with the brown footwear. The latter is expected for day wear and the former for night service.

Summer footwear is given its greatest breadth of designing treatment. The various color combinations which have been increasing from season to season, are presented in greater numbers than ever. Suede and calfskin combinations are shown in a variety of color tones. The suedes are shown in various shades of grays and tan, with the other leather trimmings to match.

For formal wear the lightweight Oxford or pump will continue in vogue. These are shown with plain toes in either medium or narrow lasts.

Patterns

FROM more than a dozen different sources prominent in their leadership in the creation of smartest styles and utmost quality, come our magnificent provisions for your Spring apparel correctness. Suits and Topcoats of the finest foreign and domestic weaves—of firmest shape-retaining hand-tailoring, and in all the most favored patterns and colors that the stylists have advocated for the season.

SUITS

PROMINENTLY displayed are the new grey and powder blue casts that Fashion has emphasized for the season. These are in new peak and notch models with more form-tracing lines than has been in vogue for several seasons.

TOPCOATS

THREE-QUARTER box effects, with set-in sleeves and peak lapels are most in favor. Next come Raglan models not quite as fully draped as heretofore. These Topcoats are in sedately patterned Tweeds and camel's hair weaves.

$15 $20 $25 $30 $35

HEADWEAR

GREYS, grey-blue, and tans are the dominating shades in Headwear, with greys in the lead because of the predominance of Grey Suits to be worn. Snap brim and Homburgs are the shapes in vogue.

FIXINGS

PATTERNS and colors are quieter in most Furnishings — notably in Ties, Shirts, and Hose — neater designs in off-shades top the mode. Pyjamas alone call for high color and pattern effects.

Also, in addition to these special displays of new Spring Merchandise as related to style, we have secured quite a number of both staple and style items---neckwear, jewellery, gloves, hosiery, silks, printed cottons, handbags, scarfs, and spring furnishings. You are invited to see them at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Y. P. L. at Campbellford Holds Regular Meeting.

MUSICAL NUMBERS

CAMPBELLFORD, March 13.—(Examiner Staff Correspondent)—A social evening was the feature of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Y.P.L. regular meeting held in the church hall Tuesday night with the president, Thomas Campbell in the chair.

The devotional exercises opened with a Psalm, a prayer by Rev. Dr. W. J. Mark and the scripture reading. The business session followed, with the roll call and reading of the minutes of the last meeting.

The topic was given by W. A. Newcort, who in a very able manner discoursed on the subject "Why and how win others to Christ", and outlined the reason for bringing our fellowmen to a state of Grace and the different methods of approach. The singing of a hymn concluded this portion of the program.

The musical entertainment commenced with a piano solo "Edelweiss Glide", and was very ably rendered by Grace Labrash. She replied to the applauds of the audience with the composition "Sweet Memories." A vocal duet by Messrs. J. W. Russell and John Patrick, "Life's Dream Is O'er" was well received. W. A. Newcourt at the piano. The Misses Grace and Leah Blue rendered a guitar duet "On the Beach at Waikiki" which brought a hearty encore to which they responded with "Carolina Moon." "Moonbeams on the Lake" and "Dance of the Golden Rods" were the two piano solos presented by Master Wallace Rutherford, in the rendition of which he showed his ability as a coming pianist.

Refreshments were served by the social committee after which the National Anthem brought the evening to a close.

The meeting on March 17 will be under the direction of the Literary Committee and will be featured by a topic on "Our Lord's Teaching of Righteousness."

Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store, and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

PLEATED SKIRTS SPORT CLOTHES

Paris Reports Add Confirmation to Current Styles.

FORMAL DRESSES LONG

NEW YORK, Mar. 13. (U.P.)—The usual agitation over the Paris openings is in the air. Cables have been humming with confirmation of skirt lengths, waistlines and all the other important details which seemed in danger of change. Suits were established as short, usually about 15 inches above ground, and jackets almost any length and waistlines restored to normal.

Evening and formal afternoon dresses were established as long and of conflicting silhouettes, including the Grecian, Directoire, Empire and princess, not to mention the belted-at-normal silhouette.

Sports clothes were declared indispensable, and not materially different from last season, the pendulum swinging evenly between flared and pleated skirts. Sleeves were omitted—long or short—which seems to provide for all sleeve complexes. Brief sleeves ending almost before they began, being somewhat new, naturally came in for italics. Everything from wool to cotton appears in sports collections. Striped shirting materials, striped silk, small checks, pin dots and plaids are included. Prints quite naturally appear and as usual with plain fabrics or in twin designs. Prints for evening are dashing, those for daywear prim.

Blue is given as the outstanding color range and this has added interest because of its current popularity not alone at Palm Beach, but elsewhere.

Uncommon Sense
By John Blake

POSTPONE YOUR OLD AGE.

Perhaps you can't avoid old age, but you can at least postpone it.

Last week I visited a great hotel where a half-dozen railroad executives and other big business men were holding a sort of informal conference.

I was surprised to learn from the secretary of one of them—his boss being one of the most widely known men in America—that the average age of the big magnates was over seventy.

I had seen them about the hotel and on the golf course. I had met some of them in the days when I was a reporter. That was fifteen or more years ago. None of them looked much older the other day than they did when I first saw them.

The reasons, I think, for this successful postponement of old age are two.

First they are deeply interested in their jobs, and, though they work hard at them they like the work.

Nothing you like is drudgery.

Second they have learned to take care of themselves. They eat moderately, drink moderately, if at all, spend much time in recreation such as playing golf, and keep out in the open air as much as possible.

A man with a first-class executive mind can work very rapidly when he does work.

His organizing ability enable him to put all details on the shoulders of others, which allows him to take time off to travel and hunt or fish, or follow any outdoor sport he may happen to be interested in.

I am sure that, more and more, old age is being postponed. The time may come when people will be husky and hearty till ninety or a hundred—perhaps even longer.

One thing is certain, however, about these men. They may have worked hard in their youth, but they took care of themselves.

They got all the sleep they needed, kept their bodies in good condition and neither ate nor drank too much.

Otherwise they would now be under the ground, and others would be in their places.

Old age can be and is being postponed. But the best time to start on the postponement is in the twenties or before, even though much can be done toward it after forty.

Inasmuch as reaching the "last stage of all" is highly unpleasant, it is well worth while to defer extreme old age as far as possible.

Parisian Foibles

The afternoon dress in black is always popular. In this model Mademoiselle Madeleine relieves the solid black with a beige girdle tied around the hips.

BLACK GAINS FAVOR FOR SPORTS WEAR.

Black becomes increasingly popular for sports and morning wear, but it must escape banality by some device, such as the cleverly designed scarf collar of this model, which as you see is cut in one piece with the front of the blouse. Black jersey is used for this costume, with inset pieces of beige in the lower part of the skirt. The basque suggestion, which is realized by carrying triangular pieces below the belt, is very smart just now.

"Beautiful" is Verdict of Stylists on Paris Openings.

PEPLUM FLOUNCES

NEW YORK, Mar. 13. (U.P.)—Recreating the atmosphere of elegance in costume such as has not been seen since before the war is the achievement credited to Paris couturiers by important fashion authorities returning from the French openings. Enthusiasm of an electric quality is reflected in their reports of finely elaborated dresses, suits and coats, described as bringing to flower the new trends which were merely in their budding stage as launched in August. Invariably, the word "beautiful" came into discussions, and the term is given added significance when Parisiennes, whose first desire is to look smart, rather than pretty, are described in costumes embellished with lingerie details, designed solely to flatter.

Practical details of these costumes are concerned with skirt lengths diversified and presenting four major divisions. Comment stresses evening dresses with even hemlines, ankle length, and omitting the trains advanced to some extent in the fall showings. Informal day time clothes are described as four or five inches below the knee, also even as to hemline. Sports dresses are still "short". Elaborated afternoon dresses offer a length several inches below that of the more practical daytime costumes, regarded as an influence of American origin, to give a 'normal' aspect to the exaggerated skirts which have been seen here during the past few months.

These costumes are considered essentially "dressmaker" fashions, requiring individual fitting, individual adaptation of design and the type of workmanship which, while it may not be visible, is absolutely needed to give the proper finish. To gain this end, capelets, boleros, circular tiers, peplum flounces and peats are all enlisted, in costumes with fitted bodies and full skirts of youthful, modern feeling.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

BAD TEETH CAUSING RHEUMATISM NOT A NEW DISCOVERY.

A patient was having so much trouble with his knee that he could hardly walk any distance. He was advised by his physician to have an X-ray film made of his teeth.

One of his front and one of his back grinding teeth showed trouble at the root.

He was advised to have them both removed.

Immediately after they were extracted both of his shoulders began to ache, he lost his appetite, and his tongue became thickly coated. He felt so miserable that he returned to his doctor and said 'Well you've started something now; I feel awful.

The doctor leaned back in his chair and said 'Don't think me hard-hearted, but I am greatly pleased to see you in this condition, because it shows that we are on the right track. The teeth were in bad shape, as the condition of the roots and the odor therefrom showed. When they were extracted the tissue surrounding them was disturbed and a great deal of the poison got immediately into the blood, and that poison is what is affecting your shoulders, appetite and tongue. When that gets out of your system, as it will in the days, weeks, or months to come, you will feel your old self again.'

The patient was advised to use purgatives and take plenty of exercise.

As mentioned before, when bad teeth are removed it is like closing down a factory. No more goods (poisons) are manufactured, but there is considerable of the goods on the shelves that take some time to be removed from the system—from the blood, the glands, intestines and so forth.

Now this idea of bad teeth causing rheumatism and other pains only seems to date back twenty years, and yet Dr. Benjamin Rush, over one hundred years ago reported a case of 'rheumatism' of the hip joint following the extraction of infected teeth. His statement that decayed teeth are often the unsuspected cause of disease fell on deaf ears.

Dr. Geo. S. Young tells us that the following ailments have been definitely traced to infected teeth; inflammation of the joints, nerves, lining of the heart, of kidneys, and eyes; anaemia, distrirbances of the stomach, nervous exhaustion or chronic fatigue.

And there ware other ailments that likely owe their existence to bad teeth.

Don't take a chance. The X-ray tells the story. Get rid of your bad teeth before trouble starts.

RECORD VOYAGE OF IDA CLARK

Captain Edgar F. Robbins Recalls Fast Time From Monte Vidor to Halifax.

160 MILES DAILY

HALIFAX, N.S., March 13.—Recalling a record voyage made by the Halifax-owned sealing schooner Ida M. Clark from Monte Video to Halifax in 1912, Captain Edgar F. Robbins, Master Mariner of Berwick, N.S., writes as follows:

"We left Monte Video on the afternoon of April 27th. From noon on May 11th, 10 days, the distance sailed was 1,957 miles, at an average of 196 miles per day.

"On May 15th we crossed the equator in long .37 west. From noon of the 16th until noon of the 25th, nine consecutive days, we sailed 2,031 miles at an average of 226 miles per day.

"We arrived at Halifax on the evening of June 2nd, 36 days from port to port, having crossed three calm belts and through the doldrums, and were 18 days from the equator to Halifax. The total distance by the shortest steamer route is 5,773 miles. Our daily average was 160.3 miles and our hourly average was 6 2-3 miles.

"This pasage is recorded in Frederick William Wallace's book, 'In the Wake of the Wind Ships' and is a hard one to beat."

The schooner William Aymer on a voyage made in 1888 from St. Jean, Antigua, towards St. Stephen, N.B., covered a distance of approximately 1,475 miles in 7 3-4 days, at an average of 190 miles per day.

BLOUSE ESPECIALLY OF NET COMES IN FOR PRAISE

NEW YORK, Mar. -(U.P.)—Soft cotton blouses are allies to the slim silhouette and among them net is especially mentioned. Models, equally smart as tuck-ins or short overblouses are developed in fine ecru net edged with Alencon lace.

Net blouses may be worn under the most snugly fitting suit without marring the tailored effect; they are adequate in case the wearer wishes to remove her jackets; they are comfortable in warm climates, and their neutral coloring and simple styling make them wearable with almost any type of suit. They are dressy but not too dressy, or tailored without being severely so. In fact, their versatility as well as their possibilities are almost unlimited in a season when the suit occupies such an important position in the fashion scheme and when blouses are regarded with more and more favor.

Generous frilled collars and jabots or simple panel fronts of lace are equally well liked for these blouses which sponsor full cap sleeves, long plain sleeves, or kimono sleeves which barely cover the top of the shoulder.

One of the interests of the season centers about the appropriate blouse for the dozen or so varieties of tailleur with us this spring. Some blouses are exceedingly tailored, and are completed by mannish cravates. Others are as frivolous as bows and jabots of lace and other things can make them. The point to remember is, that one must necessarily stretch ones clothes budget to include an assortment in white and color.

Mrs. J. H. Dudgeon was hostess last evening at the parsonage when a very successful social evening was enjoyed by members and visitors of her class, The King's Own, of St. James' Sunday School to the number of twenty-five. A short session of business preceded the evening's entertainment, which consisted of music contests, and charades, under the direction of Mrs. Alvin Davis, the capable class president. The object of the gathering was to establish a closer acquaintanceship among the class members, as well as to outline a program of financial endeavor. During the evening a very pleasing duet, "Remember," was sung by Misses Dorothy Dudgeon and Jennie Smart. Delicious refreshments were served by the social committee, after which a sincere vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Dudgeon for lending her home for the occasion.

The decorations were appropriate to the season and quite original in effect. The table was lovely in a color scheme of pink and green. From an overhead electrolier four green streamers were attached to the four corners of the table, ending in a dainty figure representing a gay Irish coleen with green petticoats and hats. The table, with its silver service and cutwork embroideries, was centred by a basket of pink tulips and arranged with four green candles in silver holders, and cutout green shamrocks. At a side table, with Madeira linens, green baskets held home-made candies and home-made cooking was sold. In the living room, arranged with green plants and pink tulips, the guests were received by Mrs. McLeish and Mrs. H. Morgan. They were ushered into the tea room by Mrs. A. J. WE HAVEN'T heard quite as much lately about women or I should say 'people' dieting, (for I know men are guilty of it just as much as women!)

* * * * * * *

The eighteen-day diet craze has died down. One doesn't hear as much talk at teas, etc., about how many pounds they have lost in the past month or week as the case may be.

* * * * * * *

Once we knew of women who did without sugar in order that they might reduce, but Dr. Donald A. Laird, Director of the Colgate University Psychological Laboratory, says that sugar is a great "pick-me-up".

* * * * * * *

It counteracts mental and physical fatigue and has been tested out on athletes! But what is more important to us—he stated that it can even be used by women as energy builder without disturbing fat tissues!!

* * * * * * *

Laird's recommendation in order to refresh the tired business man without sending him out of town for a rest is when asked at tea, "How many lumps please?" shall reply: "Three instead of the usual two I'm pretty tired today!"

* * * * * * *

The secret of recovering mental poise and physical energy according to Dr. Laird's experiments is to eat more sugar.

* * * * * * *

Of course, he doesn't mean that we should carry a lump or two in our pockets but that more sugar be taken in our tea or coffee.

* * * * * * *

Any of you who are sport fans will know of Knute Rockne, the Notre Dame football coach. We read that he feeds sugar to his team before an important game!

* * * * * * *

For months now Dr. Laird has been working on Colgate students. He takes 12 healthy undergraduates and gives them each a glass of water. Six of the glasses have sugar dissolved in the water. The students then go through a series of tests.

* * * * * * *

They stand with their knees together and their arms outstretched and the sway of their bodies is measured on a machine called an ataxigraph. Then they are made to climb three flights of stairs and back again to see how the fatigue affected them.

* * * * * * *

We find that the six students who had the sugar were 9.4 per cent more steady; those who had no sugar wobbled 13.1 per cent. more than they did before!

* * * * * * *

In almost every case of mental and physical tests it was found that sugar helped the subjects recover mental and motor control after exercise.

* * * * * * *

With the use of more sugar women will instead of building up fat build up energy. But he stipulates that they must eat their sugar at the beginning of each meal for then it dulls the appetite and makes the fattening foods that are to follow unattractive!

DOUBLE SOCKETS

When using an electric toaster percolator or other electric equipment at the table, double sockets are time savers, for no lights must be removed before equipment can be connected.

PAINT STAINS

If your windows are paint stained, the easiest way to remove the stains is to shave them off with razor blades.

BE REASONABLE.

Boys and girls are really very patient with us on the whole. The great host of children try to do as nearly right as they know how. When they are asked to do something instructed, how to do it, they do their best. It is natural that they think they have conformed to the set standard because the idea they had in mind was the correct one. The performance fell short only because of the inadequate power of the nerves and muscles in question. In short, the children lack experience and practice and so cannot reach perfection in a short time. Certainly not at the first trial. Give them time, praise them for their efforts. Point out their deficiencies in friendly helpful fashion and they will redouble their efforts. Be sweetly reasonable.

Don't grow impatient because a child messes up a job. Of course you told him how to do it. You told him again and again and he heard you. He even answered you. He made assurance doubly sure and repeated your directions clearly. Then he made mistake after mistake. That is due to his lack of experience, lack of practice in the right way. Give him a chance to learn by repetition, by continued repetition and he will do as well as you could wish.

Now and then a child oppressed by the kindly vigilance of his mother appeals to me. This happens so seldom that I know the case must be pressing indeed to force the child to write to me for help. A boy did so recently asking plaintively if I thought twenty minutes too much for him to devote to dressing in the morning: washing, combing hair, washing teeth, spraying nose, cleaning nails, and the like. Was twenty minutes too much?

Of course not. The boy who can dress in twenty minutes and groom himself as thoroughly as an adolescent boy should be groomed in the morning, is doing unusually well. It is necessary to use plenty of warm soap and water, to do thoroughly every little bit of work entailed in a complete morning toilet. That requires time and practice. Uncalled for haste upsets the boy's mind. It destroys his rhythm, consequently makes him uncomfortable, uneasy and uncertain. That will make him irritable and of course that spoils his work for the day. A bad start lowers the quality of the work.

It is necessary to teach children to work well within a time limit. Dawdling is a wasteful, annoying mischievous habit. But in trying to establish the right habit of promptness one must guard against the extreme. Too much pressure makes a child nervous, uncertain, and he losses poise.

Unless we can help a child to consistent steady, accurate work well within this time limit we might beter leave him alone. What we must strive to do is to discover his natural rhythm and train him to work in accordance with it. Not haste, not waste, but reasonable effort to use time well. Let us be reasonable in all things.

WOMEN OF 1930 TO BE SMART MUST DRESS FOR ALL OCCASIONS

Days Are Past When Stunning Sports Outfit Will Take Wearer Anywhere.

ALL DRESSES LONGER

(By Jeanette)

The lady has come into her own again. She disappeared for awhile and a mannish person that went in for cropped heads and bared knees and low-heeled shoes, took her place. Now she has emerged, like Rip Van Winkle and she is going in for luxurious, stretching exercises, instead of rough, snappy setting-up stunts, and for lace collars and demure little lace cuffs, for soft, gentle manners and clothes to match.

The new pose in femininity is demonstrated strikingly in sports clothes. These were formerly good for almost any time in the day. A stunning sports outfit would take its wearer anywhere. But times have changed. There is a place for everything and a dress also, in the new mode. The woman of 1930, to be quite smart and up-to-date, must be well dressed for every occasion.

In the morning, she goes in for clever frocks of knitted fabrics or tweeds, the latter made with the new swagger flares and fitted lines, and in heather mixture tones.

The suit is an important fashion item for spring wear. The ensemble of coat and dress is still smart, but the newer idea of a tailored jacket and skirt is the favorite. The tuck-in blouse and yoked skirt are smart and youthful-looking and the newer skirts have longer yokes and a decided flare. A new suit material which promises to be very popular this year has silk woven with the woollen threads and is usually a darker color flecked with a lighter tone. Soft, flannel-like woollen suits and those of nubbed tweeds, with or without fur trimming, are much liked, in black, blue or brown tones. Most of the jackets agree in having fitted waistlines, belts, up-in-the-front cut and capes. The short tailored jacket for morning, the three-quarter jacket suit for general wear, and the fur-trimmed suit for formal occasions—there you have it.

In the spring coats, one finds godets as well as full circular skirts and flounces placed low to accentuate the flaring hemline. On the dressy coats, much fur is used, in gallyak, dyed squirrel and broadtail.

Prints Still Good.

The vogue for prints that has marked fashions of several years past still continues to hold sway. For evening wear there are large, brilliant designs developed in chiffons, while small, dainty flower designs mark the afternoon gowns. There is a strong reminiscence of our grandmothers' days in these quaintly charming frocks with their capped sleeves, peplums and circular skirts edged with ruffles and bows. The new tones are soft and subdued in rose, blue, purple, green or brown, adorned with a bit of lace at neck and sleeves.

Dinner gowns go in for chiffons in black and pastel shades, made with the new deep U-neck, quaint little puffed sleeves and skirts of ankle length, or touching the floor in some parts of their uneven hem lines. Capes are staging a return to favor, many being detachable to allow of the transformation from an afternoon to a formal evening frock.

The new fashions manage to achieve an effect of subtle simplicity despite their elaborate details and picturesque lines. For sports wear, three inches below the knee is the correct length. For daytime, four to six inches is correct, and for afternoon special wear, six inches below the knee. Ankle length all around, with perhaps a dip in the back, is accepted for evening. The normal waistline is defined by a belt or shirring or tucking. Skirt fulness remains low and gored effects and pleats are prominent.

Many of the sports dresses have little cap sleeves while afternoon frocks go in for three-quarter or above-the-elbow sleeves. Many of the dresses have a capelet in some form, attached to the sleeves, a wide cape bertha or a detachable shoulder cape. The cape also appears often on coats and suits.

The bolero influence is apparent in suits, coats and gowns and as for colors, blue, in navy and linen shades, is very prominent, with gray as a natural sequence. There are several rich reds and all the browns from chocolate to yellow. Black and white combinations will be good for spring wear, and a variety of greens from a color like spring water to a dark leaf.

DATA ON DEPTHS BEING GATHERED

Tests Being Taken as Aid to Fish Production and Growth.

TAKEN IN ATLANTIC

BOSTON, March 13.—Experiments to determine the temperature and salinity of the Atlantic Ocean at varying depths are being carried on by scientists of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries aboard the steamer Albatross in their studies of hydro-dynamics as an aid to fish production and growth.

The Albatross steamed out of Woods Hole and about eight miles south of No Man's Land the first temperatures were taken in 20 fathoms of water. A small, iron railed platform was lowered over the weather rail and Edward W. Baily, junior biologist, prepared to lower the thermometers into the sea.

From a boat davit a steel cable led from the steam winch on the for'ard deck, through a snatch block to a heavily weighted loose end. Biologist Baily attached to this cable the heavy deep-sea reversing thermometers. The instrument bearing two thermometers measuring in centigrade degrees, consist of a brass frame into which the thermometers are fitted snugly so that they may not be broken from shifting. One side of the frame is hollow and fitted with automatic valves for the reception of sea water at whatever depth required. The winch is released and the weighted line disappears into the green water. The winchman watches a little recording block over which the line travels and when the dials on the block indicate the required number of fathoms or meters, have been reached, he throws a lever which stops the descent.

Next a "messenger" or brass weight is slipped over the cable and sent down through the water. It strikes the thermometer instrument, trips a lever, the thermometer instrument reverses and for a brief space of time remains registering the temperature at a given depth. The water receptacle opens and lets in about a pint of water, then the signal is given and the winch restarted, the thermometers with the temperature carefully recorded and with their sample of ocean water are lifted back to the ship.

Readings Carefully Taken

The instrument is carefully taken from the cable, readings made and carefully entered, with latitude and longitude, depth and other facts that are necessary to future study and comparison. The water in the little container is carefully drawn off away for future laboratory study. The salinity of the water is noted particularly as it is known that the Atlantic Ocean is much saltier in some places than in others. This study of the salinity and temperature of the water is a large part of the study of hydro dynamics, or, in plain English the reasons for certain drifts and currents moving in certain directions, and is a large part of the study of fish production and growth.

The next step in the experiments is the gathering of minute fish eggs and larvae, this being the immature fish recently hatched from the egg, yet not big enough to swim or to feed itself, and such tiny animal or plant life as may be found floating in the water.

A circular mouthed net is attached net on metal runners and about board. The mouth of this net is about one meter in diameter and it is about 20 feet from mouth to cod-end. It is made of Italian silk with meshes so fine as to be closer woven than a silk handkerchief. This is allowed to sink to the bottom and the ship is started up, moving not more than one mile an hour while the net tows astern.

At a given word the net is raised 10 feet and again drags, and then raised another ten feet and dragged, and so on until it is dragging along the surface. It is then ready to be hauled into the boat and its valuable contents, gathered from the different levels of the ocean, are placed in glass jars for microscopic studies in the laboratories later.

Sometimes, the Welsh net, a squared ne ton metal runners and about 15 feet long, is sent down. This snares fish a bit larger than those gathered by the circular net, yet not large enough for food size.

Last comes the otter trawl, a trawl net like those used on the big steam trawlers that ply out of the fish piers. It is smaller than the commercial variety but it has the same size meshes. This drags along the bottom and is capable of hauling up 1500 pounds of large fish for the larger fish must be studied as well as the eggs and larvae.

During the time it takes to carry out this program, a tiny net of extremely closely woven silk, trails out from the stern, right on the surface. This is for the catching of diatoms and microscopic plant life on the surface of the water.

With the experiments at 20 fathoms completed the Albatross steamed out to the next station in 30 fathoms of water and repeated the tests and from there to another station at 100 fathoms. The data from these depths is all carefully catalogued and the scientist of the Bureau prepare for an extensive laboratory study of the specimens gathered.

BUSINESS MEN TO BE ORDAINED

Nine Londoners of Various Stations in Life Train for Holy Orders.

CANDIDATE SHORTAGE

LONDON, Mar. 13 (By Thomas T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent)—St. Paul, we are led to believe followed his trade of tentmaker, the while he preached the word of God. A notable return towards this apostolic way of life will be witnessed at Christ Church, Spitalfields, in the East end of London on Sunday next when the Bishop of Stepney will ordain nine London business men, comprising civil servants, schoolmasters and clerks, all of whom have pursued their training for holy orders while following their customary avocations.

This is the first time such a departure has been made to any notable extent by the Church of England, and marks a most striking divergence from the methods of preparation for the Anglican ministery of a generation back. At least five years at a historic school, three years at Oxford or Cambridge universities and two years at a theological college used then to be the course for the majority of aspirants for holy orders, and in most instances the entire expense would fall upon the candidates' parents.

Nowadays the shortage of candidates for the ministry from that class of the community whence they were formerly most usually recruited, compels those in authority to look elsewhere for promising material. Many such authorities declare the material is readily available if only funds for training them are provided.

At this year's Lambeth Conference of Bishops of the Anglican communion throughout the world the question will be earnestly considered of admitting men who will follow their secular occupation to at least deacon's orders.

NOTED NOBLEMAN DIES IN ENGLAND

Earl of Coventry Was Known as "the Father of the House of Lords."

GREAT SPORTSMAN.

WORCESTER, England, March 13 (C.P.)—The Earl of Coventry, the ninth of his line, died to-day at his home, Croome Court, at the age of 91, after a fortnight's illness. The aged earl frequently was known as "the father of the House of Lords." He was one of the most famous sportsmen of the country.

He was Lord Lieutenant of Worcestershire since 1891 and for several years was master of the Buck hounds. He owned many valuable historical paintings at Croome Court.

The Earl of Coventry was the most famous sporting nobleman of three reigns. He was a Peer when Queen Victoria had been but six years on her throne and his record of 87 years in the Peerage beats the previous record of Viscount Cullen, whose tenure of title was from 1716 to 1802.

He knew the Duke of Wellington when the victor of Waterloo still had a good spell of life ahead of him. He made an ideally happy marriage 65 years ago with a daughter of the second Earl of Craven, who still survives. This "Darby and Joan" of the Peerage touched the popular imagination and their diamond wedding was hailed almost as a national event.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

MIMICO, Ont., March 13. (C.P.) Walter Gregor, 27, clerk of a local grocery store, was committed for trial by Magistrate D. Davidson in Police court yesterday on a charge of manslaughter. The charge arose out of the accidental shooting of Edward King, railroad employe, in the store on the night of Feb. 27 last. A charge of pointing a revolver was withdrawn. Bail of $10,000 was renewed.

WITTY KITTY

The girl friend says that one reason why she hasn't married yet is because there seems to be only two wedding marches to choose from.

ANAESTHETIC FOUND NOT BLAME FOR DEATH

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (C.P.)—An unusual and unsuspected pathological condition in her lungs, rendering them unable to absorb anaesthetics safely, was the main factor in the death of Mrs. Myrtle Rodgers, 40 who died on the operating table in a local hospital while an operation for removal of her appendix was being performed, was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury here investigating the woman's death and the anaesthetic situation in general.

The verdict rendered to Chief Coroner Dr. M. M. Crawford early this morning followed nearly two hours' deliberation by the jury which for two nights has probed the situation in an effort to allay public anxiety regarding the recent deaths of other citizens, while under anaesthetics.

"There is absolutely no grounds for fear," was one phrase of importance in the verdict, while another practically exonerated the anaesthetics from blame as the possible cause of death.

HEADS OF EAST CITY INDUSTRIES ADDRESS HOLY NAME SOCIETY

Open Meeting is Held in East City Community Hall, Tuesday Night.

HISTORY OF INDUSTRIES.

On Tuesday evening, March 11, a large audience assembled in Community Hall to listen to two interesting addresses delivered respectively by J. H. Vernor, superintendent of the Western Clock Company, and F. Stevenson, manager of the Ontario Marble Works. It was an open meeting, at which the ladies were the guests of the Holy Name Society.

Mr. Vernor prefaced his talk on the manufacture of clocks by referring to the various calendars which have been in use since the earliest ages for the computing of time. He pointed out that the Gregorian calendar, which is now followed by all English-speaking countries, keeps about as correct a record as human ingenuity could devise. He then traced the history of clocks from the rude timepiece, which also served as an alarm, invented by a Benedictine monk in the thirteenth century down to the Big Ben which now wakes us up in the mornings. He also explained the three sources of motor power which are used in the construction of clocks, viz., the weight, the pendulum, and the spring. In closing, the speaker made reference with pardonable pride to the output of the local plant. The address, which was interspersed with several humorous anecdotes, was listened to with much pleasure and profit.

Mr. Stevenson, who came here over a year ago to take charge of the marble works, made a very favorable impression. He has a rich, soft voice redolent of the Sunny South. Marble cutting and polishing, he claimed, was one of the oldest arts known to man, as evidenced by the marble tablets taken from the ruins of some of the ancient cities that flourished long before the advent of Christianity. Unlike other crafts, the process of fashioning marble has changed little in the last two hundred years. It is a slow process. Sometimes it takes six or seven days to make a single cut through a large block. While the greater part of the marble used in the local plant is quarried in this country, yet much of it comes from foreign lands. Marble in its original state at the quarry is a dull-colored, shapeless lump, but when put through the various processes, so vividly described by the speaker, it comes forth a thing of beauty such as may be seen in the local office of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company.

Ald. Daniel Holland introduced the speakers and also tendered to them the vote of thanks passed by the meeting. In doing so he took occasion to thank them for having established their plants in East City, thus maintaining in a measure that equilibrium so necessary to the healthy growth of a manufacturing centre.

During the evening the audience was treated to vocal solos by Miss Stella Brady and Mr. Joseph Clancy, the accompanists being Misses Margaret McCabe and Helen Clancy.

SURVIVORS OF CUSTER FIGHT FOUND IN WEST

Located Among Wapeton Sioux Band in Central Saskatchewan.

OLD CHIEF LIVING.

Ancient Secret Societies Still Exist—Torture is Omitted.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Indian survivors of Custer's battle on the Little Big Horn have been found among a band of Wapeton Sioux in central Saskatchewan by an expedition from the Cambridge University Museum and the British Museum. The expedition, led by an American, Donald A. Cadzow, has returned to civilization after having travelled thousands of miles to study scattered tribes of Canadian Indians whose old native culture is fast vanishing. Mr. Cadzow was accompanied by Robert Rymell of England and John Rymill of South Australia.

The band containing the Custer fight survivors moved to Canada shortly after the battle, Mr. Cadzow said. The group fought its way northward to good hunting grounds on the north shore of the Saskatchewan River and there settled. The old chief, Four Stars, is still alive, and they call Americans "Che-mokimen" or "Long-knives" after the name given long ago to American cavlary men who carried sabres.

In northeast Saskatchewan the expedition found an untamed tribe of Salteaux Indians, led by a blind old chief named Nippy, and independently hating everything that suggests the white man's America.

"These Indians live as their ancestors did a hundred years ago, hunting moose, deer and fish," Mr. Cadzow said. "Repeated efforts by the Government to keep these long haired pagans on a reservation have failed. They refuse to accept treaty money offered to them each year by the Indian Department, and missionaries sent to them by various faiths have given up all hope of converting them as it is impossible to work with a roving band of hunters who refuse even to talk with a white man."

Many of the ancient secret societies still flourish among the tribes, the expedition found. The Piegan Indians of Alberta hold their annual Sun-Dance, but the torture of warriors by placing sharpened sticks through the flesh of their breasts is omitted, because it is no longer necessary to make warriors.

"The weird throb of the tom tom played by medicine men and herb doctors can still be heard on the reserves," Mr. Cadzow stated. "But it is only a matter of a few years before the white man's civilization will eliminate the last vestige of true Indian culture."

THE LABOR QUESTION.

PARIS, March 13. — While England suffers from the many men out of work there, France, just a few miles across the Channel, is endeavoring to import more workers, for there are not enough to fill all the factories. The Polish Government has allowed over 60,000 Poles to migrate to France in order to relieve French conditions.

HER 100TH BIRTHDAY.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Mar. 12.—One of the pioneer women of Cape Breton, Mrs. Victoria DeYoung, of Martinique, C.B., has celebrated her 100th birthday, with all her facilities unimpaired. She welcomed her family and friends to her birthday party and with remarkable clearness of memory told many interesting stories about olden days, including a visit paid to Prince Edward Island, when a little girl of eight years. Her sight is perfect and she sews and threads her needle without glasses.

BRANCH OF PROVINCIAL FORCE.

TORONTO, March 13. (C.P.) — Centralization of the control of the Provincial Police Force and the Highway Traffic Officers of Ontario under Hon. W. H. Price, the Attorney-General, was announced at Queen's Park yesterday. The highway police have been operating under the Department of Highways but from now on they will form a special detachment of the Provincial Police force, it was announced by Hon. George S. Henry. There will be no change in the system of patrolling the highways nor of the regulations. The highway force, consisting of 68 men and three inspectors, will remain intact.

SPENT THREE WEEKS AT FLATT'S VILLAGE

F. M. Dela Fosse Returns Home From Bahama Islands.

Looking decidedly tanned after his three weeks' sojourn in the picturesque little settlement of Flatt's Village, just where the Atlantic Ocean and Harrington Sound meet in the Bahamas, F. M. De la Fosse, returned this week. He was accompanied on the trip by his wife and niece, Miss Ross, also on the outward voyage were Mr. and Mrs. Braund of this city.

Mr. De la Fosse speaks of a terribly rough passage on the two days' journey by boat from Halifax. It was so rough that many passengers sustained slight injuries and one man had a broken arm. The return water trip was less eventful and the steamer sailed into Halifax having been favored by beautiful weather.

Golf was Mr. De la Fosse's chief pastime whilst away and he could not have chosen a finer spot than the Frascati Hotel which boasts a wonderful nine-hole course. The hotel building stands out white and sparkling in the dazzling sun; is situated on a sheltered inlet, and provides a spot from which excellent views of both ocean and mainland can be seen.

Bermuda has no factories, billboards, street cars or motorcycles, and the general use of the automobile is prohibited. Riders and drivers follow the English custom of keeping to the left.

At all times of the year Bermuda possesses unique floral charm. Fields of stately Easter lilies, hedges of oleanders, and hibiscus, are the leaders.

The Bermudas are the world's most northerly coral islands, and are only 720 miles from Halifax. The climate is believed to be the most equable in the world, the average annual temperature being 70 degrees. The Spring average is 63 degrees to 72 degrees, Summer 75 degrees to 79, Autumn 65 to 72 degrees; Winter 63 to 69 degrees.

SCHOOL ASSOCIATION HAS MUSICAL PROGRAM

Had Eczema on Limb For Twenty Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"Eczema broke out in a rash on my limb, below the knee. It was in a spot about as large as a half dollar and itched badly. When I scratched it water came from it and the eczema spread until nearly the whole side of my limb, below the knee, was covered. Later it became dry and scaled over, and the irritation kept me awake nights. I had it more or less for twenty years.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me and before long I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. M. A. Palmer, Auburn, Nova Scotia.

THE BEST COMEDY IN AMERICA

"Wait, Henry, you didn't kiss me goodby."
—N. Y. Medley.

A young college couple, who had just recently been married, had received lots of nice wedding presents after establishing their home in a suburb. One morning in the mail they received two theater tickets together with a note which read: "Guess who sent these."

At the duly appointed time, the young couple went to the theater, returning late in the evening. To their astonishment everything in the house of any value had been carried away. On a bare table in the dining room they found this note: "Now you know."

THE GRIEF OF A LOVE AFFAIR

IF you write the girl of your dreams a letter, it's too long. If you send her a postal card, it's too short and too conspicuous. If your letter is sentimental, you're too bold; if it isn't, she gets angry and ditches you. If you call her up too often, you're a pest; if you don't call her often enough, the affair is over. If you talk too long, she is bored; if you don't talk long enough, she is offended. If you send her flowers every day, you're a spendthrift; if you don't send her enough flowers, you're a cheapskate. If you try to kiss her, you're insulting; if you don't, you're insulting. If you try to be nice to her, she thinks you're too suave; if you don't, she thinks you're too crude. If you act naturally, she doesn't like it; if you don't, then you're affected. God help the stronger sex in an affair like this!

ROMANCE BETWEEN CARNERA AND 19 YEAR OLD MAIDEN MOOTED

Ambling Alp's Manager Says Fighter Has No Intention of Entering Matrimonial Ranks.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT.

LONDON, March 12 (Associated Press Cable)—A story of a romance between Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight boxing giant, and Miss Emilia Tersini, winsome 19-year-old British subject, was told in The Daily News to-day. The paper said that the boxer would return to England this year to marry her and settle here.

Miss Tersini is described as of pale complexion with black dreamy eyes and black curly hair. She was born in England and lives with her Uncle Nani, who keeps a restaurant in the west end of London.

Essence of Gentleness

"I first saw him last November," she told her interviewer, referring to the visit Carnera made to England for a bout with Young Stribling, Georgia fighter. "I think I loved him as soon as I saw him, but we did not become engaged until three days before he went to Paris at the beginning of 1930.

"I loved him because he was so simple, and free from bluster and pride. He is the very essence of gentleness and courtesy. Although a giant, he can be as tender as a woman." Uncle Nani revealed then that Primo writes to Miss Emilia three times a week.

She said she did not think Carnera's return would be very remote, and added that they would be married at her uncle's house.

Has No Time

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 12—Primo Carnera, huge Italian fighter, is all wrapped up in his boxing tour of the United States and has no time to be bothered with any matrimonial plans.

He let this be known to-day through his manager, Leon Cie, in denying reports from London that he (Carnera) intended to return to England to marry Miss Emilia Tersini, a British subject.

Carnera Knows Best

LONDON, March 12—Miss Emilia Tersini smiled prettily and enigmatically this afternoon when told that Primo Carnera had denied they were engaged.

"Well, Mr. Carnera knows best," she said, "we are only friends anyway."

When asked directly, however, whether she really was engaged to Primo, the dark-eyed girl was explicit in the negative.

"No," she replied, "I am not, and will you tell people so?"

"So congratulations are not in order?" asked the interviewer.

"No," she said.

But with another smile she added: "Not yet."

WHIRLWIND MOTOR INVENTOR PREDICTS FOOLPROOF PLANES

By Paul H. King,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ST. LOUIS, March 13.—(U.P.)—An airplane, "foolproof" and as easy to drive as an automobile, eventually will be a reality, Charles L. Lawrence, designer of the Wright Whirlwind motor, believes.

"You will steer these planes to the right or left with an automobile wheel, just as you would a car, and with no fear of making a false move," Lawrence commented.

"You will go up or down simply by pulling or pushing the wheel and the airplane will be in perfect control in every position and at any speed, even when descending."

"The stick which now maneuvers the plane will be done away with, also the necessity of using the feet on pedals," he said.

Lawrence, to whom President Coolidge presented the Collier Trophy for the greatest achievement in aviation during 1928, said he believed too much dependence upon the personal equation constitutes the largest fault of the present day plane.

Although he admitted the present day craft yet is imperfect, Lawrence emphasizes that the airplane, "when in competent hands, is a sound means of transportation."

Construction of the airplane motor and frame have been improved to such a degree that most accidents and crashes are due to bad judgment of the pilot," the motor expert believes.

Fire hazards of the present day plane will be eliminated, adding further to safety of flying, Lawrence explained.

"The hazards," he said, "will be eliminated by preventing other parts of the machine from becoming hot from exhaust and the use of a less volatile fuel."

"No matter how safe flying becomes, bad judgment of pilots will continue to cause accidents just as he does today with the automobile."

"As in golf and other games the chief hazard in learning to fly is a mental hazard, but those who hesitate today will find it hard to resist the planes of tomorrow," Lawrence concluded.

Painful Boils One After The Other Broke Out On Arms

Miss K. Rudd, 1100 Victoria Drive, Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"About a year ago I was troubled with boils. They broke out on my arms, and no sooner was one healed than another would come to take its place. I suffered great pain with them, and tried different medicines and ointments, but they did me no good.

"I was advised to take

and, my, what relief I got; soon my skin was as clear as before."

OLD, CONTRACTED LIMBS, JOINTS AND TENDONS

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy to help their condition.

Sufferers should ask for a small bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any good druggists. It softens the cartilage, takes the soreness out of the ligaments and tendons, and eases the pain. The first application gives instant relief and comfort. Thousands have reduced large, ugly varicose veins and ulcers by simply applying Moone's Emerald Oil as directed. McDermid Drug Co. Ltd., Bond's Drug Store, McDermid & Jury, and all good druggists have it.

ST. SHOTTS ISLE RIVALS SABLE IN SEA TRAGEDY

Two Hundred Lost in Harpooner Wreck Over Century Ago.

STRUCK IN FOG

Comus, Cromwell and George Washington All Foundered at Foot of Same Cliffs.

HALIFAX, N. S., Mar. 13—Although Sable Island for scores of years has been the Graveyard of the Atlantic in the vocabulary of mariners, many of the most tragic wrecks in western waters have left their story on less known landmarks.

Some of the descendants of those who suffered and died in the wreck of the transport Harpooner on the coast of Newfoundland a hundred and thirteen years ago, are familiar with the story of one of the worst disasters in the history of North Atlantic shipping, but details of the tragic deaths of more than two hundred men, women and children may be read for the first time by the general public of the present. It was on the night of November 10, 1816, that the transport, off her course and poking through fog, crashed against the rugged cliffs at St. Shotts, on the southeastern coast of Newfoundland, in the district of St. Mary's. This was neither the first nor last disaster at the scene, other ships having found their graves there, with the loss of many lives. In an account of the Harpooner's fate, published in the Acadian Recorder of Halifax towards the end of 1816, fear, pathos, and heroism combined to furnish a tale more vivid than fiction. A unique detail of the wreck was the fact that most of the survivors were indebted to a dog for their lives.

When the Harpooner, in command of Captain Joseph Bryant, left Quebec for England, she carried 385 passengers, as well as the ship's Company, principally the 4th Royal Veteran Battalion commanded by Captain Prime and Lieutenant Mylrea. Also on board were detachments of the Royal Artillery, Artillery Drivers 70th, 76th, 99th, 103rd, and DeWatteville's and Glengarry Fencibles under command of Captain Willock, 103rd Regiment. Many of these soldiers had fought in the United States in the War of 1812, and a number were still suffering from wounds.

The weather was moderate as the Harpooner sailed down the St. Lawrence River and Gulf. No observation had been taken for several days, however, on account of fog, and the ship was believed to be much farther east than was really the case.

Proceeding at a speed of about five knots, she struck at St. Shotts at nine o'clock in the night. The Captain called all hands forward and had the vessel swung around with her stern to the shore. Due to the cliffs and surf, it was impossible to land without a line or boat. Then a heavy gale blew up. The large boats on the Harpooner were smashed to pieces soon after the ship struck, and the masts were cut away. Some of the crew were successful in lowering the stern boat and reaching shore, but they could not return through the heavy surf. The ship, lying on her beam ends, was submerged by wave after wave. A fire started from the cabin stove, but it was soon extinguished by the water.

The passengers and soldiers, collected on deck, clung to the weather side and other parts of the ship forming a solid mass. Efforts to get a line to shore that night were fruitless. As the dark hours passed, many persons perished from exposure and others were swept overboard one by one as they lost their holds. But the ordeal had not reached its climax, although at daylight contact was made with land by tying a rope to a dog which swam to shore. The fittest survived. Only the strongest could swing hand over hand to safety above the heads of the others.

At eleven o'clock that morning those on shore saw the ship began to break up. "Go forward!" they cried. The warning was useless. The vessel crumbled, its remaining passengers being washed into the waves, and the horror was indescribable as children clung to parents whose struggles were unavailing. Lieutenant Mylrea, aged 70, one of the oldest subalterns in His Majesty's service, lost his life after remaining on the wreck for nineteen hours. His daughter was drowned in his arms.

On the following day, after spending the night on the rocky shore, the survivors found a house a mile away occupied by a fisherman who could furnish no relief but food and shelter for a few.

Two military officers and Captain Bryant were successful in reaching Trepassey and sent back provisions. The men who carried this aid returned to Trepassey with the remaining survivors through a morass of sixteen miles. In their weakened state, the sufferers were almost overcome by the additional hardship.

St. Shotts has been the scene of numerous shipping disasters. His Majesty's ship Comus was wrecked there before the Harpooner, and in later years the Cromwell and George Washington, both steamers of the same line, were smashed against the cliffs and disappeared with all hands.

NEW MEMBERS IN BABY BAND

Interesting Program Provided at Regular Meeting of St. James' W.M.S.

MUSICAL NUMBERS.

A very interesting and helpful program was enjoyed on Tuesday afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of St. James' W.M.S.

Mrs. J. H. Dudgeon, the president, was in the chair, and the program was in charge of Mrs. W. D. Sargent and her group of assistants.

The opening hymn was a dedication and was followed by prayer offered by Mrs. E. L. Woodley. The scripture lesson was chosen from three parts: Joel 2:28-32; Acts 2, 36-39, and Acts 3:24-26, and read by Mrs. Ernest Deyell.

The president introduced the business of the day, and while a large number of details were discussed, they were quickly and efficiently carried out.

Reports were given by the secretary and the treasurer. The Baby Band Superintendent, Mrs. Copson, gave an interesting account of good work done, having enrolled seventeen new members. The work of the Flower Committee was reported by Mrs. Fife, and the Strangers' Secretary, Mrs. Davidson, told of a large number of calls, at homes and at the hospital, carrying the good wishes of the society.

Miss M. Kidd gave a short but heart-searching address on Christian Stewardship, defining its meaning and its relation to us as W.M.S. members.

Three heralds brought messages from the Watch Tower. "Life in an African Village" was graphically told in a story read by Mrs. Rose. Mrs. Gillespie brought news from China, and Mrs. Curtis told of work among the Canadian missions.

Continuing the study of "Jerusalem to Jerusalem, Mrs. W. D. Sargent, in a splendidly prepared paper gave the second chapter, which held the closest attention of her hearers to the last word.

Mrs. E. Kitney sang a very appropriate solo which fitted closely into the spirit of the meeting.

A short account of the wonderful influence of the World Day of Prayer was given by Mrs. Davidson, who stressed the power of the prayers offered in St. John's beautiful church by hundreds of consecrated women.

A season of prayer in which several members took part followed, and all joined in sing the oft-repeated little prayer hymn.

The meeting was also closed with earnest prayer offered by Miss Kidd.

Plans were arranged for an executive meeting to be held on Friday evening at the home of the president, at St. James' Parsonage.

Mrs. Armstrong's group will be in charge of the April meeting and the Easter Thankoffering envelopes will be received at this meeting.

CONSTABLE RUN DOWN.

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Patrolman Joseph J. Scott was deliberately run down and killed to-day by a speeding motorist whom he attempted to stop. The driver veered the car toward the policeman. The officer's body was caught on the bumper. The driver swung the car across the street, after dragging Scott 90 feet, and with a jerk of the steering wheel threw the policeman clear and sped away.

Frocks of Charm

The new silhouette for 1930 calls for frocks with flattering feminine draped and collared necklines. Higher waistlines and more flaring skirts are the new touches for the Spring dress decreed by the great fashion centres.

Delightful New

Coats

Many smart styles in Ladies' Coats await the inspection of careful dressers. The flaring skirt and conformity to the new silhouette are very noticeable. Newest fabrics and newest details are featured in these latest arrivals.

SPRING BRINGS HOUSECLEANING AND MANY NEW ARRANGEMENTS

Tour Through Furniture Stores Will Provide Wealth of Suggestive Ideas.

LATEST DESIGNS SHOWN

Spring is in the air. The sweet songs of the returning birds already proclaim it's coming. Buds on the trees are beginning to peep shyly forth and mother nature is slowly but surely relaying her carpet of greensward to replace her mantle of snow and ice, which has lain on the land for so many weary months.

This is the time of the year when the home-keeper looks forward with relief to the period when furnace fires will finally be put out and the annual household renewal can begin.

Springtime is a busy time for all, but more especially for those who garden and keep up their homes—everything seems to happen at once.

Peterborough is astir already planning for the various activities which can begin still earlier—while the March winds still blow, cold and bleak. Here and there one may see signs of a revival in the painting and decorating business, and could one take a peep into the numerous homes in this city doubtless one would observe busy housewives undertaking the task of putting the house in summer garb, or maybe, as it is still a little early, one could overhear the family discussing the numerous alterations which they are contemplating on the advent of spring.

The city stores are no less busy. About the pretty maple pieces shown in the shops is a light spring-time air. One may finish the living room all in maple, or just add a few pieces that seem to fit in. Covering for chairs have a happy variety. Chintz is used glazed or quilted.

A variety of woods may be the mark of distinction of your living room. You may panel it with pine, and use for floor linoleum suggestive of the wide boards of Colonial days.

Pewter on Mantel.

The fireplace with its framed sampler above and its arrangement or old pewter on the mantel shelf may face an open Welch dresser whilst old blue Staffordshire plates may line the dresser shelves. Drapes should suggest hand woven materials, in which blue and white combine—or blue, red and white. In this room there would also be a corner cupboard.

If one is not satisfied with the living room arrangements, the following corner, seen in a local store, might suggest something.

A chintz covered couch of painted wood in soft greens, was the centre of interest. A set of light graceful shelves hung above it with an intriguing group of books. Arranged so as to be part of the wall decorations were French prints below the shelves. On either side was a small bracket holding a potted ivy. For the convenience of the guest, near the couch were two tables, one placed so as to hold a lamp for reading, the other was set with coffee things.

Then the window with its wooden lattice shade, was peculiarly suggestive of summer and filtered sunlight. Plain colored drapes of rose with their ball fringe, were tied back. Even the necessary radiator had a light cover, on the top of which was a fine bowl of flowers.

How skillful is the window dresser's art. There is another very attractive bedroom display in which is used walnut for the low twin beds.

Large dining room suites are shown in varied woods, all beautiful specimens of the woodcarver's art. Chairs are studded with nail heads, and the most popular suites seem to be those executed in French walnut inlaid with Satinwood.

Novel Breakfast Nooks.

Novelty in treatment is usually confined to breakfast nooks—these increasingly popular adjuncts to the modern household and bridge rooms. In a bridge room one can go as "modern" as one likes. Choosing silver, red and black designs indiscriminately. One bridge room, in which a well known city hostess often entertains, is furnished with a set of red chairs grouped about black tables for the card players. A mirrow glass screen stands in one corner of the room while in the other a low table holds one of the new clouded crystal lamps surrounded with one of the ultra-modern lamp shades.

In all local stores may be found the very latest in small corner cupboards and tall slim bookcases, which are useful and effective as "occasional" pieces. Oftentimes there is need for an extra chair to fit a particular spot. For a small dining room, a pair of Chippendale chairs would be attractive. For a man's room an overstuffed, deep, comfortable seat may be found in a red leather chair.

As spring brings freshened thought to one's housekeeping and winter's ideas are laid away, there comes the time to consider a number of details that have not been arranged satisfactorily. A studied survey of the furniture stores of Peterborough will at least stir up a wealth of suggestive ideas and bring one to a realization that furniture, no less than dress fashions, undergoes radical changes each year.

Almost every house enjoys a radio these days, when besides the excellent programs of music one is able to listen to speakers of National and International reputation. Perhaps your radio was purchased early in the drab days of winter without any thought as to how it would fit in with the scheme of your house furnishing. This problem of housing a radio is subject to many solutions. Beautiful cabinets and consoles are offered by the radio dealers, and one can choose from a wide variety, the style and the wood that will fit into your home. Some of the latest designs in radio cabinets are carried out in Chinese red laquer—cabinets of elaborate design, or old oak chests, treasured antiques can readily be adapted to housing the radio.

LIBRARIES FILL LONG FELT WANT

Newfoundland Profits by Co-operation of Educational Heads With Carnegie Institute.

IN GREAT DEMAND

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., March 13. (CP) The settlements of Newfoundland, lacking libraries available to more populated centres, have not been permitted to go without an opportunity of securing books. Assisted by the Carnegie Corporation and supported by the Bureau of Education, various English publishing houses and President Paton, of the Memorial College, a Travelling Library was established two years ago and now two thousand books are out to readers in different parts of the Colony. In addition, the Bureau of Education has established a Students' Library.

Of the five thousand volumes comprising the Travelling Library, three thousand are on the shelves. Last year fifty-seven books were distributed and several settlements sent in encouraging reports. Since last September requests have been received for only forty-five boxes. Ignorance of the Library's existence was given as one possible reason for the lack of more general interest.

The school in each settlement is regarded as the most convenient centre for housing the library, and the teacher the most suitable person to care for it, but the utmost freedom in management is permitted in each locality. Boxes containing thirty to fifty books are sent out on request from headquarters and may be returned or exchanged at any time.

$4.50 Deposit on 30 Books

A box of thirty books requires a deposit of four and a half dollars, a box of forty, six dollars, and a box of fifty, seven and a half dollars. This works out at fifteen cents a book. The money is usually raised by forming a reading circle. Fifteen people may contribute thirty cents each, giving them the privilege of using thirty books, which cost one cent a book. Each member of a circle may have two books per fortnight until all are read. After passing around the circle, they are returned to headquarters, and if received in good condition, three fifths of the deposit is refunded the teacher for her work.

Any person may obtain a book from the Students' Library at a charge of ten per cent of its cost per month. For instance, one student received an eight-volume historical work for eighty-five cents. This Library contains three hundred volumes, and others are purchased on request if approved by the Bureau of Education.

DAY OF PRAYER

AT HAVELOCK

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, March 13.—On Friday afternoon, March 7, the fourth occasion on which the World's Day of Prayer was observed, a large gathering of women from the local churches and the Havelock Mission assembled at the Knox Presbyterian church for the impressive service.

Mrs. (Rev.) J. Lennox, president of the Knox W. M. S. presided, and invited Mrs. R. Bonney, president of the United W. M. S. and Mrs. Edward William, president of St. John's Anglican W. M. S. to come to the platform.

Before commencing the program, Mrs. Lennox expressed sorrow at the loss the Knox W. M. S. had sustained in the sudden death in Toronto on Thursday of Mrs. William Whitton, a member of the society. Word of Mrs. Whitton's death, which was received Friday forenoon came as a great shock to the community, casting a gloom over the meeting. Prayer for the bereaved family was offered by Mrs. R. Bonney.

Ladies' Aid Meets

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid of St. John's Anglican church, was held last week at the home of Mrs. R. Sanderson, when a large number of members were present. The devotional exercises were under the leadership of the president, Mrs. Williams.

Rev. Mr. Howard took the scripture reading. A very fine address by the Rev. Hugh Brown was much appreciated. His topic was the work of the Missionary society. Mr. Brown spoke on the life work of a number of Missionaries with whom he was personally acquainted. He spoke particularly of the late David Livingston and Rev. Mr. McKay. Mr. Brown spoke of having received a bouquet of flowers from the grave of the noted missionary, David Livingston, which were sent to him by the latter's mother. The ladies present were delighted with his address. At the conclusion of the meeting a delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

AT WOOLER

WOOLER, March 13.—(Examiner Correspondence)—The Woman's Missionary Society held a special meeting on Friday, "The World's Day of Prayer." Lunch was served at noon by Mrs. Clarence McMasters, Mrs. N. McColl, Mrs. J. J. Way, Mrs. Percy Goodin, Mrs. Elgin McMasters and Mrs. R. S. Hunter. At 2 p.m. the program used by Christian women throughout the world was used. "That Jesus May Be Lifted Up." An address on national and international life was ably given by Miss Edith Valentine and another address on "Church Life" was given by Mrs. W. H. Crews, impressing on the minds of the mothers the influence the children in their Sunday schools have on the church. Train the children in their infancy to become linked up with the teaching of Christ. Mrs. L. H. Rowe at the piano playing the hymns softly and the hymn "Art Thou Weary, Art Thou Languid", the first two lines sung as a question by Mrs. Caleb Cole and the last two lines of each verse were sung by Mrs. C. R. Terrill and Mrs. P. J. Wessels. The silent prayer guided by the following suggestions, In my own life, in my family life, in my neighbourly life, was in charge of Mrs. Clarence McMasters.

Speaking of SPORT

By Frank Getty

The corpse of old Jim Jeffries, once the champion of all heavyweights, has come back to the public view at an average of approximately two decades. Bonnie Walsonby, Los Angeles correspondent, says.

• • •

Ad Morro, a young boxer trained and seconded by the former champion, turned in his first bout at the Hollywood Legion stadium recently and fans and experts agreed that the youngster owed the gate to the decision of Tony Galento in 10 round.

• • •

Jim, now living a peaceful life at his home in the Burbank orange country, didn't beamed as he handled the sponge and water bottle and watched 186-pound Morro in five hard sessions by Oscar Owen Stoneham, an experienced and dangerous Pacific Coast heavy.

• • •

Jeffries has been grooming Morro for more than a year after taking a wonderful interest in the fight game to which he was indifferent for some time after he was beaten by Jack Johnson.

• • •

Jim claims he has Morro pointed toward the heavyweight crown and declares he will push his protege slowly but surely to the pinnacle vacated by Gene Tunney.

• • •

The local critics of Los Angeles still are unwilling to tab the Jeffries entry as a future king of the heavies but Morror upset the eyes of a few of the experts by winning his first battle—a fight in which he was an 8 to 6 underdog in the betting.

• • •

A young racehorse named Gib has given British racing enthusiasts a new and striking example of the phrase "the luck of the turf."

• • •

Gib, whose name is a contraction of Gibraltar, was bought as a foal for a mere $75. Tom Creedon says that Gib, now at the age of seven, is one of the most valuable steeplechasers in England.

• • •

Gib recently won his eighth successive handicap steeplechase, defeating the 1929 Grand National winner, Greglach in a 3-mile race at Lingfield Park. Sandy Hook, Kilbuch, and several other well-known jumpers were in the field. Gib has not been entered for this year's Grand National because his owners are waiting for him to develop a bit more.

• • •

Lord Killeen, now the Earl of Fingall, bought him as a yearling from his breeder in Ireland. He ran twice in 1926, and won one race worth about $500. In February of the following year Gib commenced his all-conquering career still in the same ownership. However the noble Lord, who is a well-known amateur rider, and the only jockey who keeps his spectacles on when racing, sold Gib for $10,000 after winning a race on him at Sandown Park last year. The horse was bought in partnership by two prominent members of the London Stock Exchange, Ben D. Davis, and Albert Bendon.

• • •

Gib is a queer looking fellow who when walking ambles along in the most unconcerned manner, occasionally turning his head to take stock of onlookers. Very speedy, he takes his jumps, in a supremely easy manner. Easter Hero, who is three years older, and favorite for the Grand National race, is a bloodlike beauty animal possessing remarkable speed, and jumps like a stag.

• • •

Many horses in the past, bought for the proverbial song, become famous in their later years. Pathfinder, winner of the Grand National in 1875, was bought for $50 and six bottles of ale. Ribbo, which won the race in 1908 once fetched $75. He was considered merely capable of dragging a railway station omnibus. Tippperary Tim, the sensational winner of 1928, was once described as "mean and infirm." The sire of Shaun Spadah, winner of the 1921 Aintree race, was bought for the cost of transporting him from Kildare to Dublin, which worked out at a little less than $3, while the dam cost a matter of $15.

Hamilton Tigers Secure One Goal Margin

DECIDING GOAL SCORED IN LAST TWO MINUTES OF PLAY IN IROQUOIS FALLS BATTLE

Hamilton Secures One-Counter Margin in First Game of the Series.

McGOWAN STARS.

West Toronto and Cataracts Tangle To-night in Third Game for Junior Title.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press)—Six teams are still in the running for the right to represent eastern Canada in the Allan Cup final against the western Canada champions at Toronto, March 27 and 29.

It was expected the Quebec champions would be decided in Montreal last night when St. Francis Exavier, intermediate titleholders, clashed with Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, senior champions, in the second of their two game series. The intermediates, however, again surprised by holding the much fancied M.A.A. sextette to a one-one tie with 30 minutes of overtime play. In the first contest the teams played to a scoreless tie and a third game is now necessary to decide which team will meet Truro Bearcats, Maritime champions.

Close Call for Tigers

At Toronto, Iroquois Falls, Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior representatives, threw a scare into the camp of Hamilton Tigers. The latter team, champions of the Ontario Hockey Association, by scoring with less than two minutes to go, managed to eke out a two to one victory over the Eskimos. The second game of their series will be played at Hamilton to-night and winner will clash with Shamrocks, Ottawa district champions, March 15 and 17.

Four of the best junior teams in eastern Canada swing into action to-night. Montreal Amateur Athletic Association travel to Ottawa, where they meet Rideaus of that city in the O.H.A. Memorial Cup competition. The return will be at Montreal on Saturday.

At Toronto, Niagara Falls and West Toronto will endeavour to settle the O.H.A. championship. The teams have played a home and home series and are deadlocked on the round, six to six. This game will be played to a finish as a winner must be decided to meet Sault Ste Marie Greyhounds, N.O.H.A. champions on Saturday.

SAUCE FOR GOOSE

GENEVA, N.Y. (U.P.)—It is as fair for an alumnus to support a boy through college for athletics as for the ministry to do so, in the opinion of Dr. Murray Bartlett, president of Hobart college. There should be no discrimination between athlete and non-athlete, he said. He advocates college football.

BASKEBALL BOOM

PHILADELPHIA (U.P.) — Temple University has announced plans for construction of a basketball arena with a seating capacity of 4,500. Popular interest in the sport has resulted in overcrowding of spectators in the gymnasium now used.

TIGERS WIN FINAL GAME

Niagara Falls Lose Out By 7-2 Decision in Tussel at Hamilton.

ONLY GAME ON LIST.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (C.P.)—In the last International hockey game of the season at Hamilton, the Tigers trounced Niagara Falls, seven to two, last night in the only game scheduled.

Despite the lack of an incentive for aggressive playing, both teams being definitely out of the running for a play-off berth, the fans saw a display of exciting hockey. The losers were the first to score, McLeod tallying unassisted in the opening frame.

Soon after the second had commenced the Tigers evened the count and then took the lead with two quick goals. The winners hammered in four markers in the last frame soon after the Cataracts had notched their second goal.

Detroit Olympics and Toronto will meet in the lone fixture to be played to-night. The Olympics are experiencing difficulty in getting up in the standing to qualify for a play-off position. They are now one point ahead of the fifth place Windsor sextet and victory over Toronto will just about eliminate the Bulldogs. Toronto are down near the bottom, but are capable of upsetting the calculations of any team in the league.

AROUND SOUTHERN TRAINING CAMPS

Assured of $160,000 for the next two years, Babe Ruth is devoting himself with great zest to the New York Yankees' spring training exhibition games at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Babe was an outstanding figure in the Yank's victory over the Braves Tuesday, getting a long triple, a single and two walks besides making a one-hand catch while running backward for the fielding gem of the game.

Dick Coffman will be the St. Louis Browns' inaugural exhibition game pitcher when the American Leaguers' engage the Buffalo Internationals at Fort Landerdale Friday, Manager Bill Killefer declared after watching the Alabama work out yesterday.

Frank Frisch, captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, was expected in camp at Bradentown, Fla., yesterday with his contract signed and ready for the season's work, while Charles "Flint" Rhem, a holdout came to terms Tuesday morning and was in uniform in the afternoon.

It may have no significance, but Zeke Bonura, husky recruit, has been assigned to play first base with the regular squad of the Cleveland Indians in the absence of the convalescent Lew Fonseca.

The Detroit Tigers were back in their training camp at Tampa, Fla., yesterday rubbing sore spots inflicted by the Brooklyn Dodgers, who on Tuesday made 17 hits off four Bengal pitchers and won an exhibition game at Clearwater, Fla., 11 to 3. The defeat, which leaves the Tigers with a .500 average on the exhibition contests, was laid to Tiger pitching and the inability of the Detroit batters to solve Dodger hurlers at times when there were men on bases.

Even with Willie Kamm and Arthur Shires missing at third and first bases, respectively, the White Sox infield has displayed a pleasing amount of speed to Manager Donie Bush so far. Tuesday the combination of Jerfferies, Cissell, Clancy and Hunnifield completed five double plays, bringing their total for three games with the Giants to nine.

The Los Angeles Club of the Pacific Coast League invaded Catalina Island yesterday to give several young and aspiring cub pitchers another chance to prove to Manager Joe McCarthy that they are improving.

Manager McCarthy planned to send William McCaffee, George Bell, Bud Teachout and Hank Grampp to the mound for the rubber game. In their two previous contests the teams split.

Prowess at the bat bids fair to determine who shall hold down shortstop and second base for the Washington Nationals, pre-season assignments notwithstanding.

Joe Cronin and Buddy Myer promptly were given these berths, but this week's workouts have developed a pair of formidable contenders for the places, Jimmy McLeod for shortstop and Jack Hayes for second.

Connie Mack, Major-domo of the Athletics, is pretty well satisfied with the showing of the champions in the four-game series with the St. Louis Nationals which resulted in an even break. The A's took the final game Tuesday 14 to 3 in six innings. "We stand pat" he said. "Who ever heard of changing around a championship team?"

CURLING

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Mar. 12.—Soft weather has halted the schedule games at the local curling rink, but the series of Scotch doubles for the Waddell Cup was completed just previous to the present thaw, when R. H. Edmunds and H. J. Lancashire defeated T. H. Collins and C. C. Garside by a score of 15-3.

Available space for spectators was completely filled while the game was in progress, the winners giving a fine exhibition of curling, scarcely missing a shot while the twelve ends were in progress. By ends the score was:

Edmunds and Lancashire: 232121201010—15
Collins and Garside: 000000010101—3

Win Allen Cup

The rink skipped by R. H. Edmunds has won the Allen Cup for the season of 1929-30, but the games for the Gillott Trophy (thirteen point), are still incomplete. Some results in recent plays are:

A. Johnson 13; vs. E. Jordan 9.

LATE SCORING WINS

BERKELEY, Calif. (U.P.)—The University of California basketball team had to play its full schedule of 17 games to come out on top in season's scoring. The Bears, after the second game of the Stanford series—their sixteenth contest—had scored 470 points to their opponents' 470. A 41 to 25 victory over Stanford gave the Bears a season total of 511 points to 495 for their rivals.

Baseball Is Booming In Lake Shore Towns

COBOURG, March 13. — The C.P.R. Athletic Club at Trenton is already showing activity over baseball, and will enter an intermediate team in the O.B.A.A. group. It is proposed to form a league composed of Campbellford, Picton, Point Anne, Napanee, Deseronto, Frankford, Brighton, and Trenton. If this is consummated there will be plenty of baseball for this eastern section. It is expected a meeting of representatives of these places will be called at an early date.

EAST CITY SQUAD BEATS LAKEFIELD

Hockey Sextets Battle For Honors on Soft Ice—Final Count 12-7.

LAKEFIELD, March 13 (Exominer Correspondence).—With the ice softened by the unusually warm March sun, two teams battled for hockey honors on Monday night in the Lakefield skating rink. The varied uniforms seen on both sides bespoke composite teams culled from teams well known to hockey fans during the past season. The Peterborough East City team and the Lakefield Rink Rats were the names given officially and, in spite of poor ice a slim crowd, a real good game was played, with the visitors the superiors in weight and combination, although the locals gave a good account of themselves. McFadden, who has all winter played such a strong game as goalie, was moved forward to the defence lines, whereas he would probably have saved the game had he been left in his accustomed position. Adamson, Stenner, Jewell, Wannamaker and Kennedy played their usual strong game for the locals while Calladine, Gardner and Milliken starred for the visitors. Ferguson, the Peterborough goalie, was remarkably good and saved many counters which would have piled up the score against him. The score was 12—7 in favor of Peterborough, Calladine got six of these, Milliken four and Gardner two. For the locals, Wannamaker got two, and Stenner, McFadden, Adamson, Kennedy and Jewell each one. The line up was as follows:—

Peterborough.—Goal, Ferguson; defence, Francis and Magee; centre, Calladine;, wings, Gardner and Milliken; sub., Dixon.

Lakefield—Goal, Webster; defence, Stenner and McFadden; centre, Adamson; wings, Wannamaker and Kennedy; subs, Kemp, Jewell, O'Neill, Mathews, Pearson sub. goal.

Referee—Louis Sabatino.

SPRINTER WINS NEW YORK MEET

Dallas Creamer of Toronto, Forces U. S. Star to New Record in Sprint Event.

EDWARDS BEATEN.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 13. — Phil Edwards, the tall colored runner of the Hamilton Olympic Club, and Dallas Creamer of Toronto, both placed in their events at the Knights of Columbus track meet held at Madison Square Garden here last night.

Edwards, running in the "Casey 600," trailed Bernard McCafferty, of Holy Cross College around the course. At one point he almost caught the flying leader, but at the finish he was four yards behind him.

Miss Creamer won her heat in the girls' 40-yard dash, and placed fourth in the final. A slow start spoiled her chances and she was unable to gain much of the ground she had lost. In the girls' international 220-yard sprint she came second, just ahead of the bunch who followed Stella Walsh of the New York Central Railroad Association of Cleveland, in her record-breaking dash around the boards. Miss Walsh clipped 2 7-10 seconds off the old indoor record when she covered the course in 26 1-10 seconds. She bettered the outdoor record for the distance by 7-10 seconds.

Conger Wins Mile Event.

Ray Conger won the Columbian mile, the feature event of the program, beating out Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland by a yard. Conger turned in the fastest time of the indoor season, 4 minutes 15 1-5 seconds, to retain the honors he won in the same event last year. It was the sixth straight victory at the mile route indoors this season for the Illinois A.C. flyer, who was pressed to the limit by the Swiss Olympic veteran in a finish that brought 12,000 fans to their feet in a wild cheer.

Eight yards back of the flying Conger and Martin, Gene Venzke, Swedish-American A.C. runner from Philadelphia, took third place, while Joe Sivak, burly Butler University miler, who set most of the early pace, was fourth. Bringing up the rear were Joe Hickey, New York University; Joe McCluskey, Fordham, and Bob Dalrymple, Boston A.A., in that order.

NEW TECH FOES.

PITTSBURGH, March 13. (U.P.)—Buffalo University, Georgie Tech and Temple University will be played at football by Carnegie Tech this fall, for the first time in Tech history.

THIRD SUCCESSIVE VICTORY FOR WINNERS IN HOUSE LOOP

McLeish, Huffman and Grose Unable to Subdue Sparton Defence.

SIX PERSONAL FOULS.

A fast moving clash between Hec McLeod's Spartons and the Bohunks in the Y.M.C.A. House League at the "Y" last night resulted in a close finish. The Bohunks nosed out the Spartons by the count of 29-25 for their third win in succession in the second half of the schedule.

The Hunks found hard going in the first session of the clash scoring 11 points to their opponents' 15. McLeish Huffman and Grose on the forward line failed to get around the Sparton defence on many advances, and their tries were forced. Huffman got four points while McLeish and Rose got a basket each. Ward at centre got the other five points of the first stanza.

Six personal fouls were tagged by Referee Cooper in the first, 3 for each squad.

In the last frame, McLeish unloosed some speed and ran in eight points for the Hunks. A couple were on skillful solo tours. Ward and Lewis tagged four points each and Loomis 2 points. This brought the Bohunks' total to 29 while the McLeod men were busy getting their count up to 26. With ineffective offensive work, and weak support from the defence line, McLeod and Crawford were able only to count a basket each. Kitchen at centre ran in 6 points.

The teams:

Bohunks: Forwards, McLesh, Huffman, Grose, Loomis; centre, Ward; guards ,Greenlaw, Lewis.

Spartons—Forwards McLeod,Crawford, centre, Kitchen; guards, Hall, Menzies.

Referee—Joe Cooper.

WILDCATS-RATS.

Smith and Dundas were the foremost snipers for the winners, getting 12 points each on field goals. Wolstenholm and Routley on the Cat squad worked hard but managed to run up only seven baskets as well as two free goals that Routley got in the first period.

Smooth Offensive Work.

The Rats got double the score of the Wildcats in the first frame due to the smooth offensive work of Smith and Dundas. Taylor and Cooper seemed unable to stop their onslaught. The score stood at 12-6 when hostilities were interrupted for intermission. Dundas and Smith continued to score on effective efforts in the last twenty minutes hanging up 14 points but the Wildcats improved and got 12 points. But their total efforts still fell short of the Rats.

The teams:

Rats — Forwards, Smith, Beavis; centre, Dundas; guards, Taylor, Bates, Reynolds.

Wildcats—Forwards, Sturgeon,Wolstenholm, Routley, Reynols; centre, Dundas; guards, Taylor, Cooper.

Referee—Arthur McLeish.

SCHEDULE CLOSES ON FRIDAY NIGHT

"Y" Seniors and Westclox Battle Will Be Feature Clash of Evening.

The Peterborough Ladies' Basketball League will be wound up at the Y.W.C.A. to-morrow night with four games in which all the entries in the league will compete.

A clash between the "Y" Seniors and the Westclox will be the feature of the evening. Both the Westclox and the Seniors have won 2 and lost no games in the play-offs of the Senior group of the league, and to-morrow night's game will definitely decide the championship. The Seniors have not dropped a game this year. The Westclox have been their most dangerous opponents during the season.

A game between the "Y" Intermediates and the Senior School Girls will be another feature in the Junior section. If the School Girls score a win they will have the Junior championship, but if they lose to the Intermediates they will have to play off a tie, for each squad will have won 2 and lost one.

The St. Paul's crowd will meet the De Lavals also to-morrow night in the Senior section and the "Y" Elementary squad will tangle with the Wohelos in the Junior group.

Games will start at 7.30, when the "Y" Elementary and Wohelo game will be set under way. At 7.45, St. Paul's will meet the De Lavals, at 8.15 the "Y" Seniors and the Westclox, and the final clash of the evening will start at 8.30 with the Senior School Girls and Intermediates.

The teams are battling for three cups. The G. N. Gordon trophy will go to the Senior champs, and the Industrial Cup presented by the Westclox, Canadian Woollens, De Laval and C.G.E. will be given to the Junior section winners. The Harvey Cup is for the runners-up in the senior section.

ENTER PENN GAMES.

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.— (U.P.)—A heavy entry list for the 36th annual Pennsylvania Relay Carnival was announced by athletic officials of the University of Pennsylvania. Many other entries are expected. Among the first to accept bids to compete were Iowa, Wisconsin and Ohio State.

HALIBUT KNOWN AS FIGHTING FOOL

Fish Frequently Gets Better of His Captors and Has to be Cut Loose.

HAS TO LAND.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Mar. 12.—All's fair in love and halibut fishing seems to be a rather misquoted maxim but according to veteran Gloucester fishermen it is quite practicable.

The halibut has long been known as the "fighting fool" of the sea among the standard food fishes. Unlike its fellow denizens of the deep, it does not grab up the bait like a snapping turtle but approaches it cautiously and after deciding that it is good to eat gobbles it. Then is the time for the experienced man to call on all of his talent to land the wily fish.

Immediately upon feeling the barb in his stomach he does not run wild but waits until he finds himself being drawn upwards before he begins his fight. Sometimes, with a particularly stubborn specimen, the experience fisherman will, after getting him to the surface, suddenly let him run. They say that the halibut then will dive for the bottom, nose down like a plummet, striking its head when it brings up with force enough to stun it. Then it is easily retrieved.

It is in the summer fishing only a few miles off the shores of New England that the dorymen hand-lining for halibut have their real adventures. A fish weighing from 75 to 100 pounds will occasionally put up such a battle that the dorymen will sometimes cut him loose rather than risk the chance of capsizing in trying to get him aboard and holding him there.

It is always necessary to club a halibut on the nose when he is brought alongside but sometimes this is not as easy as it sounds. The fish, it seems, has just begun its fight and still has one of its favorite tricks left. It will spin like a "whirling dervish" and it is generally true in this case that the gunwale of the dory received the most punishment from the club.

After the halibut is pacified, or at least slowed down, he is gaffed between the eyes; the dory is canted until the gunwhale is near the water and then the prize is taken in. But this does not mean the end of the fight. In a surprisingly short time the big fish may wake up and begin a bombardment with his tail that has caused many a disaster.

He is likely to thrash oars, thwarts and gear overboard. With his flail-like tail he is apt to knock out the dory's bottom planking. In his slithering from side to side he will cause the frail craft to roll in a most dangerous manner. The wise fisherman always takes the precaution of lashing the halibut's tail to the rising strips of the dory as soon as he is in and quiet from the numbing blows of the club.

O.B.A.A. Play Down Here On Saturday

Peterborough basketball fans will be given an opportunity to see an O.A.B.A. play-down match in this city on Saturday night. The O.A.B.A. executive has ordered a sudden death game between Orillia and Belleville intermediate entries in the local Y. W. C. A. gymnasium.

To make a finished basketball bill arrangements have been made also for Belleville to send up a girls' squad to meet the Peterborough Y.W.C.A. Seniors.

Both the squads that will come from the Quinte town are those which Peterborough tackled a couple of weeks ago in exhibition matches in Belleville. The boys suffered a loss but the girls scored a triumph.

PROSPECTS OF DETROIT REST ON MOUNDSMEN

Manager Harris, Confident of First Division Berth, Will Keep Rookie Hurlers.

FUNK IN OUTFIELD.

Youngsters Have Displaced Veterans as Regulars—Rogell at Short.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 13.—Fans of Detroit will have the pleasure of watching a first division ball club during the coming championship season if Bucky Harris, shrewd little manager of the Tigers, has his expectations fulfilled.

Discovered in the Clearwater clubhouse after to-day's defeat by the Robins, the peppery Tiger manager answered all queries readily and frankly.

"A little too much to expect a penant this year" he smiled, "but certainly we're going to be much better than last season and I think we'll be in the first flight. It all comes down to the pitching, after all. Otherwise, we have a good club. If the pitching comes through we'll furnish plenty of competition.

"Of course the Athletics and the Yankees are at the top of the heap. Connie Mack has fine pitching, but if the A's repeat they're going to have a whale of a time doing it. As for the rest of the first division, I rather anticipate that it will be something of a battle among the Tigers, the Indians and the Browns for third and fourth places."

Harris Has Team Lined Up

Harris has definitely lined up his team to start the season and there are several new faces in the line-up. Last year, Heilmann, Roy Johnson and Harry Rice were the regular outfielders, but this year two rookies have won regular berths.

They are Elias Funk, the dapper young shoe merchant from Oklahoma City, who two years ago made an excellent impression upon the late Miller Huggins, and John Stone, a collegian from Mulberry, Tenn.

As for Funk's ability to hit, his average in the Pacific Coast League last season was .370. With those figures, one's own opinion may be formed.

Funk has a great arm and can cover territory after the manner of Tris Speaker. He is very fast on the base and a hard man to catch on a good bunt.

Harris's infield will comprise Alexander at first, Charley Gehringer at second, Bill Rogell at short and Marty McManus at third. Rogell is the newcomer and Harris thinks he is the right man. He came to the Tigers as a purchase from the St. Paul club. Gehringer is rated one of the best second basemen in the game.

Rensa Leads New Catchers

George Rensa appears to be the best recruit catcher of the five on the roster. He is a stocky Polish coal miner from Parsons Pa., and has earned the commendation of Roger Brensnahan, who rates as the complete boss of battery men.

Harris has turned the job of handling pitchers and catchers over to Roger and will not interfere with Brensnahan's decisions, he said.

Of the pitching staff, four recruits already have won permanent places. Elon Hagseit, big left-hander from Kansas, who boasts Indian blood; Whitlow Wyatt, Arthur Herring and Merton Nelson, right-handers, make up the quartet. The regular holdover hurlers are Owen Carroll, John Prudhomme, Victor Sorrell, Earl Whitehill and the veteran George Uhle, which accounts for nine of the ten pitchers the club expects to carry.

The Tigers look like a pretty good bal club, if Spring opinions count for anything.

SCRAPPERS FAIL TO REACH SETTLEMENT

Berg and McLarnin Have Stubborn Stand on Proposed Weights.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Prospects of a Jimmy McLarnin-Jackie Kid Berg match at Madison Square Garden became exceeding dubious following a conference between managers of the boxers and Tom McArdle yesterday.

The managers remained deadlocked over a difference of four pounds. Charley Foster, manager of McLarnin, refused to sign for less than 144 pounds, and Sol Golde, senior manager for Berg, declined to sign for more than 140 pounds.

Berg himself wants the fight, no matter what McLarnin weighs. So does his junior manager, "Jay" Jacobs. Golde is the big man of the establishment, however, and he has overruled his associate and his meal ticket.

"I have Berg's interest at heart," he told McArdle. "I believe my man has a chance at 140 pounds. McLarnin would be a cinch at 144 pounds."

To complicate matters still more, there is considerable feeling against the Garden in the Berg camp. Golde feels Berg has as much right to a chance at Sammy Mandell as Al Singer, but there is no question that Singer is being pointed for the Mandell match. Singer is a New York boy and a better drawing card than Berg.

McArdle is still trying to effect a compromise on the Berg-McLarnin matter at 142 pounds, but the matchmaker is about ready to give up on the bout.

BASKETBALL BOOM

DURHAM, N.C., March 13.—(U.P.)—A schedule of 24 games, 10 of which are with Southern Conference foes, has been prepared for the Duke "Bluedevil" baseball team. Only one player of last season's championship team is missed from the 1930 line-up. He is "Bill" Adams, outfielder.

ROPER'S LAST SEASON.

PRINCETON, N.J., March 13.—(U.P.)—Coach Bill Roper of Princeton is engaged in his final spring football campaign at Princeton. The Tiger mentor will retire after the 1930 season. A three-week session beginning late this month will be held by the Princetonian aspirants.

FIGHTING BOSTON BRUINS

The old N.H.L. season is getting down to the final scramble and the boys are setting their hats for the final playoffs. The Boston Bruins look as though they were about set to go through the works. This team has certainly turned out a bunch of tough eggs in the opinion of the other teams in the league. It has become a habit with the Boston aggregation to set records that should stay put for years. The Bruin team is regarded as one of the finest hockey machines to ever step on the ice in the N.H.L. circuit. We have to go back into history to find a team that stacks up with them, the Ottawa outfit of 1921. The players were: Clint Benedict, Eddie Gerrard, George Burke, Sprague Cleghorn, Punch Broadbent, Cyril Dennenay, Frank Nighbor, and the late Jack Darragh. The only team that might be able to make the Bruins like it are the Montreal Maroons, who, when under adverse circumstances, come through with a punch.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE PAW MARKS.

After Uncle Wiggily's rabbit children, with the help of the Police Dog, had driven away the Fox who hid in the pile of bean poles, the little bunnies had much fun in the tent their father made by wrapping an old bed quilt around the sticks. The poles were piled up in the shape of an ice-cream cone turned upside down with its point toward the sky. The beanpole tent was like an Indian teepee.

The weather in Woodland, near the Orange Ice Mountains, was still cold and blowy, for now it was March, and though spring was not far away, where Uncle Wiggily lived, it was not at all warm yet.

"Though down in Florida, or South Carolina, or out in California it must be lovely now," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy as she looked at the snow on the ground. She was in her kitchen making a carrot shortcake for supper.

"Yes, those are lovely places to live," agreed Uncle Wiggily, "but as long as we are up North we had better stay. Soon we shall be having good weather, though now it still looks like winter."

"And those children are still playing out in the bean pole tent," said Nurse Jane. "I hope they won't take cold."

"They'll never catch cold in fresh air," said Uncle Wiggily. "The more they play out in the open, if they are well wrapped the better for them. I'm glad they have the bean pole tent."

"They seem to be playing some game. What is it?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"I can't tell from here," answered Uncle Wiggily, his pink nose pressed flat against the window glass. "I'll go out and see."

The rabbit children, hopping in the snow around the bean pole tent, laughing

Paw mark game, answered Jingle and shouting and when Uncle Wiggily went close he heard them calling:

"Baby Bunty is it! Baby Bunty is it!"

"What game ar you playing?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Paw mark game," answered Jingle, laughing.

Seeing that her father looked puzzled Jangle, who was Jingle's twin sister rabbit, said:

"We take turns hopping over the snow and making funny marks with our paws. Then whoever is it has to guess who made the tracks. It's Baby Bunty's turn to guess now."

Uncle Wiggily saw that, besides his own rabbit children, there were the dog boys, Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, also Joie, Tommie and Kittie Kat, Curly and Floppy Twistytail, the pigs, and Lulu, Alice and Jimmie Wibblewobble, the ducks. While Baby Bunty shut her eyes Jimmie Wibblewobble walked over a patch of snow, leaving this paw marks.

"All ready, Bunty. See if you can guess," called Jingle.

Baby Bunty opened her eyes, looked at the marks Jimmie had left in the snow, and then she looked at Charlie Chick, the rooster. Everyone thought Bunty was going to guess wrong, but she said:

"Those marks were made by Jimmie the duck. I can tell because he has webbed feet, and Charlie's toes are all separate."

"Bunty is right," said Uncle Wiggily. "Though it is easy to tell in the snow the marks made by a duck from those made by a rooster. This is a good game for you children to play—the game of paw marks. When you get to know the shape of the paw marks made in the snow by the Wolf, the Fox and the Bob Cat you can keep away from these bad chaps."

Uncle Wiggily pointed to a place in the snow where, the day before, the Fox had left his paw marks, and showed the little animal children how to tell the track of a Fox from that of a dog.

"The dog's paw mark in snow or mud is almost like that of the Fox," Uncle Wiggily said, "but the dog's paws make a much broader and deeper mark, for the Fox, being wild, runs more lightly, and, knowing hunters may be after him, he leaves as little a paw mark as he may."

Going home across the snow that afternoon, after they had finished playing games near the bean pole tent, Baby Bunty saw some paw marks.

"Oh, Unkie Wig!" cried the little orphan rabbit, all excited. "Here are the paw marks of a Fox. Oh, I guess he's after us!"

"No, he can't be after us, for he has gone on ahead of us," said Mr. Longears. "And that isn't either the track of a Fox or Dog. You see a dog's toe nails and those of a Fox make little dents in front of each toe. But there are no little dents and bid dents here—just four small dents and back of them a larger one, where the foot touched. This is the paw mark of a cat, and, unless I am mistaken, it is your friend Tommie, who left before you did and ran home this way."

Surely enough, a little later, they caught up to Tommie Kat walking daintily over the snow and it was the cat boy's paw marks Bunty had seen. So the bunnies had their little lesson and then, with their Daddicums, they went in the bungalow to supper and afterward to bed.

this cereal TALKS!

It's so crisp it pops and crackles when you pour on milk or cream. And what a flavor! Crunchy rice grains—toasted golden brown.

Rice Krispies are fine for any meal. Give them to the children for supper. Easy to digest. Order a red-and-green package from your grocer. Try the recipes for macaroons, etc. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

snap! crackle! pop!

Kellogg's RICE KRISPIES

REGGIE is frightfully bucked up. Not a moment ago, what with a flat tire and all, he had murder in his heart for Cadmus, or the Phoenicians, or whoever it was that invented automobiles. One taste of Rowntree's York Milk and he'll probably burst into song. York Milk is like that.

Try it yourself, next time you have a blow-out. Notice how delicious is its perfectly blended flavour—how smoothly it melts away in your mouth. But be sure you ask for Rowntree's York Milk Chocolate, the bar that sets a new standard of milk chocolate goodness. No other has just that perfect flavour.

("After all, dear, the tire's only flat on the bottom," says Angele.)

There is also York Nut Milk—with delicious whole filberts—for those who prefer nut milk chocolate.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

SHAW AND BARRIE ARE CONTRASTED BY A. MACDONALD

Normal School English Master Gives Thumbnail Portrait of Writers.

FIFTH DRAMA LECTURE

Shaw Proper Antidote for Some of Barrie's Sentimentally Inclined Plays.

"Shaw and Barrie—a Contrast", was the subject of the fifth lecture in the series of addresses on the English Drama which Adrian Macdonald, English Master at the Normal School has been presenting at the Y. W. C. A. this season.

The address aimed at giving his audience a thumbnail portrait of the two famous writers and the points at variance in their makeup and work.

"The only resemblance between them", said Mr. Macdonald, "is that they both wrote fine plays and neither is an Englishman."

Shaw, tall, angular and lean, with a beard which in early life was bushy and red, and is now white, a fighter and advertiser who enjoys platform speaking and debate and street corner talk, who despised his own father as a snob and a business man, is in direct contrast to Barrie, a slight, small man with a little moustache, who is very modest and dislikes public speaking and who was always a devoted son, as evidenced in his delightfully appreciative story of his own mother, "Margaret Ogilvy."

Bernard Shaw was born in Dublin. He never attended University and has nothing but evil reports for colleges. He says school did him no good. In London, he joined the Fabian society, a group of Socialists. Working on a newspaper, he made a very able musical critic and his skill as an accompanist also gave him an entree to social circles. His art and dramatic criticisms led to the writing of plays. Of the novels which he wrote, he says: "Even the rats wouldn't finish them."

Barrie, on the other hand, born at Kirriemuir, Scotland, the son of a weaver, was a school lover. He attended school in Glasgow and later went to the University at Edinburgh. His first position was a leader writter on the Nottingham Journal and then he went to London as a free lance writer. At first successful in stories of "Thrums" life, he later made just as much success as a playwright.

Personalities Differ

The two men differ widely in personality. Shaw, who felt that the theater was the best place to display talent, laughs at his characters, while Barrie, feeling the urge to write and loving his characters, laughs with them. Shaw, an intellectualist, wrote criticisms that hurt people's feelings while Barrie, a sentimentalist and shy would never think of hurting others. "The Admirable Crichton" is his only criticism of social life, and that is written in a kindly manner.

Both men wrote long introductions and elaborate stage directions. Shaw, described as a cataract, while Barrie is described as an eddy, was twenty years ahead of his time when he battled, as a music critic, for Wagner, as an art critic, for the Modernists, and as a dramatic critic, for Ibsen. Shaw is the proper antidote, declared Mr. Macdonald, for the somewhat wearisome and stuffy sentimental atmosphere in some of Barrie's plays, such as "Peter Pan," with its fanciful idea of perpetual youth.

The speaker concluded his address by contrasting Shaw's play, "Back to Methusaleh", with its basic idea of evolution, its desire for securing better things by courageously seeking for them and its theme of progress—"All for the future more than for the present", with Barrie's play, "Mary Rose", which is a poem to be interpreted through the emotions, contains no scientific thought, is based on the author's favorite theme of perpetual youth and does not reach out for the future, preferring to remain quiescent in the present and disliking change.

Terrible Itching of

ECZEMA

Almost Drove Her Mad

Poor girl—if she only knew how one application of Peterson's Ointment immediately stops tantalizing itching and soreness—how the powerfully healing and soothing ingredients start right in to clear that repulsive, red, cracked, discharging skin!

So no matter how long you've been troubled with Eczema—a few days from now you'll be overjoyed with your enchantingly smooth, beautifully fresh, free from Eczema skin. A 50c box proves it—all drugstores.

H. A. Danick writes: "For 6 months I was so bothered with Eczema that I could tear my skin to pieces. I tried so many lotions but could get no relief until I saw your ad one night. I got a box of Peterson's Ointment and it was just like woman said in paper. In one night my Eczema almost disappeared. I'm never troubled any more."

GIFT TO HUNGARY.

BUDAPEST, March 13:—(U.P.).—As a gift to the Hungarian nation, Archduchess Isabella, mother of Albrecht, prominent claimant to "King Otto's" Hungarian Crown, has presented a historic statue of Saint Emmerich which has been in the possession of her family for many decades. This statue will be placed on a pedestal in the Horthy Miklos Street and will be unveiled on August 17th—Saint Emmerich Day.

TWO WOMEN BRIGHTEN UP LONELY BARREN LAND ON CHURCHILL LINE

Proprietors of Pat's Place at Mile 137 Famous for Menus.

TALE OR ROMANCE

THE PAS, Man., March 13 (The Canadian Press).—About the time a crew of Danes edged the first ship into Churchill harbor—some 300 years ago—an English dramatist named Shakespeare said: "Two woman placed together make cold weather." On the fringe of the frozen muskeg land reaching up to Hudson Bay, "two women were placed together" are proving that the old line from "Henry VIII" is far out of date.

Sarah Slade and Cassie Wilkin — as simple, plain and unassuming as their names—take issue with the word of the prolific author of Avon. In the first place, they say, in their log-walled home at Mile 137 on the Hudson Bay Railway, no woman is responsible for the cold weather along the Bay line; in the second place, this pair of women claim they are doing their best to offset effects of the chill north climate.

For Sarah and Cassie are the bosses of "Pat's Palace" at Mile 137, and they serve up the most appetizing menus north of "fifty-four" to as hungry a set of men as might be found north of the equator. They serve toiling railwaymen, wandering trappers and traders, and raw-boned giants of dock-laborers or section-hands coming down from Churchill, 370 miles "up the line."

As dusk rolls down in a dark flood over the Manitoba muskeg, on "train night" a light appears at the door of "Pat's Palace." A way-freight rattles in from the north just before the puffing mixed train, christened "The Muskeg Limited," labors up from The Pas. Tied up for the night, each train disgorges a line of travel-weary passengers who file toward the lamplit door of Pat's cabin west of the tracks. Hungry and tired, some of the wayfarers hasten at a dog-trot over the icy path in the snow; they know what is waiting beyond the doorway gleaming through the darkness.

Revival of Pioneer Days.

To the uninitiated, the rustic exterior of "Pat's Palace" suggests revival of pioneer days in frigid northern setting. Its pretentious name, painted in two-foot letters across the broad gable; the hissing gasoline lamp at the portal; the pendent iron-rod triangle that serves at summons-gong for mealtime; even the high boots and parkas and fur caps of the hungry clientele add to the mental picture of frontier days reborn.

At the threshold, accosted by the aroma of steaming stew and tasty coffee, the visitor accepts his first surprise. Two women, trim in riding breeches and woollen camp-shirts, bustle about a tidy kitchen. Some two-score hardy northmen, in a room beyond, are busy about two long tables, depleting a store of appetizing victuals. Immaculate linen and shining cutlery gleams on the prandial board. Masculine chatter flows free, no longer restrained by the cramping confines of the colonist car.

Supper-laden section men, whose season's work is done, lounge back in unaccustomed comfort of chesterfield and fireside chair, puffing at cigarette, pipe, or even cigar. A gramophone beats out enlivening tunes, and a resting wayfarer, perhaps, cheers mates with rousing song.

In vain the inquiring traveller looks about for some powerful, heavy-brogued son of Erin who might be "Pat," proprietor of the Palace at "137." For "Pat" is Miss Wilkin, of Enniskillen, Ireland, hurrying about among the pots and pans and clattering dishes in the kitchen. Just as busy is Miss Slade, grey-headed little lady from Dorsetshire, who sets the table, pours the coffee, and changes the twenty-dollar bills of her clients. "Pat" might be 30 or so, and her mate a decade older.

Romance is woven into the partnership of these two maiden-lady restauranteurs far north of "fifty-three," just as it is entwined in the northland career of many a character along the new rail line stretching from The Pas more than 500 miles north-east to the salt sea at Churchill, the west's new port on Hudson Bay. Cassie and Sarah seem as out of place at Mile 137 as a pair of roses sprouting from the pavement of a city street—and just as refreshing.

Realizing Ambition.

A few years ago, they met at Winnipeg, each newly-arrived from the Old Country. A friendship was born that thrives now under the log-and-paper roof of their northern cabin. For a while, Cassie was separated from her girl-friend and taught Indian lads in a school at Norway House on the northern shore at Lake Winnipeg. This spring, when first steel had scarce been laid through to Churchill, the English woman and the Irish girl seized a chance to start in business at "137." Now they are realizing their ambition to see more of the north.

Sarah, by the way, cuts Cassie's hair and Cassie reciprocates. The modest straightness of the Irish girl's black locks made it easy to effect a severe Egyptian "bob." But Miss Sarah flaunts an extreme boyish cut born of accident more than of design. As barber, Cassie sheared too generously from one side of her partner's greying tresses; lateral equalization brought close-clipped naievete to the coiffure.

"It is just the life for us up here," Miss Slade declares in her soft Dorset accent, "though at times we do have to cut our own firewood from hewn trees, and maybe shovel a path from the door out toward the station."

"I'm losing no weight," is the smiling comment from 'Pat' who stands five-feet-nine and weighs 170 pounds in her high boots. The bright-eyed Irish girl is proud of her ability to don a Mounted Police uniform and leave few unfilled corners.

Everyone at Mile 137 is friendly to Pat's. In the evening darkness, youngsters direct train-passengers to the cabin for a meal. The master from a nearby school dries dishes on Saturday night, when the week's heaviest rush of passengers arrives. Neighbors drop in, on occasion, and dinner tables are pushed to the wall as the gramophone grinds out tunes for the dance. "Pat's Palace" is the domain of "two women placed together" who make cold weather forgotten—when its colder weather than Bill Shakespeare ever imagined.

The difference between communities can only be accounted for as a difference in citizenship. Chambers of Commerce promote the better type of citizenship.

FRENCH RIVERS RAMPAGE AGAIN

Lower Pyrenees Centre of Flood District as Waters Burst Bounds.

NO LIVES LOST.

BORDEAUX, France, March 13 (C.P.)—Swollen by ceaseless rains the Garonne and its tributaries and rivers south of here, are rising rapidly again.

Pau, in the lower Pyrenees, is in the centre of a flooded district; at the watering place Salies-de-Bearn, picturesque low quarters are flooded to a depth of six feet. Authorities have taken measures to evacuate part of the population in the Basque country.

The Nive River, rising four inches an hour, menaced Camboles-Bains and St. Jean-Pied-de-Port, the famous golf course at St. Jean-de-Luz was partly submerged. At Barbes, birthplace of the late Marshal Foch, the Adour was rising rapidly.

Stock has been removed from farms which report considerable damage. There has been no loss of life so far in this new stage of the inundations.

IN MEMORIAM.

PINCH—In loving memory of Arthur Pinch, who died March 13, 1928.

As I gaze on your picture that hangs on the wall,
Your smiles and your welcomes often recall;
I miss you and mourn you in silence unseen,
And dwell on the memories or days that have been.

Dear is the grave where Father is laid,
Sweet is the memory that never will fade;
Flowers may wither, leaves fade and die;
If some do forget you, never will I.

FRANK GRAY WINS BOWLING HONORS

Crack Tossing Features Final Games of Examiner Inter-shop League.

Frank Gray's quintet rolled their way to the championship of The Examiner bowling league last night, winning the play-off from G. J. Johnson's men in two straight games. The scores were: Gray 1,087 and Johnson 873; and Gray 1,017 to Johnson 919.

Crack bowling featured these final games as it has in this league throughout the season. C. Butcher was hitting 'em in great style. He was off to a great start in the second game, nabbing eight strikes in succession, but he picked the head pin in the ninth frame, to finish with a 344 score. His rolling proved one of the main reasons for Gray's victories, since he knocked out 209 in the first game. On the losing team was W. Zehr, who rolled 213 and 209, while G. Cullen of the winners was hitting along consistently, getting totals of 206 and 214.

C. HAMILTON HAS TRIAL SET OVER

Counsel Objects to Hearing of Conspiracy Charge Prior to False Pretence Counts.

$50,000 BAIL RENEWED.

STRATFORD, Ont., March 13 (C.P.) — The trial of J. Cecil Hamilton, who was to have faced a charge of conspiracy as the result of his alleged dealings in Listowel, as agent for the real estate firm of Hubbs & Hubbs, of Toronto, was set over by Chief Justice Meredith to-day to the next court of Assizes.

R. U. Robertson, K.C., defence counsel, objected to his client being tried on the conspiracy charge prior to being tried on 14 false pretence counts which stand against him. He also objected to the indictment in the conspiracy charge which was read to Hamilton and to which he pleaded guilty. Bail of $50,000 is being renewed.

BIG SHIRT SALE IN GRAFTON STORE

Manufacturer Has Offered Season's Overmake at Attractive Price.

The men of Peterborough are always prepared for some startling merchandising by the Grafton store, and the announcement of a great shirt sale for the last of the week was the climax of an all winter campaign. Always ready to profit by its opportunities, when a prominent shirt manufacturer offered its season's overmake at a most attractive price Grafton's took quick advantage of it and made an immense purchase.

1,500 of these shirts came to Peterborough with instructions to rush them out in three days at the very low price of $1.50 each. These are shirts made to sell up to $2.50 each, and the three-day opportunity to buy them at $1.50 each is surely an economy event for men and young men.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

OBJECT TO SMOKE NUISANCE
The smoke nuisance is again promising trouble for the City Council. Residents in the south end have strongly complained that the linens and curtains in their homes are kept in a continual state of dirt by the fine soot from one factory's chimney. They urge that the council "must do something about it". The council admit their limitations in curbing this difficulty, but it is likely that an attempt will be made to pass a by-law making excess dirt from factories unlawful.

THEY WILL DO IT!
Two trucks crashed together on George Street near the C.P.R. Station shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. One, a light delivery truck owned by Beatty Bros., was severely damaged; the other, a heavy gravel truck driven by J. Patterson, escaped with a bent axle. The small truck was driving out of a laneway when the cars collided.

BUSINESS EXPECTED.
Officially the city's dog population last year was 645. That was the number of dog tags purchased from the police department. The tags for 1930, 700 in number, arrived at the police office this morning, and the desk sergeant announced that he was all ready to do business with the dog owners.

WORK AT STANDSTILL.
The Board of Works department is engaged with little work at the present time. A gang of twenty-five is employed part time in cleaning up the streets, but otherwise work is at a standstill. The ground has not dried up sufficiently to allow the completion of the work on the property near the Queen Mary School that was taken into the city last fall.

The erection of the proposed addition to the Sewage Disposal Plant will likely prove the greatest work of the city's workmen this year.

SPECIAL GATHERING
One of the largest meetings in the history of the Friday Night Supper Club will be staged tomorrow evening at the Y.M.C.A. on the occasion of the farewell address of J. F. H. Wallace, who has been chairman of the organization for six years past. Mr. Wallace is leaving the city during the new few days to take up new duties with the Sun Life Assurance Company in Montreal. His successor to leadership in the Friday Night Supper Club will be C. A. Salmonsen.

CHANGES NAME.
The Canadian Department Stores, Ltd., is the gold-lettered sign that has replaced the old Teco Store signs on the two stores of The T. Eaton Company, Ltd., in this city.

The company announced the change in last night's Examiner, and workmen were observed busily engaged in carrying it into effect a few hours later.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT GEORGE ST. W.M.S.

Regular Monthly Meeting of Missionary Association is Held.

The regular March meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of George Street United Church was held in the Board room of the Sunday School Hall with an attendance of over fifty members.

The President, Mrs. E. W. Coon occupied the chair. Group B of which Mrs. Parnell is leader had charge of the devotional exercises which were conducted by Mrs. J. E. J. Millyard. A devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. S. R. Armstrong, followed by prayers by Mrs. Aires. Miss Birnie and Mrs. Parnell, Mrs. Millyard gave fifteen excuses, which so many women give for not attending and helping the Missionary Society. Responsive verses were read from the Bible by a number of ladies giving definite reasons why all should help.

Several announcements were made by the President of coming events, including the Olde Tyme Concert presented by Mark Street choir on Friday evening under the auspices of Mrs. W. P. Hetherington's class in aid of the building fund. A. St. Patrick's tea to be held at the Parsonage under the auspices of Miss Higgins' Sunday School class. This was also in aid of the building fund.

It was decided that the Thank Offering meeting be held on the regular meeting day, the second Tuesday in April, when Mrs. Morr of Springville, president of the Presbyterial will be present.

A committee composed of Mrs. E. W. Coon, Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mrs. E. E. Harvey, were appointed to answer a questionnaire sent from the branch.

The Sick and Visiting Committee of which Mrs. Hales is convenor reported having made 174 calls and the strangers secretary, Mrs. J. Spencer is convenor had made a number of calls on strangers in the city who were attending George Street Church.

A splendid report from China was given by Mrs. Bonney and on the work among the Indians in Canada by Mrs. Latimer.

Mrs. P. Rutherford reported for the Systematic Giving Department and read a leaflet entitled "He is counting on you" preparatory for the Thank offering meeting.

It was decided to give the members of the Mission Band a treat at their next meeting. Mrs. Armstrong and Walker being named as convenors to pick their committee and make all arrangements.

A fine musical number was given by three young men of the Collegiate orchestra, Edwin Wand, Reg. Kingdon and Max Parnell which received hearty applause. Mrs. E. E. Harvey took up the chapter of the Study Book entitled Winning Europe and in a very interesting and concise manner traced the introduction of the Christian religion into Europe from the time Paul saw the vision of the man begging him to come over into Macedonia, up to the time of the Roman conquest of Britan and St. Augustine's work there. She also referred to St. Patrick, his early history and his missionary work and the early work among the people of Holland and Denmark. Mrs. Coon expressed her thanks to Mrs. Harvey and the members of the Collegiate Orchestra for their fine contributions to the program.

SOCIETY MEETS.

Helen Roger Auxiliary of Knox United Church Holds Regular Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Helen Roger Auxiliary of Knox United Church was held on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Wells, 197 Rubidge street, with the president, Mrs. Ross Williamson, in the chair.

The meeting opened by singing Hymn No. 410, after which the Lord's prayer was repeated.

Reports were read and a short business period followed.

Master Harold Wells rendered a very pleasing violin solo with accompaniment played by Master Lloyd Wells.

Mrs. Clegg gave the Bible reading, followed by a devotional prayer by Miss Colin taking as her subject "Miracles."

Mrs. Lillico gave a very interesting synopsis on the third chapter of "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem," dealing with the gradual spread of Christianity to the different parts of the world.

Mrs. Reed led in prayer and the meeting was brought to a close with the Mizpah Benediction.

Scout News and Notices

6TH PETERBOROUGH TROOP.
The weekly meeting of the 6th Peterborough Troop opened on Monday last with a splendid attendance of twenty-one Scouts Flag break was observed at 7.30, during which the Scout promise was renewed. There were six recruits, this being the greater number since the organization of the troop.

A patrol competition is in progress, being led by the Beaver Patrol and Bob Whites with 128 points, with the Fox Patrol as runners-up with 126 points.

During the evening several games were introduced by Scoutmaster Wolff, and were keenly followed by all the boys.

After inspection the S.M. addressed a few words of encouragement to the troop concerning the paper collection, after which the meeting came to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

In connection with the paper collection, it is requested that anyone having old papers please communicate with Troop Leader MacPherson.

Within three minutes after a radio appeal had been made for volunteers for a blood transfusion at Edinburgh, Scotland, recently, 15 people appeared at the hospital ready to make the sacrifice.

Baldwin Moves Vote of Censure on Gov't.

PROPHESIES FALL OF LABORITES ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Scores Attitude in Safeguarding Duties in Relation to Providing Work.

PRESS GETS RAP.

Snowden Claims There is Conspiracy in Force to Discredit Gov't.

LONDON, March 13.— (Canadian Press).—Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, former Premier and present Conservative leader, opening a critical debate in the House of Commons late to-day, moved a vote of censure on the Labor Government for its attitude on safeguarding duties in relation to unemployment.

Mr. Baldwin arose amid loud cheers to make his attack and said he had just learned that to-day was the silver wedding anniversary of Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

"I hope," said Mr. Baldwin, "that Mr. Snowden will find it convenient to go home for dinner to-night and I wish him, from all sections of the House, many years of happiness.

Gov't Even To-night

After lengthy arguments urging the position of some safeguarding duties as a stimulus to depressed industry, the Conservative Leader concluded by declaring that the Government would win on the vote to-night by that nevertheless unemployment would eventually wash the Government away."

"I hope" said the former Premier, "that the Chancellor of the Exchequer will make quite clear to the house for himself and his party whether or not he intends at any time in combatting the evils of unemployment to have recourse either to any single duty or a general duty as a remedy for unemployment."

Snowden Charges Conspiracy.

Right Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who acted on behalf of Premier MacDonald, in reply to Mr. Baldwin's criticism, said:

"It is a fact that ever since this Government came into office there has been an organized conspiracy. It has been the deliberate policy of certain interests to prevent employment in order to discredit the Government."

He declared that British newspapers had been chiefly responsible for spreading a feeling of pessimism, daily printing stories about the closing of factories and the laying off of men, attributing the whole increase of unemployment to the actions and policy of the Labor Government.

Mr. Snowden attributed the uncertainty existing to-day to the late Conservative Government in leading industries to believe they could get protection and thus preventing them from re-organizing themselves.

Special Jails for Youthful Convicts

OTTAWA, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press). — Penitentiaries for "the preferred class of convicts" are to be maintained in Canada. Construction of two such bastilles in which will be incarcerated young men offending for the first time and who show indications that regeneration is possible in their case was announced to-day by the Dominion Penitentiaries Branch. One will be erected near Portsmouth Penitentiary at Kingston, Ont., and the other close by St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, Montreal.

The institutions will be built by convict labor and completion is expected within a year.

First offenders held at present in the country's six penitentiaries will be removed to the new bastille; on recommendation of the wardens.

Election Rumored Following Budget

LONDON, Mar. 13 (C.P.). — The opinion is generally expressed in the newspapers to-day that the probable result of the Ramsay MacDonald Labor Government's defeat of a Liberal amendment to the coal bill in the House of Commons yesterday, will be a general election immediately the budget is disposed of, because the Government and its supporters are getting tired of the growing tendency of the Conservative and Liberal parties to combine against its legislation.

NAVAL PARLEY IS DEADLOCKED CRISIS LOOMING

MacDonald as Mediator Receives Japanese, French and Italians in Turn.

IMPASSE REACHED.

British Officials Admit Situation is "Difficult"—Hope Still Held.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, March 13. — Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, to-day assumed the role of mediator. At No. 10 Downing street, that famous weather-beaten home of many political secrets, he is receiving the Japanese, Italian and French naval delegates in turn.

To permit these separate conversations, the meeting of heads of delegations scheduled for this afternoon was cancelled, and the conversations mark strenuous efforts to save the naval conference. It has reached an impasse. Even in British official circles the situation is admitted to be "difficult," but there is still hope of finding a way out.

Press Pessimistic.

Under the caption "deadlock in the conference," the London Times today editorially expressed the opinion that the negotiations had reached a crisis which easily might prove fatal.

The article, while declaring that the French position was understood and appreciated, thought the French view very short-sighted and unfortunate.

The United States' refusal to enter into any political pact, even a consultative one, is, the paper declared, equally understood and appreciated in Great Britain, and the contention is made that with the United States standing aloof it would be impossible for Great Britain to give France the support she desires.

The paper expressed the faint hope, which, however, it thought extremely unlikely to be realized, that the situation might be eased at the last moment by direct understanding between France and Italy, whose rivalry in the Mediterranean has been the crux of the whole difficulty.

Preparation Lacking.

The trouble which the Conference faces now has been caused, the Times contended, by lack of preparation on the political side, sufficient care not having been given to pave the way for reconciliation between the desire of France for political guarantees, Great Britain's determination not to

11 DOG OWNERS ARE SUMMONED

Six Animals Have Been Destroyed in Past Few Days For Running at Large.

NORTH WORST OFFENDERS.

In something less than five days twenty-three wandering canines have fallen into the net of Mark Pengilley, the city's industrious dog marshall. Mr. Pengilley was interviewed this morning while he rested for a moments from his efforts of patrolling the city's dogways.

Six mongrel dogs, for whom owners could not be found, have been destroyed, he said, and two more await execution. Eleven persons will appear in the police court shortly to answer to the charge of allowing their pets to run at large, contrary to the city's bylaw.

Mr. Pengilley has found that the north end requires more than its share of his services, since the dogs are many and are allowed to run loose in that district.

GIRL AVIATOR ESTABLISHES NEW ALTITUDE RECORD

Elinor Smith, girl flier, who, in setting a new altitude record for women at 32,000 feet, fainted six miles from the ground when moisture froze in her oxygen tubes. She is seen here being greeted at Roosevelt Field, L.I., after her flight, by Ben Zebora (left) mechanic, and Carl Schneider, who installed the barometer. Her record was a mile and a half higher than previous record of 23,996 feet set by the late Manuel Crosson. The flight took one hour, fifteen minutes and twenty-five seconds.—Copyright, 1930, Pacific and Atlantic Photos, Inc.

BORN IN OMEMEE.

Walter H. Cottingham, chairman of the Sherwin-Williams Company of Canada, Limited, and of the Sherwin Williams Company of America, died yesterday at his home in Maidenhead, Berkshire, England.

Mr. Cottingham was born in Omemee, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Cottingham, a pioneer family. His father was affectionately known as the "Squire" and his mother was before her marriage Miss Jellett of Cobourg.

The old family home was on the site now occupied by Christ church, Omemee, and whilst a mere boy, Mr. Cottingham's parents moved to Peterborough where they took up residence at Moira Hall and he commenced his business career in a hardware store. In 1887 he moved to Montreal and became interested in the making of paints and varnishes, advancing step by step in the industry.

He retired from business nine years ago on accountof ill health and lived in his palatial home in Maidenhead, England.

During the Great War he loaned this home for war work and this generous act reflected his interest in all affairs for the benefit of his fellow beings. He was always keenly interested in church affairs and regularly sent contributions to his home church.

Mr. Cottingham is survived by two sons, W. Sherwin of London and William C. of Montreal; and two daughters, Mrs. Frank B. Dangler and Mrs. Kenneth Allan, both of Cleveland, Ohio; three sisters in Toronto, Mrs. D. Edwards, Mrs. George Cluxton, and Mrs. J. Morris and a sister in Montreal, Mrs. A. Stevenson, and one brother, Herbert of B.C.

Mr. Cottingham was also chairman of the firm of Lewis Berger and Sons, Limited, of London, England.

More than a million dollars a week is said to be spent in the United States for chewing gum.

LEGION SEEKS AID IN SPECIAL CASES

Ask Pensions For Widows of Veterans Killed in Accidents Due to Disabilities.

PRESENT RESOLUTION.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 13 (C.P.)—In the case of a war veteran suffering from a heart attack and falling in front of an automobile and being killed, should his widow be entitled to pension? If a man who lost his right eye on service were struck by an automobile on the right side, should the widow be pensioned? Or, should a man who lost a leg on service be caught in a traffic jam on account of his inability to step lively, and killed, ought his widow to receive recognition by the Pension Act?

These are questions which are to be presented to the Parliamentary committee of veterans' affairs under the direction of Lt.-Col. L. R. Lafleche, Dominion president of the Canadian Legion, representing also the Army and Navy Veterans, the Amputations Association of Canada, the Sir Arthur Pearson Club and the Canadian Pensioners' Association.

It is possible, under the present regulations, to award pensions in such cases, but experience has shown it is extremely difficult, under the regulations to secure decisions favorable to the widows. The veterans' organizations are therefore putting forward the following request:

"That entitlement to pension be more freely admitted in respect of disability or death due to accidents or injuries which are the result of disablement of service origin."

INQUIRY WILL BE HELD INTO DEATH OF COL. BARKER

Funeral Will Take Place at 3.30 in Toronto on Saturday.

EPIC BATTLE RETOLD.

Col. Bishop, V.C., and Captain Rickenbacker Both Pay Tribute to Their Old Comrade.

OTTAWA, March 13.—(Canadian Press).—The body of Lieut.-Col. William George Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., lies in an Ottawa undertaking parlor. That which enemy fliers attempted to accomplish during the Great War, when, as a member of the Royal Air Force, Barker harassed them with his daring exploits, came yesterday afternoon when a new commercial biplane he had taken "up for a flip" crashed to earth.

It was announced last night that Lieut.-Col. Barker's funeral will take place at 3.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon from is home, 355 St. Clair Avenue West, Toronto.

Board of Inquiry

An official board of inquiry, composed of three members of the civil aviation branch, has been set up to investivate the accident and attempt to determine its cause. To some among the many persons who were witnessing from the ground the Colonel's last flight it appeared the engine stalled as he pulled the machine into a steep climb. Colonel Barker was flying at an altitude of 200 feet, when the engine gave off a tremendous roar as the pilot pulled the throttle wide open and swooped upward. After a climb of 150 feet, the plane faltered, hung suspended momentarily and then, like a wounded bird, plunged headlong to earth.

Life was extinct when horror-striken eye-witnesses reached the wreckage. The man who came through scores and scores of hectic war combats with his life, although twice wounded, had apparently been killed instantly.

His Epic Battle.

Following is the official record of the epic battle of the air which won the Victoria Cross for Colonel W. G. Barker, and in which he fought off more than 60 enemy planes:

"On the morning of October 27, 1918, this officer observed an enemy two-seater over the Forest De Mormal. He attacked this machine and after a short burst it broke up in the air. At the same time a Fokker biplane attacked him, and he was wounded in the right thigh, but managed despite this to shoot down the enemy airplane in flames.

"He then found himself in the middle of a large formation of Fokkers, which attacked him from all directions, and was again severely wounded in the left thigh, but succeeded in driving two of the enemy down in a spin He lost lost consciousness after

PLAN IS SIGNED BY HINDENBURG

Vote on Young Plan Results in Victory of 42 to 5 in Reichstrat.

EFFECTIVE AT ONCE.

BERLIN, March 13. (C.P.) — President Von Hindenburg to-day signed the Young Plan within a few minutes of the time that it had been approved by the Reichsrat with an urgency clause, making it immediately effective as far as Germany is concerned.

The associated liquidation agreements have not yet been signed as the president is formally obliged to investigate whether any of these agreements are in conflict with the constitution.

The President's delay on the associated measures was directed solely against the Polish agreement concerning which he desires to satisfy himself that it is not tantamount to a constitutional amendment.

The vote on the Young plan in the Reichsrat was 42 to 5 and on the Polish liquidation agreement 35 to 10. The urgency motion was carried also 42 to 5.

There were three abstentions in the Reichsrat on the Young Plan laws and five abstentions on the Polish agreement. There were three abstentions on the urgency clause.

CANADA'S CHAMPION SCULLER TO WED GREAT AMERICAN SWIMMER; WEDDING IS SET FOR SATURDAY

Once Victor at Henley and Three Times in the Finals Wright's Record.

OUT OF BIG SWIMS.

Martha Norelius Won the C.N. E. Ladies' Swimming Race Last Year.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (C.P.) —Joe Wright, Jr., who, it is reported, will be married to Martha Norelius, famous swimmer, on Saturday, is one of Canada's outstanding athletes. For many years he has figured in the rowing world, but it was not until 1927 that "Big Joe" made his first bid for world fame. In that year, he went to Henley, England, for the famous sculling classic there. After winning his preliminary events in convincing style, Wright entered the final against R. T. Lee, of Oxford. Wright took an early lead, and was "walking away" from his opponent when he had the misfortunte to swing from the course and one of his sculls became caught in the boom which marked the lane. Lee came up to win by a yard before the unfortunate Canadian could get his oar free.

Won the Next Year

The following year, however, Joe made no mistakes. He practiced on the icy waters of Lake Ontario from early Spring until he again embarked for the Old Country. Revenge was sweet. He again met Lee in the finals of the historic event, and won by a length in the fastest time of the year's race after rowing Lee into exhaustion. When Wright returned to Canada, he received one of the greatest ovations ever accorded a Canadian athlete.

He again crossed the ocean in 1929, and put up a gallant attempt to do what no man in history had ever done—win the historic "Sculls" twice in a row. Gunther of Holland, however, defeated him by a yard, and it was claimed at that time that had Joe spurted a trifle sooner he would have repeated his great victory of the previous year.

Won in Field of 44

Martha Norelius, already a famous swimmer, won the greatest race of her life when she defeated 44 others in the 10-mile women's championship swim here on August 23 last year. She covered the distance in the fast time of five hours, 24 minutes, 22 seconds.

She announced then there would be no more marathon swims for her. On September 7, however, she entered with four other women in a three-mile invitation race for a prize of $1,500 and won easily.

In an interview after winning the swim, she said she would not get married. Statements a short time later that she was already married were denied by her manager, Martin Stearn of New York.

Miss Norelius trained on Ward's Island, in Toronto Bay, and was an outstanding figure in local social circles during her stay in Toronto. After the marathon, she remained here for some time.

Several months ago, it was reported that she and Wright had been married in Detroit, Michigan.

Telegraph wires hummed with statements and denials from both the principals in the reported marriage.

Long Record of Victories.

While the crowning achievement of Joe Wright, Jr., was his victory in the Diamond Sculls on July 7, 1928, the Canadian has a long record of wins in sculling events in Canada

Jail Could Stand Change in Washers

STRATFORD, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press). — Reports submitted by Grand Juries here would be lacking in detail if there was no recommendation to have a new washing machine installed at the County Jail. Grand Jurymen for a long time back have made a habit of asking that the old one be replaced.

In submitting their report at this Assizes the jurymen not only again recommend a new one, but they go further to suggest "that the historical society of the county might make use of the old one as an antique.

WOMAN INJURED IN FALL FROM BUS

Mrs. Mary O'Connell of Perry Street, is Taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

ON CHARITY ERRAND.

An accident necessitating her removal to St. Joseph's Hospital befell Mrs. Mary O'Connell of Perry street this morning, shortly after she had alighted from a bus at Benson avenue.

She was on her way to assist Mrs. John E. Dickenson of Wolseley street, who was also the victim of an accident about three weeks ago, when she sustained a fractured ankle. The incident is certainly a strange coincidence, having caused almost the same injuries in both cases and having occurred in the same vicinity.

The present victim is in the hands of Dr. F. P. McNulty, who X-rayed the injured limb this morning.

COLONEL BARKER WAS KNOWN HERE

Canada's War Ace Spent Summer Months in Cottage at Stoney Lake.

Colonel W. G. Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., Canadian war ace who met a tragic death in an airplane accident at Ottawa yesterday, was well known to a number of Peterborough men as a sportsman. Last summer he visited here and then went to Sandy Lake, where he had secured a cottage. He has a number of times in the past couple of years done some trap shooting at the Peterborough Gun Club with local men, and has hunted and fished in this district.

The deceased aviator sometimes visited relations in Peterborough with whom he was on intimate terms. As far as was known to-day, none of the wartime aviators in this district acted in Col. Barker's division at the front.

Peterboro Health Association Bulletin

VOL. II. | MARCH 13th, 1930. | No. 5

Someone asked what the Peterboro Health Association really did and who was behind it. Perhaps after all it was a perfectly natural question, because its work is done so quietly that few people outside of those whom it aids are aware of it. It employs a trained nurse by the year and furnishes her a car in which to make her calls. Many doctors give freely of their professional skill in these needy cases. In addition to bandages, dressings and needed drugs, the Association last year furnished milk by the thousands of quarts and eggs by the hundreds of dozens as well as other nourishments, to build up weak and maimed bodies of those whom the nurse was attending. This work goes on the year around; it has been going on for more than a decade.

Once each year the Association calls upon Peterboro citizens, asking them to help pay part of the work it is doing in relieving distress in our own city and building up men, women and children that they may take up the burden of life in our own community. The President this year is Mr. J. J. Turner of J. J. Turner & Sons, Ltd.; the Vice-President is Mr. J. John. Some of the ladies behind it and who are active in its work are: Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. Aylmer, Mrs. G. S. Cameron, Mrs. Gardiner, Mrs. F. P. McNulty, Mrs. A. W. Turner, Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. H. A. Morrow, Miss Archer, and many others. The officers and members freely give of their time, money and efforts in this great community work, but they cannot do all. The current expenses for the year amount to about $3,000.00; $1,800.00 is provided for, leaving only the small amount of $1,200.00 to be subscribed. Surely the people in Peterboro will respond.

Please send your subscription to The Examiner or to Mr. C. P. Borland, Bank of Toronto. Payment need not be made until June 1st if so desired. Thanks is sincerely given to those who have already subscribed.

LIQUOR BOARD'S PROFITS N 1929 ARE $9,661,448

Native Wines Show Increase of 108 Per Cent. Over 1928.

YEAR'S SALES. $55,360,569.

So-called "Regional Purchase" Plan to be Adopted at Once.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (C.P.)—With sales totalling $55,360,569, the Liquor Control Commission reported a profit for 1929 of $9,661,448, it was revealed in the annual statement for the year tabled in the Legislature yesterday by the Government.

There will be certain changes made in the regulations governing the sale of liquors to persons who abuse that privilege, it was disclosed. The so-called "regional purchase" plan will be adopted at once, Sir Henry Drayton, the chairman, said in the report. That will mean that when a person buys beyond his means or uses a permit to aid bootlegging and otherwise "needs supervision from the Commission" the permit will be stamped with the address of the store nearest his residence. No other store in the Province will be allowed to serve him which will mean that the vendor in one store will be able to maintain a close scrutiny on his purchases.

All Sales Increase

Comparing the years 1928 and 1929, the report showed an increase in sales amounting to $6,364,978. Domestic spirits showed an increase in sales of $1,127,201, imported spirits of $1,247,865, native wines of $1,085,288; imported wines $1,447, domestic beers, $2,063,330 and imported beers, $57,413.

Native wines showed an increased sale of 108 per cent over 1928 figures. It was pointed out that whereas beers have an average alcohol content of 9 degrees proof spirits, wines contained 27 degrees. The report continued: "The fact that it is necessary to have a permit before the purchase of beer can be made while the purchase of wine is allowed without the possession of a permit in the opinion of the Commission constitutes an anomaly which ought not to exist."

The report, which contained many sidelights on the control system and the sale and regulation of liquor in general, said quite candidly: "Evils resulting from the abuse of liquor have ever been present. The sin of drunkenness is still with us and probably will remain with the host of other sins." The Commission told of the many means adopted to curb excessive drinking in Ontario.

The total sales of $55,360,569 represent sales through the 123 stores throughout the Province, the 105 brewery warehouses, breweries. Of this sum, $1,733,790 was sold by the breweries and the brewery warehouses and $37,626,779 by the stores.

543,044 Permits Sold

There was a total of 543,044 permits sold during the year. Of these, 416,185 were sold to residents of the Province and 107,164 to temporary residents. The balance was made up of special permits to druggists, physicians, hospital and duplicates issued.

Six new stores were opened during the year. They were in Scarboro Bluffs, Merrickville, Pelee Island, Ottawa, Hearst and Lancaster. Five new brewery warehouses were opened. These were at Hamilton, Windsor, Kapuskasing, Ottawa and Fort William. In this connection, the report went on to say: "Applications for new stores have been largely refused by the board. In its opinion, new stores ought to be confined as much as possible to points where they may be found necessary to check petty bootlegging and to better social conditions. Further stores may be necessary in large centres where the existing stores are overcrowded."

In a general discourse on the Liquor Control Act, it was contended by the commission that the day of the large bootlegger was ended. "He is regarded to-day as a public enemy" it was stated.

The report showed that the per capita consumption of alcohol in Canada, irrespective of changes in sales laws, had fluctuated from .703 gallons in 1917 to a low of .395 in 1919, to a high of .723 gallons in 1923. In 1928, the consumption was .425 gallons per person.

Moderation and total abstinence were the aims of the commission, it was set forth in the report. Educational methods were being adopted to bring this about, close supervision on individual purchases was being maintained and an appeal was made to social service workers to enlist the commission's aid in dealing with any person who was abusing his privileges under the act. In this connection it was related that in some cases permits had been transferred to the mothers and wives of the holders because to cancel them does no good in certain cases because it only adds to the market of the illegal operator and the use of dangerous substitutes. The report declared that the universal adoption of the "regional control"

EVIDENCE CLOSED $20,000 ACTION COBOURG COURT

Case Will Go to the Jury Some Time To-day—Woman Tells Story.

HAPPENED IN FLASH.

Witness Claims There Was Ample Room on Pavement For Automobile to Pass.

COBOURG, March 13 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Hearing of the evidence in Mrs. Clifford Thompson's action for $20,000 damages against Mrs. Beatrice Grant of Kingston was concluded at 6.30 p.m. yesterday in the Spring Assizes before a jury and Mr. Justice Garrow, and the case was adjourned until Thursday morning at 9.30, when after hearing argument by the opposing solicitors and the judge's summation, it will be given to the jury.

Mrs. Thompson's husband was fatally injured on the Kingston highway near his home, four miles west of here, on August 15 last, when Mrs. Grant's car collided with his spring-tooth cultivator which he was driving from one farm to the next one and was about to turn off the road into a lane. T. N. Phelan, K.C., of Toronto, and A. R. Willmott of Cobourg are plaintiff's solicitors, and Mrs. Grant is represented by Thos. Agar, K.C., of Toronto and Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., of Kingston.

Mrs. Grant, accompanied by her niece, Miss Constance Grant, of Halifax, and her three children, were motoring to Peterborough. Clifford Thompson was driving his cultivator in an easterly direction.

George Armour, C.E., Cobourg, identified a plan of the highway where the crash occurred. It traced a deep scratch on the pavement that was made by a sharp edge on the right hand wheel of the cultivator. This mark was four feet from the south edge of the pavement. The left wheel was thirty inches to the north.

Time To Make Turn.

According to a subsequent test made with an identical cultivator and the same horses, Mr. Armour estimated the time which elapsed from the moment Thompson started to turn across and off the pavement until the moment the cultivator was struck to have been about six seconds. The horses in this test proceeded at an ordinary walk, and were timed with stop watches from the marks that were recorded by Mr. Armour shortly after the accident.

Mr. Armour said there was ample room on the pavement for a car to pass the cultivator. Mr. Agar suggested that the marks and the time mentioned indicated that Thompson had made a sharp turn toward the lane entrance. Mr. Armour replied that the wheel mark on the pavement showed a rather long, square turn.

"Like Scraping Iron"

George Vansickle, farmer, lives east of the Aubrey John farm. He was on a sideroad seventy rods north of the Kingston highway.

"I was walking south. I heard a noise like the scraping of iron on the pavement. Sixty yards further on I saw Thompson's team coming through the gate of the lane."

Several hours after the accident Vansickle examined the pavement, followed the mark of the cultivator down to the entrance to the lane.

Mr. Phelan—"Did you see any skidmarks of the automobile?—No. The road did not show any.

Witness said a tooth had been broken off the cultivator eight or ten inches in front of the right wheel, and the wheel itself was bent under the machine. The team was the slowest Thompson owned.

To Mr. Agar witness said he conveyed Thompson to the hospital at 1 o'clock. From the time of the accident until the hospital was reached was about half an hour.

Two scraped marks toward the north edge of the pavement that were made when the cultivator was struck seemed to Vansickle to have been made by the wheels as if they had been pushed eight inches by the defendant's car.

Mr. Phelan's questioning on this point suggested the idea that these marks were made by the right wheel only and showed that the cultivator had bumped three feet along the

OBJECTION TAKEN TO PHRASING OF NEW FRAUD ACT

Liberal Leader Offers Strenuous Opposition to Way Clauses Are Worded.

SIX BILLS INTRODUCED.

Unlawful For More Than Two to Ride in Front Seat of Automobile.

TORONTO, March 13 (C.P.)—For over two hours yesterday the Legislature grappled with the provisions of the proposed amendments to the Security Frauds Prevention Act and, because of strenuous opposition from W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., Liberal leader, to some of the terminology and inferences, they were allowed to stand over for redrafting.

The opposition was registered, in practically all instances, to the phrasing of the clauses and not the principles. Technical points of law and interpretation were raised and discussed across the floor. In allowing the bill to stand, Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, said that several of the clauses would be redrafted.

It was a general housecleaning day. Six bills were introduced by private members and 5 by the Government. Third readings were given to 22 bills and second readings to six others.

Sudbury Bill Passes.

Among the bills which received third reading were private bills relating to Sudbury, the village of Windemere, Township of East York and Saulte Ste. Marie.

Hon. John S. Martin introduced a bill which would remove milk and cream for human consumption from the exemptions under Dairy Products Act and would place them in the category to be paid for on a butter-fat basis. The bill also provided new regulations, dealing with inspections and buildings, to be observed by dairies and creameries in Ontario.

A bill sponsored by Leo Macaulay (Cons., South York), which would permit a municipality to exempt by law any or all incomes from assessment or taxation, was given second reading and sent to the Committee on Municipal Law.

E. J. Murphy (Cons., Toronto), introduced a bill which would make it an offence for agents of tourist homes to solicit business from tourists on the highway. He said that tourists were being annoyed constantly through this practice at the approaches to large cities such as Toronto.

Henry Has New Bill.

Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, introduced a Government bill which would make it an offence for more than two persons to ride in the front seat of a car. Such a practice, under the bill, would be classed as contributory negligence for which either a jail sentence or a fine is provided under the Highway Traffic Act.

W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., and Hon. H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, registered criticism of the Rural Power District Loans Act but it was passed by the House in Committee stage. Under it, a fund of $2,000,000 would be set aside to be loaned to farmers for the payment of installation costs of Hydro. Both Opposition leaders criticized the bill on the grounds that it would give the Government lien priority over any mortgage or encumberance on the property.

Ross, of this village, had met with a serious accident on Sunday morning, and had been taken to Toronto General Hospital. Word came today that he was resting quietly, but will be likely to be some weeks in hospital. Much sympathy is expressed, as this is a second serious accident, Jack having been injured, and shocked while at work during the latter part of last year.

DIVORCE ACTION TO BE RESUMED

Irvine, U.F.A., Proposes to Move His Motion in House on Monday.

BOURASSA COMMENTS.

OTTAWA, March 13. ((C.P.) — The divorce question looms on the parliamentary horizon as one which will be given serious consideration in the coming weeks. William Irvine (U.F.A., Wetaskiwin), stated last night that he proposed to move his motion in the House Monday of which notice was given this afternoon. His notice followed a speech by Henri Bourassa (Ind. Labelle) on a question of privilege. Mr. Bourassa took exception to published comment on the vote of Tuesday night when the Ontario Divorce Courts bill sponsored by J. S. Woodsworth (Ind. Winnipeg), was defeated.

Portsmouth Convict Is Demon for Speed

WHITBY, March 13 (C.P.)—More speed apparently means nothing to James Lattimer, a Portsmouth convict, who testified at the trial of Fred Plewes, charged with shopbreaking at Beaverton, before Mr. Justice Raney in the Supreme Court Assizes. Lattimer claimed to have committed the robbery with Plewes, and to have driven from Toronto to Beaverton, a distance of 70 miles, in very short time. "How fast did you travel?" asked the counsel for the defense.

"Seventy, seventy-five, eighty miles an hour," answered the witness, horrifying the court.

"How long did it take you to get there?" questioned the counsel.

"Oh, an hour or a little more; we were in no hurry," came the laconic reply.

BAN UPON FRENCH RAISES QUESTION

Orange Grand Master Doubtful Whether Public Would Back Abolition in Schools.

FORCE ENGLISH ON ALL.

BRANTFORD, March 13. (C.P.)—Doubt whether public opinion in Ontario would stand for total abolition of instruction in French in the public schools, was expressed by L. H. Saunders, of London, Grand Master, at the opening sesson here of the annul meeting of the Grand Lodge of Ontario West.

Referring to the periodic agitation for discontinuance of such instruction and to the bilingual education question in general, Mr. Saunders concluded that "for the moment" at least, Orangemen should concentrate on seeng that a knowledge of English should be imparted to every child regardless of race."

Orangemen should continue to be vigilant he said, and withstand any attempts to prevent English from being preminent as the spoken and taught language of Canada.

He also expressed keen opposition to the regulations requiring a knowledge of French for promotion in the permanent militia force, and for many promotions in the civil service. He charged that French was required of applicants for postmasterships in English-speaking centres, and remarked that in view of this and the printing of postal money orders in French, Orangemen might do well to patronize the Express Companies in future.

STEAMSHIP LINE HAS BAD SEASON

Canada Company's Report Shows Liabilities Nearly $1,000,000 Above Assets.

ISSUE $2,000,000 IN BONDS.

MONTREAL, Que., March 13 (C.P.) The financial statement of the Canada Steamship Lines, Limited, for the year ended December 31, 1929, reveals excess of current liabilities over current assets of nearly a million dollars, against net working capital of $2,624,805 in the preceding year. In this connection, the president, in a letter to shareholders, points to substantial expenditures made by the company, or a capital improvement in recent years, without increase in fixed liabilities. He goes on to state that for necessary financing and betterment of liquid position, the company proposes to issue $2,000,000 of bonds as a mortgage on the Manoir Richelieu and $1,500,000 of bonds on the Kingston Elevator Company.

The report for 1929 shows total revenue at $13,876,651, against $17,661,985 in the preceding year.

600 ACRES SET ASIDE IN VICTORIA FOR REFORESTING

Half Million Trees Have Been Planted in Last Two Years.

ALL DOING WELL.

Private Individuals May Obtain Trees on Application to Forestry Branch.

LINDSAY, March 13.—Reeve L. A. Southam, chairman of the Reforestation Committee of the County Council, has furnished some interesting figures about the work of reforestation being carried on in the Province and in this county in particular. His summing up will be of interest and is as follows:

Three and a half million trees a year is the generous gift of the Ontario Forestry Branch to the farmers of Ontario.

This is about the number distributed to fill applications from farmers under the branch's free distribution policy.

They are utilized in planting farm wood lots, windbreaks and shelter belts. Up to 3,500 trees a year are given to any farmer who will use the trees for one of these purposes, and he can get further supplies at a cost of $4 per thousand. All the branch asks is that the farmer will follow their instructions in planting and caring for the trees so that they will not be wasted.

220 Acres in 1928

Victoria County entered into this scheme in 1928 with 200 acres to start with, and in 1929 added an additional 400 acres, making in all up to the present 600 acres at an average cost to the county of $4 per acre. Some of this land has valuable second growth natural timber growing on it at the present time, including cedar, spruce, and pine.

In 1928 there were 165,000 trees planted on the 200 acres owned by the county in Emily Township, mostly red pine, white pine and white spruce. In 1929 there were planted on private plantations in Victoria County trees of various kinds to the number of 51,150 and for windbreaks 3,110 trees.

On the county projects in Emily and Somerville Townships there were 362,500 trees planted in 1929, including the following varieties: White pine 130,000, red pine 110,500, Scotch pine 14,000, white spruce 102,000, elm 2,000, white ash 2,000, soft maples 2, total 362,50.

Gulls Try Liquor Then Stage Spree

BALTIMORE, Md., March 13.—A flock of sea gulls went on a spree when prohibition agents poured 1200 gallons of corn whisky into the harbor off old Fort McHenry, part of which is used for the storage of seized liquors until destroyed. The broad-winged topers were in such high spirits that they circled, nose dived and did tail spins above the fort.

LADY FOUND STRANGLED TO DEATH HUSBAND IS BELIEVED DROWNED

Mrs. Lottie Smith is Feared By Police to be Victim of Foul Play.

MAN IS SOUGHT.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 13 (C.P.)—Mrs. Lottie Smith, 45, was found strangled to death in her home last night. Police stated they believed she was the victim of foul play. Her husband, C. W. Smith, 42, is being sought, police said, but they expressed the opinion he took his life in the Desjardins Canal.

The woman was found dead lying fully clothed on a bed, a tightly-knotted handkerchief around the throat. Bruises covered the face.

Smith is believed to have jumped into the canal yesterday afternoon. His coat containing the house key was found last night, before the murder had been discovered, and footprints led to a hole in the ice on the canal. He was seen about the canal yesterday morning and afternoon both.

Police believe the crime was committed Tuesday. Roomers cared for the Smith's 7-year-old son Tuesday night when neither one of them put in appearance at the rooming house where they lived.

Arthur Donnelly's Case is Hushed Up

OTTAWA, Ont., March 13.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. Lucien Cannon, solicitor-general, expressed regret in the House of Commons yesterday that he must ask the House to refuse a request from Miss Agnes MacPhail, (Prog.), South East Grey) for the production of all papers dealing with the release of Arthur Donnelly from the Walkerton jail. Mr. Cannon explained that it was against the practice to produce papers in clemency cases. The communications were regarded as confidential. The motion was not pressed.

Mr. Cannon pointed out that a similar position had been taken by Ministers of Justice since Confederation and also in the United Kingdom. He mentioned Sir John Thompson, Sir Allen Aylesworth, Sir Lomer Gouin and Hon C J Doherty, as having assumed the same attitude as he was taking.

Dominion Official Estimates Total Horsepower Will Reach 10 Millions by 1940.

GREAT COAL SAVER

OTTAWA, Ont., March 1; (Canadian Press). — Canada's water power developments should reach an installed capacity of over 10,000,000 horse-power by 1940, according to the estimate of Norman Marr, chief hydraulic engineer of the Dominion Water Power and Reclamation Service. This estimate was given in an address to the convention of the Engineering Institute of Canada. Mr. Marr stated that his estimate of future growth was based on current undertakings and the rate of progress in the last six years. During this period over 2,500,000 horse-power was added to the turbine installation to bring Canada's total to the present figure of 5,710,000 horse-power.

That the substantial growth of recent years will not only be maintained but will be increased is indicated by the number of large undertakings at present under construction and others in active prospect, stated Mr. Marr. The initial installations of only those new works actually under construction together with additions to existing developments will amount to 500,000 horse-power, and when they have been completed to their ultimate designed capacities they will add 2,500,000 horse-power to the total installation for the Dominion.

The capital invested in water-power development with transmission and distribution systems is estimated at $1,250,000,000, or an average per installed horse-powerr of $219. Applying this average to the estimate of future growth, it would appear that new funds to the extent of at least $92,000,000 per annum will be required to provide for new development during the next few years. Mr. Marr thought that in view of the steady earning power shown by the industry, even in times of industrial depression the capitalization was reasonable and that the new capital required for future expansion would be readily secured.

Another interesting observation related to the amount of coal which would be equivalent to the developed water-power. It was difficult to arrive at a precise figure, stated Mr. Marr, as certain assumptions must necessarily be made but it is reasonable to state that a saving of coal of six tons per annum is capable of being affected by each installed horse-power. This means that the total present water-power installation of 5,710,000 horse-power is capable of affecting a saving of about 34,000,000 tons of coal per annum. The actual saving in any year depends on the output in electrical units and for the 20,500,000,000 kilowatt hours estimated as generated in 1929 an approximate saving of 16,000,000 tons of coal is indicated.

Close figuring on the total extent of Canada's water-powers was not yet possible, Mr. Marr indicated, but as a result of the systematic inventory which has been under way for a number of years a fairly dependable estimate has been made. The available power is estimated to total 20,347,000 horse-power under conditions of ordinary minimum flow or 33,617,000 horse-power for ordinary six months flow. Mr. Marr added that on a commercial basis the available power resources would probably warrant a total installation of about 43,700,000 horse-power.

TWELVE ROOMS ADDED TO HOTEL

Well-Known Hostlery on Simcoe Street Has Many Improvements.

FINISHED MARCH 20

Extensive alterations, amounting to over $2,500 which have been under way at the King's Hotel, Simcoe street, for some weeks past are now nearing completion. It is expected that the contractors will vacate the premises on or about March 20th and when they do so they will have completed renovations which bring this old hostelry in line with other hotels in the city of more modern construction.

Ten to twelve new rooms have been added by the simple expedient of building dividing walls in the existing rooms which were of very spacious dimensions. All bedrooms have been tastefully re-decorated in light and artistic shades of the newest patterns in wallpaper, whilst the plumbing contractors, Messrs Adamson and Dobbin have installed individual hot and cold wash basins in each bedroom in place of the old communal bathroom.

"Dave" N. King the genial host, boasts that he can now offer first class accommodation and is catering specially to "commercials" and the farm trade. "I have altered everything", he declared proudly, "except the quality of the meals which I serve in the dining-room and which I cannot improve."

Mr. King has been landlord of the King Hotel for eight years, having come to this city from Norwood where he kept an hotel of the same name. He is a native of Mariposa township and his wife hails from Oshawa.

The King hotel an old established hostelry has been known by several different names during its long period of service to the community. It now has thirty rooms, not including a spacious dining-room, pool room, kitchens and rotunda.

The decorations were undertaken by Wm. M. Barrigan of Bolivar street and the carpenter work by Jas. Graham.

BOVRIL LIMITED SET NEW SALES RECORD

Credit Given to Advertising, Which Prevents "Sinking Feeling."

Presiding at the thirty-third Annual General Meeting of the Bovril Limited, held recently at River Plate House, London, the Chairman, Lord Luke, is reported in the London Times as saying that not only did the sales of Bovril in 1929 surpass all previous records, but the increase was at an accelerated pace. The year showed a larger increase over its predecesor than any previous year with the one exception of 1919, when conditions were abnormal.

Although advertising was considerably larger, their additional sales were many times the amount of the extra advertising, so they had no cause for complaint.

One of the problems with which the Company would be faced in the not far distant future would be that of securing adequate supplies of first quality beef. Serious steps, he felt, would have to be taken to increase the quantity and improve the quality of the beef the Dominions could in future spare for Great Britain.

With the United States about to enact very substantial increases in the rates of duty against Canadian cattle and beef, it is encouraging to note, from the above remarks of Lord Luke, that a market to replace the one from which Canadian stock raisers wil be shut out is beginning to open up.

GYPSIES HIT BY LAW

BERLIN (U.P.)—Gypsies may be in for a hard time when the new German Penal Code is adopted. Paragraph 372, just approved by the committee of the Reichsrat, prescribes six weeks' imprisonment for members of bands who wander about the country without visible or justifiable means of support.

GAY SOCKS FOR SPORTS APPAREL

Gloves and Stockings Threaten to Match Costume Colors.

SUEDES IN FAVOR

NEW YORK, Mar. 13. (U.P.) — Coincident with the spring openings, Schiaparelli offered colored hosiery, the tones of course matching the costume with which they were worn. Going this idea one better, is the introduction of colored hosiery in fabric weaves, instead of plain.

Taking one consideration with another it is evident that stockings are undergoing a decided change not only in construction. One assumes that this effoffrt has been put forth to discourage the practice of omitting stockings. Gay socks are of course a sports factor and are reported as being chosen with the chic but daring shorts in which women now appear on the courts.

The tendency to match gloves to the costume with which they are worn is another new development worth watching. While some kids appear, the scales dip decidedly in favor of suedes in all lengths from 4 to 6 button and in pull-on models.

For evening, white, all white and delicate pinky beige suede are suggested as the newest notes but the habit of wearing gloves for evening has not become general either here or in Paris. The conservative element and some of the ultra younger set wear them however.

RAYFIELD FAMILY TO RESIDE IN TORONTO

PONTYPOOL, March 13.—(Examiner Correspondence).—W. L. Rayfield, a holder of the V.C., who recently attended the Prince of Wales' dinner in London, is leaving this locality, it is learned with regret, to take up residence in Toronto.

Mr. Rayfield was bereaved recently by the loss of his father-in-law, who passed away shortly after his return from his recent visit overseas, and this necessitates the selling of the property to settle an estate.

The sale, recently conducted by James Roddy of Fraserville, with J. Payne as auctioneer's clerk, attracted a large gathering of farmers and the many high class implements brought some good prices.

Mr. Rayfield, his wife and family have always been considered hard workers, good neighbours and excellent citizens. Both Mr. and Mrs. Rayfield served in the Great War the latter being very active at that time in community work.

Mrs. Rayfield has been in Toronto for some time living with her mother and her husband is joining her there this week.

NEW HEALTH FOR TIRED-OUT WOMEN

Found in the Rich Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make.

Anaemia comes on gradually, beginning with langour, indisposition to mental or bodily exertion, irritability and a feeling of fatigue. Later comes the palpitation of the heart, headaches, frequent backaches and often disturbed indigestion and an inability to obtain rest at night. Cases of this kind, if neglected, become more serious, but if taken in time there is no need to worry. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are free from any harmful or habit-forming drug, are just the tonic needed to remedy this wretched state of health. These pills actually make the rich, red blood that stimulates and strengthens every organ and nerve in the body. Thus strength and activity return, the appetite improves and restful sleep is had. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can and will do is shown by the case of Mrs. D. B. Fanning, Seal Harbor, N.S., who says:—"I was in a badly run-down condition. I was pale, my appetite was very poor, and the least exertion would leave me completely tired out. In fact I was hardly able to do much work about the house. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking a few boxes can truthfully say I had gained greatly in health and strength and was able to go about my work with no sign of the former weakness. I cheerfully recommend them to all others who may be in a run-down condition."

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Milady's New Spring Hats

Brims are very much in evidence, though mostly extending at the sides and back on an off-the-face model. The small Hat still remains popular and is shown in the handsome lace straws as well as the other new straws, Panamalac, Bakous and Sisols. Cute little bows on the side, under the brim or over the eyebrow are the favorite touches of individuality. Prices are very moderate

BEAUTIFYING THE HIGHWAYS.

Two items that indicated a pleasing trend in connection with Ontario's highways were noticed in the newspapers yesterday.

One referred to a resolution passed by the St. Thomas Horticultural Society calling upon the Ontario Department of Highways to do something to prevent the wanton destruction by motorists of wild flowers, trees and shrubs along the provincial highways.

The other announced a decision by the Rose Highway Association of Welland County to plant rose bushes along the sides of the highways in that county.

There is much that can be done to improve conditions along Ontario's main roads, and these interesting despatches deal with two important ways of going about it.

Nature has done a great deal for the people of Ontario, but, as the St. Thomas resolution points out, much of the natural beauty is destroyed through the thoughtlessness of our own people and the stranger within our gates, who are responsible for ruining not only the bountiful crop of wild flowers but many shrubs and trees as well.

The Welland association is to be commended for its plan to beautify the highways in its district.

Expense and labor are involved in the proposed extensive planting of rose bushes, but the results will justify both the cost and the work.

THE DIVORCE COURT BILL.

The very many people in Ontario who do not believe that there should be greater facilities for the obtaining of divorces in this Province must have read of the very close vote on the proposal to introduce a divorce court in Ontario with a good deal of misgiving.

There are, of course, some features of the present system that are open to attack, but the whole thing boils down to the simple question, "Do we in Ontario want to make divorces easier to obtain?"

Undoubtedly the setting up of legal machinery in this Province would bring about that condition, and at the same time bring Ontario very much closer to the situation that exists in the United States where the marriage tie is as easily broken as the Volstead Act.

It is a question of the greatest importance, striking as it does at the homes of this Province, and yet it is an issue that has never been before the people in an election campaign when they would have had an opportunity of expressing an opinion on the subject.

The measure came within a vote or two of being carried on Tuesday, and beyond a shadow of a doubt, it will be re-introduced at the next session of Parliament.

In the interval the people of Ontario should make their wishes known.

If they are opposed to the introduction of a divorce court in this Province they must let their representatives in Parliament know their views and give them a mandate to fight the proposal tooth and nail.

NATIVE WINE.

By far the most important of the amendments to the Liquor Control Act introduced by the Attorney-General is that which provides for the placing of the sale of native wine under a permit system, on the same footing as other intoxicating beverages.

The change is a necessary one in view of the fact that Ontario wine is held responsible for many breaches of the Liquor Control Act.

Despite its high alcoholic content, native wine, both under the Ontario Temperance Act and under the present system, has been under no real control and could be purchased in large quantities by anybody who had the money to pay for it.

It was always a mystery why such a thing should have been tolerated during the prohibition regime, or why when other beverages were placed under a permit system the present Government should have continued to permit this lax sale of wines which contained 30 per cent. or more alcohol.

The amendment now introduced will put an end to the old conditions, for when it comes into effect it will be impossible to purchase Ontario-made wine in any other way than by permit—a change that should do away with many of the abuses that have prevailed under the haphazard method of sale hitherto permitted in Ontario.

COLONEL BARKER'S DEATH.

The tragic death of Colonel W. G. Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., one of the world's greatest war flyers and one of Canada's outstanding war heroes, in an airplane accident at Ottawa yesterday has shocked the people of this country.

That this famous ace, who officially accounted for 52 enemy planes and risked his life in a score of "dog fights" in the Great War should have survived all the perils of war-time flying only to meet his death in a trial "flip" is a strange twist of fate.

Colonel Barker, who had been interested in flying ever since his return from overseas, was president of the Fairchild Aviation Company of Canada, and to take a new plane up for a trial as he did yesterday was as natural a thing to him as for an automobile salesman to drive a newly-arrived car round the block.

Yet the man who laughed at death through years of hectic aerial warfare had not been ten minutes in the air yesterday until his machine faltered and then plunged to earth, carrying Canada's great war flyer to death.

Colonel Barker's name will always be remembered as that of one of the greatest Canadian heroes of the war, a young Canadian—he was only twenty when he went overseas—who distinguished himself by skill, endurance and sheer valor that earned him world-wide fame.

AIR MAIL.

When the planes took wing yesterday on the western circuit, they rather more than doubled the area of Canada over which air mail service is now being regularly operated. From the Atlantic to the western peninsula of Ontario, and from Manitoba to the Mountains, the mail car has been supplemented by the more speedy overhead carrier. If there is added the Mackenzie basin, throughout which mail has been distributed at intervals during the past winter, very considerably more than half of the occupied portion of the Dominion is now provided with air mail service. There remain only two gaps to be bridged, across northern Ontario, and across British Columbia, to make the service nation-wide in its scope. That this will be done within a year or so there is every reason to suppose.

As yet air mail has been tried in Canada only where it was least needed; in those Provinces where large centres are close together and train service fast and frequent. A vastly greater saving in time is possible between the more widely separated centres in the western half of the Dominion, where train service is less frequent and less rapid.

Air mail, like any other convenience, is only practicable if the revenue justifies the cost. Upon the amount of mail matter consigned to the planes will depend the permanency of the newly-established western service. That will also affect the question of when the gaps are to be filled in and a trans-Canada service instituted.

The enthusiasm with which the new venture has been received throughout the west indicates that the advantages of the faster service are very generally appreciated, and promises for it a correspondingly large patronage and generous financial support. Air mail, it is pretty safe to assume, has come to the west to stay, and to be extended as conditions require.—Edmonton Bulletin.

"FED UP."

According to the Christian Century, as quoted by the Literary Digest, thousands of people in this modern civilization of ours are inexpressibly bored. The question in many homes is, "What shall we do?" Weary of bridge, tired of the radio, surfeited of the movies, men and women do not know what to do with themselves. This is not the general attitude by any means, for the variety of entertainment enables one to escape from one to the other. Yet this rush from one activity to another is in itself productive of boredom to some people. They are like people in a motor car speeding over the highway. They go so fast they have no time to observe, the beauties of nature are presented only as a blur, and blurs are notoriously uninteresting.

The fact is that interest in life cannot be sustained without an aim, and when an aim is lacking leisure is undesirable. The negative attitude we adopt when we drift from pleasure to pleasure deadens our highest potentialities, and, unconscious sometimes of the reason, we grow discontented. But the reason, if we examine ourselves carefully, is that we have chosen to be lazy when our highest impulses urged us to purposeful activity. Leisure, indeed, like fire, is a good servant, but a bad master, but leisure can only be made the best of by deliberately resolving to concentrate attention upon a few things. Far better to be interested in one thing than bored by many, and the more attention is directed towards a thing the more interest in it grows, and with interest happiness. It is a sign of boredom, probably, that people are turning from novels to biography, travel and history. After a while they know all the plots, and get tired of reading of the same themes. So they take up biography and find that life itself has greater variety. But they would gain more out of literature if they were deliberately to seek to master one phase of it, instead of sipping like a butterfly at many literary blossoms, and, what is more, they would not get "fed up" so easily.—Hamilton Spectator.

THAT GARDEN.

The time is fast drawing near when the suburban householder will find himself musing, in the peace of the evening, about his back-yard garden.

The habit of keeping a garden on a suburban lot sometimes rises to the level of an art and sometimes sinks to the level of a vice; and every suburbanite is touched by it, in greater or lesser degree, at some time in his life.

All of this never does anyone any harm, and occasionally the vegetables that are raised in these back-yard gardens are quite edible—or if it's another kind of garden, the flowers that grow can actually be plucked, put in a vase and used to decorate a living-room table. One wonders, though, why it is that this annual gardening epidemic has never drawn the attention of learned students.

In the first place, keeping a back-yard garden is the hallmark of respectability, of placid and trustworthy domesticity. No man who putters about a nine-by-eleven plot of dirt, in the evenings, with a strained trowel and an aching pair of knees, would ever abscond with another's cash or with another's wife. To keep a garden on this modest scale is to assure your neighbors that you are a man whom the bitter winds of temptation do not ruffle. You are not, in a word, flighty. There must be solid stuff in you.

But that is not the whole of it. Keeping a garden is not simply an attempt to get fresh vegetables or flowers. It is a sort of mystic ritual; a method by which the victims of a hard, mechanical age can get in touch with the pungent earth once more.

For there are profound mysteries in this business of putting seeds in a black earthen furrow. Agriculture is the world's oldest miracle. The appearance of life in a spot of bare ground was surely the first intimation man had that his lonely ache for another life might not be simply a wild and hopeless dream. It is not without reason that orthodox religion is generally stronger in the farmland than in the city.

No suburban gardener ever stops to think all of this out, of course. The substance of it hangs with him, though, so that he draws an irrational kind of contentment out of his labors. He spades under a bit of sod, rakes it smooth, plants it, and raises radishes and weeds; and through it all he perceives, without exactly realizing that he perceives it, that his existence is somehow in tune with a great rhythm which pervades the whole universe. He goes on his hands and knees to grub in the dirt, and he finds there something that the ordinary jobs of life do not give him.

So, every spring, he does it again.—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The MacDonald Government may be down, but it is not yet out.

More coal has been discovered in Northern Ontario, and if the winters keep on getting longer we're going to need it all.

Mr. Elliott, member for North Bruce, says he would rather have a bucket shop in his town than a liquor store. Well, you don't have to do business with either if you don't want to, Mr. Elliott should remember.

Somebody in the Legislature the other day spoke about "bar-rooms on wheels." Didn't we hear a lot about that during the O.T.A. regime?

J. A. Sangster, member for Glengarry, is an optimist. He told the Ontario Government that he expects a decrease in optimism.

The Brockville hockey team deserves credit for carrying a name like Magedoma as far as the Eastern Ontario intermediate championship.

IN DAYS GONE BY.

TEN YEARS AGO
March 13, 1920.

Yesterday afternoon the Downie street creek went on its annual rampage and almost equalled its performances of others years. About two o'clock the creek overflowed in the vicinity of the William Hamilton works and soon McDonnel street was flooded, an avalanche of water flowing into the cellars of the residents on the south side of the street.

What To-day Means To You

"PISCES."

If March 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a.m. to 9:40 a.m., from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 9 p.m. to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 6 a.m. to 7:30 a.m. and from 11 p.m. to midnight.

A hustling bustling day is augured for this date, but there will be more activity than accomplishment—haste will make waste in more ways than one. There will be extravagant expenditures, considerable travel, and exchange of properties.

The child born on this March 13 will have a brilliant mind, but not a practical one. It will be ambitious, but it will lack the plodding perseverance which is so essential to success. It will have a very proud and very generous nature.

It cannot be said that you possess a very strong nature, for a positive one, but you do possess many endearing qualities. You have a sweet, humble, charitable and kindly nature. You are looking for the flowers and not the weeds in your pathway, and you are finding them. You are looking for the good which you find in others, and you find it. You have a tremendous reserve of quiet strength which helps you through the bad days of your life. You have something within upon which to fail.

You have ability and some little talent, but you are so very modest about your own accomplishments. You shun any kind of publicity or "showing off" in any way. You are very secretive, and if anything you talk too little, for one who can really say wise things. You are a philosopher, and you have learned to take the rough with the smooth and to meet every crisis courageously. You have a heart of gold, and are wonderfully just. In your quiet way you can weigh up a person with amazing speed, but your criticism is usually a charitable one—you are always ready to make excuses for those who err. Neither great wealth nor dire poverty are likely to enter your life—you will travel along the middle plane. You are too spiritually minded to care for many material things, although you do not hold yourself above them.

THE GREENE MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE

"When you were in your room, was the door open?"

"Oh, yes. I always leave it open in the daytime in case Mrs. Greene calls."

"And her door was open, too, I take it."

"Yes."

"Did you hear the shot?"

"No, I didn't."

"That will be all, Miss Craven." Vance accompanied her to the hall. "You'd better return to your room now, for we're going to pay a visit to your patient."

Mrs. Greene eyed us vindictively when we entered after having knocked and been imperiously ordered to come in.

"More trouble," she complained. "Am I never to have any peace in my house? The first day in weeks I've felt even moderately comfortable—and then all this had to happen to upset me!"

"We regret, madam—more than you do apparently—that your son is dead," said Markham. "And we are sorry for the annoyance the tragedy is causing you. But that does not relieve me from the necessity of investigating the affair. As you were awake at the time the shot was fired, it is essential that we seek what information you may be able to give us."

"What information can I give you—a helpless paralytic, lying here alone?" A smouldering anger flickered in her eyes. "It strikes me that you are the one to give me information."

Markham ignored her barbed retort.

"The nurse tells me your door was open this morning. * * "

"And why shouldn't it have been? Am I expected to be entirely excommunicated from the rest of the household?"

"Certainly not. I'm merely trying to find out if, by any chance, you were in a position to hear anything that went on in the hall."

"Well, I heard nothing—if that's all you want to know."

Markham persisted patiently.

"You heard no one for, instance, cross Miss Ada's room or open Miss Ada's door?"

"I've already told you I heard nothing." The old lady's denial was viciously emphatic.

"Nor any one walking in the hall or descending the stairs?"

"No one but that incompetent doctor and the impossible Sproot. Were we supposed to have had visitors this morning?"

"Some one shot your son," Markham reminded her cooly.

"It was probably his own fault," she snapped. Then she seemed to relent a bit. "Still, Rex was not as hard and thoughtless as the rest of the children. But even he neglected me shamefully." She appeared to weight the matter. "Yes," she decided, "he received just punishment for the way he treated me."

Markham struggled with a hot resentment. At last he managed to ask, with apparent calmness:

"Did you hear the shot with which your son was punished?"

"I did not." Her tone was again irate. "I knew nothing of the disturbance until the doctor saw fit to tell me."

"And yet Mr. Rex's door, as well as yours, was open," said Markham. "I can hardly understand your not having heard the shot."

The old lady gave him a look of scathing irony.

"Amd I to sympathize with your lack of understanding?"

"Lest you be tempted to, madam, I shall leave you." Markham bowed stiffly and turned on his heel.

As we reached the lower hall Dr. Doremus arrived.

"Your friends are still at it, I hear, Sergeant," he greeted Heath, with his usual breezy manner. Handing his coat and hat to Sproot, he came forward and shook hands with all of us. "When you fellows don't spoil my breakfast you interfere with my lunch," he repined. "Where's the body?"

Heath led him upstairs, and after a few minutes returned to the drawing room. Taking out another cigar he bit the end of it savagely. "Well, sir, I guess you'll want to see this Miss Sibella next won't you?"

"We might as well," sighed Markham. "Then I'll tacke the servants and leave things to you. The reporters will be along pretty soon."

"Don't I know it! And what they're going to do to us in the paper'll be a—plenty!"

"And you can't even tell them 'It is confidently expected that an arrest will be made in the immediate future,' don't y' know," grinned Vance. "It's most distressin'."

Heath made an inarticulate noise of exasperation and, calling Sproot, sent him for Sibella.

A moment later she came in carrying a small Pomeranian. She was paler than I had ever seen her, and there was unmistakable fright in her eyes. When she greeted us it was without her habitual gayety.

"This thing is getting rather ghastly, isn't it?" she remarked when she had taken a seat.

"It is indeed dreadful," returned Markham soberly. "You have our very deepest sympathy. * * * "

"Oh thanks awf'ly." She accepted the cigarette Vance offered her. "But I'm beginning to wonder how long I'll be here to receive condolences." She spoke with forced lightness, but a strained quality in her voice told of her suppressed emotion.

Markham regarded her sympathetically.

"I do not think it would be a bad idea if you went away for a while—to some friend's house, let us say—preferably out of the city."

"Oh, no." She tossed her head with defiance. "I shant't run away. If there's any one really bent on killing me, he'll manage it somehow, wherever I am. Anyway, I'd have to come back sooner or later. I couldn't board with out-of-town friends indefinitely—could I?" She looked at Markham with a kind of anxious despair. "You haven't any idea, I suppose, who it is that's obsessed with the idea of exterminating us Greenes?"

Markham was reluctant to admit to her the utter hopelessness of the official outlook; and she turned appealingly to Vance.

"You needn't treat me like a child," she said spiritedly. "You at least, Mr. Vance, can tell me if there is any one under suspicion."

"No, dash it all, Miss Greene! there isn't," he answered promptly. "It's an amazin' confession to have to make; but it's true. That's why I think Mr. Markham suggested that you go away for a while."

"It's very thoughtful of him and all that," she returned. "But I think I'll stay and see it through."

"You're a very brave girl," said Markham, with troubled admiration. "And I assure you everything humanly possible will be done to safeguard you."

"Well ,so much for that."

"COMING TO TERMS WITH THE UNIVERSE."

Thursday.

"The Integrity of the Universe."

SCRIPTURE

Memory Verse: "The righteousness is like the mountains of God; thy judgments are a great deep" (Psalm 36:6).

Read: Psalm 36:5-10.

MEDITATION

God's ways are often as mysterious and unfathomable as the sea, into whose dark depths we cannot peer. But His righteousness, said the Psalmist, is "like the mountains." We can see the mountains. They do not change or pass away. They stand fast in all storms. To be on living terms with the world, we must believe that there is integrity at the heart of it. That alone makes life worth living and ideals worth striving for. Our righteousness is grounded in the righteousness of God. Whittier puts it:

"But nothing can be good in Him
Which evil is in me."

We can bravely trust the judgments of God, if His righteousness is like the mountains.

PRAYER

Lord, Thou art our light and our salvation. As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so Thou art round about Thy people. In thy surrounding righteousness we find comfort and security and peace. Amen.

NO DISGRACE TO STAND ASIDE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Canada has a press of daily, weekly and magazine issue that intellectually and mechanically is equal if not superior (for its size) to everything in the world. This press is supremely patriotic, too, and as soon as the probability of an election for the Dominion loomed up it began calling for "better men" in the high councils of the nation. While political parties are necessary, so long as there are different policies in trade and civil government the old idea of crasy partisanship has gone by the board. It had to go if Canada was to do business in business world instead of devoting itself to a fight for political power and emoluments. The recent combination of Republicans and Democrats in the U. S. Congress is a plain example of the means by which that country keeps at the forefront of the world. No matter how bitterly partisan they may be over there, they do not sacrifice their country to party politics all the same, and we are beginning to feel that way here. We must send our best men and women to Parliament. It is no disgrace for us to stand aside because we are too small for the job.

The development of Canada, electrically and industrially as well as financially, has been simply colossal of late years. We talk in sums of figures now that make those of a few years ago look absurd. In a word the top-grade of Canadian development has grown enormously. We of the bottom grade must learn to look up to this immense development going on above us, because its success very largely depends upon what we do at the polls. We must shake ourselves together. We have possibilities of which I will give you an instance in a moment, which are so great that for us to send stuffed figures to sit on our back benches is without exaggeration a sin and a shame. Moreover our members must devote their whole time to the national business. To give but a little of it is nowadays quite plainly too grotesque to discuss. The instance I promised you is this: The Scientific American points out that at last the illimitable richness of Canada in minerals along its northern coast from Alaska to Labrador can be made use of. This marvellous fact depends upon a discovery recently made and so simple as to make us wonder that it was not made long ago. Salt or sea-water freezes at 5 degrees lower than fresh water. Energy developed from heat is developed on precisely the same principle as a water-power energy, viz: the flow from a higher temperature to a lower as from a higher level to a lower in the case of water. We can all see at a glance what this means to our transarctic coast and its fresh and salt water. It means hydro-energy from the different freezing points of each of any amount and at a low cost for the development of beds of all kinds of ore which The Scientific American says is twenty times greater along that coast than the total supply in the whole U.S.! Added to our previous expansion, this sort of thing must at once show us that it will take the very vest brains we have to keep up with it, and these we must secure.

COMMENT ON MORNING STOCK MARKETS OVER BIGGAR & CRAWFORD WIRE

Ford of Canada was the feature of the Toronto market with a rise of $34. The majority of stocks were nervous with Int. Nickel and Walkers fractionally lower. Super-Test at $30 was off 2 points.

The New York market was featured by strength in the oils. No definite trend was developed in the general list and specialties were jumpy.

MACDONALD ENCOURAGED.

LONDON March 13.—(C.P.)—Premier MacDonald was stated in authoritative circles to-night to have been encouraged by to-day's developments at the Naval Conference.

While this was not amplified, observers assumed it to refer to the all-day conferences which have been in progres in an effort to reach a solution of the crisis growing out of the French demands.

CONVERT BUILDING INTO SHOW ROOMS

Wrecking Work Commences To-day on Simcoe Street Property.

Wrecking work commenced to-day on certain buildings on the north side of Simcoe street and west on the lane between Water and Queen streets, on the property recently purchased by A. Brown and Son, from W. J. Hopwood, 366 Water Street as well as the adjoining property on Water street from W. H. Meldrum, 52 McDonnell street.

The razing permit was taken out in the City Engineer's office yesterday, and the work is now proceeding apace under the direction of the contractor, J. B. Brown.

It is understood that the erection of a large garage and showrooms is contemplated, although the building permit for this work has not yet been taken out, and that the new structure will have a floor space of about 20,000 square feet.

The Water Street Bowling Alleys, which are part of the Brown property will, it is learned, be converted into showrooms but will not be razed.

ISSUE SUFFERS REACTION UNDER PROFIT-TAKING AT NOON HOUR

Toronto Stock Exchange Continues To-day's Trading in Unsettled State.

NICKEL SETTLES.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13 (Canadian Press). — Still unsettled and reactionary, the market on Toronto Stock Exchange declined this morning below the average of last night. Losses were for small fractions for the most part, the fact that volume of trading dried up on the decline serving to steady prices.

There was one stock, however, which stood out conspicuously as staging a strong advance in utter disregard for the general market sentiment. Ford of Canada not only added to yesterday's gain, but broke through 34 to set a new high for the year. Of course the price did not hold at that figure throughout the morning, profit-taking towards midday accounting for a reaction to as low as 33 at one time.

Nickel settled back slowly from the opening, touching 39 at its low, where it was off approximately ½ point from last night. Smelters dropped back 5 points and Noranda was lower. Liquor stocks were heavy and here and there individual issues settled back. Hamilton Bridge about midforenoon touched a new low for the year at 31.

Oil stocks were firmer than most, but there was very little buying even on the upturn and consequently any advance was necessarily slow and of limited extent.

FAVORABLE REPORTS SUDBURY PROPERTY

Deal Pending For Funds to Continue Ritchie Gold Development Program.

TORONTO, Mar. 13. (Special to Examiner.)—Sudbury offsets in their drilling campaign at the property on the Foy offset on the north nickel range at Sudbury continue to meet with encouraging results. Word just received is that the last diamond drill hole just completed passed through 97 feet of ore body, a large percentage of which is high grade nickel copper ore. Diamond drilling will be continued for another two or three weeks after which a plant will be installed and mining proceeding with. The company, it is stated, is assured of a market for its ore.

A deal whereby Ritchie gold, holding one of the more advanced properties in the Eastern Kirkland Lake district, will secure additional funds for the continuance of a development program, is understood to be under way at present. The company's annual meeting will be held soon and directors hope by that time to be in a position to give shareholders some important information.

Recent sensational developments in connection with mining stock speculation have no real effect on the major producers of minerals, although these events and low prices for some metals are responsible for the cessation of work on some small producers says the monthly letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Such unfavorable occurrences are overshadowed by record operations at other points, the prospect of production from several properties within the next few months and the headway being made in development work on many other properties.

Arrangements whereby a well known brokerage house was to have taken up some 540,000 shares of Central Patricia at 25 cents a share having fallen through, directors of the company are reported to be now supplying the funds necessary for the continuation of the underground development program decided upon some time ago. The company is understood to have had $125,000 before starting the present campaign, and the house which underwrote the stock paid in approximately $25,000 before cancelling the deal.

QUEER PACKAGE CONTAINS BOMB

Explodes While Police Are Testing it—Sent to Woman in Mail.

LETTERS DEMANDED MONEY

HAMILTON, Ont., March 13.—(C.P.)—Mrs. Palmiro Savelli, 50 Sherman avenue north, received a package in the mail yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. She was suspicious of the package as she had received two letters demanding that money be left at the Holy Sepulchre cemetery gates or her life would be taken.

The police were called and the box was placed in a pail of water. It was taken to the airport at noon to-day and was exploded. The explosion was estimated to be equal to that of three sticks of dynamite. A hole as large as a bathtub was caused by it.

One letter was sent to Mrs. Savelli before Christmas and another was received about a month ago. She is 42 years of age and has six children. Her husband is at home and she could give no explanation as to why the letters were addressed to her rather than to her husband.

OILS ACTIVE ON STANDARD

Resistance to Any Further Declines Only Evidence of Firmness.

TORONTO, Ont., March 13. (Canadian Press.)—Oils were about the only group to show any real effort at recovery on the mining market during the early session to-day. As far as a good portion of the mining list was concerned, yesterday's softness was still in evidence, and any firmness displayed took the form of mere resistence to any further declines.

Mayland, which touched a low of $1 yesterday after exhibiting strength for over a week, was one of the early oils to show buoyancy and at noon had regained 15 to $1.30. Alberta Pacific moved up 7 to $1.82, Baltac 3 to 50 and Home Oil 5 to $8.50. Southwest and Lowery Pete were still rather soft, the former easing another 6 to 80 and the latter 5 to $2.
